RUSSIAN TROOPS TAKE TWELVE MILES OF TRENCHES AND MANY FOOD SUPPLIES WEST OF RIGA

LARGE NUMBER OF PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

Machine Gun Equipment of German Army Being Rapidly Developed.

Rank and File Being Instructed in Use of This Modern Weapon.

Italian Troops Are Fighting Desperately With Austrians on Isonzo Front.

London, Dec. 4.—The Russians have taken twelve miles of trenches, 700 prisoners and a large quantity of munitions and food supplies on the Tukam road west of Riga, according to a dispatch from Geneva to the exchange agency.

Machine Gun Development.

Petrograd, Dec. 4, via London.—The enormous development in the machine gun equipment of the German forces along the Russian front is authoritatively discussed by Col. Clerget of the Russian army in an article in the Russki Invalid, published by the war department. He stated that the German army is becoming one great machine gun battery, the German government sparing no expense in constructing guns and supplying ammunition, as well as teaching the rank and file the use of the weapons.

RUMORS FOR PEACE ARE AGAIN DENIED

Berlin News Agency Says Germany Has No Desire to Conclude War.

Berlin, Dec. 4, by wireless to Sayville.—Another statement bearing on Germany's reported desire for peace was issued today by the Overseas News agency. The reports of German peace proposals are again denied. The news agency also contradicts the assertion that Emperor William is to go to Constantinople. The statement follows:

"French newspapers make it appear that Germany is always looking for peace when she has obtained a military success. This is not only incorrect, but the reverse of the truth.

"All these rumors are as untrue as the report concerning the coming trip of Emperor William to Constantinople. This inventive activity demonstrates the severity of the defeats suffered by Germany's enemies.'

AMERICAN SCHOONER SUNK IN COLLISION

New York, Dec. 4.—The American schooner Linah C. Kamenski was sunk off Cape Hatteras today in a collision with the Spanish liner Conde Wilfredo, according to a wireless message from the Spanish steamship transmitted to the Marconi station at Miami, Fla. The schooner's crew was saved.

The Wilfredo was bound from Galveston to Barcelona and the schooner from Newport News to Cuba.

SAN DIEGO TO CONTINUE FAIR

Southern Exposition Arranges International Event for Year 1916.

Will Have Many Exhibits From Big Fair at Frisco.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 4.—Official announcement that the Panama-California exposition which was opened here Jan. 1 of this year, will continue throughout 1916 as the Panama-California International exposition, was made today by G. A. Davidson, president of the exposition, who has accepted the presidency of the new project.

The 1916 exposition will open Jan. 1, 1916, the day following the official closing of the 1915 fair. Thus there will be a continuity of operation and for the first time in history a two-year exposition.

"Foreign exhibits valued at several million dollars from the Panama-Pa-

DIRECTOR OF GERMAN STEAMSHIP LINE IS GIVEN YEAR AND HALF IN PRISON

GERMAN COMMANDER SLIGHTLY WOUNDED BY SERBIAN BULLET

FIELD MARSHAL VON MACKENSEN.

Petrograd, via London, Dec. 4.—Field Marshal von Mackensen was slightly wounded by a Serbian bullet during the recent operations, says a Copenhagen dispatch to the Novoe Vremya.

Same Sentence for Two Others and One Year for Third.

Bail Fixed at $10,000 Each and Furnished By Surety Company.

Clemency May Be Given Buenz If Higher Court Affirms Verdict.

New York, Dec. 4.—Dr. Karl Buenz, George Kotter and Adolph Hachmeister of the Hamburg-American line, recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States government, were sentenced today to serve one and a half years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Joseph Poppinghaus was sentenced one year. The Hamburg-American line was fined $1.

Bail was fixed at $10,000 in each case and was accepted from a surety company.

Motions Overruled.

Sentence was pronounced after Judge Howe had overruled motions by William Rand, Jr., chief counsel for the defense for dismissal of the verdict on the ground that it was contrary to the evidence and law in the case.

None of the defendants showed any emotion when sentence was pronounced. Dr. Buenz told his listeners that his only regret was that the American people should believe he had done anything to injure them or had ever had anything but the kindliest feelings toward this country.

PRESIDENT TO WED ON DEC. 18

Date of Marriage to Mrs. Galt Announced From White House.

Ceremony at Bride's Home; No Invitations Will Be Issued.

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt will be married on Saturday, Dec. 18, at Mrs. Galt's home here, according to a formal announcement made today at the White House.

It also was announced that the only guests will be Mrs. Galt's mother, her brothers and sisters, the president's brother and sister; his daughters, and the members of his immediate household. No invitations will be issued.

No Announcement of Plans.

No announcement was made regarding plans for a honeymoon but it was expected that the president and his bride will leave Washington soon after the ceremony for somewhere in the South.

While no announcement was made of the hour of the ceremony it was understood it will be late in the afternoon. The Rev. Sylvester Beach, the president's pastor in Princeton, and the Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of Mrs. Galt's church here, are expected to officiate.

The formal announcement of the wedding plans was written out by the president himself this morning. Immediately afterward he left the White House to visit Mrs. Galt. Both have agreed that all the details shall be as simple as possible.

No Display Desired.

It has been intimated to the diplomats who have made inquiries at the state department that no display in connection with the wedding is desired. Despite that, it is expected that many officials and admirers of the president will send gifts.

Joseph R. Wilson of Baltimore, the president's brother, Mrs. Anne Howe, his sister, and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre,

WHEAT PRICES TAKE EXTRAORDINARY JUMP

Market Gains Six Cents a Bushel on Buying By Big Houses.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat prices made an extraordinary upward jump today just before the close. Under the impetus of immense buying on the part of the big houses, the market gained more than 6 cents a bushel in some cases as compared with prices earlier in the day. The close was excited at virtually the topmost level of the session, 2⅞@3c to 5⅛c above yesterday's finish and with December at $1.16⅝ and May $1.16⅛.

Reports that Canadian wheat could only be sold to Great Britain or her allies were circulated and the market was also bullishly affected by Philadelphia reports of an immense foreign business in flour and wheat.

Prices reached here previous to the windup of the day were the highest attained so far on this season's crop.

AUSTRIANS REPULSED BY MONTENEGRINS

Invaders Sent Back Along River Cehotina in Vicinity of Plevlje.

Paris, Dec. 4.—Hard fighting in Northern Montenegro, in which the Austrians were repulsed, is reported in an official Montenegrin communication received here today, dated Dec. 3. It follows:

"The enemy on Dec. 2 seriously attacked our positions along the river Cehotina near Plevlje. He was repulsed at all points.

"The situation on the other fronts is unchanged."

GREECE SAID TO HAVE TURNED OVER MACEDONIA TO THE ALLIES FOR THEIR USE AS WAR BASE

FREE USE OF RAILROAD IS ALSO GIVEN

Egean Harbors to Be Opened to the Landing of Entente Troops.

Greece Declines, However, to Disarm Any Teutons in Grecian Territory.

Central Powers Make Hellenes Generous Offer to Preserve Neutrality.

London, Dec. 4.—"Virtually the whole of Grecian Macedonia has been handed over to the allies as a war base," says the Berlin Tageblatt, as quoted in a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. "Greece has agreed to give the allies free use of the railroad in this territory, as well as of the Egean harbors, including Kavala.

"Greece declines, however, to disarm troops of the Central powers if they pursue allied troops on Grecian territory."

The Tageblatt also is credited with the statement that the Central powers have offered Greece Southern Albania and islands in the Egean on condition that she decline to grant certain demands of the allies and remain neutral.

Russians Fail to Materialize.

London, Dec. 4.—The much rumored Russian diversion against the Bulgarians has not materialized, but the fact that no Russian official statement was issued last night gave rise to hopes in London that it was being withheld in order to chronicle this new phase of the Balkan campaign. At the same

TORRENTIAL RAINS ON WEST WAR FRONT

Interferes With Firing of Large Guns; Night Relatively Calm.

Paris, Dec. 4, 2:40 p. m.—The report from the war office this afternoon follows:

"The night was relatively calm. Some shells of large caliber were discharged to the east of Grenay and in the region of Sapigneul. We exploded successfully a mine near Vanquois.

"Torrential rains interfered with the artillery fighting."

TWO MORE SHIPS SUNK IN MEDITERRANEAN

Middleton and Clan MacLeod Victims; Four Men Killed on Former.

London, Dec. 4.—Two more British steamships have been sunk in the Mediterranean by submarines. They were the Middleton and the Clan MacLeod.

Four men on the Middleton were killed and one was wounded. Nineteen were landed at Malta.

There are no records of the recent movements of the Middleton, which presumably was in service of the British government. She was 304 feet long, 2,506 tons gross, built in 1899 and owned in Hull.

The Clan MacLeod was last reported at Port Said Sept. 26. She was owned in Glasgow, was 396 feet long, 4,796 tons gross and built in 1903.

MEMBERS OF THE PEACE PARTY ORGANIZED BY FORD EMBARK ON STEAMSHIP FOR EUROPE

DUE TO ARRIVE IN CHRISTIANIA ABOUT DEC. 14

One Hundred and Forty Names Appear on List as Ford's Guests.

Governor Hanna of North Dakota Only State Executive With Party.

Entire First and Second Cabins of Ship Chartered for Envoys.

New York, Dec. 4.—Members of the peace expedition organized and financed by Henry Ford for the purpose of creating a conference of representatives of neutral nations in the hope of ending the war began to assemble today at Hoboken on board the Scandinavian-American line steamship Oscar II. One hundred and forty names are on the list of Mr. Ford's guests. Of these, 83 are peace envoys, 54 newspaper and magazine correspondents, and 8 moving picture men. For their use Mr. Ford chartered the entire first and second cabins of the steamer.

The Oscar II is due to sail at 2 p. m. She should arrive at Christiania, Norway, her first stop, about Dec. 14. Thence the party is to proceed to Stockholm, Copenhagen and The Hague. It is hoped to hold the peace conference at The Hague.

Hanna Only Governor.

For several days Mr. Ford has maintained headquarters in a New York hotel, summoning by invitation governors of states, leaders and workers in peace movement and students of universities to join the expedition. Of the governors invited, so far as announced, L. B. Hanna of North Dakota was the only one to accept. William J. Bryan, who received an invitation, declined to accompany the party, but said he hoped

UNITED STATES EXPECTS THE PROMPT RECALL OF ATTACHES

Requests for Safe Conduct of Boy-Ed and Von Papen Looked For.

All Foreign Officials Whose Activities Are Harmful May Be Dismissed.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The American government today looked to Germany for the immediate recall of Captains Karl Boy-Ed and Franz von Papen, respectively naval and military attaches of the German embassy here, in accordance with Secretary Lansing's request.

Alleged improper activities on the part of German officers in connection with naval and military matters are given as the reason for Secretary Lansing's action.

The president is said to have decided to get rid of all foreign officials whose activities are considered harmful to the best interests of this country.

Requests Expected Soon.

Requests for safe conducts for Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. von Pappen had not reached the state department today, but were momentarily expected.

Secretary Lansing declined to discuss the various angles of the case, particularly the report that other officials of the foreign embassies here were under investigation. It is known, however, that such an investigation is under way. It was not disclosed what progress, if any, had been made.

It also became known today that the department has under consideration the case of Alexander von Nuber, Austro-Hungarian consul general at New York, whose name frequently has been

To Close Christmas Eve.

Appleton, Wis., Dec. 4.—Forty Appleton stores have agreed to close Christmas eve, enabling 568 clerks to spend the time with their families. In the past only one store has closed here.

No Ground for Action.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Federal investigation of the recent explosion in the Dupont Powder works at Wilmington, Del., has developed that there is apparently no ground for action by the department of justice. No further inquiry by the government is probable at this time.

FIREMEN ALL READY FOR MORNING BLAZE

All Hitched for Regular Alarm Which Comes as Usual.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Early morning fires in the district of the south side of the city guarded by the Tenth battalion of the fire department have been so frequent that today Fire Chief Mahoney awakened the men and ordered the horses made ready shortly before 5 o'clock.

For thirty minutes the crew waited and then the gong sounded. A frame barn in the district was blazing. After returning from the fire Chief Mahoney said:

"Now we're all right till tomorrow morning. We'll get another alarm about 5 a. m. tomorrow. The alarms have been so regular that I guess I might as well get the men out and hitch up every morning."

Both the firemen and the police believe a pyromaniac is working in the district. Repeated search has failed to find the firebug, if there is one.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

From German sources comes the report that Greece has virtually turned over Grecian Macedonia as a base of operations to the Entente allies, besides giving them free use of the railroad and the harbors of the Egean sea.

Much suffering is reported among thousands of refugees from Monastir, who are arriving at Florina, Greece, after a long tramp through deep snow.

Debarkation of additional British forces at Saloniki is reported through London.

A Montenegrin official statement declares that an Austrian attack near Plevlje, in Northeastern Montenegro, a short distance from the Serbian border, was repulsed.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin denies rumors that Germany is contemplating peace proposals. The report that Emperor William is to visit Constantinople also is denied.

London has a report, which lacks confirmation, that twelve miles of German trenches have been taken by the Russians along the road to Tukum, west of Riga.

The British steamers Middleton of 2,506 tons and Clan MacLeod of 4,796 tons have been sunk by submarines in the Mediterranean. Four men on the Middleton were killed and one was wounded.

Teutonic troops engaging scattered Serbian detachments continue to round up stragglers. Berlin today reports the capture of more than 2,000 additional prisoners in mountain fighting.

A British official statement admits the British army in Mesopotamia is in retreat down the Tigris to Kut-el-Amara, about 105 miles south of Bagdad. The British are reported to have lost more than 4,500 men.

The Turkish war office two days ago announced a severe defeat for British Mesopotamian army which at one time was within eighteen miles of Bagdad. Apparently the Turks have been heavily reinforced and are able to put a stop for the time at least, to the advance of the British forces on the historic city.

Bad weather has interfered with operations along the western front. No incidents of moment are reported by either Berlin or Paris.

London, Dec. 4.—The Russians have taken twelve miles of trenches, 700 prisoners and a large quantity of munitions and food supplies on the Tukam road west of Riga, according to a dispatch from Geneva to the exchange agency.

Machine Gun Development.

Petrograd, Dec. 4, via London.—The enormous development in the machine gun equipment of the German forces along the Russian front is authoritatively discussed by Col. Clerget of the Russian army in an article in the Russki Invalid, published by the war department. He stated that the German army is becoming one great machine gun battery, the German government sparing no expense in constructing guns and supplying ammunition, as well as teaching the rank and file the use of the weapons.

RUMORS FOR PEACE ARE AGAIN DENIED

Berlin News Agency Says Germany Has No Desire to Conclude War.

Berlin, Dec. 4, by wireless to Sayville.—Another statement bearing on Germany's reported desire for peace was issued today by the Overseas News agency. The reports of German peace proposals are again denied. The news agency also contradicts the assertion that Emperor William is to go to Constantinople. The statement follows:

"French newspapers make it appear that Germany is always looking for peace when she has obtained a military success. This is not only incorrect, but the reverse of the truth.

"All these rumors are as untrue as the report concerning the coming trip of Emperor William to Constantinople. This inventive activity demonstrates the severity of the defeats suffered by Germany's enemies.'

AMERICAN SCHOONER SUNK IN COLLISION

New York, Dec. 4.—The American schooner Linah C. Kamenski was sunk off Cape Hatteras today in a collision with the Spanish liner Conde Wilfredo, according to a wireless message from the Spanish steamship transmitted to the Marconi station at Miami, Fla. The schooner's crew was saved.

The Wilfredo was bound from Galveston to Barcelona and the schooner from Newport News to Cuba.

DIRECTOR OF GERMAN STEAMSHIP LINE IS GIVEN YEAR AND HALF IN PRISON

Same Sentence for Two Others and One Year for Third.

Bail Fixed at $10,000 Each and Furnished By Surety Company.

Clemency May Be Given Buenz If Higher Court Affirms Verdict.

New York, Dec. 4.—Dr. Karl Buenz, George Kotter and Adolph Hachmeister of the Hamburg-American line, recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States government, were sentenced today to serve one and a half years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Joseph Poppinghaus was sentenced one year. The Hamburg-American line was fined $1.

Bail was fixed at $10,000 in each case and was accepted from a surety company.

Motions Overruled.

Sentence was pronounced after Judge Howe had overruled motions by William Rand, Jr., chief counsel for the defense for dismissal of the verdict on the ground that it was contrary to the evidence and law in the case.

None of the defendants showed any emotion when sentence was pronounced. Dr. Buenz told his listeners that his only regret was that the American people should believe he had done anything to injure them or had ever had anything but the kindliest feelings toward this country.

PRESIDENT TO WED ON DEC. 18

Date of Marriage to Mrs. Galt Announced From White House.

Ceremony at Bride's Home; No Invitations Will Be Issued.

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt will be married on Saturday, Dec. 18, at Mrs. Galt's home here, according to a formal announcement made today at the White House.

It also was announced that the only guests will be Mrs. Galt's mother, her brothers and sisters, the president's brother and sister; his daughters, and the members of his immediate household. No invitations will be issued.

No Announcement of Plans.

No announcement was made regarding plans for a honeymoon but it was expected that the president and his bride will leave Washington soon after the ceremony for somewhere in the South.

While no announcement was made of the hour of the ceremony it was understood it will be late in the afternoon. The Rev. Sylvester Beach, the president's pastor in Princeton, and the Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of Mrs. Galt's church here, are expected to officiate.

The formal announcement of the wedding plans was written out by the president himself this morning. Immediately afterward he left the White House to visit Mrs. Galt. Both have agreed that all the details shall be as simple as possible.

No Display Desired.

It has been intimated to the diplomats who have made inquiries at the state department that no display in connection with the wedding is desired. Despite that, it is expected that many officials and admirers of the president will send gifts.

WHEAT PRICES TAKE EXTRAORDINARY JUMP

Market Gains Six Cents a Bushel on Buying By Big Houses.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat prices made an extraordinary upward jump today just before the close. Under the impetus of immense buying on the part of the big houses, the market gained more than 6 cents a bushel in some cases as compared with prices earlier in the day. The close was excited at virtually the topmost level of the session, 2⅞@3c to 5⅛c above yesterday's finish and with December at $1.16⅝ and May $1.16⅛.

Reports that Canadian wheat could only be sold to Great Britain or her allies were circulated and the market was also bullishly affected by Philadelphia reports of an immense foreign business in flour and wheat.

Prices reached here previous to the windup of the day were the highest attained so far on this season's crop.

AUSTRIANS REPULSED BY MONTENEGRINS

Invaders Sent Back Along River Cehotina in Vicinity of Plevlje.

Paris, Dec. 4.—Hard fighting in Northern Montenegro, in which the Austrians were repulsed, is reported in an official Montenegrin communication received here today, dated Dec. 3. It follows:

"The enemy on Dec. 2 seriously attacked our positions along the river Cehotina near Plevlje. He was repulsed at all points.

"The situation on the other fronts is unchanged."

MEMBERS OF THE PEACE PARTY ORGANIZED BY FORD EMBARK ON STEAMSHIP FOR EUROPE

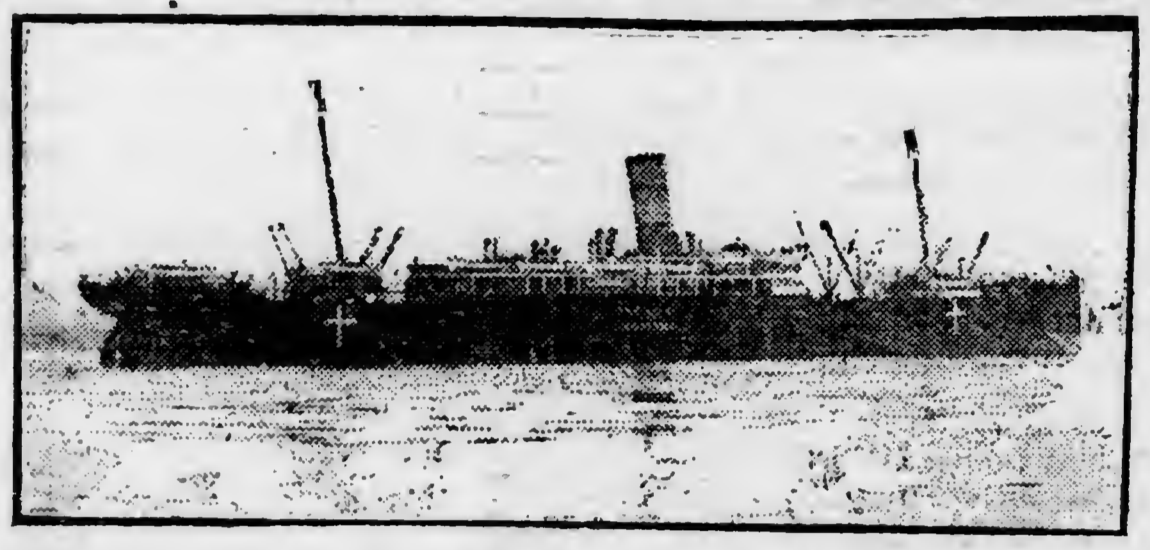
DUE TO ARRIVE IN CHRISTIANIA ABOUT DEC. 14

One Hundred and Forty Names Appear on List as Ford's Guests.

Governor Hanna of North Dakota Only State Executive With Party.

Entire First and Second Cabins of Ship Chartered for Envoys.

STEAMSHIP CARRYING FORD PARTY



STEAMSHIP OSCAR II.

New York, Dec. 4.—Members of the peace expedition organized and financed by Henry Ford for the purpose of creating a conference of representatives of neutral nations in the hope of ending the war began to assemble today at Hoboken on board the Scandinavian-American line steamship Oscar II. One hundred and forty names are on the list of Mr. Ford's guests. Of these, 83 are peace envoys, 54 newspaper and magazine correspondents, and 8 moving picture men. For their use Mr. Ford chartered the entire first and second cabins of the steamer.

The Oscar II is due to sail at 2 p. m. She should arrive at Christiania, Norway, her first stop, about Dec. 14. Thence the party is to proceed to Stockholm, Copenhagen and The Hague. It is hoped to hold the peace conference at The Hague.

Hanna Only Governor.

For several days Mr. Ford has maintained headquarters in a New York hotel, summoning by invitation governors of states, leaders and workers in peace movement and students of universities to join the expedition. Of the governors invited, so far as announced, L. B. Hanna of North Dakota was the only one to accept. William J. Bryan, who received an invitation, declined to accompany the party, but said he hoped

Middleton and Clan MacLeod Victims; Four Men Killed on Former.

London, Dec. 4.—Two more British steamships have been sunk in the Mediterranean by submarines. They were the Middleton and the Clan MacLeod.

Four men on the Middleton were killed and one was wounded. Nineteen were landed at Malta.

There are no records of the recent movements of the Middleton, which presumably was in service of the British government. She was 304 feet long, 2,506 tons gross, built in 1895 and owned in Hull.

The Clan MacLeod was last reported at Port Said Sept. 26. She was owned in Glasgow, was 395 feet long, 4,796 tons gross and built in 1903.

"GRUMPY" REVIEWS BIG DIAMOND THEFT

Mr. Andrew Bullivant Talks to His Valet the Next Morning.

Mr. Andrew Bullivant ("Grumpy") reviews the affairs of the diamond theft with his faithful valet Ruddock, the morning after it is all over:

"I fancy we rather had them, eh Ruddock? Didn't we, Ruddock? Eh, what? Don't stand there gaping like a fat fool. Leave your nose alone. Didn't we have them? Confound it, this coffee is too hot? Can't I even get a decent cup of coffee in my own house? Don't tickle me. Didn't we rather have them all, especially Jarvis?

"I never liked that man Jarvis. His valet had a sloppy face. You remember I said he had a sloppy face. Don't you hear me, Ruddock? My, my, you are losing your hearing. You are breaking up, Ruddock. We won't have you with us long, I fear. Damn it, don't you remember I said he had a sloppy face? I don't like a man who keeps a valet with a sloppy face. I don't like sloppy faces early in the morning before breakfast. Don't you ever get a sloppy face, Ruddock.

"They thought old Grumpy was getting old, and they didn't tell him about his nephew being robbed and nearly killed until morning. You're a bit of a damn fool at times, Ruddock. You should have told me. That kept me from getting on the scent sooner. Lucky I questioned that maid Susan. I never noticed what a fine figure she had before. Did you? Of course, you didn't, Ruddock. You're breaking up fast, old chap. When you told me about that camelia with the hair tied about it, it brought back the old days. Then when we got to his rooms in London, and you gave me that whisky. I asked for some stimulating barley water and you gave me alcohol. You know alcohol is very bad for the system, Ruddock. Why did you give me alcohol, you withering, flat-faced fool? You thought I was drunk, too, didn't you?. I rather had you there, I think. Didn't I? Leave your nose alone. Don't call attention to it. People might forget it. And when he slipped out behind my back, you thought I didn't know it. Ha, ha! Then he came down here looking for the camelia with the hair on it, and for Virginia, dear girl. Ernest would never have known the difference, but then Ernest is a bit of a damn fool at times, isn't he? How dare you call my nephew a damn fool, Ruddock? But he is a bit of an ass at times. Perhaps the next time he will put that diamond in the safe when I tell him to. I rather had him with information we got at Scotland Yard, didn't I, Ruddock? He was glad to give up the diamond, and he thought he was going to get off scot free after he had nearly murdered my nephew and tried to elope with Virginia, dear child. He thought he was going to walk out free. Ha, ha! I rather had him there, didn't I, Ruddock? I wonder what he thought when he walked into the arms of those Scotland Yard men outside. He was a scoundrel, a damned scoundrel. I would have let him go if he hadn't tried to make love to Virginia and hide behind her petticoats. I wasn't unkind to him, was I, Ruddock? Damn it, sir, don't twiddle your thumbs. I can't stand a man that twiddles his thumbs before breakfast. And take this damned cushion and hide it, so Virginia won't see it and try to poke it behind my back. I think she put a brick in it. Was I unkind to him, Ruddock? Of course I wasn't, but you tell those Scotland Yard fellows not to be too hard on him. Where is that flat-faced idiot that brought me this coffee? It is stone cold. I can't get a decent cup of coffee even in my own house.

"You knew Earnest and Virginia have made a go of it, didn't you? You know we always hoped for that Ruddock. Earnest is a damned fool. I always said so, but his employers haven't found it out yet, thanks to me, and as long as Virginia doesn't know it, it will be all right. Hadn't better tell Virginia about all that Susan said to us Ruddock. Do you hear me?

"If one of these play-writing fellows had the story of all this they could make quite a play of it, eh old chap? It would be quite melodramatic, wouldn't it? Imagine the theft of a diamond worth £90,000 in a quiet country home, and then its recovery by an old retired criminal lawyer, and the foiling of the crook. Quite thrilling it would be, wouldn't it Ruddock?. It would give you a bit of a stir to see that fight in the dark, wouldn't it, or rather not see it? Imagine that arm reaching in the door and turning off the light, and then poor Earnest struggling with an unknown robber. A bit creepy wasn't it Ruddock? Would make a fine penny thriller, eh old chap? Then they'd have to put me in the play. I rather fancy it would make a pretty good play, Ruddock. And you. My lord, Ruddock, they'd put you in the play. Ha. Ha. That would make it real funny. Keep your hand away from your nose. It is conspicuous enough. You'd make a fine actor Ruddock. Virginia would be a sweet heroine, though. Dear girl. Dear girl. And Earnest. Earnest is a bit of an ass, but he's a good lad at that. Next time he'll not think he knows more than his uncle. Then Jarvis for the villian, and that valet of his with the sloppy face. My lord I hate sloppy faces, especially in the morning. Gad, I'd like to see it all put in a play Ruddock, but there was something important I wanted to tell you. Something very important. Help me up. Straighten me out. Don't pat me. Don't pat me, I say. Oh yes. I remember. The chimney in my room is smoking. My lord I can't have my chimney smoking. It must be seen to Ruddock. This is a house full of imbeciles, all but Virginia, and she's a dear girl, God bless her, and Earnest, but he's a bit of a damned fool. Those stairs—those stairs. I can never make them.——"

HAMMOND TALKED OF FOR CHAIRMAN

Governor May Preside Over Next Democratic National Convention.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Governor Hammond of Minnesota is likely to play a prominent part in the Democratic National convention of next year.

Word has been received here that political friends have started a boom to make him the temporary chairman of the convention.

The temporary chairman makes the keynote speech of the gathering, and in the early stages is the big feature in the convention.

It is the understanding here that friends of the administration want Governor Hammond to make the nominating speech for President Wilson.

Certain details of the 1916 convention work will be taken up at the meeting of the Democratic national committee to be held here next week.

It is the general expectation that National Committeeman Lynch of Minnesota will have something to say in behalf of the governor.

OLD CHRISTMAS CUSTOM TO BE REVIVED IN DULUTH

Reviving one of the oldest and most cherished of Christmas or Yuletide traditions, Duluthians this year will be urged to place lighted candles in the front windows of their homes.

"Lighting the Christ child on His way," as the custom is known, was generally observed in the older countries of the world years ago, and in the past years the practice has become more and more general.

"It is probably the prettiest of all Yuletide traditions," said Rev. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, today, "and I would like very much to see it taken up here."

The exact origin of the custom is not known, but it is believed to have started in Germany.

SHRINERS SELECT ILLUSTRIOUS POTENTATE FOR AAD TEMPLE

JOHN JENSWOLD, JR.

John Jenswold, Jr., was named illustrious potentate of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual business meeting and election of officers held at the Masonic temple last evening.

Following the custom of the Shrine, Mr. Jenswold,, who was chief rabban during this year, was advanced to the office of potentate, succeeding Lyonel Ayres, present holder of the office. Mr. Ayres was named as past potentate. The other members of the divan advanced to higher offices for the ensuing year are the following: H. L. Dresser, chief rabban; B. S. Fowler, assistant chief rabban; George Sherwood, high priest; Charles C. Jones, oriental guide. R. E. MacFarlane was named recorder to succeed Sheldon Frazer and H. A. Grieser was selected as treasurer in place of J. W. Lyder, who resigned.

The new officers were installed immediately after the election.

The delegates chosen to represent Aad temple at the annual conclave of the imperial council at Buffalo next summer follow: Jesse Norton, John Jenswold, Jr., T. P. Bradley and W. P. Underhill.

The next meeting of Aad temple will be held during the first week in January, when plans will be made for 1916. Action will also be taken at that time on the proposed trip of the patrol to the conclave at Buffalo.

BUILDING FOR WEST THIRD

Two Stores and Flats Provided for in J. August Anderson's Plans.

A handsome business block and flat building will be erected this winter by J. August Anderson, Third street druggist, on the lower side of Third street between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues west. A permit for a building costing $14,000 was issued to Mr. Anderson yesterday and he announced that construction work will begin Monday.

The building will have a 50-foot frontage on Third street and will be seventy-two feet deep. It will have a full basement. The first floor will be arranged for two store buildings and the second floor arranged for three flats and one suite of offices for a physician. It is expected to have the building completed in about four months.

One of the unique features of the building will be that although buildings may be erected on both sides the rooms of the second floor will all have sunlight. A raised skylight 10 by 20 feet will be placed in the center of the roof and each room will have windows in the hallway or by windows connecting the skylight will have direct sunlight during the day.

Jacobson Bros. have been awarded the contract. The plans were drawn by Halstead & Sullivan.

SUPREME OFFICER OF M. W. A. COMING

RALPH E. JOHNSON,
Supreme Organizer.

Ralph E. Johnson, supreme organizer for the Modern Woodmen of America, will be the installing officer for the officers of Duluth Camp No. 2341, to be held on Jan. 14. A special program is being arranged by local members for the occasion. The booster committee consists of Edward Lowe, chairman; A. M. Anderson, Morris Garden, George M. Jensen, O. W. Olson, J. C. The program was arranged under the direction of Mrs. David Adams. Among those taking part in the program were Mrs. J. Emmett Porter, Mrs. F. S. Spurbeck, Mrs. C. B. Gilbert, of Proctor, W. Hancock, George Ward, Miss Gudrun Thrana, Miss Alta Utley, Miss Ward and Rev. J. E. Porter.

SPECIAL HOME FOR UTILITIES OPPOSED

Department Can Wait for New City Hall, Says French Club.

The French Naturalization club at its annual meeting held last evening at the St. Jean Baptiste school hall went on record as being opposed to the erection of a special building for the city water and light department. The subject came up for discussion following the annual election of officers.

The members contended that the water and light department should wait for its new quarters until the proposed city hall was erected and that provisions should be made in this municipal building for housing the water and light department. Club members contended that all municipal offices should be housed in the same building.

The installation of officers will be held on Jan. 7. The officers elected are: President, Peter Grignon, Jr.; vice president, M. E. Loutsell; second vice president, Clement de Roche; financial secretary, Albert Wood; corresponding secretary, E. R. Grignon; treasurer, Joseph Burdash; guardian, Leon Gagne; trustees, Thomas Michaud, Fred Arsenault and Joseph Tessier.

SICK BENEFIT ELECTS.

Swedish Society Holds Annual Meeting Tuesday and Installation Jan. 4.

The annual election of officers for the Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society of the West end will be held next Tuesday evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. It is expected that a large percentage of the members will be present.

At the meeting of the organization on Jan. 4, the officers will be installed and the annual financial report given. The finances of the society are said to be in excellent condition owing to a small amount of sickness among its members during the past year.

Four Generations Have Reunion.

MANY ATTEND "Y" SUNDAY MEETINGS

Strangers' Get-Together Lunch Proving Successful This Year.

The Sunday evening meetings at the Y. M. C. A. have begun and many men have been interested in the program as outlined by the religious work committee. The meetings are informal and are held in the lobby of the association. They are held at 5 o'clock so that the young men may attend as they come in from their afternoon walk.

"If there is any time of the week when the strange young man in the city feels lonely it is on Sunday evening," says Religious Secretary Hauter, "and recognizing this fact, there is conducted each Sunday evening during the winter months the Strangers' Get-Together lunch, served at 6:15, immediately after the public meeting in the lobby. The hour is spent in social intercourse and song and many young men have made close friends and have also been tied up to definite association work through these Sunday evening programs."

Next Sunday at 5 p. m. Fred S. Ward, superintendent of the county work farm, will speak in the association lobby at 5 o'clock. He will give a talk on the means of operating the work farm and will give concrete examples of how men have been helped through his corrective agency.

All men of the city are urged to attend.

WOODMEN ELECT OFFICERS.

Members Enjoy Smoker and Social Session.

Duluth Camp No. 2341, Modern Woodmen of America, held its annual election last night in the lodgerooms, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. Following the business meeting members joined in a smoker and social.

The officers for the coming year are: C. Z. Hanson, consul; Morris Gardin, advisor; N. N. Ole, banker; A. M. Anderson, clerk; George Johnson, escort; C. J. Marsh, watchman; Martin Olson, sentry; W. L. Bernard, trustee for three years; Dr. L. Q. Greeley, L. T. Tare, O. A. Oredson and J. E. Nyquist, physicians.

Boston Lunch No. 4 Opened.

In commemoration of the opening of the fourth Boston Lunch in Duluth at 515 West Superior street, twenty employes of the company attended a formal dinner in the St. Louis hotel cafe last night.

WEST DULUTH POSTOFFICE CLERK PROUD OF HIS FAMILY OF FIVE GENERATIONS STILL LIVING

Alcide J. Racette, 813 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, clerk at the West Duluth postoffice takes pride in having five generations in his family, still living, and of the distinction of having, though only 46 years old, nieces, grandnieces and also a greatgrandnephew. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Racette of L'Assomption, Quebec, Can., complete five generations in the family.

A. J. Racette of West Duluth is the "baby" of the family of the aged couple. He was the youngest of a family of twelve of whom six are now living. They have been married sixty-two years, and in addition to having six children living, have thirty-four grandchildren, forty-six greatgrandchildren and one great great grandchild.

Mrs. Rose Delina Keable of Swan River is their eldest daughter. She just passed her sixtieth birthday. Mrs. Joseph Proulx of Grand Rapids, Minn., is the grand daughter. Mrs. Martin Edwards of Superior, is the greatgranddaughter and her son, the fifth living decendant, aged 2½ years, is the greatgreatgrandson.

"My parents are in excellent health," said Mr. Racette yesterday. "My father is now past 86 years and mother 82 years. They were in the city a short time ago visiting some of their children in the United States."

Their children in addition to Mrs. Keable and Mr. Racette are Joseph Racette of St. Jerome, Can. Oscar, Josephine and Clara Racette of L'Assomption.

REFORM, NOT PUNISHMENT

Judge Willis C. Brown, judge of the juvenile court of Salt Lake City, and one of the best-known juvenile criminal reform workers of the day, was at the Holland last evening for a short time between trains.

Judge Brown came down from Winnipeg, where he delivered a lecture for the benefit of the returning soldiers' fund.

According to Judge Brown, reform in dealing with youthful criminal offenders is making great progress in the courts of the United States. Judge Brown stated that the aim of all juvenile courts of the present day is to reform the youthful offender rather than merely punish him.

"We believe that we have made good progress along this line in Salt Lake City, just as they have made a radical departure from the old method of dealing out sentences in the juvenile courts of Denver," said Judge Brown. "If the average boy who commits crime is wisely dealt with, the chances are that he can be reformed and made a useful citizen. Reforming criminals is one of the great problems of the day, and most important, we believe, is the reform of the youthful offender, who, the chances are, has committed a crime through ignorance or improper bringing up."

WEATHER STILL TOO WARM FOR SKATING

Warm weather is continuing to delay the opening of the public ice skating rinks.

Park Manager Cleveland said this morning that it is impossible to make a good surface for the ice in this warm weather and that the rinks will not open today, as had been planned.

If there is a cold spell tonight, the rinks will be thrown open to the public tomorrow morning, otherwise, there will be no skating on Sunday, Mr. Cleveland said.

"Persons desiring to skate," said Mr. Cleveland, "will find good sheets of ice on Twin Lakes, Sixty-third and Seventy-first avenues west and the river and Forty-sixth avenue west and Oneota street. We are ready to open the supervised rinks, but will have to wait until the weather is colder."

CITY BRIEFS

Going to Twin Cities.

Judge Page Morris of the United States district court will leave for the Twin Cities some time before Monday, and will open a term of the Federal court in St. Paul next Tuesday. It is expected that he will be in the Twin Cities until shortly before Christmas.

In district court today, Anton Bohacz started suit against the Great Northern Railway company for $10,000 damages for injuries which he claims to have received while working at the Allouez docks on Sept. 16 last. Bohacz was working as a "dumper" and had one of his hands crushed and mangled.

Rate Arguments Wednesday.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, and Francis W. Sullivan, attorney for the club, will leave tomorrow evening for Washington to attend the arguments to be made before the interstate commerce commission in the Minnesota rate case, which will take place next Wednesday. The Twin Cities are intervenors against Duluth's demand for a better adjustment of rates and it is expected that they will put up the usual hard and bitter but losing fight.

Constipation Makes You Lose Your Grip

One of a Series of Talks on Health By Duluth's Leading Druggists.

By WALTER D. FLODIN,
Pharmacist.

Constipation ages a man in his youth. It makes him slow to think—slower to act—lowers his efficiency—wrecks his ambition. Plenty of outdoor exercise is the best thing for sluggish bowels, because it helps Nature help herself. The next best thing is West Baden Sprudel Water—Nature's wonderful prescription for constipation, lazy liver, headache, rheumatism, intestinal and digestive disturbances and similar ills.

West Baden, Indiana, has been famous for more than 30 years. There they have erected and furnished a wonderful hotel at a cost of two million dollars. More than a million men and women have journeyed there just to drink this health-restoring water. Now it is bottled. Druggists sell the large size at 35c and the small one at 15c. A single glassful once a week before breakfast will quickly and entirely empty the intestinal tract. West Baden Sprudel Water is mild and gentle, yet unfailing in its action. It is Nature's best and safest laxative.

Walter D. Flodin recommends West Baden Sprudel Water because he knows its great value in bowel, kidney, liver and stomach trouble. Mr. Flodin is a pharmacist in whom thousands of men and women place entire confidence and his store at 201 East Superior street is where people naturally go to have a prescription filled or to buy such items as are usually found in a well appointed drug store.

WILL THEY FIND YOU?

Can your friend from out of the city get off the train, go into the depot or drug store and call you up?

Or does he ply his way through the city directory, if there is one at hand, to find where you live, then take the risk of walking to your home and not finding you in?

This is only one of many instances of what "the home without a telephone" experiences. Your friends really expect you to have a telephone and you are doing yourself an injustice if you don't have one. We can give you rapid, reliable service at low rates.

Miss Schaull Is Coming to Fit Your Christmas Bon Ton Corsets

She will be with us Monday and will remain one week in Duluth on her way home from the West.

Miss Schaull is known the country over as an expert corsietiere, and we will have some new models in Bon Ton corsets which certainly are a bit in advance of corset styles generally.

You will find the waist has a decided "nip"—the bust is higher and possibly a bit fuller, creating the new silhouette of mid-winter fashion.

These new Bon Ton models are here at $3.00, $3.50, $5.00 and $10.00.

Women who desire the new fashionable figure will find comfort, grace and poise in these new Bon Ton models.

Come in and talk to Miss Schaull whether you are ready for a new corset or not—she will explain which corset you should have and why you should have it.

REED PLAN IS OPPOSED

Commissioners Not in Favor of Water Department Building.

Members of the city commission are opposed to the plans of Manager Reed of the water and light department to erect a building to contain the offices, salesrooms, work shops and garage of the utilities division, in the central business section of the city.

They claim that the $75,000 surplus should not be spent for an expensive site and structure, in view of the fact that the new city hall will be erected within a few years. Space for the shops and garage can be rented at small cost, they say.

"We have turned the department down on two or three previous occasions," said Mayor Prince, "and I am sure that the commissioners will oppose this move again. As for myself, I am against such an expenditure.

"The water and light department is now better housed than any other division and there is no reason why they should want an expensive building. When the city hall is erected, the offices will be moved there and only a garage and repair shop will be needed and there is no use in erecting a costly structure for such purposes. Let them keep this money, as it will come very handy when water and gas extensions are built next year.

"The city should do no construction work at all, outside of the proposed city hall and then when that structure is finished and occupied, we can consider the erection of a municipal garage, work shop and storehouse on some inexpensive property."

Commissioners Voss and Silberstein expressed themselves in a similar manner and it is understood that Commissioner Farrell is also opposed to the plan, although he could not be reached this morning.

The water and light department has a $75,000 surplus and Manager Reed announced yesterday that plans are being considered for the erection of a building somewhere in the central business district.

THOUSANDS VISIT SANTA'S TEA PARTY

Saint Nick in Person Greets Little Folks at Freimuth's.

Today was gala day for Santa Claus and the children at the I. Freimuth store. Thousands of little folks visited Santa's tea party in fairyland on the fourth floor and were made happy by Santa Claus—for Santa was there in person and met all of the little tots.

The Yuletide spirit prevailed in every nook and corner of the spacious fourth floor, which is devoted entirely to a wonderful display of toys, dolls and games. There are thousands of toys from Europe and America.

As one enters from the elevator on the right was Santa Claus and his workshop and the Christmas candy shop with a great store of sweets. On the left is the Christmas tree with toys and other gifts. There is the doll hospital where the dolls can be cured of all their ills from losing hair to a broken limb. Then there is the menagerie with many animals and the mechanical department with almost everything that can be imagined to please little folks, such as toy dishes, pianos, automobiles, sleds, drums and books.

FUNERAL OF HENRY ABRAHAM

Close friends and business associates of Henry Abraham during the quarter of a century that he lived at the Head of the Lakes will serve as active and honorary pallbearers at the funeral to be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from the residence, 2422 East Third street.

This morning it was announced that the services would begin at the home at 10:30 o'clock, with Dr. Maurice Lefkovits, rabbi of Temple Emanuel, officiating, and that shortly after the Duluth Lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Abraham was one of the prominent members, would conduct a special service at the Woodland cemetery.

The active pallbearers will be: Bernard Silberstein, Thomas B. Mills, L. S. Loeb, I. Freimuth, G. A. Klein and J. B. Sattler.

On reaching the Woodland cemetery, the Elks will take charge and conduct a special fraternal service, with John E. Samuelson, exalted ruler, officiating. The honorary pallbearers, all members of the local lodge, follow: John A. Samuelson, Joseph Randall, M. G. Levy, William F. Henry, Harris Bennett and George Munsey.

Interment will take place in the family plot at Woodland cemetery.

DAYTON STORE WILL BE ENLARGED

Dayton's Minneapolis store, which is known to many Duluth shoppers, will undergo several improvements and alterations, according to word which has been received here. Plans for a new Eighth street addition were announced yesterday. The Dayton company owns 380 feet of Eighth street frontage extending west on Nicollet avenue.

"We are planning erection next year," said George D. Dayton, "of an addition on Eighth street property, on which present leases expire in June. It will be designed to carry twelve stories and that will necessitate going down thirty-four feet with the columns. We are consulting with the architects on the plans to place orders for steel."

MR. HARRIS MAKES HIS POSITION CLEAR

To the Editor of The Herald:

The result of the decision recently rendered by the supreme court of the United States, in the case of Norton vs. Whiteside, was to the effect that the boundary line between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin was in the middle of the main, natural channel of the St. Louis river, as defined in the enabling act admitting the state of Wisconsin, and that the boundary line between the states had not been shifted by the subsequent dredging of a channel by the government, in a different place than the old, natural channel. The result of this decision was further to the effect that the shore owners on the Wisconsin and Minnesota sides of the river were the owners in fee of the bed of the stream, and to islands arising thereon, to the middle of the main, natural channel, and that this ownership had not in any way been affected by the dredging of an artificial channel by the government at another place.

Jaques & Hudson and myself were the attorneys for Robert B. Whiteside of this city in this case.

Yesterday morning one of your reporters presented to me a copy of a newspaper containing an article on the effect of this decision. This article was accompanied by a diagram, which purported to show that, as a result of this decision, a large part of the Carnegie coal dock and a large part of the Zenith Furnace company plant, both supposedly in Duluth, were, as a matter of fact, located in Superior, and that suits were to be started by Superior parties to recover possession of these properties, and your reporter requested me to give an opinion as to whether or not the claims made by these Superior parties, as against these plants, could be sustained.

I told your reporter that if the effect of this decision was of any interest to the public at large, I was perfectly willing to state what the general effect of the decision was, but I expressly declined to give any opinion whatsoever as to the effect the decision would have on the result of the prospective litigation, referred to in the article.

In a writeup of the interview in last night's Herald, your reporter uses the following language: "Mr. Harris said today that he did not know what contests might result from the action of the supreme court, but that owners of the Wisconsin property of the Carnegie and Zenith coal docks might lay claim to property in West Duluth if the survey, fixing the state line as running through the properties, could be proved correct." A casual reading of that portion of the above quotation which says, "that owners of the Wisconsin property of the Carnegie and Zenith coal docks might lay claim to property in West Duluth," might very readily be construed that I had intended to say that the Wisconsin shore owners, opposite the Carnegie and Zenith plants, either had, or, as a result of the litigation would obtain, some interest in the property of these plants, whereas, I distinctly declined to express any opinion upon that question.

I do not charge the reporter with any bad faith, and I am satisfied he did not intend to give the impression that I had expressed any opinion as to the result of the litigation referred to in the article he showed me, but the language of the interview is susceptible of that interpretation, and I do not desire to be placed in the attitude of having expressed an opinion as to the probable result of private litigation with which I have no connection.

VAN DYKE GOES ON LABOR COMMITTEE

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Congressman Carl C. Vandyke, the new representative from St. Paul, did not realize his ambition to be a member of the committee on postoffices and post roads. He asked for that assignment because he was formerly in the railway mail service and was familiar with postoffice operation. Instead, the ways and means committee gave Mr. Vandyke a place on the committee of labor, for which he is fitted by reason of his close intimacy with labor organizations. The St. Paul congressman also has been placed on the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, which will handle the ship purchase bill and is an important committee. Census and mines and mining are the two other committees on which Mr. Vandyke will serve.

MESSAGE FROM FAR EAST

Noted Y. M. C. A. Worker Will Give Three Addresses Here.

Hollis A. Wilbur, one of the three associates of Hon. Chen Ting T. Wang, general secretary of the national organization of the Y. M. C. A.'s of China, will deliver three addresses in Duluth tomorrow. At 10:30 o'clock he will speak at the Pilgrim Congregational church; at 12 noon he will address the adult department of the First Methodist Sunday school, and at 7:30 in the evening he will speak at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church at Hunter's Park.

Mr. Wilbur has had unusual opportunities of studying conditions in the Far East, having been engaged in association work in the large cities of China and Japan, and having traveled over a large part of both of those countries.

MOTHER SEEKS THREE SONS.

Mrs. William Montgomery Asks Aid of Duluth Police.

Elevators, brickyards and railroad yards are being searched by Duluth detectives who are looking for three missing sons of Mrs. William Montgomery, 16 St. Thomas street, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"Will works in an elevator, Tom on the railroad and Alfred in a brickyard," wrote Mrs. Montgomery to Chief R. D. McKercher, when she asked him to help her find the boys.

Detective J. L. Bradley so far has been unable to locate the three Montgomery boys, even after calling into consultation Patrolman Montgomery, who claims to know all Duluthians with his name.

Police also have been asked to search for Ambrose Murray. John J. Fallon of Newburgh, N. Y., a relative, made the request.

NEW PATROLMAN IS MADE MOUNTED OFFICER

Patrolman Jacob N. Nystrom was transferred to the mounted division today by Chief R. D. McKercher, succeeding Mounted Officer Arthur Callahan, resigned.

Arnold Nelson, Radisson hotel, the high man on the civil service list, was appointed to fill the vacancy in the list of patrolman left by Officer Nystrom's transfer.

"In Officer Nystrom I think I have found an excellent man for the territory included in the mounted beat which he will handle," said Chief McKercher. "The territory is large and needs an officer with some executive ability. I feel sure that he will be satisfactory."

Officer Nystrom is a new man on the force, being appointed June 14, 1915, by Chief McKercher. He lives at 428½ West Fourth street.

SICK MEN

Are Constantly Cured By Scientific Methods

Specialists Successful With New Methods

The doctors who have the most completely equipped offices and who have cured many thousand men are to be found in the offices of the Progressive Medical association. Duluth has seen start many doctors and after they had practiced some time they left Duluth forever. Most of those doctors had made big promises but cured no one. The methods of the Progressive Medical association, however, have been straight, honest, scientific, and that is the reason they prospered. Their offices are crowded from 9 a. m. to 8 at night, and Sunday from 10 to 1.

There are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering from diseases of long standing and, asked why so many men suffer, they explained that constipation and stomach troubles cause self-poisoning. To relieve this trouble men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, although they know very well relief is only temporary and their condition is worse than before. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fullness in your abdomen you may know that your intestines are diseased and they cannot perform the work of digestion.

You are getting pale and losing flesh and your feeling tells you that you are a sick man. You have started the process of self-poisoning, your blood is diseased and your blood vessels harden, which slowly but surely prepares your grave and your suffering is a long one.

Rectal piles cause cancer and many other diseases. The bad and stagnant blood is forming piles, and these in turn result in a train of other diseases, as constipation, rheumatism, sciatica, pain in the back, kidney trouble, heart and liver diseases and nervousness. These specialists are most successful in treating these diseases, and also catarrh and lung trouble, bronchitis, blood poison, rupture, pelvic and bladder trouble, eczema and all skin diseases. If you have any ailment and you want to know al about it you are invited to consult the Progressive Doctors. Consultation is free.

They cure all acute as well as chronic diseases of men, Nervous Debility, discharges, Blood Poison, swollen and Varicose Veins, as well as all diseases peculiar to men. These doctors will make you well no matter how many others failed to cure. They are well professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. Offices at corner Superior street and Lake avenue, Duluth.

GOOD FELLOW MADE HAPPY

Locates Poor Family He Was Eager to Visit on Christmas.

Mother's Chimney Needs Fixing So Santa Can Come Down.

(By the Good Fellow Editor.)

Just as the Good Fellow Editor was starting for home last night a city official hurried into the office.

"Say," he said, "I've just heard about a family out in the West end. Can you find them for me?"

"The mother's sick and the father's not much good, and the kids are having a pretty tough time of it. I don't think Santa Claus ever will find 'em if he doesn't get a guide."

A minute later he walked out, smiling as if he had just received good news from home, with the name and address of his family tucked away in his vest pocket.

Secrecy is one of the first rules of Good Fellowship, and his name can't be told, but whatever the name, it is near the top of the 1915 roll of Good Fellowship.

There is one more family assured of a Christmas, although they may not know it yet. A Good Fellow has their name, and trust him to make them happy, and to make himself happy in doing it.

There are many more families in much the same fix as this one, and there will be work for all the Good Fellows who enroll this year.

Here is one that was called to my attention today:

A widow who has been an invalid for several years has found it necessary to get work of some kind, to help keep the wolf from the door. The lightest kind of housework is all she can do, because she should remain at home all the time, or be under a doctor's treatment.

Her eldest son is trying to go to school, and work afternoons and evenings to make enough to pay the landlord, the grocery man and the coal man. The other children, and there are several of them, are too young to work, but one of the little girls is the "lady of the house" during the day, while her mamma is working.

Christmas doesn't mean very much to them, because they will be lucky if they have their regular meals, to say nothing of presents or candy.

In fact, the boy is working by the hour, and Christmas will be a holiday, so that will mean a smaller envelope next pay day.

The mother almost wishes there wasn't going to be a Christmas this year, and the kiddies have comforted themselves with the thought that if Santa misses them this year, they will be grown up so tall next year that he surely will see them.

"There's a lot of bricks loose on the chimney anyhow," said one of the boys, "and maybe Santa would get hurted if he would try to come down it."

Some Good Fellow with some experience as a brick layer might try to fix that chimney so Santa could get in.

Write to me and tell me what you wish to do, and it will be easy to tell you what there is to be done.

Nobody but you and the family and I will be in the secret.

That's the best part of it.

STEPS OUT OF HARNESS

Thomas McNaught Retires After Half Century of Active Life.

One of the "Old Guard" of Duluth's business army has stepped out of the harness after nearly half a century of active service.

Thomas McNaught has severed his connection with the Marshall-Wells Hardware company and will enjoy a well-earned rest. He and Mrs. McNaught will leave soon for California to pass the winter there.

For more than forty-three years Mr. McNaught and A. M. Marshall, the president of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, have been associated in business together. They were together back in the old days of the lumber boom around Saginaw, and Mr. McNaught came to Duluth in the spring of 1892 to take charge of the old Chapin-Wells Hardware company. He held that position one year until the Marshall-Wells company was organized, when he became manager of it. In the early days of Duluth and back in Saginaw, Mr. McNaught was a commanding figure in the business world.

"The transplanting comes hard," said Mr. McNaught. "I have been associated with Mr. Marshall so long that it is mighty hard to quit and take a rest, but I feel that I should. I am leaving under the most pleasant conditions, with the very best of good feeling, not only to Mr. Marshall, but to the firm and everybody connected with it. I wish them all kinds of prosperity, but I have enough saved to keep me, I guess, and I want to quit while I can enjoy it."

High Tower Falls.

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 4.—An illuminating tower standing 207 feet high at a principal street intersection here, fell yesterday in a rain and wind storm. The rain had cleared the streets of people and no one was injured. Street car traffic on several lines was halted. The tower was erected in 1883 and was a landmark.

DR. MITCHELL

300 COLUMBIA BUILDING.

Electro Magnetic Specialists—A Record of 20 Years of the Most Remarkable Cures in Duluth.

The cures that Dr. Mitchell has made are very remarkable. Many have been published in the daily papers the past fifteen years, and but for reliable witnesses, would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away their crutches and walked about after one or two treatments; the sick that have tried everything else and given up to die have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear. Headaches, nervousness, fevers, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis, affections of any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. Dr. Mitchell's treatments purify the entire system and perfect health is restored.

GREAT EXPO IS CLOSING

Last Day of Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Dec. 4.—Today is the last day of the Panama-Pacific exposition. The sounding of "taps" from the Tower of Jewels, the pressing of a button by President C. C. Moore that will extinguish the myriad lights of the "jewel city," and hauling down of the flags and the furling of the banners and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," are to be final and concluding acts in the exposition, which opened Feb. 20.

The exposition officials express the belief that the day's attendance would reach the 400,000 mark, which would make the total attendance during the 288 days of the exposition close to 19,000,000.

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance, while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling, and on all occasions, should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed leaves, which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed, and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spil and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool, delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps and coin.

BIWABIK WOMAN HOSTESS.

Mrs. W. H. Crocker Entertains Some of Her Woman Friends.

Biwabik, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. W. H. Crocker entertained at a house party Tuesday afternoon. The house was prettily decorated with colors to suit the occasion and a dainty lunch was served. Those present were: Mesdames C. J. Brickley, H. E. Greene, Theodore Wannebo, J. H. Robinson, R. E. Benson, J. E. Irwin and D. W. Owens.

A lodge of Moose has been organized here with these officers: Richard Dallmann, dictator; Herman Lundblad, vice dictator; William Northey, past dictator; Louis Almquist, prelate; John Olson, secretary; John Gnall, treasurer; Grover Helsel, sergeant-at-arms; Robert Harrington, inner guard; Joseph Northey, outer guard; Charles Anderson, Ole Johnson and John Olson, trustees.

N. B. Shank is here from his home in Wisconsin to begin winter logging operations. During the past year he disposed of many of his local holdings, but still has considerable standing timber, which he will proceed to cut and market. His purpose is to clean up in this line and retire.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lundblad and daughter, June of Duluth, spent Thanksgiving here as the guest of Mrs. Lundblad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guss.

Mrs. D. W. Owens and son, Howard, spent the week-end in Duluth as the guests of Mrs. G. E. Mills and also saw "The Birth of a Nation."

Miss Melinda La Valle spent the week-end in Duluth with her sisters, Mrs. L. Slocum and Miss Lillian La Valle, who came from the coast to spend a few days with Mrs. A. Linneman, another sister, who lives in Duluth.

At the last meeting of the Rebekah lodge Misses Rose Vickers, Elsatia Koen, Mrs. D. J. Eyer, Mrs. A. A. Farragher and Mrs. Joseph Siegel were initated into the order. Officers were also elected as follows: Mrs. A. G. Sanborn, noble grand; Mrs. Fred Johnson, vice grand; Mrs. Max Cohen, treasurer; F. A. Howerton, secretary, and Mrs. J. A. Talle, trustee.

GREECE SAID TO HAVE TURNED OVER MACEDONIA TO THE ALLIES

time reports have reached here from Bucharest that three Bulgarian divisions crossed Hungary en route to the Italian or western front, which, if true, would seem to indicate that Hungaria does not fear a Russian invasion.

Reports of such a shift of forces on the part of the Bulgarians are as vague, however, as the report that Austro-German troops had been rushed from other quarters eastward to face the new Russian menace.

Safely in Albania.

Dispatches from several sources assert that both the northern and southern Serbian armies are safely established in Albania while forces of the Serbs who evidently formed part of the defenders of Monastir have reached the French camp at Glevgeli in Serbian territory near the Greek frontier not far from Saloniki.

A feeling of optimism over the Near Eastern situation seems to be growing here but outwardly there is little to justify it except on the theory that the Russian onslaught against Bulgaria will quickly crystalize, while Entente diplomatic negotiations in Greece again seem to be progressing favorably. From German sources news has been received that Greece has granted the allies absolute control of the railroads in Macedonia together with certain ports on the Egean sea, thus assuring them an undisturbed base of operations.

To Apply Screws to Greece.

Paris, Dec. 4.—The Entente powers consider Greece is taking too long to reflect upon the answer to their demands, and have decided to apply again the economic measures which were used with such effect a fortnight ago, says the Figaro.

The newspaper declares orders have been given prohibiting the departure from allied ports of all ships with cargoes consigned to Greece and stopping immediately the loading of Greek vessels.

Public Opinion Veering.

Athens, Dec. 3, via Paris, Dec. 4.—Public opinion is veering towards the fullest acceptance of the demands of the Entente powers. While the government is hesitating in framing its reply, thousands of refugees are arriving at Florina after tramping through deep snow from Monastir. All buildings are crowded and hundreds are without shelter. Children are dying from hunger and exposure. The municipal treasury has been emptied, and appeals for aid have been made to Athens.

Princess Demidoff is expected to head the relief work at Saloniki.

cific exposition at San Francisco, just closing, will be brought here," President Davidson said in his announcement.

"Two of the largest exhibits at the San Francisco exposition—the Canadian and the Italian—have been obtained for next year, and we expect that the French exhibit also will be installed here.

Other Exhibits Assured.

"Other exhibits practically assured are the Swiss, Spanish, Netherlands, Russian, Hawaiian, South Sea Islands, New Zealand and Australian. We are negotiating for the Chinese exhibit and Philippine exhibit. States which are represented here now will continue their dislays next year.

"It is expected the buildings will be large enough to house the exhibits but it may be necessary to build additional ones.

"The operating and guaranty fund for 1916 has been raised in Los Angeles, San Diego and other parts of Southern California. There has been a tentative agreement with trans-continental railroads regarding rates.

"With Europe closed to travel on account of the war, we expect the attendance will be many times greater than that at the present exposition."

RUSSIAN TROOPS TAKE TWELVE MILES OF TRENCHES

In the Austro-Italian theater of war, state that despite the icy cold of a gale which is blowing at the rate of sixty miles an hour over the bleak heights of the Carso, the Italians constantly are making attacks along the whole front. Their heaviest assaults are now directed on the Gorizia bridgehead.

Especially violent and sanguinary fighting is proceeding near Oslavia, where it has continued uninterruptedly for nine days and nights, the Italians apparently hoping to break through the whole line of Austrian defense here. The Italian losses are said to have been terrific and in some places the bodies of the fallen have been intensified by the violence of the wind, which has been more terrible than the heaviest snowstorm. At times the men have been forced to lie down to avoid being blown over the rocks.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE

When your kidneys are weak and torpid they do not properly perform their functions; your back aches and you do not feel like doing much of anything. You are likely to be despondent and to borrow trouble, just as if you hadn't enough already. Don't be a victim any longer.

The old reliable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, gives strength and tone to the kidneys and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar combination of roots, barks and herbs. No other medicine acts like it, because no other medicine has the same formula or ingredients. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's, and get it today.

DIRECTOR OF GERMAN STEAMSHIP LINE GIVEN YEAR AND HALF of the Hamburg-American line asked Judge Howe to take into consideration that his three co-defendants were his subordinates and that if any offense was committed they were merely acting under his orders.

Merely Nominal Fine.

The nominal fine imposed on the Hamburg-American company was explained by Judge Howe as due to his wish to free the case, as far as possible, from "the odor of money." He said that there was no evidence to show that the company, as such had entered into any conspiracy. The lighter sentence imposed on Poppinghaus was in recognition of the fact that he occupied a subordinate position.

In sentencing Dr. Buenz, Judge Howe announced that if the sentence was confirmed in the higher courts he would be willing to support any move to obtain clemency on the ground of the advanced age of the prisoner.

"This case," said Judge Howe, "will undoubtedly be taken to the court of appeals and to the United States supreme court. If sentence is affirmed and it is claimed that imprisonment would be a peril to Dr. Buenz on account of his advanced age, the case will be referred to the executive department of the government. This court will be willing to take any action that may be desirable in support of such a move."

the president's daughter, will be guests at the White House when they come to attend the wedding. Miss Margaret Wilson, and Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, the other two daughters of the president, are already here.

Mrs. Galt's home, where the ceremony will be performed is in the fashionable section of Washington, but is too small to contain a large party. Nevertheless, both Mrs. Galt and the president decided not to have a wedding in the White House.

The brothers and sisters of Mrs. Galt who will be present at the wedding are Rolfe E. Bolling of Panama; Mrs. M. H. Maury, Anniston, Ala., and Mrs. Alexander H. Galt, John Randolph Bolling, all of Washington.

Ceremony at 6 p. m.

Members of Mrs. Galt's family said today that the ceremony would be performed after 6 p. m., and that the couple will leave immediately for a honeymoon journey. Their destination has been kept secret even from members of the family. Mrs. Galt's mother is in personal charge of most of the arrangements.

The duty of securing a marriage license will fall to I. H. Hoover, chief usher at the White House, who performed similar services for the weddings of Mrs. McAdoo and Mrs. Sayre.

Dr. W. A. Bolling of Louisville, Ky., another brother of Mrs. Galt's, will be unable to attend the wedding because of the serious illness of his wife.

UNITED STATES EXPECTS PROMPT RECALL OF ATTACHES

mentioned with those of Boy-Ed and von Pappen in connection with activities which have been frowned upon by the United States government.

It was said authoritatively that it had not been decided just what action, if any, would be taken. It was intimated that the state department also was considering whether any step should be taken regarding other officials of foreign embassies in Washington.

Complaints Accumulative.

The complaints against von Pappen and Boy-Ed were accumulative, dating back to the early days of the war. The case against them is peculiar, not being capable of legal proof. It consisted of an accumulation of suspicions, circumstances and conditions which connected the attaches with attempts to violate the neutrality laws of the United States. The accumulation was sufficient to convince the department that the official status of the officials in the United States had been discontinued.

Secretary Lansing is understood to have given consideration to the attempts to supply German warships with coal, provisions and ammunition, and although no absolute proof of the complicity of either of the men in the passport frauds reached the state department, a mass of testimony accumulated to place them under the gravest suspicion. The Stegler passport case, false affidavits which were made in shipping matters, and the sending of reports to Austria-Hungary by James F. J. Archibald, an American citizen, all were among the matters taken into account by the department.

to join them at The Hague a few weeks later. He explained that he believed he would accomplish more in the interest of peace at present by remaining in America.

List of Envoys.

In the list of envoys given out by Mr. Ford's assistants are, among others: The Rev. Charles F. Aked, San Francisco; Lieutenant Governor A. J. Bethea, South Carolina; Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, New York; H. C. Evans, Des Moines; Frederick H. Holt, Detroit; T. A. Hosteller, Washington; the Rev. Jenkin L. Jones, Chicago; the Rev. Samuel S. Marquis, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit; Louis Maverick, Winnetka, Ill.; George F. Milton, Chattanooga; E. H. Molthan, Williamstown, Mass.; Henry C. Morris, Chicago; Senator Helen R. Robinson, Denver; T. Monroe Smock, New Plymouth, Idaho; Charles D. Thompson, Chicago; Hendrick W. Van Loon, Ithaca, N. Y.; Arthur L. Weatherby, Lincoln, Neb.; the Rev. W. M. Wright, Little Rock, Ark., and Lars P. Nelson, New York.

Twenty-three members of the party are women. Students from Yale, Vassar, Barnard, Dartmouth, Oberlin, Williams, Drake, Vanderbilt and Columbia and the Universities of Kansas, Ohio, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Illinois, Nebraska, Michigan and Texas accompany the expedition.

The peace delegates received large red celluloid buttons bearing a white star with rays and the words "out of the trenches by Christmas."

Will Be Joined by Bryan.

William Jennings Bryan came from Miami, Fla., and consulted with Mr. Ford last night.

Mr. Bryan issued a statement repeating his former assertion that he approved of Mr. Ford's plans, and that he would later join the party at The Hague.

"When you arrive in Europe, what will be your first steps to carry out your plans to co-operate with neutral nations toward stopping the European war?" Mr. Ford was asked.

"That is a point that we will consider on the way across the ocean," Mr. Ford replied. "We have not decided upon any definite steps yet. All we know is that the fighting nations are sick of war, that they want to stop, and that they are waiting only for some disinterested party to step in and offer mediation. Some people in this world have seen fit to be skeptical about the success of our plans, but when we return, I think they will change their views. Any action taken toward peace is worthy of support, if the action is based on good judgment and conviction."

Ford to Remain.

Mr. Ford said his guests had been invited for a six weeks' trip, but that the time might be considerably extended. As for himself, even after members of his party had returned to America, Mr. Ford said he intended to remain "until peace had been restored." He said he might go into Germany and England, if possible, and expend any amount of money in behalf of peace. The preliminary expenses of the trip so far had cost $60,000, he said, and in six weeks, he expected to spend several hundred thousand dollars more.

As an evidence of his intention to devote time and money to his expedition, Mr. Ford announced that he had made a new will for the distribution of his fortune in case of his death abroad, and had arranged to have his business affairs handled independently of himself.

"I am prepared to meet anything," said Mr. Ford. "If we fail this time, we will try some other plan for ending the war. I'm not going to stop until the war is stopped. I'm going to keep on trying until peace has come again. What I shall do next if this mission fails, I do not know as yet; I haven't any idea, but I shall do something. I am determined in that.

"This mission in reality is to rouse public sentiment against the horrors of war, and in favor of peace. It sets people to thinking, and wondering about the war."

ENORMOUS GROWTH IN EIGHT YEARS

Chalmers Began Business in Detroit in Modest Fashion.

During the Chalmers' sales convention just closed in Detroit, Hugh Chalmers celebrated the eighth anniversary of his entry into the automobile business. On Nov. 16, 1907, he reached Detroit, having just purchased an interest in the Thomas-Detroit Motor company. At that time the Thomas-Detroit company was capitalized at $150,000 and employed a force of 200 men.

One year later, the company became the Chalmers Motor company. Today Mr. Chalmers is at the head and in financial control of one of the world's largest automobile factories, employing 5,000 men and with a real estate and machinery value of $8,000,000.

Detroit was given a striking idea of the extent to which this business has grown in the last eight years by the gathering of 600 Chalmers dealers in convention and the placing of orders for over $22,000,000 worth of cars in less than forty minutes' time.

The salaried position which Mr. Chalmers left in Dayton, Ohio, was worth $75,000 and many wondered at a man giving up such a position to encounter the uncertainties of starting a new business. Those people must still wonder today at his genius as well as his courage.

HEAVY ORDERS FOR ELECTRIC CARS

Plants at Detroit and Cleveland Working at Top Speed.

Every shift at the Detroit Electric plants in Detroit and Cleveland is working at top-notch speed to meet the daily flood of shipping orders from dealers.

G. D. Fairgrieve, sales manager of the Anderson Electric Car company, builders of Detroit electrics, in a recent interview said:

"The season just begun promises to break all prosperity records we have ever set. Orders are coming in so rapidly that even with our increased facilities our production is being pushed to the limit.

"The 1916 Detroit Electrics, at the reduced prices made possible by our doubled output, are proving themselves the most popular type of enclosed car that has ever been put on the market.

"Daily reports from our dealers in all parts of the country indicate that this increased business is not confined to any one particular section of the country, but is true of nearly every locality in our sales territory.

"A number of factors are accountable for the stimulus electric car sales have felt recently. In the first place, Detroit Electrics are in a position to offer every advantage formerly claimed by the gas car, except long-distance touring, and in addition several features exclusive of the electric-powered automobile.

"There is no question in my mind but that the entire electric car industry is on the verge of a great business expansion. I firmly believe that the rapid growth of Detroit Electric sales is a forerunner of what the others will soon note, and that it is only because the Anderson Electric Car company is the largest and most powerful company that it received the first noticeable impetus."

WOULD ELIMINATE THEFTS.

OVERLAND CARRIES SUFFRAGE MESSAGE

Three Women Making Trip From Frisco to National Capital.

Armed with a message for the president of the United States, three women have traveled more than 5,000 miles by automobile in an effort to further the cause of equal suffrage. A petition, signed by half a million women at the San Francisco exposition, was entrusted to their care and on the trip across country, enough additional signatures were obtained to swell the total to what is probably the longest list of names ever secured on a petition of this kind.

The women, one from Oregon and two from Rhode Island, after looking over the motor cars offered in San Francisco, bought a Model 83 Overland. Miss M. A. Kindberg acted as driver; Miss Ingeberg Kindstedt as mechanician, and Mrs. Sara Bard Field as utility driver and helper.

During the trip the car had an average gasoline mileage of sixteen miles per gallon, using one quart of oil in the first 280 miles, and averaging 100 miles to the quart, on the rough stretches. The highest speed attained by the lady driver was fifty-two miles per hour.

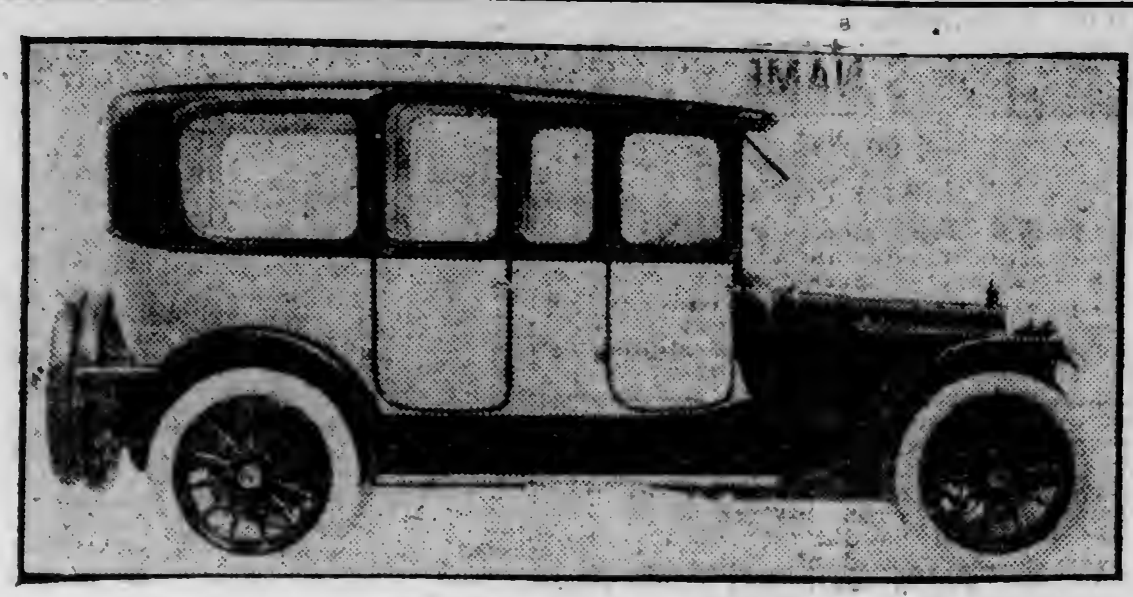
Through the desert the trip was uneventful, except for the fact that water was scarce, and after trying to buy, or even beg water at one particular place, they were refused, and finding the radiator barely half full, thought their troubles would commence, but true to the appointments en route, they undertook the drive without the needed water and drove 156 miles, with the supply half enough, and the motor, which is the highest improved of its type, carried them fine and did not overheat as was feared.

One blinding snowstorm was encountered from Laramie to Cheyenne, the first of the season. After debating awhile as to whether or not to attempt the drive, they started out and met three other motor parties returning to town. These people advised against the trip, telling them they surely would be lost, but that "grit," necessary in a case like that, asserted itself, and they went through the storm to the next town, glad of the trip for the novelty, as well as testing their mount to its utmost.

Crossing the desert at one time they were lost and used a compass to set them right and traveled by that for ninety-five miles before finding a place to get proper directions.

Mrs. Field, the speaker of the trip, is carrying a message to the president of the United States from the women voters of the West, and in this trip, as well as riding, they have been stopping at all the cities along the way, speaking on the equal rights of women and have used their car as a platform in several places. The message to the president asks his support for an amendment to the national Constitution giving woman the ballot.

FIRST OF THE PACKARD TWIN SIX MODELS ARRIVES IN DULUTH



1916 TWIN-SIX PACKARD.

J. S. Sneve, local Packard agent, this week received the first Twin-Six car sent to Northern Minnesota.

Ever since the twelve-cylinder model was announced, Mr. Sneve has been making every effort to obtain a shipment for local buyers, but the demand in the East was so great, that the factory found it impossible to meet orders from the West.

Mr. Sneve received one of the touring cars, but he expects the limousine models, as in the accompanying photograph, next week.

BENZOL FOR GASOLINE.

The prediction is made that at the end of the European war benzol will find extensive use as a substitute for gasoline as the motive power for motor cars. Whereas before the European war this country was producing only 3,000,000 gallons of benzol, the large steel works, many of which did not recover their benzol, now are producing about 15,000,000 gallons.

AUTO REPLACES HORSE.

Uncle Sam Orders Machines for Carrying Rural Mails.

Once more the horse is before the public, and the battle which waged around him when the motor first appeared on the industrial horizon is to be repeated.

A new ruling of the postoffice department provides that horse-drawn vehicles must give way to motor cars in rural delivery routes. The object of the department is to economize in both time and money and to increase the efficiency of its service generally.

But a wail of protest has arisen from farmers in many states and from the carriers themselves, and the department has been deluged with letters asking that the new ruling be set aside. It is claimed that in many states the conditions of the rural roads do not justify the change; that such an arrangement would retard rather than promote rural service efficiency.

During the past half century the horse has given away more than half of his occupations to the cause of science and scientific discoveries.

AUTOMOBILE AS CHRISTMAS GIFT.

"On account of the now widespread and sensible popularity of winter driving, automobiles will be prominent in Santa Claus' pack this Christmas," says H. S. Daniels of the KisselKar. "Many who had thought to buy a car next spring are seeing the wisdom of hastening the purchase and giving their families the great benefit and comfort of a closed car. The all-year car, an innovation of Kissel's, has made this possible without owning two cars. The all-year car has certainly added much to the utility and economy of motoring."

FRENCH WOMEN DESIGN MOTOR COATS

Although the men of France are in the trenches, the women of President Poincare's republic have found time to design a new line of motor coats that are most distinctive for the American woman. They are made for comfort, having loose skirts and sleeves, but they are exceedingly attractive nevertheless. The majority of the coats are belted and featured by the chin-chin collar, into the warmth of which the wearer may draw her head and mimic the turtle.

Fur-trimmed coats and fur collars are distinctive features.

SERVICE TO HERALD READERS.

Anyone interested in the purchase of a 1916 automobile can get information about the various machines and the local dealers by writing to the automobile department of The Herald. If you are interested in any machine The Herald will tell you where to buy. The Herald is the recognized medium between buyer and dealer in the Northwest.

HERALD'S WEEKLY ROADS BUREAU AND BULLETIN

Under this heading The Duluth Herald is conducting a weekly column of information for automobile owners and drivers during the summer and fall months. If you are planning on taking a trip, write to the automobile department. All the information at our disposal is yours for the asking. Motorists outside of Minnesota are especially invited to make use of this department.

To all practical purposes the Lincoln highway is now completely marked from New York to San Francisco. There are points where the marking is not as satisfactory as it should be, but this is being rapidly taken care of by the various civic and patriotic organizations along the way.

The entire length of the Lincoln highway in New Jersey may be called perfect, every mile being hard surfaced. Pennsylvania has but nineteen miles of the great road that are not hard surfaced, and has spent some $510,000 on the Lincoln highway in the last eighteen months. Caretakers employed by the state patrol the highway and see that it is properly kept up. Ohio has spent over $350,000 on the Lincoln highway in the past year, and $610,000 additional has been bonded for by the counties through which the route passes. There are sixty-six miles of brick construction, more than in any other state.

Indiana boasts sixty-eight miles of concrete Lincoln highway either actually built or assured by bond issue, $200,000 having been spent near South Bend alone. This portion of the highway is all built to standard specifications, the Lincoln Highway association having donated nearly $2,500 worth of cement for the first example or seedling mile. The gravel roadways through Illinois have been worked into fine shape and the counties traversed by the Lincoln way are using some 4,000 barrels of cement in building seedling miles.

Iowa needs only legislative authority to begin constructing a hard surface on her section of the Lincoln highway. The road is graded, crowned, drained and dragged in the best possible manner entirely across the state. More than $125,000 has been spent in keeping it up during 1915.

Five sections of concrete work are now under way in Nebraska, including two seedling miles. The North Platte river has been bridged at a cost of $50,000, and permanent concrete bridges and culverts are rapidly replacing the old style wooden structures.

Wyoming has no hard surfaced portion of the Lincoln highway, but has spent about $200,000 in maintenance on the route during the year. Sweetwater county alone, with 152 miles of Lincoln highway and a population of but 12,000, has expended $100,000 on its upkeep.

In Utah and Nevada, states of tremendous area and sparse population, a splendid effort has been put forth in improving the Lincoln highway. Over $75,000 has been spent and a vast amount of road work done voluntarily by the ranchers living along the course, so deep is their interest in the Lincoln highway cause.

The Lincoln highway in California is in practically boulevard condition, the perfect road adding the last necessary touch to the complete enjoyment of the transcontinental trip.

The systematic completion of the highway system in California depends on the outcome of the new $15,000,000 bond issue proposed by the legislature at the session early this year, and which is to be voted on in November, 1916, according to a recent statement by Charles D. Blaney, chairman of the California highway commission. The $18,000,000 bond issue of 1910 will be insufficient to finish the work, as $9,000,000 of this sum has already been expended, $7,500,000 will be taken up either by contracts already let or for road construction in counties which have bought bonds, and the remainder will be required to cover other contracted work and the running expenses on the work now in hand.

Memphis, Tenn.—Members of the Memphis-to-Bristol highway commission have made their first official inspection trip. This commission is composed of James Palmer, president; C. C. Gilbert, secretary, and Jere Whitson, J. J. Murray, secretary of the state highway department, and Gillespie Adams, publicity man. All members of the party praised the work accomplished during the four years the Memphis-to-Bristol highway has been under construction. The official route of the Memphis-to-Bristol highway traverses twenty-three counties and seventy-two of the towns and cities of importance in these counties.

The executive committee of the American Road Builders' association, acting under authority granted it by the board of directors has decided to accept the invitation of the city of Pittsburgh to hold its annual convention there. The dates set are Feb. 22-25, 1916. In order to supply facilities, the Pittsburgh city council recently appropriated funds to put Mechanical hall of the exposition building in shape for the convention. The building is located in the downtown district, on Duquesne way, and is easily accessible to the leading hotels.

Ottawa, Canada—Much interest is being shown, especially by farmers and automobilists, in the forthcoming modern stone highway from Ottawa south sixty miles to the international St. Lawrence river boundary. The road is to cost $600,000 and will be built as a memorial to the late Hon. J. P. Whitney, premier of Ontario. Beginning with preliminary surveys, the Ottawa-St. Lawrence government road will probably be started in the spring of 1916. The road is intended to accommodate both farm and automobile traffic between Canada and the United States and, with the good roads lines of New York state, will tie New York city to the Canadian capital.

St. Paul, Minn.—Expenditures in Minnesota in 1915 on work for better roads will amount to more than $3,000,000, thousands of dollars more than the record of 1914, according to George W. Cooley, secretary and state engineer of the highway commission. Every county in the state has participated to some extent in this movement for a betterment of highways. State road aid distributed so far this year amounts to $750,000 on both state and county roads, for construction and maintenance. Before the end of the year this will have reached $1,500,000. The remainder of the $3,000,000 total is being expended by counties and villages.

——"SILVERTOWN Tires"

GOODRICH SAFETY TREAD

WE can't produce "Silvertown" Tires as fast as the Market now calls for them.

This because the intricate Machinery required in the spinning of the two Cable-Cords—their percolation under enormous pressure with Hyper-Rubber,—the cross laying of the two layers of Cable-Cord over each other so as to secure precisely the same tension on each strand—all the special Machinery for this had not only to be made, but invented.

Owing to demands upon the facilities of every big Machine Shop in America, at present, for War-Materials, we are unable yet to have these newly invented Silvertown Machines built in large enough quantities to make more than one "Silvertown" Tire for every four the Country now clamors for.

THIS Advt. is therefore chiefly intended as an Explanation to Consumers and Dealers, who want "Silvertowns" and can't yet obtain them.

It is also intended to help the situation by putting out a new Goodrich Fabric Tire with the same BLACK Rubber Tread as has distinguished Silvertown Tires.

The appearance is almost identical with that of the "ARISTOCRATIC" Silvertowns, and the material used in the Treads, is practically the same.

No increase in the price of Goodrich Tires will be made because of that smart Black Tread distinctiveness, and "Silvertown" expression.

This, in accord with the fixed policy of the B. F. Goodrich Co. (which pioneered practically every big improvement in Rubber, or Tire Manufacture, during the past decade)—viz: to give Maximum Value to Consumers first of all, and then trust to resulting Volume for satisfactory dividends.

IT is now more than 20 years since the B. F. Goodrich Co. brought out the first "Cord Tire" (for Bicycles) viz:—the Palmer Cord Tire.

And it is many years since it first brought out the original Silvertown Cord Tire,—(the only genuine "Cord" Tire for Automobiles).

That it practically withdrew the first genuine "Cord" Auto Tire from the Market, until the "Silvertown" PRINCIPLE had been brought up to the Goodrich STANDARD of Mileage, Safety, and Value to Consumers, is a matter which concerns your CONFIDENCE in all Goodrich Products and Promises.

Please note that Goodrich Tires henceforth—the Fabric construction as well as the Cord "Silvertowns"—will have handsome BLACK Treads.

The Metropolitan Park Commission of Massachusetts has at last let down the bars to Bay state motorists so that now they can motor through the Blue Hills reservation. This means that motorists may cut off detours of from five to ten miles when going to and from the south shore, as well as throwing open a fine road through one of the most scenic sections of Eastern Massachusetts.

ROBERG-BROWN CO. TO WORK MEACHAM MINE

Crosby, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. G. A. Anderson of the Rogers-Brown Ore company announces that the Meacham mine will reopen. Practically all the mines on this north range are in operation and a great many drills are at work. Prospects for exceptionally good times on the Cuyuna range have never looked better.

OPEN MEETING OF POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The Duluth Poultry association will hold an open meeting Monday evening at the Duluth Commercial club, which all persons interested in poultry-raising are invited to attend.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 o'clock. Judge George W. Hackett and Prof. N. E. Chapman will be the principal speakers. Plans for the annual poultry show to be held early this winter are rapidly being completed. Directors of the association expect this show to exceed all former shows.

FIRE INSURANCE RATE FIXED FOR ELEVATORS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under an order issued today by S. D. Works, state insurance commissioner, country elevators and their contents will hereafter pay for fire insurance on a basis of $1 for elevators operated by steam power and 75 cents for elevators operated by horse, electric and gas power.

The order is directed at the General Inspection company of Minneapolis and becomes effective Dec. 20.

WILL NOT REGULATE CARRYING FIREARMS

Duluth's proposed "gun-toting" ordinance will not regulate the carrying of firearms.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, said this morning that the section compelling persons to obtain permits for carrying guns and revolvers will be stricken out when the measure comes up for a vote next Monday afternoon. Only the section requiring storekeepers to obtain licenses for the sale of the firearms and the keeping of a complete record of each sale will be retained, he said. Boys under 18 years of age will be barred from buying guns of any kind, but will be able to carry them, according to the ordinance in its revised form.

Mayor Prince will introduce the resolution accepting the offer of John H. Darling to erect a $6,000 astronomical observatory on the public playgrounds at Ninth avenue west and Third street.

The ordinance classifying the city's civil service will be introduced, if the final draft of the measure is decided on at the special conference of the city commissioners next Monday morning.

The appointment of J. W. Schneider as the city electrical inspector under the new ordinance, which becomes effective Tuesday, will be confirmed by the commissioners.

The ordinances appropriating $4,000 for the maintenance of the new armory; $1,043 for the state examiners in preparing the city's report, $750 for filling in underneath the Lincoln park bridge and $635 for a smokestack for the incinerator plant, will come up for passage.

CASWELL WILL BE CUMMINS MANAGER

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4. — Senator Albert J. Cummins of Iowa today announced that he had selected Irving Caswell of Minneapolis as his representative in Minnesota to push his candidacy for the presidency in that state.

A petition was received at the department of justice today indorsing Charles A. Quist of Minneapolis for the United States marshalship for Minnesota to succeed William H. Grimshaw. The indorsement was in the form of a resolution adopted at a meeting of Democratic lawyers in Minneapolis recently. Marshal Grimshaw's term expires Dec. 19 and Quist is the first avowed candidate whose claims have been submitted to the department of justice.

British Retreat.

London, Dec. 4, 3.20 p. m.—The British army in Mesopotamia is in retreat. Official announcement was made today that the forces of Gen. Townshend were retiring to Kut-el-Amara.

MANY TUBERS TO BE SHOWN

Fine Exhibit Promised at N. M. D. A. Meeting Next Week.

At the potato exhibit and contest that will be held at Bemidji next Thursday and Friday in connection with the annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association it is developing that there will be a large exhibit aside from those tubers entered in the contest. Over 250 such exhibits have already been registered, and some of the finest products of the northern end of the state will be shown.

For the contest proper a fine list of premiums has been furnished and, according to reports from those in charge of the matter, there will be many contestants. It is expected that the contest will be one of the best that has taken place anywhere in the state.

During the two days that the annual meeting will be held, there will also be held the first annual poultry show of the Beltrami County Poultry association, for which attractive prizes have been offered.

As to the meeting of the N. M. D. A. itself, there is every indication that the attendance will surpass that of all former meetings of the association and that more matter of greater importance than usual will come up for discussion and solution.

Rural Credits Important.

One of the chief things that will be brought up will be the matter of rural credits on which a committee appointed at Coleraine last summer will report. This committee consists of C. R. Middleton of Baudette, E. Dana Durand of the state farm school at St. Paul and Fred B. Myers of Duluth. They have held two meetings recently and will hold another before the meeting of the association. The question has been gone into exhaustively and it is expected that the committee will have some valuable suggestions to make.

Another thing that will hold the interest of those attending the meeting will be the beginning of the campaign for amendment No. 1, to be submitted at the next general election. This amendment is that authorizing the state legislature to provide a revolving fund with which to clear and develop state lands and otherwise aid settlers in the northern part of the state. The amendment was voted on at the last state election but failed of passage because of lack of information, it is believed, and also from the fact that it was "buried" among the many amendments offered the voters to pass on.

Wont Be Buried Again.

To prevent its being "buried" next time, the delegates to the meeting at Coleraine last summer courted Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, who was on the trip, and who assigns the position of such things on the ballot. Mr. Schmahl, in a speech pledged himself to see that the revolving fund amendment would be at the head of the list on the next ballot, and therefore it is referred to as amendment No. 1.

Numerous other things of interest and importance will be reported on at the meeting next week, and a program is offered which promises some interesting and instructive papers and speeches. Bemidji is preparing for elaborate entertainment, and it is expected that aside from transacting the important business to come up, the delegates will have a pleasant visit at the Beltrami county capital.

WILSON'S NAME FILED.

To Be Placed on Nebraskan Primary Ballot for President.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 4.—The name of Woodrow Wilson as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination was filed here yesterday to be placed on the Nebraska primary ballot in 1916. The petition was signed by local Democrats, among them P. L. Hall, Democratic national committeeman from Nebraska.

Charles Bryan, mayor of Lincoln and brother of W. J. Bryan, former secretary of state, refused to sign the Wilson petition when invited to do so. He said that he did not wish to embarrass the president, but if the petitioners would wait until he communicated with Mr. Wilson he might sign.

The name of Governor Moorhead of Nebraska headed the list of signers.

BRAINERD'S $6,000 FIRE.

Two-Story Frame Building Burns, Sleeping Men Barely Escaping.

Brainerd, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire believed to have started from the furnace early this morning gutted the two-story frame building of Fred A. Farrar, valued at $6,000, with insurance of $3,000. The heaviest loser was the Sugar Bowl, owned by William Kontos and associates, a candy kitchen valued at over $5,000, and stock, which were badly damaged by fire and water. Men sleeping on the second floor were with difficulty rescued in the smoke.

Forks' Elks Memorial.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. E. Wheeler of Minneapolis will deliver the memorial address at the annual Lodge of Sorrow of the Grand Forks lodge of Elks tomorrow. During the last four years four members died: T. W. Neville, W. E. Handy, Emmet Pew and F. J. Kelly.

Aged St. Paul Woman Dies.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—Mrs. J. G. A. Spear, died here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Trenholm, Thursday night. She was 95 years old. Mrs. Spear was born in Maine and came to St. Paul in 1880. She was a charter member of the New England Colony of Women in St. Paul.

Duluthian Gets Damages.

Brainerd, Minn., Dec. 4.—In the condemnation case of the Northern Pacific Railway company vs. Peacock et al, a jury in the district court returned a verdict awarding Charles Neimeyer of Duluth $1,550 and the Rogers-Brown Ore company nothing.

Admits Being Bigamist.

Hurley, Wis., Dec. 4.—John Greenwood of Saxon pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy in municipal court here this week and was bound over to circuit court. It is alleged he has one wife at Saxon and another at Marinette.

MORDEN BEATS ALL RECORDS

Canadian Steamer Takes Greatest Grain Cargo Ever Loaded.

On Monday what is claimed to be the greatest cargo of grain ever taken out of any harbor, in one steamer, left Fort William, Ont., when the longest steamer on the Great Lakes, the W. Grant Morden, cleared with 627,000 bushels of grain, of which 428,000 was oats, and 199,000 wheat.

In the twenty-four hours ended at midnight Tuesday night, the close of the first period of navigation, thirty-one steamers cleared for the East with the unexampled total of 7,484,000 bushels of grain, beating the former record of twenty-four hours by 3,484,000 bushels. Of the 7,484,000 bushels shipped, 6,574,000 bushels were wheat and the balance of oats and other grain.

Below is a list of the ships which cleared Port Arthur and Fort William Tuesday, with their destinations and the amount of their cargoes in bushels. They were all loaded with wheat except the three marked by stars:

ANOTHER VESSEL CHANGES HANDS

Hutchinson & Co. have added the steamer G. A. Tomlinson of the Brown fleet of Buffalo to the fleet handled by them. The Tomlinson is a 9,500-ton ship and was sold for about $350,000.

The steamer Tomlinson is a 504-foot keel ship, 54 feet beam and 30 feet deep, and is modern in every way, having arch construction, side tanks, and 9-foot hatches spaced to 24-foot centers. She was turned over to Hutchinson & Co., and will become part of the fleet of the Pioneer Steamship company.

One large boat deal that has been pending for several days apparently fell through. The prospective purchaser offered what seemed at the time to be a satisfactory price for the ships in the deal and it appeared as if the transaction would be completed, but some of the stockholders decided it was time to raise the price and the prospective purchaser refused to meet the higher figure. It is understood he also called the deal off.

By spring every shipper will have acquired additional tonnage according to the outlook and some are planning on ordering new vessels. It is certain that ore shippers are placing themselves in position to be practically independent of outside tonnage in what would be termed a fair year, and as one shipper said yesterday, "It has come to a point where it is no longer safe to depend on outside tonnage and shippers will not do so. As independent boats are sold to shippers the shippers have less outside tonnage to pick from. The thing gains as it goes along so shippers must continue to add to their fleets to be in a safe position. It is too bad the business is changing so rapidly, but it has gone too far to be avoided."

City of Bangor Aground.

The steamer City of Bangor is reported aground and leaking near Siskiwit bay, north of Isle Royale. The steamer, which is under charter by the Tomlinson company of Duluth, was on her way from Fort William to Duluth to load grain. Two tugs and a lighter from Port Arthur have gone to her assistance.

HIBBING MAY PLACE GREAT FOOTBALL TEAM IN THE FIELD NEXT SEASON

Red Carroll and Judge Brady Go Over Plans for Organizing Crack Eleven With Bill—Plans Considered for $300,000 Park, With Steam Heating Plant.

BY BRUCE.

HIBBING, Minn., Dec. 1.—Dear Archie: I bet you're surprised to read that I am in Hibbing, especially when you saw that the saloons was all closed. I didn't know the saloons was all goin' to be closed, either, Archie. It's just as tough on me as it is on Hibbing. I lost my job buyin' hogs and then I got a job travelin' for a glass ware house in St. Paul. After the saloons closed up here Red Carroll told me that they has more glasses in this town than they can use in the next ten years, allowin' for a reasonable growth in the population, cause the only thing they can use glasses for now is water and ginger ale, and Red says it generally takes quite a long while to get used to a new habit.

I guess, Arch, this is the first letter I wrote you since I was marooned in Superior. The firm felt sorry for me when they learned that I was in Superior and sent me cash for an expense slip that I never thought would go. Archie, them authores ain't the only ones that can write fiction, cause us travelin' salesmen is pretty good ourselves. You got to have plenty of imagination to make up an expense slip that you can show to the boss without makin' him so mad he is liable to insult the stenographer.

Say, Archie, if I don't make good sellin' glasses and jugs then I may come back here next fall and start a football team. Red Carroll says football would go great here next fall 'cause there's nothin' now to keep the gang inside. Red took me over to see Oliver park and it's a regular big league ball yard, Archie, with grass on the infield and drinkin' faucets and about everything else that is expensive.

"The minin' crowd builted that park," says Red. "I think we can get Vic Power interested in this football proposition, 'cause we ain't had no prize fightin on the range since they made the sport legalized in this state, and the gang is just naturally pinin' away for the sheddin' of a little blood.

"Football and big game huntin' is about the only excitin' games we got left now," says Red, and accordin' to the dead and dyin' statistics Archie, Red is right.

Over at the Oliver hotel I meets Vic Power, and Arch, he is sure one good sport. Before he thought he says to me have a drink, Bill, callin' me by my first name just like Red Carroll. One thing I like about these fellows in Hibbing is that they take you right in.

"You forgot," says Red, "that there ain't no drinkin' to be had." Me and Red and Judge Brady, who run a baseball team in connection with a free employment agency, which was why they was a baseball team, saunters over to the cigar stand of the hotel.

"Let's Have Gum."

"Let's have some gum," says Red, and we all took one. Pretty soon the judge was tellin' me about Jerry Edmunds throwin' three Eveleth guys out at second, and all of a sudden he says, "lets have another one."

Well, Archie, we stood there leaning against the newsstand a talkin'. Every once in a while Red would lift his foot up and then put it down suddenly and then he would shift over to the other foot.

"Give us another one," said Red, "make mine Spearmint this time."

"How about this football team?" says Judge Brady. "Red has been sayin' something about you used to play in college. Do you think we could start a team up here. If Duluth would put $500 in a bank down there and get the president of the bank to sign the check over to us, we might play the Zenith team next year."

I asked them if it wasn't pretty cold up here in the falls. "You gotta swell park to play in," I says to them.

"If we went in for football," says the judge, "the chances is that we would construct a new park."

"How much would you figure on spendin' for a park," I says, for I was interested in the way they took hold of this football proposition.

"Well," said the Judge, and he shut one eye and sort of made a calculation, "we ain't gettin' as much from the minin' companies as we used, and if the park is goin' to cost over $250,000, why maybe we better stick to baseball."

Say, Arch, you could have knocked me down with one of them empty chewin' gum papers that we had scattered over the floor around the newsstand.

"You sure go about things in a big way up here," I says to them.

"Well," says Red, we can't go so strong as we used, 'cause the minin' companies kicked agin' us competin' agin' Chicago, St. Louis and other leadin' cities, but when we does things you will find, Bill, that we does them right."

Then Judge Brady cuts in and says.

Heat the Park.

"About this matter of it bein' cold up here, Bill, why I will go over and have the city engineer figure on a plan of having the grand stand and bleachers of the new park piped for steam heat. Maybe that will bring the total cost of the park around the $300,000 mark, but if we go into this thing, why we are goin' to do it right."

"While you gettin' them plans and specificatins made out," says Red, "why get some figures on keepin' the football field from freezin'. Couldn't we run pipes under the ground, judge?"

"How much would you figure a team would cost us?" asked the judge.

I told him Archie that I could get a good team for about $200 a game. I was figurin' on a couple of college guys.

"Hell! We want a real team," says Red. You couldn't get the fellows out to see no cheap team play; we can help you out by puttin' all the players on the pay roll, but we want a regular team."

"Red is right," says the judge. "Northern league baseball wasn't fast enough for Hibbing and we want the best there is in football. Bill, figure on a team that will cost us a couple of thousand a week, 'cause after the saloons has been closed a couple of months we will need something to advertise the town and keep us in the big newspapers."

"Well, I got to go," says the judge.

"Have another one before you leave," says Red. "Try a tutti frutti this time, judge, the last one I had was great."

I may come back here next fall, Archie, 'cause this is the greatest town I ever been in since I broke trainin' down in Ann Arbor. I told Red Carroll what a great town I thought Hibbing was.

"You should seen us when we was right," he says. "We're just convolesing now, Bill, but you can't keep a good little town down. We got a great reputation, and like a red nose, Bill, it cost a lot of money to acquire it."

Red took me around and introduced me to a lot of fellows.

"Meet Bill," he would say. "Meet Bill, Jim. Bill is up here selling jugs and glasses, but he cum too late. Jim works for the city, Bill."

I guess Red introduced me to about ten fellows. Every time he introduced me he would say that Jim or John or Frank worked for the city.

After while me and Red was talkin' alone. "Is there anyone livin' here," I asked him, "that don't work for the city."

"There is a couple of fellows that I knows of,' says Red, "but they ain't in town very much and I don't know just what they does do."

Arch, I guess Minnesota had a great team this year, eh? I guess old Doc Williams has forgiven the Northern Alumni association by this time. Mose Strathern, who got throwed out of football just before a practice game with Northwestern, back in 1904, is doctorin' here. Since he come they have built an addition to the hospital. Walt Rademacher is practin' law.

Well, I got to close. Maybe I will come down to Eau Claire and see you. I understand they don't want Juneau down to Madison no more. Ain't that funny?

"Your lovin' pal,
"BILL."

AZINE KAYOED BY COAST SCRAPPER

Moore Scores in Minneapolis—O'Dowd and Brennan Pretty Bad.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 4.—Good and bad fighting mingled indiscriminately in the fourth show of the Minneapolis Boxing club at the National Guard armory last night.

The main event was a disappointment, and O'Dowd gained the decision solely because he was not as bad as Brennan. O'Dowd endeavored to make a fight of it, but Brennan hung on continually. O'Dowd knocked Brennan to his knees five times in the eighth round, and the latter saved himself by hanging on.

But what O'Dowd and Brennan failed to furnish, the other two ten round contests provided in abundance. Better bouts than the Azine-Moore, and Wallace-Dans goes could not have made to order.

Moore outpointed by the Duluth midget, came back strong in the fourth round and won all the way. In the sixth, after having walloped Azine severely, the San Francisco boy put over a right cross which floored Azine. Jimmy took the count, but stayed down too long and arose to find that he had been counted out. It was probably just as well as Moore seemed to be growing stronger every minute while Azine could not stand the greater punching power of his tough little opponent.

Azine opened up well and gained a margin in the first round, banging a right to Moore's left eye that started the blood and raised a fair sized bump. The second round was as pretty and as viciously fought as any round could be. Azine landed a host of straight lefts to Moore's face, but the coaster kept coming for more and staggered Azine toward the close of the round with a hard right swing. Azine gained a shade in the third and clearly outpointed Moore in the fourth.

Then Moore opened up. Azine stepped into three straight lefts which took Moore less time to land than it takes to tell. That was the beginning of the end. Azine showed plainly that he was weakening and Moore stepped in with a punch that sent Azine to the floor. He took a count of eight when the bell ended the round. Moore was on top of the Duluthian at the gong tap.

It was less than a minute after the round started when the battling Californian slipped over the snappy right that sent Azine down.

Azine's manager asserted after the bout that the boy went into the ring against the advice of his physician. He said Azine had received a serious injury while in gymnasium work.

The scrappers weighed 116 pounds each, according to announcement.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 4.—Harry Stone of New York won the decision over Young Denny of New Orleans at the end of a fast 15-round welterweight bout here last night. Stone's cleverness easily overcame Denny's superiority in height, weight and reach. Stone weighed 136½ and Denny 142 pounds.

HOCKEY PLAYERS HOLD ELECTION

Officers of Duluth Amateur League Chosen for Coming Season.

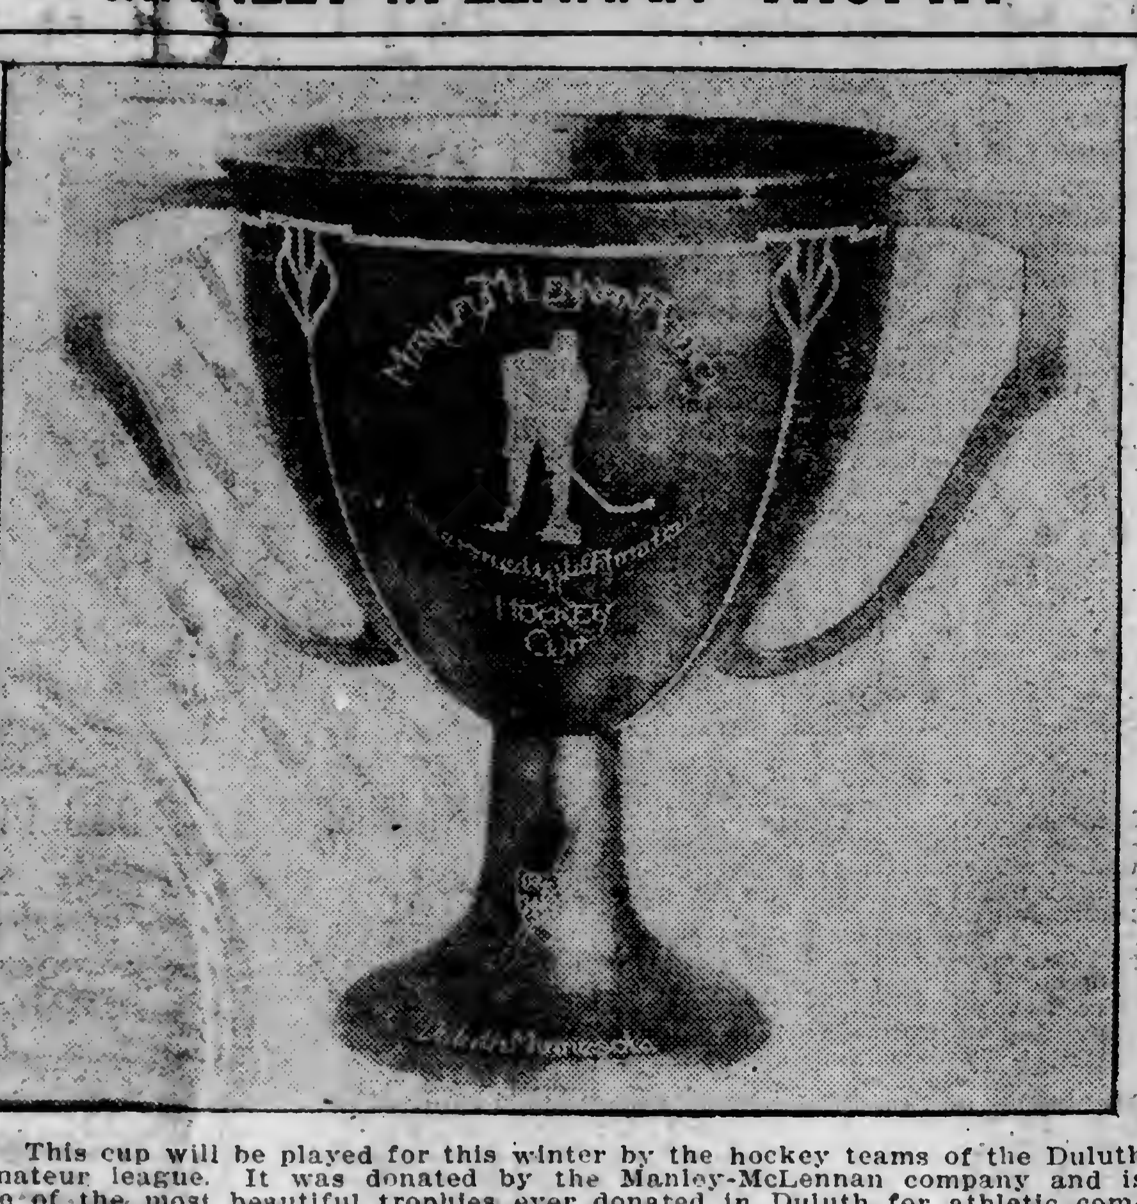
At the meeting of the Duluth Amateur Hockey association held last evening in the curling club rooms, the following officers were elected for the season: Patron, D. B. McDonald; honorary president and treasurer, A. E. Brown; honorary vice presidents, J. E. Ten Eyck, J. E. McGregor, C. E. McLennan; president, Charles Horn; vice president, D. C. Duncan; secretary, F. P. Le Tourneau.

It was decided at the meeting that coupon tickets, selling for $2 apiece, would be issued. These tickets will be good for admission to all the regularly scheduled games of the season. This will bring the price of admission down to the low figure of about 22 cents for each double-header.

The sale of the tickets will begin Monday, and an effort made to dispose of a large number of season admissions.

After the close of the regular season, it is planned to bring Winnipeg and other outside teams here to meet an all-star combination made up of the best players of the league.

MANLEY-M'LENNAN TROPHY



This cup will be played for this winter by the hockey teams of the Duluth Amateur league. It was donated by the Manley-McLennan company and is one of the most beautiful trophies ever donated in Duluth for athletic competition.

FRANK GOTCH SAYS HE DOESN'T WANT TO WRESTLE

In Answer to an Inquiry By The Herald Sporting Editor, the Big Iowa Farmer Declares He Will Be Guided By Wishes of the American Public.

Believing that a number of personal friends of Frank A. Gotch living in Duluth are at least curious regarding the statements to the effect that the big Iowa farmer was coming back to the mat, and believing also that a multitude of followers of Gotch's career would like to have a statement from his own pen, The Herald sporting editor put the question directly to Gotch. Here is his answer. How does it sound to you?

"Humboldt, Iowa, Dec. 2, 1915.

"Dear Bruce:

"Glad to hear from you. In answer to your inquiry, will say I don't believe there is any public sentiment for me to come back, and I am certain that there is no desire on my part.

"What could be gained by such an act? If I won the public would say that another victim had been built up for Frank Gotch. If I lost, well, it would be just another Jeffries affair.

"Every dollar I have, every acre of land I own, I owe to the good will of the American public (except $6,300 I got over in England). I haven't greed enough for money to have the public see some tough young fellow take a couple of falls out of me. I don't say anyone could, but Hackenschmidt didn't think anyone could beat him, either.

"To conclude, if it is the wish of said public that I should go out and wrestle another match, with me at my present time in life (39, April 27, 1916), money would not enter into this matter whatever, and I don't think the good, old dyed-in-the-wool wrestling fans would ask me to come back. The question is not for me to answer. I at least should respect the wishes of the aforementioned public, and I honestly think it would be the last thing they should ask of me. Mrs. Gotch and myself go to California after Christmas for about three or four months.

'With very best wishes to you and all your friends, I remain ever your old friend,

"FRANK A. GOTCH."

BAN ON SUMMER BALL WILL STICK

Big Nine Faculty Committee Likely to Do Nothing With Rule.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Odds last night were against action calculated to do away with the summer baseball rule at the meeting of the Big Nine faculty committee here today. Opponents to the rule, it was said, have not been able to muster enough votes to overcome the sentiment in favor of its retention. The question of prohibition under rules against professionalism in athletics, taking summer jobs with golf clubs, may be brought up, though few athletes of prominence, it is said, would come under such a ban.

Conference representatives express themselves against adding more institutions to the nine now composing the conference.

Dates and places for the annual indoor and outdoor meets probably will be set and the election of a president to succeed Prof. Pye of Wisconsin, secretary to succeed P. F. Moran of Purdue is on the program.

John Small is slated to be the next president and it is expected that Prof. Moran will succeed himself.

New York Dec. 4.—Representatives of Yale, Harvard and Princeton universities met here last night to effect a common agreement on the rules covering the eligibility of athletes in intercollegiate contests. None of the twenty men attending the meeting would discuss the proceedings, which will be continued today, when it is expected an announcement will be made.

The conference, the first of its kind among the universities in ten years, is believed to have resulted from the action of Yale in disbarring five of her prominent athletes from intercollegiate competition because they had accepted fees for playing summer baseball.

COMPETITION BEST WAY TO ACQUIRE GOLF SKILL

All Articles on the Game and All Advice, Says Well Known Professional Player, Are Not Equal to Actual Competition on the Links, Where Real Game Is Learned.

New York, Dec. 4.—The literature on the game of golf, how to play it, and all about the history connected with the sport, is growing by leaps and bounds. The reason is the demand, of course, although in many communities even yet there is a great disinclination to cater to the wants of the golf players. Surely it ought to be apparent to every local publisher that the time is come when the printing of real golf news and comment awakens those feelings of satifaction which will give popularity and credit where they rightfully belong, writes John G. Anderson in the Sun. Golf fiction will be more than ever popular among all classes and greater attention will be paid to the bits of verse, written as merry conceits, by some talented newspaper poets of the day.

But in all the writing this year there has been a superabundance of advice as to how to play the game and correct faults. Syndicate articles have been written which have covered a large field. I do not doubt that some have been helped by the advice as showered, but there is a wonderful room for improvement. We are still on the hunt for a safe, sane and conservative series of articles which will help the business man of today who plays but a few times a week, perhaps only once or at the most twice, and who can spend only an hour a week in reading how he should play the game. All that has been written up to date with few exceptions has needed a brain of an expert to unravel. The man who has ordinary intelligence can understand all the English of the case, it is true, but there is hardly a golfer in the land, certainly not over one in a thousand, who will care to take a book out and fashion his strokes from the reading and the pictures thereof. It is done and I know of two men who have tried this very thing, but neither will ever get a handicap below 15.

Coaching Best Way.

Actual observation means a hundred times more than anything written, and a lesson by a compete professional does more good than fifty lectures on the subject. And it is a surprise to find that the professionals of this land are taking the teaching of the game seriously and realizing as they never have before the absolute necessity of becoming well versed in the analysis of what is needed for the individual, each being recognized as presenting a slightly different case one from the other, with personal whims and actions and physical ailments and shortcomings which must be humored and favored in a tactful and reasonable manner.

A golfer may sit at home and affirm, as many do, that he sees what is wrong with his game after reading an article or two on golf, but he seldom gets the hoped-for results. It is the actual lesson which brings that. And I think that few people would deny that in the cases where some good does come it rarely gets its start in the 2,000 or 3,000 word articles. Seven hundred words given out 100 a day is much better than 700 in one day. The men who need golf lessons the most from the printed sheet, if the other is impracticable, are not the golf bugs who can sit down and study out the problems involved, but the business men who have little time.

Horace Hutchinson was the best of the first well known writers and he wrote stuff which was accorded the finest of praise in those days because he cleverly analyzed the system of the best players of that time, and being one of those players and having the then orthodox style it was an easy matter for him to do so. But now not a single golfer in the land would come forward and stand for all the methods which he preached, particularly the right elbow being raised away up even above the head in the stroke, either with the iron or the wooden clubs.

Styles Change.

In his day the club shaft was permitted to rest on the shoulder, first on the right back swing and then on the left on the follow through. This style of play has gone out of fashion.

Braid and Vardon in their later works either contradict or take back what they have said in many portions of their former volumes, showing that even the greatest of them all, so far as links excellence is concerned, can change their minds with the greatest of ease and in a short time about how the game should be played. We should be wary, therefore, about swallowing all that is written as being the last word in instruction. As long as there are so many ways of getting the strokes made in the wrong way there will be no such thing.

For teaching everybody how to play the game there is, I should venture, no one right way which can be put on the printed page. Personally, I always enjoy reading the articles which are printed on how to play the game when the writer is modest enough to say that the believes that he has found a help to the game which will aid many, but most assuredly not all golfers; that what is written down is the result of the study of certain men whose play may be copied by others if already their own style has embryonic symptoms near the style of the given example.

I have little patience with any one who dares to tell all the golfers of this and other lands that he has found the medium whereby all may enter into the land of the golf blessed through conformity to the rules which he lays down for them. It is absolutely impossible for any man to put into the English or any or all languages combined a statement which will mold a style for all.

CURLING OFF; BAD WEATHER

Both Skating and the Scotch Game Opening Postponed.

There will be neither curling nor skating at the Duluth Curling club this evening.

An unfeeling weather man, the horrid creature, went and spoiled it all. Dash him!

Up to an early hour this morning the ardent curlers had hoped against dwindling hope, that there would be some curling. As the Lakeside cocks began to crow, the ardent curlers retired to their respective downy cots, disgusted; disappointed and using language that is barred from the public schools.

There are about eighteen rinks registered. It is expected that many more will register with the games committee just as soon as the weather man decides to be decent.

Little Artie Michaud has gone on record with the declaration that his rink will lead all others with a percentage of .1000. Arthur's crazy, poor fellow.

It is believed that curling will start some time next week. It is not expected that an official draw will be made until after the middle of the month.

MISKE SHADES TERRY KELLAR

Kid Billings Has the Better of Steve Gardner of Duluth.

At the Grand Opera house in Superior last evening Billy Miske of St. Paul earned a shade over Terry Kellar, Kid Billings beat Steve Gardner. Marty Rowan won from Billy Hart, a St. Paul youngster in ring affairs, and Steamer Bill Scott beat Red Cole. All of the bouts with the exception of that between Scott and Cole were 10-round affairs, the preliminary being but for four rounds.

Gardner entered the ring with a bad left arm. In boxing with Pal Brown last Wednesday the Duluth boy tore a ligament loose from the bone. Dr. Lepak wanted Steve to call off the fight, but the local boxer was game enough to go through with it.

Kellar and Miske put up a great fight and indulged in pure and unadulterated slugging all the way through. Miske surprised the Head of the Lakes fans by his remarkably good showing.

Billings gave Gardner a good lacing in the seventh round. Gardner had one round, in which he shook up the Billings entry several times with solid rights. The fight was fast all the way through.

BIDS FOR MEETING.

St. Paul Hockey Club Wires Request to President of A. A. H. A.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 4. — Special to The Herald.) — The St. Paul Hockey club has wired President Webb of the American Amateur Hockey association, Houghton, a request for permission to enter the St. Paul and Minneapolis league and asking that the annual meeting of the association be held in one of those cities this fall.

Calumet, Houghton, the Sault and Duluth made up the Western branch of the association last winter. Calumet, the Sault, St. Paul and Minneapolis have already organized for the coming season.

WELSH FAILS TO REPLY TO BIG OFFER

Denver, Colo., Dec. 4.—Denver business men, who offered a purse of $15,000 for a match between Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, and Charlie White of Chicago here in January next, announced last night they could make no further efforts to consummate the match. The announcement said no word had been received from Welsh or his manager, Harry Pollock, up to noon, the time limit for acceptance.

"From now on," a statement by the business men concludes, "overtures must come from the boxers and a reopening of our offer depends on the fairness of the business methods by which we are approached."

HARRY STOUT TO LIVE IN DULUTH

Well-Known Milwaukee Referee Buys Interest in Athletic Club.

"Silk Shirt" Harry Stout of Milwaukee yesterday afternoon bought a half partnership in the saloon and athletic club of Harry Smith. In the future the well-known Milwaukee referee will have charge of the Zenith Athletic club.

Stout announced last evening that the club will be remodeled into one of the best athletic clubs in the Middle West.

Also, it might be stated, that Harry added that he is going to make his future home in Duluth. He will bring his well-known taxicab along with him, his large collection of silk shirts and a scrap book. All celebrities have them.

Amateur bouts will be conducted at the Zenith Athletic club under A. A. U. rules, it was stated.

KELLEYS WIN; ALSO NORTHERNS

Fenton-Dubys and Northern Electrics Beaten at Basket Ball.

Last evening the Kelley Hardware basket ball team scored a win over the Fenton-Duby quintet by the score of 23 to 18. The game was a regularly scheduled one of the Commercial league.

The Northern Hardware team had little difficulty in winning from the Northern Electric team, as the score of 30 to 6 indicates.

The lineup and scores:

PLAYERS' FRATERNITY PROVES SUCCESSFUL

New York, Dec. 4.—The Baseball Players' fraternity, according to the third annual report, issued yesterday by David T. Fultz, its president, has more than 1,100 members. The report says conditions are favorable for the extension of the fraternity's activities, as all clubs of the major leagues, the American association and the Pacific coast league are represented in it.

"The fraternity agreement, entered into last January, has been of great assistance to the players and has been lived up to fairly by the big league magnates," says the report. "The agreement has been very helpful to the minor leagues."

The results of requests made to the national commission and the national board as authorized by the last meeting were: National commission—Four denied, three granted, one withdrawn, one pertained solely to a minor league. National board—Seven denied, one granted, one granted in part.

The fraternity also has been used, the report says, as an intermediary between the player and the owner.

NEW BILLIARD RECORD.

Alfred De Oro Establishes High Run at Three-Cushion Game.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Alfred De Oro established a new world's record at three-cushion billiards last night when he ran 50 points in 35 innings. The previous record was 36 innings for the 50 points, made by Frank Day of New Orleans, in a match with De Oro at St. Louis in 1907.

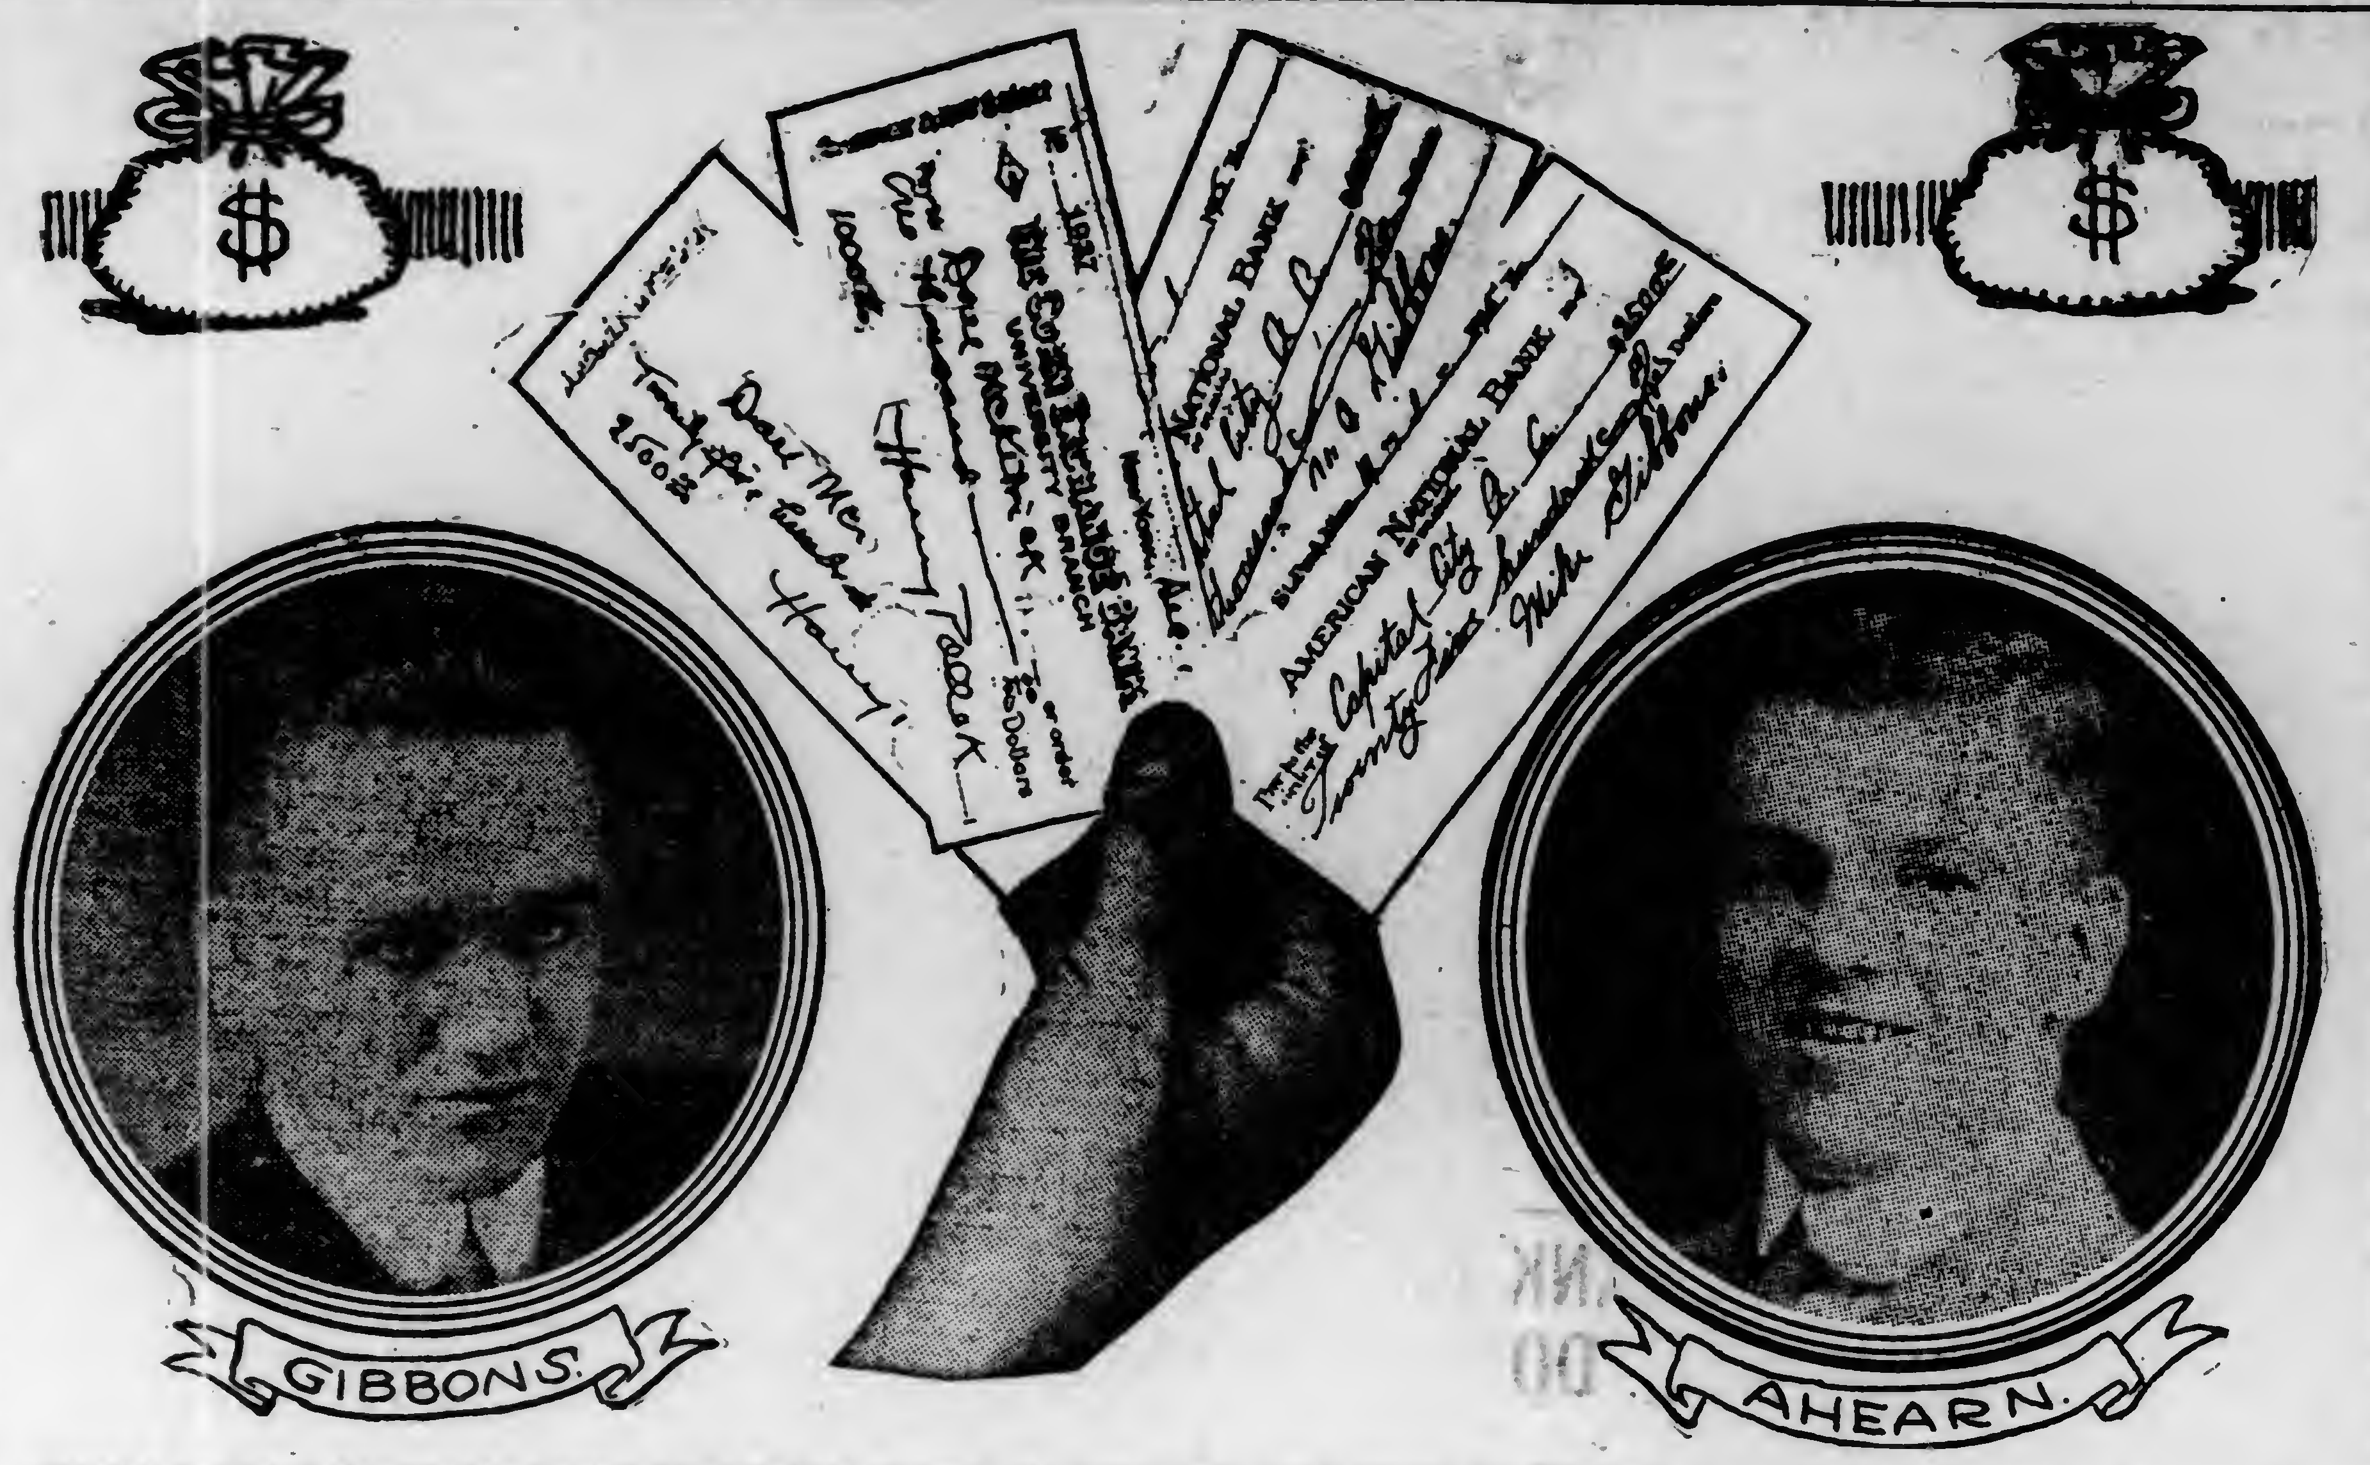
De Oro's record was made in the second block of his match with August Kieckhefer. The latter scored 35 points in 34 innings. The match began Thursday, and the totals for the two blocks are De Oro, 100; Kieckhefer, 63.

GOLF COURSE WORK TAUGHT AT U. OF I.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Golf course construction has been added to the studies at the University of Illinois, which is believed to be the first of the leading educational institutions to adopt such a plan. Tom Bendalow has been engaged as instructor.

"It is not surprising that golf links construction has been taken up by a university," Bendalow said. "The laying out of links has become an important art and there are not sufficient experts in the field to supply the demand. This has been an unusually busy year in this calling."

REAL FIGHTERS AND REAL MONEY



Here's a picture of Matchmaker Edward Bersell's hand showing the forfeit checks for the Mike Gibbons-Young Ahearn fight to be held in St. Paul Dec. 10.

The four checks, two of Mike Gibbons' and two of Dan McKetrick's, manager of Young Ahearn, represent $7,000. Of this $2,500 represents the amount put up by each to be forfeited in case he does not make the specified weight of 158 ringside. The other $1,000 is for appearance.

This big fight, which will settle the middleweight championship, carries with it a purse of $10,000, which is to be split in half. Mike Gibbons is guaranteed $5,000 and Ahearn is guaranteed a like amount.

PRETTY CONTEST ON IN MAJOR BOWLING LEAGUE

Sharkcrafts and Oak Halls Tied for First Place, With Big Duluths and Elcoras Even in Second Place—Burns Leads the Individual Bowlers.

Present week bowling in the Major league circle finds the Sharkcrafts and Oak Halls tied for first place, with the Big Duluths and Elcora team also tied up for second place. At this stage of the game the race is one of the prettiest in the history of the league.

One of the surprises of the passing week was the defeat of the Big Duluths in two out of three games on the part of the Columbias. The Columbias took the first game by four pins and the last by fifty pins. The Columbias have been considerably strengthened and look like a formidable aggregation.

Nearly all of the teams are evenly matched and from this stage of the race to the completion of the Major league schedule it is expected that the fight for places will be very keen.

Foster of the Sharkcrafts made the best individual showing during the present week, getting 649 for three games, also getting the high individual one game score with a count of 242. Burns of the Oak Halls heads the individual average with a mark of 199.

Olson of the Oak Halls and Deller of the Elcoras are tied for second place in the individual standings with a count of 193.

During the present week there were thirty-three scores over the 200 mark, which is some bowling.

S. OF V. CAMP ADDS TO MEMBERSHIP

Fifteen Mustered in; Banquet Follows and Notables Make Addresses.

Sons of Veterans Camp, No. 5, mustered in a class of about fifteen members last evening with impressive ceremonies at Memorial hall, courthouse. The affair was in charge of E. F. Heller, past department commander, and was witnessed by representatives of the Willis A. Gorman and J. B. Culver posts, G. A. R. Present also was a large delegation from Garfield circle, Ladies of the Grand Army.

A banquet was served at 10 o'clock after which there was a program of speaking. Among those who made addresses were I. Benshoff of Detroit, Minn., department commander; Mrs. Myrtle Stewart, division president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans; Mrs. Anna Luxon, president of the Garfield Circle, and James A. Wharton, chief advocate of the auxiliary.

MODERN SWASHBUCKLER, WAS THE GREAT SHEVLIN

Picturesque Personality, Was the Famous Yale End; Was One of the Most Widely Known College Characters That the New Haven School Ever Turned Out.

Brooklyn, Dec. 4.—It seems only the other day, although it must have been a good dozen years ago, that a sturdily built youngster wandered into one of the Fifth avenue hotels in Manhattan, and, going into the dining room, started to order a hearty lunch. Notwithstanding the fact that he was square chinned and heavily built and dressed rather out of the ordinary, the youngster might have passed unnoticed had it not been for the fact that he carried a most beautiful "shiner" on one eye.

That eye, together with his general build, his flashy clothes and his loud manner, created comment, and one stylishly dressed woman told the head waiter that she never again would patronize the hotel, as it allowed prizefighters to use the dining room. The head waiter had to explain that the youngster with the discolored optic was not a knuckle pusher, but a harmless student at Yale.

Those who are familiar with Tom Shevlin never would call him harmless, says the Eagle. In his looks and in his bearing and in his behavior, the former Yale captain was the living embodiment of all that is traditional of Eli athletics. They don't breed such men at New Haven these days, and that is why there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in the quaint little Connecticut college town.

A New Haven Portrait.

Speaking of Tom Shevlin, the New Haven Register has the following to say:

There is no questioning the statement that Tom Shevlin was a bit wild during his four years' sojourn in the Elm City. On the football field, at Morey's, in the dormitories, in the swell cafes of New York, Ole Tom went into everything with vim and vigor, and he lived his college life to the full.

He is credited with having spent more money than any undergrad ever spent in the course of a year, $17,000 being the figure given. He bought everything—flowers, taxicabs, autos (they were just coming in when Tom was in college), clothes (and such clothes!), jewelry, canes, dinners, and their accompaniments—there wasn't a thing that was untouched by Tom's versatile and seemingly bottomless purse.

His father was a wealthy lumber merchant of the Middle West, and it apparently didn't make any difference just how much or how little son Thomas economized.

One thing Tom did with his money that has made him remembered with kind words and good wishes. He helped many a poor fellow, struggling to get an education, with money and other gifts, and he did it all anonymously. Not until long after Tom's leaving college did it come out that he had been the donor of many hundreds of dollars to less fortunate classmates.

Helped Many Poor Students.

A poor fellow would be worrying about the time term bills were due, as to how he was to raise the wherewithal to meet them. In the morning he would find, say, $100 on his desk, with no clew as to who put it there. It was a long time after, if at all, that he would be able to trace the nameless gift to big, burly, blustering, ballyhooing Tom Shevlin.

His charities were the only things about him that Tom didn't brag about. About everything else, his name, his football ability, his money, his capacity, Tom was some bragger. Not in an offensive way, you understand, but in a big, broad Elizabethan, swashbuckling way. People knew it was part of Tom's makeup, and they accepted it.

"Nobody ever made a run around my end all the time I was in college," is one statement attributed to him—and it has never been called in question. No one but a crazy man would ever try it, once he looked into Tom's demoniac face as he pranced and snorted on the field, spitting on his hands, tearing his hair and saying, "Come on, you low-down, knock-kneed and-so-forth, just you dare to try to get around me! I'll murder you!"

Those were the grand old days of football, when men played it, instead of having boys play at it. Tom was chosen for Walter Camp's all-American team, three out of the four years he was in college, missing out only in his sophomore year.

Great Coach of Ends.

It is as a coach of ends that Tom has made his reputation. He brought back the Minnesota shift from the West in 1910, when, after Ted Coy's ghastly failure with Fred Daly's team, he was sent for on a hurry call, as he has been this year. He whipped that team in shape until it trimmed Princeton 5 to 3, and tied Harvard's mighty line-plowing aggregation, with Wendell, Corbett and other man-hammerers in it. But probably the greatest thing, from Tom's standpoint, was that he made Kilpatrick a great, a truly great, end.

"Yes," Tom is quoted as saying of Kil's play in those last two games, "Kilpatrick is undoubtedly the greatest end that ever played the game. But you must remember he had the benefit of my coaching!"

Tom isn't much of a talker on the field; he's an actor. In that familiar heavy Persian lamb lined overcoat, wearing that familiar derby at that rakish angle, carrying that famous cane, with the horseshoe diamond pin in that flashy tie, and smoking that inevitable cigarette, he will run down the field with the varsity ends under kicks, and beat the youngsters in their togs every time. Then he'll get excited, and dressed though he is in top form, will rush right into a scrimmage and show 'em how it should be done, no matter how muddy the field. Practice over, Tom will go back to the Taft and order another suit. He seems to have a new suit of clothes every day.

Didn't Like the Name of Percy.

Just before the Yale-Harvard game of 1911, at the final practice on Yale field before the team left for Auburndale, Tom called the squad together. The Percy Haughton regime was then just coming into being at Cambridge, and Percy Wendell was hammering away at all lines, in the crimson back field. In came the Yale squad, panting, perspiring, expecting to hear some great new play unfolded. This is what happened:

Tom looked them all in the eye and with fire in his tones said:

"There's a man up at Harvard they call Percy ——. I don't like the name!"

And that was all there was to it; that's all he said; whether he meant Haughton or Wendell or both, nobody knows, and nobbody ever will.

Tom struck his one big snag in New Haven when he wasn't tapped for skull and bones, as he, football captain, had every reason to believe he would be. Legend has it that he would go Bones, and that Bones heard of it and decided to give the uppish young junior his lesson. Tom wasn't tapped for anything and the college hasn't stopped talking about it yet. To his credit be it said that, although bitterly disappointed, he came back the next fall and proved a buddy captain, and has always been a loyal Yale man ever since. Some people say that turndown by Bones made a man of Shevlin.

CANADIAN LOAN IS $100,000,000

To Double Amount of Bonds Owing to Enormous Subscription.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—The Canadian domestic war loan has been increased from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. This was announced last night by W. T. White, minister of finance, who had previously announced that subscriptions to the loan had more than doubled the amount desired. Subscriptions to the advertised loan of $50,000,000 now are more than $106,000,000.

The decision to sell the $100,000,000 of bonds, was reached at a conference between Mr. White and large bidders and chartered banks. Agents of the banks applied for $25,000,000 of bonds. All subscribers for blocks of bonds up to $50,000 will be given the entire quantity sought. Subscribers for blocks of more than $50,000 will receive the entire amount asked for, unless they reduce their subscriptions before Dec. 18. Chartered banks will take the balance of the $100,000,000.

Fifty million dollars of the loan will be used in recruiting, equipping and maintaining Canadian soldiers. The other half of the loan will form an imperial treasury credit in Canada to be devoted to the purchase in Canada of munitions and other supplies.

Stage Robber Found Guilty.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 4.—Edward B. Trafton, on trial in the United States district court here on the charge of robbing twenty stage coaches in the Yellowstone national park, July 24, 1914, was found guilty late yesterday. The jury was out less than thirty minutes. Sentence has not yet been imposed.

IS NOW REFORMED FIGHTER

"SILENT" JACK TIERNEY.

Here is a picture of "Silent" Jack Tierney. He started reading newspapers when he was 7 years of age. He became interested in the Boer war and during that feud occasionally glanced at the front page of the various newspapers. Before and since that time Jack admits that he has confined all his reading to the sporting page. Jack was once a fighter. However, he has reformed and now shows others how to fight. Outside of training boxers, rubbing them and reading the sporting pages of various papers, "Silent's" chief amusement consists in writing letters to Jack Dillon.

THE GOOD JUDGE IS SORRY FOR THOSE MEN WHO ARE SLOW TO LEARN.
LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THAT! HE TURNS HIS BACK.
YES, MOST MEN DO UNTIL THEY LEARN THAT THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW SATISFIES WITH LESS THAN ONE-QUARTER THE SIZE CHEW OF ORDINARY TOBACCO.

SOME men are so used to taking a big wad of ordinary tobacco that it seems to be hard for them to remember that W-B CUT Chewing—the Real Tobacco Chew, new cut, long shred—is rich tobacco; that a small chew satisfies.

Tell such men to give it a quality test—to take a small chew and to notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.

Will Be Heard in Recital at Lyceum

FRANZ VON LOEW.

Gustav Flaaten announces the first annual recital of Franz von Loew, head of the piano department of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music and Expression, to be given at the Lyceum theater on Jan. 5, at 8:15 p. m.

Mr. von Loew will be assisted by Tenie Murphy Sheehan, dramatic soprano, of New York and Minneapolis.

A program of standard compositions will be presented, intermingling light and heavy works, the program to be announced later.

Mr. von Loew announces that he will play for the first time in America, as a piano solo, the famous orchestral tone poem, "Les Preludes," by Franz Liszt. This was the last number on the program of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra here and never fails to stir the listener.

Mr. von Loew will divide his program into three parts. One part will be devoted to his own compositions, following the suggestion by John C. Freund, editor of Musical America, in his recent lecture in Duluth, who advocated the representation of American composers on concert programs.

Madame Tenie Murphy Sheehan also announces a varied program, including the great aria from Jules Massenet's opera "Le Cid."

Peggy Peabody's Observations

More Freedom in Matrimony.

Some time ago I read of a bride who committed suicide because she construed her husband's absence into the small hours as an admission of his waning love for her. It is easy to speculate on the kind of life these two would have had together when the absence of a few hours was enough to convince the wife that her husband's love was dead.

I am not upholding the wandering husband, or any man who remains away from home half the night without necessity. Home at a seasonable hour is the place for all men, married or single. But whether a man makes a practice of remaining out at night or does so infrequently to attend some convivial gathering of men friends, it offers little excuse for suicidal intentions on the part of a wife.

I have no patience with the woman who will allow her husband no liberty, no interests and no friendships of his own, aside from those he shares with her. No more have I with a man who wants to tie his wife down to his company and his alone for the remainder of her days.

Men and women so inclined want, as a rule, to usurp all the liberty themselves and make their life partners prisoners to their whims and fancies. This, of course, is inexcusable selfishness. It seems to me the ideal partnership between men and women is that one where each finds the highest enjoyment in the other's company, where interests are merged, sympathies attuned and self vanquished. But even under these desirable conditions, it is but natural that two persons who truly love each other should find happiness and companionship with others of their own sex.

There should be a reasonable amount of freedom allowed both partners in matrimony, for ideal relationship.

Discusses Program of Alice Sjoselius' Concert

(By Mrs. K. A. Ostergren.)

The recital given Monday evening, Nov. 29, by Miss Alice Sjoselius was one of very great interest to the Duluth public, who have followed the career of the young artist, and are looking forward to her greater triumphs in the future. The large auditorium was filled by an appreciative audience, among whom were to be found many of Duluth's most prominent musicians.

The program opened with an old Italian aria, the composer, Astorgo, being one of the school of music that flourished toward the end of the Seventeenth century. The simple dignity of this composition was well sustained by the singer. The second number by Sgamball was a natural sequence of the former, being an example of the Italian school up to date. It has been Miss Sjoselius' desire at some time to build a program consisting largely of music by composers with whom she herself has had the honor of studying. Miss Sjoselius sang to Sgamball in Rome within a year of his death, which occurred in 1914. This beautiful number was sung as a tribute to his memory. Leaving the Italian school, to which Miss Sjoselius' pure tone and simplicity of manner lends itself with great charm the remainder of the first group consisted of some American compositions.

"Love's symphony," by Luckstone, brings out depths of greater feeling and Miss Sjoselius by her response to the demand of the song showed how fully she entered into its genre. Miss Sjoselius studied with Mr. Luckstone in New York eight years ago.

The exquisitely pathetic "Song of the Captive" was written by a composer whom many Duluthians hold in fragrant memory, Gerard Tonning, formerly of this city.

Two little dainty songs by Bartholomew, one of the younger composers, concluded this group. In response to the hearty applause Miss Sjoselius sang a charming little Swedish folk song, "Fogelu po Lindequist."

The second group of songs were exclusively German. In her interpretation of German music Miss Sjoselius shows an insight and freedom from restraint that is undoubtedly due to the wonderful influence of environment, as she seems to have caught the spirit of musical Germany. The Mozart number was without question the great number of the whole program. It was the recitative and aria from the "Marriage of Figaro." Miss Sjoselius has a quality of voice which is most beautifully adapted to the expression of Mozart's pellucid strains. Her high notes, taken without an effort, were like pure pearls, and the quaint atmosphere of the Eighteenth century which permeates Mozart's work was vividly portrayed in the artistic finish of this number.

The Liszt number was well done, the Bruch number with perhaps a shade more of intensity. Max Bruch is a modern composer living in Berlin. He has written a new opera which has not yet been staged. Miss Sjoselius sang for him in Berlin, and he has given her a role in this new opera on which she is working at present. "Das Kraut Vergessenheit" by von Fielity is in an entirely different style, and brought out the versatility of the young artist in her ability to catch the different moods and convey them to her audience. Miss Sjoselius has coached some of her operatic roles with von Fielity.

A Strauss number closed this well balanced group of songs.

Again on demand Miss Sjoselius sang an encore, this time the dainty little song "Bluebell" by MacDowell.

If the group just ended appealed chiefly to those who were glad to judge of Miss Sjoselius' ability to cope with the higher forms of music, the last group most assuredly was given to express the warm love the young singer bears for her own people and their wonderful folk songs. Miss Sjoselius is perfectly at home in this branch of her art, and sang from her own heart to the hearts of her audience. With the exception of the third number by Petre, which song Miss Sjoselius picked up some five years ago in Stockholm, the songs were all old and familiar and had often been given by the artist. But they are of the kind of which one never wearies and will remain with her friends as a treasured remembrance.

Miss Sjoselius was twice recalled, giving as her first encore "Morgon," by Strauss, and secondly the well-known Scotch song, "Loch Lomond."

Miss Sjoselius has a voice of true Scandinavian timbre—such as had Jenny Lind and Nelson. The higher tones are of a purity that bring to your mind the high altitude of the mountain tops. Sincerity and dignity characterize all of Miss Sjoselius' work. Youth and joy, hope and faith are reflected in her personality. With the years will come the deepening of the emotional side of life, and the broadening of the intellectual; and with such a beautiful voice, and such excellent ability to handle this voice, there are immense possibilities in store for the mature artist of the future.

Mrs. F. G. Bradbury at the piano contributed in no small degree to the artistic success of the evening. Mrs. Bradbury can always be depended upon to give adequate support, and make of the piano and voice a perfect ensemble.

Famous Tenor as Tailor's Advertisement

George Hamlin, the American tenor, who will appear here in a recital Dec. 17 at the Endion M. E. church, was once hastening from one engagement to another, when his train ran into a freight and was badly wrecked. Fortunately, the passengers were not injured, though all lost their trunks, as the bagage car was demolished.

Hamlin wired the local manager in the Eastern city for which he was bound to procure a dress suit for him. The manager received the telegram and procured the suit but he miscalculated the size a trifle, and the tenor appeared somewhat lost in the garments. There was no help for it at that late hour, however, and hoping he would pass muster at a distance, Hamlin made his first appearance quite complacently.

This complacence was rudely shattered when the audience greeted him with a distinct titter. The clothes, ill-fitting though they were, did not seem to offer cause for so much merriment, but he understood when he glanced at the program. At the bottom of the first page, he read: "Mr. George Hamlin's dress suit furnished by Blank & Co."

Nursery No Longer Experiment

Many Mothers Patronize Institution at F. A. Patrick Factory; Children Given Lunch and Care for 10 Cents; Matron Praised for Faithful and Efficient Work.

The King's Daughters have issued the following annual report of the day nursery, which they conduct at the F. A. Patrick factory, copies of which will be sent out next week:

"The King's Daughters' day nursery is no longer an experiment, but instead, we feel, an established institution. Established, because it has proved itself to be much needed. Perhaps the best proof of this is the fact that the attendance has increased 66 per cent over that of last year. There are of course other proofs such as the individual cases benefited, but these cannot be measured in percentage.

Purpose to Aid Mothers.

"The nursery was opened in August, 1913. Its purpose is to aid women who are obliged to work away from their homes, by caring for their children during the day. It is open from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. every day except Sunday. A few of 10 cents is charged the mothers for which the children receive a substantial lunch beside care throughout the day. This sum is reduced when there are two or more children from one family or when an extra car fare must be paid in order to reach the nursery.

"Following are a few figures comparing the two years of the nursery's existence:

	1913-1914.	1914-1915.
Total number of day's attendance	1,954	2,958
Largest monthly attendance	204	552
Largest weekly attendance	56	96
Largest daily attendance	14	21
Average daily attendance	7	11
Number of children admitted	67	57
Number of families represented	56	44

"Our matron, Mrs. Martin, who has been with us since the nursery opened, has performed her duties most faithfully and satisfactorily to those in charge. The children under her care improve in a most pronounced way in health, cleanliness, habits and courtesy.

"We are fortunate in having no contagious diseases to report with the exception of two or three cases of the whooping cough.

"A statement of the nursery expenses follows:

Salaries and rental	$ 900.00
Laundry, cleaning, groceries and milk	138.54
Miscellaneous, Christmas party, playground, improvements, etc.	45.85
Total expense	$1,084.39
Paid by parents of children in fees	209.35
Actual cost of King's Daughters	$ 875.04

Officers of King's Daughters.

The officers of the King's Daughters are: President, Miss Frances Swift; first vice president, Miss Barbara Rupley; second vice president, Miss Marjorie Congdon; secretary, Miss Helen Potter; treasurer, Miss Lucile Bradley; manager of the nursery, Miss Dorothy House; chairman of the work committee, Miss Julia Marshall, and chairman of the relief committee, Miss Marion Wall.

Don't forget Haley's still serve the best cup of coffee in the city.

Church Meetings.

Westminster auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will meet at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hanson, 1621 East Third street. All fancy articles for the sale are to be taken to this meeting.

The Philathea class of the First Presbyterian church will hold a business meeting at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the Sunday school room.

Trinity cathedral branch of the Woman's auxiliary will meet at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. T. Fitzsimmons, 1431 East First street. Mrs. J. U. Sebenius will lead the study class for which the subjects of discussion will be: I. "Would you rather live in the restless West or the restful East, and why?" II. "What aspect of the church's teaching would appeal most strongly to the Oriental mind?" III. "What aspect would appeal to the Indians of the United States? The negroes?"

"Musical Pioneers of Northwest."

Last Saturday's issue of Musical America carries pictures on its front page of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Flaaten, Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten and Jens Flaaten.

Under the head "Musical Pioneers of the Great Northwest," Mrs. May Stanley Finch tells of what has been accomplished by various members of this family in voice, violin, piano, orchestra and choral work.

A. C. A. Will Have Short Pantomime

A short pantomine, arranged by Mrs. George Morgan, will be given at the meeting of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae that will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Sellwood, 1931 East Second street, at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

First of Series of Three Recitals.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Buchanan Morton will give their first of a series of three recitals Monday night, Dec. 13, at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church. It will consist of songs by Mrs. Morton and piano and organ numbers by Mr. Morton, who will include in his selections Schumann's famous fantasie in C major. The other programs will be given Jan. 24 and March 6.

Is Guest of Honor at Ladies' Auxiliary Meeting

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, Camp No. 5, had as their guest of honor, Mrs. Myrtle Stewart of Detroit, Mich., at the meeting that was held Wednesday night in Memorial hall, courthouse. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Esther Stitt; vice president, Mrs. May Honnold; treasurer, Mrs. Louise Beaton, and chaplain, Mrs. E. Hurd, all of whom were re-elected; guide, Mrs. T. J. Hyde; assistant guide, Miss Cecil Budden; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Rachael Ross; inside guard, Mrs.

Nursery No Longer Experiment

Many Mothers Patronize Institution at F. A. Patrick Factory; Children Given Lunch and Care for 10 Cents; Matron Praised for Faithful and Efficient Work.

The King's Daughters have issued the following annual report of the day nursery, which they conduct at the F. A. Patrick factory, copies of which will be sent out next week:

"The King's Daughters' day nursery is no longer an experiment, but instead, we feel, an established institution. Established, because it has proved itself to be much needed. Perhaps the best proof of this is the fact that the attendance has increased 66 per cent over that of last year. There are of course other proofs such as the individual cases benefited, but these cannot be measured in percentage.

Purpose to Aid Mothers.

"The nursery was opened in August, 1913. Its purpose is to aid women who are obliged to work away from their homes, by caring for their children during the day. It is open from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. every day except Sunday. A fee of 10 cents is charged the mothers for which the children receive a substantial lunch beside care throughout the day. This sum is reduced when there are two or more children from one family or when an extra car fare must be paid in order to reach the nursery.

"Following are a few figures comparing the two years of the nursery's existence:

	1913-1914.	1914-1915.
Total number of day's attendance	1,954	2,958
Largest monthly attendance	204	352
Largest weekly attendance	56	96
Largest daily attendance	14	21
Average daily attendance	7	11
Number of children admitted	67	57
Number of families represented	56	44

"Our matron, Mrs. Martin, who has been with us since the nursery opened, has performed her duties most faithfully and satisfactorily to those in charge. The children under her care improve in a most pronounced way in health, cleanliness, habits and courtesy.

"We are fortunate in having no contagious diseases to report with the exception of two or three cases of the whooping cough.

"A statement of the nursery expenses follows:

Salaries and rental	$ 900.00
Laundry, cleaning, groceries and milk	138.54
Miscellaneous, Christmas party, playground, improvements, etc.	45.85
Total expense	$1,084.39
Paid by parents of children in fees	209.35
Actual cost of King's Daughters	$ 875.04

Officers of King's Daughters.

The officers of the King's Daughters are: President, Miss Frances Swift; first vice president, Miss Barbara Rupley; second vice president, Miss Marjorie Congdon; secretary, Miss Helen Potter; treasurer, Miss Lucile Bradley; manager of the nursery, Miss Dorothy House; chairman of the work committee, Miss Julia Marshall, and chairman of the relief committee, Miss Marion Wall.

Mrs. Weyerhaeuser and Miss Paine Will Give Matinee Musicale Program

MISS CORDELIA AYER PAINE.

Mrs. Charles A. Weyerhaeuser of Little Falls, the soprano who will assist Miss Cordelia Ayer Paine of Carlton who will give a piano program before the Matinee Musicale Dec. 14, will give a group of German songs and a group of English ones. Mrs. Weyerhaeuser is known to Duluth musicians as she took part several years ago in a Matinee Musicale program. She and Miss Ruth Rogers, pianist, recently gave recitals together at Brainerd and Little Falls.

Miss Paine is too well known in Duluth musical circles to require an introduction. She will open the program with a Beethoven sonata, will give a group of etudes symphoniques by Schumann and will close with a Chopin group.

After her graduation from Stetson college in Florida, Miss Paine went to Boston where she studied eight years. From there she went to Berlin for three years' study with Edgar Stillman Kelly and Stepanoff, and later to Paris where Wager Swayne was her instructor for a year.

Miss Paine's will be the last Matinee Musicale program before the holidays. The series will begin again Jan. 11, which will be Duluth composers' day, the first one ever held in Duluth. Several compositions are being written for the occasion.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Subject—"Golden Fruit From the Prayer Life," Heb. iv, 14-16, 11-6—consecration meeting.

Suggestive Thoughts—One fruit of the prayer life is peace. Prayer throws our burdens on the great Burden Bearer, and we go lightly on our way. Do not expect results from sporadic or careless praying; it must be the prayer life that yields the golden fruit.

Quotations—"We have no right to say with reference to anything that it is too small to consult God about."—Robert E. Speer. "We pray and run away. We do not wait to see if God has not some great gift for us."—Charles L. Goodell.

The following services will be held by Duluth societies:

First Baptist—This society meets at the church, Ninth avenue east and First street, at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Leslie High will be the leader. The contest for attendance is on in full swing with the Blues slightly in the lead. The service this week will be the regular consecration meeting. Every member is asked to be present to respond to the roll call. Monday evening in the same rooms the monthly business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

First Presbyterian—The regular consecration service will be observed, with Thomas Thorburn as leader. The time of meeting is 6:45, and every member is urged to be present. Thursday evening at 7 o'clock the mission study class will meet in the Thompson room; subject, "Japan."

Forbes M. E. of Proctor—This society meets in the church at 6:30. Mrs. C. P. Casey will be the leader, using the regular consecration topic. All the young people of the village are given a cordial invitation to attend.

Glen Avon Presbyterian—This society will meet at the usual hour, with William Grant as leader. The consecration service will be observed.

Hazelwood Presbyterian—The meeting of this society will be held at 7:15. Miss Hazel Nelson will be the leader. Young people of the vicinity are invited.

Lakeside Presbyterian—Francis Dever, the president, will have charge of this service, which begins at 6 o'clock. Every member is expected to be present.

Morgan Park—This society will meet at 7:30 under the leadership of Miss Agnes Murray. They are studying the life of Dr. Grenfell. Last Sunday twenty were present and increasing interest is being shown in this newly organized society.

Westminster Presbyterian—This society will meet at 6:45, using the regular consecration topic. In the contest for attendance, the Blues are ahead so far, but the Reds are straining every effort to overtake them. The Red side has planned a social affair for this week, date to be announced later. Tomorrow there will be a debate, "Resolved, That Home Missions Are More Important Than Foreign." Charles Towner and Royal Schober will be the leaders in the debate.

Junior and Intermediate Notes.

Intermediate—The Highland Presbyterian society will meet at 7:30, with Miss Doris Black as leader; subject, "Golden Fruit From the Prayer Life."

Second Presbyterian—This society meets at 4 o'clock, under the leadership of Irene Beatty.

Junior Topic—"A man Who Boasted."

Highland Presbyterian Juniors meet at 4 o'clock.

Second Presbyterian Juniors meet at 4 o'clock. Leader, Alice Brown.

Union Notes—The Christmas program to be held at the county poor farm is occupying the attention of the Christian Endeavor union members. At a meeting held last Wednesday night by the members of the missionary committee it was decided to fill 200 small boxes with fruits and delicacies and distribute them, the cost to be charged pro rata to each society. This service will be held Sunday, Dec. 19, and each society in the city union is expected to provide at least one musical number or reading or recitation. The speaker will be announced later.

ON THE IRON RANGES

INDIAN AGENTS SWOOP DOWN ON HIBBING PLACE

Buffet Raided By Two Officers and Much Liquor Is Confiscated.

First Raid Since Agents Clamped Down Lid on Range Village.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indian agents who have been here watching out for violations of the lid order that was clamped down Tuesday afternoon, got busy today and pulled off the first raid since Tuesday. They confiscated about $500 worth of liquor and poured it into the sewer. So far as can be learned no arrests were made, the officers simply walking into the place, rolling the barrels and carrying the bottles to a sewer intake and pouring the contents therein.

About 11:30 o'clock this morning Indian Agents C. E. Benson and H. Ellis walked into the Bank buffet, run by Nels Oleander, in the basement of the First National bank building and almost under the office of the Hibbing Tribune, and proceeded to seize barrels and bottles of contraband. They seized four barrels of whiskey, fifty bottles of wine, champagne cocktails and whisky and two casks of California wines. These they moved to the sewer intake in the rear of the place and dumped the contents therein. Quite a crowd, attracted by the news of the raid, gathered outside and some of the more curious crowded in, but no arrests were made.

Name on Receptacles.

The name "Nels Oleander," is said to have been marked on the various receptacles smashed, but whether he owned the goods or not did not develop. He was not around and whether he will be arrested cannot be learned. The liquor spilled is said to be worth $500 and is considerably in excess of any confiscated since the lid was clamped down. This was the first incident that has marred the serenity prevading here since the lid went on and is taken to mean the Indian officers are on the job all right. Whether any liquor had been sold from the Bank buffet since Tuesday did not develop. Outside of this sensational raid nothing has occurred here or in Chisholm since the lid was applied.

MUNICIPAL TREE IS DEER RIVER'S PLAN

Deer River, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A municipal Christmas tree along the lines of the one so successfully given in Duluth and other cities last year is planned for Deer River, the first ever attempted here.

Mrs. George Herreid, who has been active in the movement, has called a meeting to be held next Monday evening at the school to map out the plans. Coffee and cake will be served when the tree celebration is at its height.

The game shipments out of here were: Deer, 180; moose, 1; bear, 2.

Charley Lovelace, while sawing wood for Malcolm Campbell at Bowstring, had his right hand caught in the belt and tightener pulley the first of the week, badly spraining his wrist.

King Sells Land.

C. M. King has sold his land in town 146-26 to Thorwald M. Thompson of Minneapolis, formerly of the Hennepin Bridge company. It is understood that Mr. Thompson will clear up the entire 120 acres and will start the work just as soon as the road is completed to that neighborhood.

The annual apron sale and chicken pie supper of the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church, which was to have been held on Dec. 10, will be held on Dec. 11.

Stafford King, who is finishing at the state university, was home for a while this week and making good with the homestead act on his claim at the head of Ball Club lake.

Mrs. F. Reusswig of Grand Rapids, formerly Miss Ackerman, who was a teacher on the local staff last year, came up Wednesday and visited the school and friends for two days.

Mrs. H. E. Lindhe and Mrs. J. A. Binder entertained the ladies of the Maccabee lodge at the home of Mrs. Lindhe Friday afternoon.

QUIT MEAT WHEN BACK HURTS OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Says Uric Acid in Meat Clogs Kidneys and Irritates Bladder.

A Glass of Salts Is Harmless Way to Flush Kidneys, Says Authority.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

BUHL COMMERCIAL CLUB AFTER THINGS

Buhl, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the Commercial club banquet, to be given at the village hall Monday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, have been completed and invitations have been extended to the city councils of Virginia, Eveleth, Gilbert, Chisholm, Kinney and Hibbing. Mr. Liester, Duluth representative of the Mesaba Telephone company, and F. A. Day, the Hibbing representative of the same company, have been invited to discuss the telephone situation here with the members of the club.

It is planned that this meeting of the club will be one of the most successful and entertaining ever held in this place.

Want Better Mail Service.

Another matter to be discussed is the possibility of getting the Mesaba Electric railway to carry mail, as the mail service to Buhl is considered inadequate. An effort will be made to secure the co-operation of the commercial clubs of other range towns toward securing a better mail service.

AURORA DENTIST SEEKING PARDON

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—Dr. B. J. Stahmann, who was sent to St. Cloud reformatory from Aurora, on his plea of guilty to the charge of having set fire to his dental office there, is now seeking to have an application for his pardon considered at the meeting of the state board of pardons to be held on Jan. 10. He was committed to the state reformatory on Aug. 26. Dr. Stahmann has addressed a letter to the board asking for information relative to making out his application. He said he is anxious to be free to aid his mother. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota dentistry college.

TOURNAMENT AT BUHL.

Billiard Players Are Contesting for Handsome Cue Trophy.

Buhl, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The billiard tournament at the Pelican pool hall started Tuesday when Dr. Nelson and Leighton Simons played the first round.

Wednesday evening Simons was given a good drubbing when Catlin ran 100 to his 54.

A. R. Folsom and Dr. Raymond are the only entrants who have not been given a chance to show their ability.

The trophy to be awarded the winner is a handsome billiard cue.

The members of the Catholic Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly meeting at the village hall Wednesday afternoon. Luncheon was served by Mrs. T. P. Cory and Mrs. Matt Keyfee. As there was not a quorum present the election of officers was postponed until next meeting.

At the last regular meeting of the school board bids for hauling school children from the Swallow & Hopkins and Dean locations were read. The bid of Frank Lacher was accepted conditionally and the committee in charge of transportation granted power to act in the matter. Bids for printing the minutes of the board were considered and allowed. It was decided that the hauling of water to the Hartley and Kinney schools would be continued. Orders were given to hurry the work of covering the steam pipes at the Hartley school.

FEWER DEER SHIPPED.

Not So Many Carcasses Sent From Grand Rapids This Year.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big game season closed Sunday, and until Friday, the last day for shipping deer, straggling hunters have been coming it with their trophies. Game Warden Jesse Harry Thursday seized a fine large deer which came in off the "Merry Widow" train the night before without any license tag. The deer was consigned to A. C. Bohland of St. Paul, and inasmuch as the carcass was going to St. Paul anyway, it was consigned to Carlos Avery, head of the game and fish commission. Later, the tag was found at the transfer at Kelly Lake, where it had apparently been pulled off, and word forwarded to St. Paul, so Mr. Bohland will get his deer without further trouble.

One deer that will make a long trip before reaching its destination was killed by W. H. Betts of Raleigh, N. C. The deer was killed near Big Trout lake, about sixteen miles north of here, and it was one of the finest specimens to be brought to Grand Rapids this season, having a spread of antlers of almost three feet at the widest point.

Agent M. C. Nygaard of the local railway station states that between seventy-five and eighty deer have been shipped out of Grand Rapids this season. This is not so many as in former years, and the cause of the decrease is attributed to the lack of snow, and comparatively poor hunting weather.

Game Warden Harry announces that after today he will have retaining tags for sale. One of these tags must be attached to all deer or moose kept after the season closes. The price is $1 per carcass.

PITIFUL FAMILY DISTRESS.

Husband Blind, Wife Sick and Several Children Starving.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Commissioner James Passard was called to Goodland, where a case of dire destitution was reported, and in company with Dr. G. E. Hoeper, went to Goodland to investigate. They found a woman sick with pneumonia, several little children and Peter Jelaeac, her blind husband. Dr. Hoeper treated the woman and temporary relief was furnished the unfortunate family. The man, it was learned, lost his eyesight in an explosion in 1906, while in the employ of the government in the construction of a tunnel in Colorado. He stated that the case had been in litigation since the explosion, and that he had received only about $1,000. Relief will be given the family until further developments and in the meantime Commissioner Passard will communicate with Congressman Miller and see if the status of the Jelaeacs can be learned.

NOVEMBER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AT AURORA

Aurora, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school and grammar grades in the public schools had an attendance of 97 per cent for November. There were 97 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the month. There are 60 pupils in the high school, and 85 in the grammar grades, or 145 in all. In the high schools, Emma Hudson made the highest grades during the month, with an average of 97 per cent and in the grammar grades, Jennie Makie was high, with an average of 96½ per cent.

Man and Wife Running Calumet Murder Saloon Face New Charge.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Zivko Matkovich, the Calumet saloonkeeper, in whose saloon the Nenoff murder was committed on Thanksgiving day, and his wife, in whose name the saloon license was, will be tried Tuesday on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Matkovich and his wife were held as witnesses, but were released on $500 bond and rearrested immediately upon being released on the new charge. Matkovich, when first held, was very reticent about testifying and knew but little of the murder, but every time he is rearrested he becomes more willing to talk. From him County Attorney Ralph A. Stone is beginning to get some valuable information regarding the crime which was committed in the Matkovich saloon.

HIBBING TALENT IN SHOW MAKES BIG HIT

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—For over three hours, a capacity house which filled the Power theater watched the performance of Kipling's "Rollicking Potpourri" last night and came away satisfied.

It was a conglomeration of song, dance and action and although there was lacking that finish, which is perfectly excusable for the amount of time the amateur talent had to perfect their respective parts, it was more than worth the price of admission.

The stage settings, the costumes, the singing of the men and lady choruses, the dancing and the English accent of L. O. Kirby all made a decided hit.

The performance opened with the scene, a San Francisco cabaret, with the entire chorus singing "This Is the Life."

Dr. Thomas, taking the place on the program of Clarence Shea, who left for his former home in Ishpeming, Mich., sang very admirably "Back Home in Tennessee."

"Caroline," rendered by W. R. Spensely, assisted by a dancing sextet, was a beautiful choice for the excellent voice possessed by Mr. Spensely. He was given several encores.

Mrs. D. D. McEachin sang "I Want to Go to Tokio," and she added more laurels to the many she already possesses for having a voice of more than ordinary ability. Mrs. McEachin was at her best last evening and she was applauded time and time again. She also sang in a pleasing manner "The Garden of Idle Dreams."

Mrs. Emmett Stark, singing "Farewell to Italy," dressed in Italian costume, delighted the audience and she was forced to sing another selection, also in the Italian tongue.

"San Francisco" was sung by Miss Brady and Hal Martin, and it pleased.

A one-step canter by Miss Raleigh and Percy Carmichael was a choice piece of terpsichorean art. All the others did equally well. It will be repeated tonight.

Will Sell Seals.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The C. A. C. club of the high school, named after the first initials of C. C. Alexander, will sell Red Cross seals for the benefit of the State Tuberculosis society this year. The girls will start their campaign at once and will go everywhere among the business men to dispose of their wares.

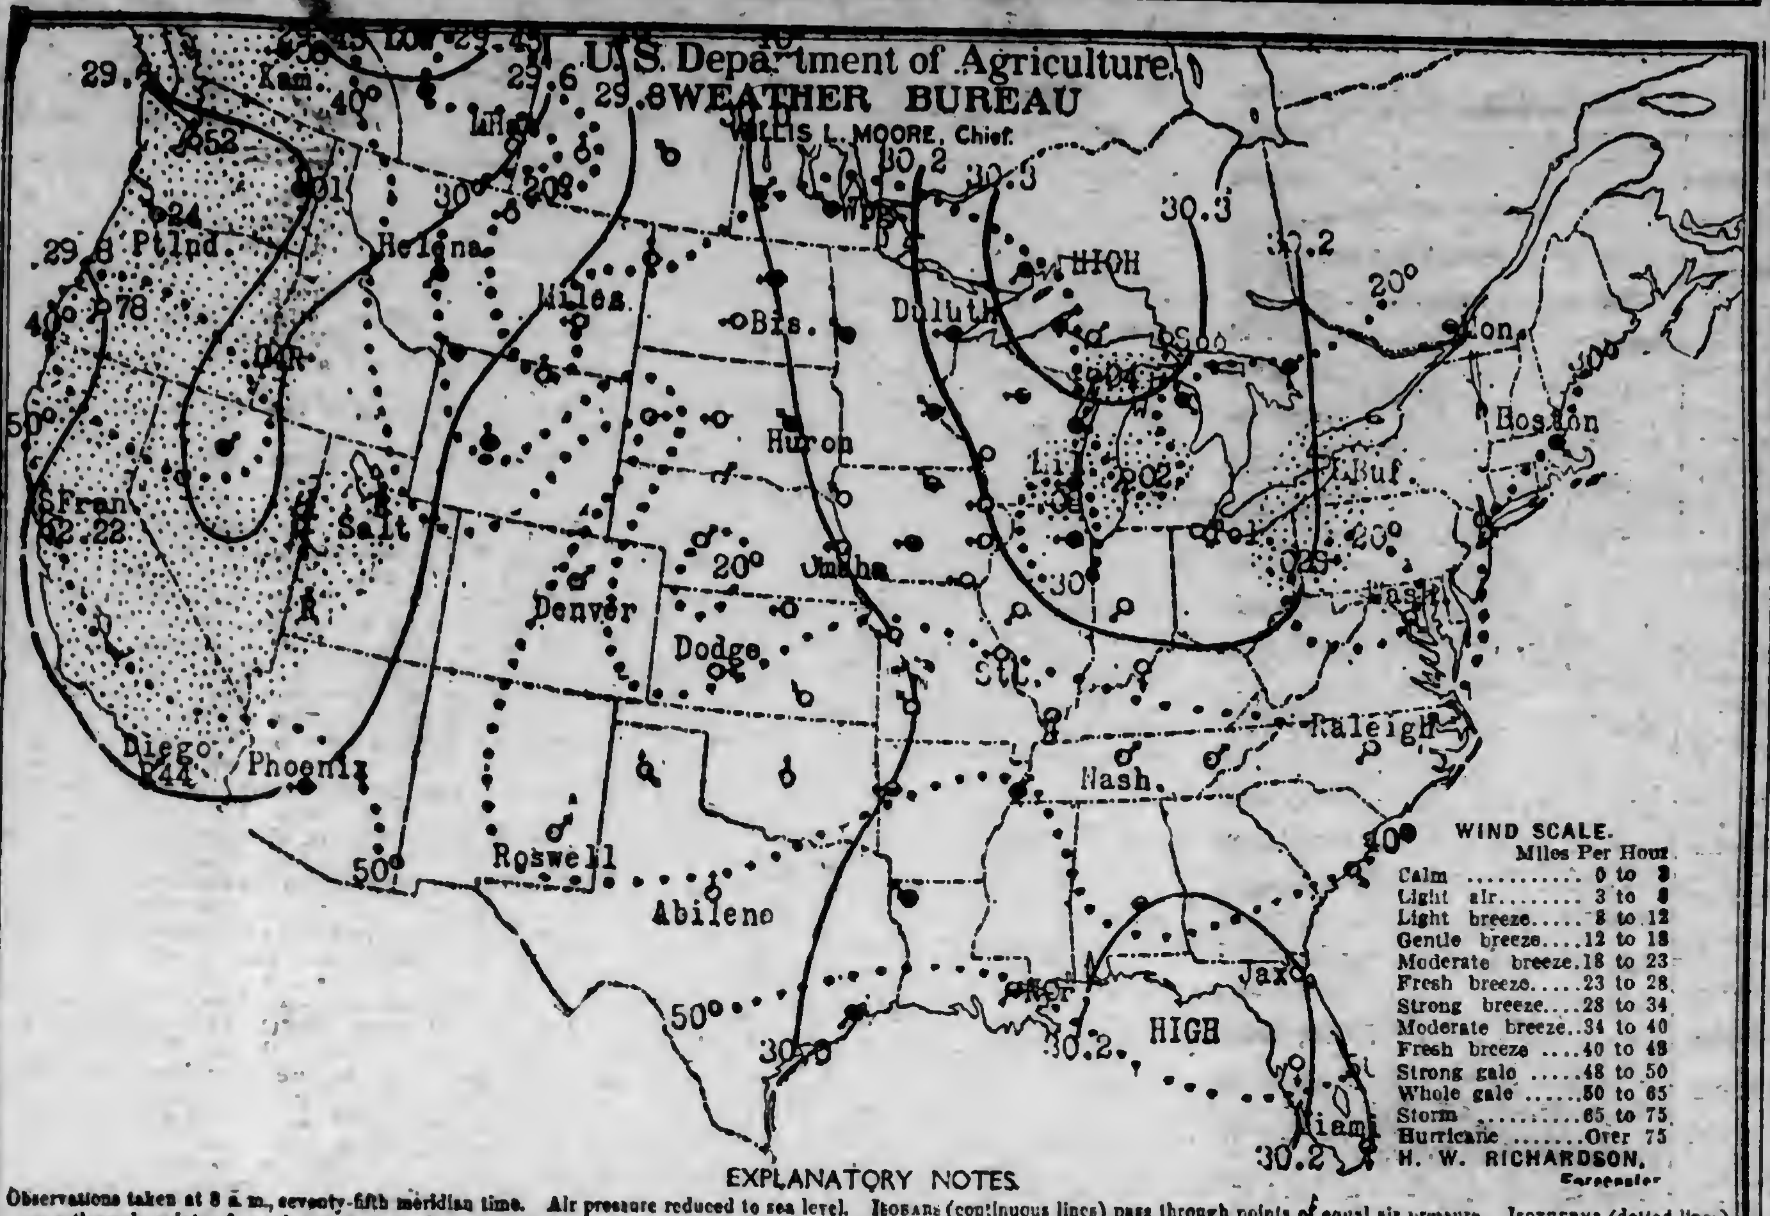
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

Even though it is cloudy, this is one of the most agreeable days of the week, for the weather is warmer than it has been and yet walking conditions are good. Not since 1907, according to "the oldest inhabitant," has there been such a remarkable stretch of fall weather. Shipping is benefiting in a wonderful way and it does not seem that Christmas business is being hurt, even with the lack of Christmas-like weather.

A year ago today was chilly and raw. The sun rose this morning at 7:37 and will set this evening at 4:20, giving eight hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The temperature has risen over the Mississippi, Red River and Middle and Lower Missouri valleys and the Southwest. In other districts the 24-hour changes were generally unimportant. Snow fell over portions of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania, and rain to the westward of the Rocky mountains during the last twenty-four hours. San Francisco again reported heavy rainfall, 3.38 inches occurring there in the last forty-eight hours. In the lake region the winds are variable and generally light with conditions favoring a shift to easterly."

MOUNTAIN IRON NOTES.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Range Librarians' society will hold their next regular meeting here on the last Wednesday of this month.

A public meeting has been called for this evening at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the library building by the Commercial club for the purpose of discussing the proposed new bank. John Costin of Virginia will be present.

A regular monthly meeting of the library board was held in the library building Thursday evening. The next regular meeting of the village council will be held Monday evening; that of the school board Tuesday evening. A joint meeting of the last two named boards was held Friday evening for the purpose of getting together on the matter of securing a successor to the late Silvo di Bacco as leader of the village band and director of the high school orchestra.

Mayor Saari has men at work on a logging contract on timber lands near Ellis.

BACKACHE KILLS!

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and throwing off the poisons as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache, and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will give almost immediate relief from kidney and bladder troubles, which may be the unsuspected cause of general ill health. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form to take, and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief, or your money will be refunded. Get them at any drug store, but be sure to insist on the GOLD MEDAL brand, and take no other. Prices, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

STATE "EIGHTY" HEARING.

Virginians to Visit Duluth to Give Testimony.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Land experts of this city will go to Duluth Monday to testify at the hearing before Judge Herbert A. Dancer on the valuation of the state eighty on the Mountain Iron road, near the Greenwood cemetery, which is wanted by the local school board for experimental farm purposes.

The state appealed to Judge Dancer's court from the valuation given by the board of appraisers, consisting of M. E. Fanning of Virginia, W. C. Sargent of Duluth and E. Kleffman of Chisholm. The appraisers declared the land was worth $8,400, but the state claims this is far below the real value of the tract.

William H. Eaton and Chairman R. J. McGhee of the school board and Supt. P. P. Colgrove will attend the hearing.

RANGE BASKET BALL.

First Games of Season to Be Played in Various Places.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The range basket ball season will be ushered in tonight, with the Chisholm and Virginia city teams playing at the Technical high school gymnasium here, Gilbert meeting Eveleth at Eveleth, and the Hibbing militia five contesting with the Buhl quint at Buhl.

Mayor Michael Boylan will throw the first goal here tonight. A six-piece orchestra will furnish music during the evening. E. H. Waterhouse of the Oliver Iron Mining company will referee the contest.

VIRGINIAN SUED BY MAN HIS AUTO HIT

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles W. Ludstrom, former alderman, is defendant in an action for $15,000 started in district court by John Vajdetich, who was run over by Mr. Ludstrom's automobile on Chestnut street Sept. 11, 1915. The plaintiff claims two of his ribs were broken and that he cannot work.

The defendant claims that Vajdetich was intoxicated at the time of the accident and that he staggered in front of the machine. It is claimed that, due to his own negligence, he was injured.

Herman Latvala has filed suit in district court against Matt J. Lofbacka, a North Mesaba avenue hardware dealer, for $1,500 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he was struck by Mr. Lofbacka's automobile on Aug. 14, 1915. It is claimed that the accident occurred on the corner of Locust street and Mesaba avenue.

Small Two Harbors Fire.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called upon at 1 o'clock this morning to extinguish a small blaze in one of the rear rooms of the Marine meat market building. The fire probably originated from an over-heated stove and would have resulted seriously had it not been for the timely arrival of the department. There appears to be a difference of opinion as to the origin of the fire. An investigation will be made today by the firemen to determine the cause.

Wife Beater Released.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Lehto, who has been serving a three-months sentence in the county jail for assaulting his wife, has been given his freedom. He has been in jail since Sept. 21. Mrs. Lehto and other members of the family interceded for Lehto and Judge Carey suspended sentence. Dr. J. H. Crowe was also interested in the case and pleaded for him. Lehto, who is a farmer at Linden Grove, north of the city, has promised to reform.

Hibbing Society Elects.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crescent Aid society, at its meeting held yesterday, elected officers for the coming year as follows: Mrs. Al. Dixon, president; Mrs. James Ryan, vice president; Mrs. William Martin, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Brady, treasurer. The society is planning on a dance for Dec. 14 at the armory and expects to raise a considerable sum to carry out its charitable work this winter.

Heads Virginia Board.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. V. Peterson, cashier of the State bank, who is serving his first term as a member of the park board, Thursday evening was elected president of that body at the annual meeting of the members of the board. He succeeds William J. Schulze, who has served as president for two consecutive terms.

Aurora Has Municipal Rink.

Aurora, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A municipal skating rink has been built on the St. James property near the hospital and will be in readiness for the use of the children of the village Sunday. A large sheet of fine ice has been built up and the rink will accommodate several hundred skaters.

New Chisholm Industry.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nothing daunted by the closing of the saloons, the El Queeno Cigar company has opened up a wholesale cigar and tobacco warehouse and factory at 227 Lake street.

The Glorious Miracle.

It is Christmas eve in the trenches.

A bitter chill is in the air. Snow covers the ground. Here and there between the far-flung hostile trenches the moon shows dark spots marking where the last vain charge left its toll of dead.

In the trenches, thousands of men, shivering in their rat-holes in the bleak earth. Behind the trenches, the great guns, the hospital camps, the reserve camps, the aviation camps, headquarters. A lull has come in the fighting; perhaps from sheer weariness, perhaps from tragic recognition, by men engaged in killing men, of the spirit of the coming natal day of Him who brought to earth the message of peace and good will among men. The rest is needed, and men sleep fitfully, disturbed by grim dreams, with little thought of the significance of the morrow. Sentries pace their rounds, thinking of home and the dear ones there whom they may never see again.

A sentry's sharp cry pierces the night: "Halt! Who goes?" The answer, low: "A friend."

"Advance, friend, and give the countersign!"

To the sentry, out of the gloom cast by a cloud shadowing the moon, advances a bent Figure, clad in the garments of the humble, with a face seamed by care, eyes sad, inscrutable, seeming to see afar and to reflect the sorrows of suffering millions. Fixing the sentry with these eyes, the Figure gives a word: "Brotherhood!" It is not the countersign of the day; but the sentry, awed in some vague way he cannot define, presents arms and falls back. "Pass, friend!" And the bent Figure passes into the camp.

Afar, there is hushed music, voices singing, an exquisite harmony, faint like the mere fragrance of music. Straining ears seem to catch words, or a seeming of words, that interpret themselves into thoughts divine—"On earth peace, good will toward men!"

The Figure, upon whom the sentry's puzzled gaze is bent, pauses upon an eminence. The camp sleeps. The trenches sleep. Even to tortured bodies in the field hospitals comes the blessed boon of sleep. The sentry, drowsy at his post, leans upon his rifle and sleeps. The world is silent. And again that faint, ineffable harmony comes through the night from afar, with its dim seeming of words, suggesting thoughts divine—"On earth peace, good will toward men!"

The Figure is no longer bent, but stands face upward to the sky, arms outstretched to heaven. Words come from its lips: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Closer, louder, grows the mystic music. Louder, clearer, sound the voices, singing. Sweeter, stranger, swells the heavenly harmony. Now the words are clear beyond mistake: "ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN!"

The Figure with its care-lined face and pitying eyes, faces now this way, now that—arms stretched forth as in benediction.

The teeming humanity in the trenches, in the camps, in the hospitals, stirs from its sleep. Suddenly, to humanity in the grim coils of war, has come a new vision, a new and superhuman capacity. Men have strangely gained the power to see into each other's hearts, to read each other's souls. They find there, everywhere, wherever they look, but one straining, striving thought—PEACE! They look into the hearts of their comrades, and they see—PEACE! They look across the trenches, and in the hearts of their enemies they see—PEACE!

Misunderstanding is cleared away as by magic. The long, painful teachings of princes and ministers, of school men and book men, of soldiers and statesmen, are dropped like hateful garments. Men see the truth at last—that they are not strangers, but brothers; not enemies, but friends: that the cause of humanity is not to be served by strife and self-seeking, but by sympathy; that the hope of mankind lies not in war, but in brotherhood.

Out from the trenches, across the blood-stained space between, rush the men of the hostile armies, toward each other. But weapons have been left behind. They meet not as enemies, but as brothers. On the soil where mingles the blood of their fellows they stand face to face, hand clasping hand, grim features lit by unexpected joy, hearts warm with sudden love. Officers vainly strive to drive their soldiers back to their rat-holes; the men laugh at them jovially, and those just now enemies stand bathed in the glory of their common humanity, souls uplifted and glorified by the splendor of their common brotherhood.

The battlefield is a turmoil. The armies mingle in jovial comradery, guns kicked aside, forgotten; hands clasped, arms locked, hearts a-tune.

There are no longer two armies—there is but one.

There are no longer two causes—there is but one; and that cause is PEACE.

Folly is ended; men see and know each other as they are. The war is over. Later they are to learn that on every battlefield this mystic night the same miracle has come about, and that from every hard-fought field and fort men stream, laughing, happy, toward home and love and PEACE.

Again, subtly stealing, the hushed music, voices singing, an exquisite harmony, faint like the mere fragrance of music—distant harmony, growing now more distant still. As it comes and goes, silence broods over the field, and men strain their ears to catch the glory of the fading sound—"On earth peace, good will toward men!"

The field catches up the strain as its last sound echoes on the midnight air. From near and far, from thousands upon thousands of hearts made glad, in a mighty chorus rises the song of souls made free—"ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN!"

* * * * * *

A bent Figure, clad in the garments of the humble, with a face seamed by care, with pitying eyes now shining with a new splendor, lit by the glory of a new hope, passes from the field unseen. No sentries now bar the road. No challenge comes. No password is demanded.

But as the Figure goes its way, and vanishes in the dimness of the distant plain, above it seems to march across the sky a mighty army of soldiers gone before, soldiers of many tongues and times, marching beneath a flame-colored banner bearing in white this eternal countersign of human hope—"BROTHERHOOD."

The man who stayed at home and eats no venison somehow seems to think he has something on the man who went hunting and also eats none.

WHY WAIT FOR THE SPUR OF NECESSITY?

> Like the South, Germany has also learned a valuable lesson. When she discovered that she was bottled up and could not receive her usual supplies from without, she set about producing them at home, and as a result she has become self-sustaining. People never know what they can do till they try, and very often they do not try until necessity compels them to make the effort.—Memphis News Scimitar.

It's true of nations and of folks.

Under ordinary circumstances, without the compulsion of need, men do not develop half their possibilities of energy and ingenuity. "Necessity is the mother of invention," and of effort, too, for that matter.

One little considered offsetting factor in the waste of war is the fact that during war human energies, under the spur of necessity, are developed far above the normal. Much of the waste of war is offset by this and by war-enforced thrift. The wastes in time of peace through luxury and undeveloped energies is many times even the appalling wastes of the present war.

It ought not to be so. People never know what they can do till they try, and ordinarily they don't try till they must.

If people—and nations—would try harder without waiting for need to drive, incalculable gains would result.

Germany did not wait for need to drive before developing her marvelous system. Without necessity, but through mere foresight of necessity, Germany has done wonders. She is a positive force, with her reservoirs of energy all tapped. Her opponents, even now, are just beginning to tap those reservoirs of energy never touched until need demands it. Germany's danger is that, having begun the war pretty nearly at full steam, she will exhaust even her ordinarily untapped resources before her enemies are whipped; that, wearied by a contest sustained long after she had anticipated victory, she may find herself facing enemies whose energies have been freshened by the need-compelled draft upon latent strength.

The nation and the individual who realizes that it or he has energies that ordinary circumstances do not even touch, and who summons a part of those latent energies into action without waiting for need to drive, is pretty sure to rise above the common level, if not to dominate.

Tolstoi predicted that the war would be ended by "a man out of the north" who was "more famed for literature than for military prowess." If Henry Ford is really the author of all those jokes, maybe he isn't so far off in his peace designs.

STAYING AHEAD VS. CATCHING UP.

Did you ever get "behind" in your personal finances?

Then you know what a desperate job it is to catch up again.

The wise thing to do is to stay ahead of the game, and then you won't have to worry about catching up.

It is hard to stay ahead. It means crowding your outgo within the limits of your income, and leaving a margin for a rainy day.

But once behind it is vastly harder to catch up again.

If you doubt that, look about you. All around you are people who have blithely bought right and left and contracted debts without counting the cost. They have got behind a week, a month, or longer. Even one pay day behind means a fearful struggle to catch up again. A very large proportion never do catch up at all, but spend the rest of their lives dodging creditors and dallying with loan sharks.

When you are just one pay day behind the game, it means that to catch up you must somehow get a week's pay ahead. That is, in a certain number of pay days, you must live within your income to an extent that will create a surplus equivalent to your arrears. And that, to people living so close to the edge as most salaried people are, is no easy task.

But it can be done. And so can the task of staying ahead of the game. Both resolve themselves into the simple but difficult and profitable operation of living on a little less than you earn.

Getting behind is living on a little more than you earn; and the habits acquired in dropping behind are a handicap in the effort to get abreast again.

In the publication "Dollars and Sense" appears this very sound sense about getting behind and catching up:

> The man who is catching up cringes instead of standing erect; he is suppliant instead of dominant. He is disturbed by little things, and in the meantime the catching up process is tearing down his nervous system.
> Get caught up! Whatever your income is, save a percentage of it. No man gets rich through mere saving, but it is the training the man gets in saving the pennies which gives him a good idea of the value of things and shows him the importance of having a reserve.

It takes a little will to do it; but you have a will, haven't you? It takes determination, and you have that. It takes intelligence, and surely you will not admit that you lack it. It takes hard work, and you can work. It takes self-denial, and nobody but a weakling is incapable of that.

If you can't save a percentage of your income, however small, you couldn't keep a fortune if you found one, and you couldn't manage a business of your own if some fairy gave you one.

But fortunes aren't found, and there are no more fairies.

You are the architect of your own fortunes, and it is for you to say whether yours shall be well or ill—whether you will stay ahead of the game or spend your nerves, your energies and your life in the slippery struggle to catch up.

At this rate it will soon be up to the season dopesters to revive all the old sayings about "a green Christmas."

THE TARIFF COMMISSION IDEA.

The widespread approval of the tariff commission plan is manifestly a reaction from the profound disgust of the public with political management of the tariff, which is usually a failure and often a corruption and a stench.

The popularity of the plan is based on a vague idea that somehow, if a tariff commission is created, this subject will be taken out of politics and managed on a scientific and business-like basis.

And certainly, to take the tariff out of politics, to do away with the graft, the political and personal corruption and the pork-barrel sectionalism of congressional handling of the tariff, is a consummation most devoutly to be wished.

But it is to be feared that most of those who have cheered for the tariff commission plan have no very clear idea how it is to work out.

It is impossible, as, the Constitution stands, to delegate this work to a commission, relieving congress of responsibility. So that isn't proposed. Probably the average man who is advocating a permanent tariff commission has in mind something like the interstate commerce commission, which regulates railroad rates and service subject to appeal to the courts. But such a method of handling the tariff is impossible without a constitutional change.

The Tariff Commission league proposes a commission of seven, to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate, "with long tenure of office, fixed appropriation to insure permanency, liberal compensation and the broadest powers of research, investigation and RECOMMENDATION." The Merchants association of New York wouldn't even allow the power of recommendation, but would have the commission simply report the facts to congress.

Suppose such a commission created and working—and it should, in addition to the provisions proposed by the league, be non-partisan. Suppose it to have completed a survey and prepared a sound, scientific and fair tariff bill which it has recommended to congress. Passing over the difficulty it will have in agreeing upon a proper basis for duties, the difficulty of ascertaining the "difference in cost of production at home and abroad," which is an easier thing to talk about than to do, suppose its completed tariff bill has been formally reported to congress. What then?

The report and the bill will be referred to the ways and means committee of the house. Thereafter the fate of the commission's tariff bill, and the fate of the tariff, is as much at the mercy of congress—which means the ways and means committee of the house, the finance committee of the senate, and the subsequent conference committee from both branches—as though the tariff commission never had existed at all. In its consideration congress will divide on party lines, as before. Powerful interests concerned in heavy tariff taxation for their benefit will have the same chance to operate as before. Sectional interests, and the log-rolling inseparable from the joining of these sectional interests, will be utterly unimpeded. Where, by this process, has the method of tariff adjustment been improved?

It is conceivable, perhaps, that the tariff commission might devise a report and bill appealing so strongly to public support that congress would not dare reject it. In that, which is improbable though not impossible, lies the only hope of benefit from the tariff commission plan as now proposed.

Scarcely anybody will deny that it is desirable to do what the tariff commission plan is designed to do—take the tariff out of politics, out of graft, out of log-rolling combinations, out of the sink of party and personal corruption. We wish we could feel more confident than we now find it possible to feel that the tariff commission plan would even be a step in that direction.

"Why is it," asks the Red Wing Republican, "that a failure is so much harder to explain than a success?" Well, for one thing you have to explain your failures all alone, but any time you succeed, all the neighbors are ready to chip in with volunteer explanations.

HERE'S HOPING, ANYWAY.

Henry Ford is headed for Europe with a personally conducted party, trying to bring about peace before Christmas; and everybody, nearly, is making fun of him. Mostly, those who aren't making fun of him are abusing him as though he was a criminal.

That isn't right. His errand is noble, his purpose high and splendid. Even if we do feel sure he will fail, we all ought to hope, even against hope, that he will succeed.

Probably he won't succeed. Probably his interposition is untimely and his methods impractical. But if, by chance, it should turn out that Europe was so hungry for peace that it would clutch at any kind of straw that offered it, and his errand should succeed, those who have been poking fun and hurling abuse at him would feel rather foolish, wouldn't they?

In a world afflicted by war but craving peace, as this world certainly does, it is something to be one who is minded to try, even in the face of doubt and derision, to bring peace.

And even if his errand fails, no harm has been done. Not having the slightest hope that he will succeed, still we discover in our hearts vastly less sympathy with those who abuse him than with this sentiment in a letter written to the New York World by Joseph Dana Miller, editor of the Single Tax Review:

> Your assumption that the proposed voyage of Henry Ford & Co. on a peace ship in behalf of the termination of hostilities is destined to be a failure is probably an accurate prediction. But maybe the sapient editor of my favorite newspaper misses the psychological effect of this audacious project.
> Fail it probably will, but there are some failures more glorious than successes. As Louise Imogene Guiney sang of the Brook Farm experiment—
> Matched with failure so high-hearted
> All success is mean beside.
> Christ failed, the Gracchi failed, Mazzini failed, Henry George failed. Thus far, and as we see it. But we do not see it all.
> For the truth is that humanity is advanced and civilization bent to nobler purposes as much by its failures as by its successes.
> So here's success to Henry Ford—and if that cannot be, then the next best thing—oftener a nobler thing—a glorious failure!

There are certain passages in a certain Book wherein Mr. Ford, if bothered in the least by the abuse of him, can find comfort. While he is looking, maybe some of the preachers of the Gospel who are advocating for this country the military equipment that dragged Europe into its bloody sink of earthly hell might look there, too, with profit. For instance:

> Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.
> Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
> Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake.
> Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

Evidently the peanut politics crop is also to be a bumper one.

Introductory to Public Worship.

Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.—Matt. xviii, 20.

From the rising of the sun, even unto the going down of the same, My name is great among the nations; for I am a great king, saith the Lord of hosts.—Mal. i, 11-14.

Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised. Honor and majesty are before Him; strength and beauty are in His sanctuary.—Ps. lxlviii, 4-6.

The eyes of all wait upon Thee. Thou openest Thine hand and satisfiest the desire of every living thing. The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon Him, to all that call upon Him in truth.—Ps. cxlv, 15-18.

Seek ye the Lord, while He may be found; call ye upon Him while He is near; for as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts, saith the Lord. —Isa. lv, 6-9.

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore we will not fear, though the earth be moved, and though the mountains be shaken into the heart of the seas.—Ps. xlvi, 1-2.

Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens, and Thy faithfulness reacheth unto the skies. Thy righteousness is like the mountains of God. Thy judgments are a great deep. O Lord, Thou preservest man and beast.—Ps. xxxvi, 5-6.

Prosperity—and the Tariff.

Collier's: December finds the business of our country at high tide. The basic industries such as iron and copper, telegraph and telephone are in full blast, while the railroads are breaking all records for money earned in moving the gigantic output of our fields and factories. The business year is closing in a great rush of work well done, and the industrial power of the United States is proved again to the satisfaction of all but the croakers. The signs of this change had been clear for some time. In the great textile region about Philadelphia the manufacturers had had it dinned into them for months that low tariff meant ruin even though the war had practically stopped all imports. The turn upward caught these factories short of everything, materials and tools with which to enlarge their production. To win business here one must have clear-eyed faith in the United States and its future. Our country is all right and will be more so. It is entirely possible that the end of war may bring conditions which will make tariff changes expedient. If such conditions come, this nation must achieve the efficiency and governmental mobility to meet them as quickly as they arise. The best means toward this end is a tariff commission.

Why Not Decency for an Innovation

Editorial in the New York Times.

A paper on "The American Quality in American Literature," by Brand Whitlock, read at the annual meeting of the National Institute of Art and Letters in Boston last week, contains, among much admirable, much ironical, much poetical, and some disputable matter, what the Times is forced to believe a misconception of American "literature" or much too much of it, at this time. Possibly absence from the United States and devotion to those diplomatic duties and humane offices which he has fulfilled so memorably well in the sight of the world and to the honor of his country have left him a little belated as to the "progress" or Avernian descent of America, very much emancipated from the Puritan yoke. It is the conventional view, it is the view of Matthew Arnold, and sound enough in its essence, which Mr. Whitlock repeats:

> The innate conservatism of the people—for no one is so conservative as the crowd—opposes innovation, and with people of our race art always encounters the chilling influence of the Puritan spirit, always suspicious of beauty. In keeping art clean, Puritanism risks making it sterile; it never can learn that there is something antiseptic in liberty, so that it purifies itself and heals its own wounds.
> It was actually considered not so very many years ago a sin to read a novel or to see a play, so that young boys were left either to the puerile stories given out in Sunday schools or to the "nickel libraries," which could be folded conveniently for the pocket, and so read under a desk leaf at school.

This, so far as the fact goes, is mostly history. It takes us back to Mrs. Trollope's amusing "Domestic Manners of the Americans," to the tempest over the first production of "Camille." The theory that the playhouse is a profane and dangerous place in itself, play-acting a sin; that the austere nudities of ancient art are perilous to the soul; that artists and writers must be blind to much of the beauty, the pathos and the truth of life; we all know what honest narrowness of mind, what outbreaks of amusing prudery, what Tartufian hypocrisy, sometimes, the "Puritan" doctrine has bred. Yet it is like enough that at the present time a certain revival of "Puritanism" might be both a moral and an artistic gain to the community.

If sour old Jeremy Collier, who was right, after all, in his judgment of the Restoration stage, were alive today, wouldn't he find in too many theaters the ground of severe censures? Or suppose that some innocent canaler from the red planet, Mars, dropped upon New York in his planetoplane. He goes to our theaters. What would be his reflections? "This people have recently discovered 'sex.' Nothing else interests them. They pay, and pay high, to see plays about it. Intrigues, adulteries, illegitimacies, prostitutions. They love what they call 'piquant' situations. No piece is complete without an 'undressing' or 'disrobing' scene. I wonder why. The parade on the stage of girls, largely bereft of clothes and usually of sculptural distinction, is a standard attraction. Yet I am informed that the Americans have medical schools, and are not forced to depend upon the theaters for anatomical study.

"The highest form of theatrical wit is what is called 'double meaning.' If an author succeeds in being 'equivocal' or 'suggestive,' he has won the highest success. The secret of laughter seems to be indelicacy. To deride virtue and to admire the cleverness and gayety of vice seems to be 'the thing,, as the Americans say. To save appearances, the most ticklish 'situations' are often cleared up innocently. It is all 'according to Aristotle,' my American friend says; the object of the drama is to 'purge, to purify, the mind.' The American playwright has a singular manner of doing it.

"I am told that American religions forbid swearing. Doubtless in order to give a religious sanction to the drama, no play is complete without a quota of oaths."

So our Martian, too biliously, no doubt, in his otherworld ignorance, and all too generally; but isn't he pretty near right? Puritanism is not keeping the art of the theater clean; and yet that art is sterile. Beauty suffers by the absence of Puritanism Not beauty, but the deformity and ugliness of nastiness prevails.

The novels, too, how remote are they from the old goody-goody type, how remote from that patient, faithful realism of Mr. Howells, just honored by the Institute! Sex, sex, sex! "Sex problems," the old weary, dreary stuff, without truth of substance or dignity of manner, written just to sell. Ninth-rate French novels unredeemed by French style, Balzacs of Hohokus. There are plenty of novels of other schools, but the school of pornography seems to be the favorite. English novels republished here, American novels of imitation, too many of them are but clumsy studies of salacity. George Moore would feel wrath, if not remorse, at his successors, did he not confine his reading to his own chaste productions. Our young folks must read about "life." A galvanized Petronianism, with all the "elegance" gone, is spread before them.

The worship of veiled modesty in books and on the stage is carried on in daily life. The feminine fashions have the merit of frankness. So has "modern conversation." Is it in unconscious imitation of the supposed manner of great ladies, is it in sympathy with and reflection of the theater and the novel, is it in symbol of the manumission of women from the old chastities and reticences of speech, that the talk of so many wellbred men and women plays so freely over subjects once forbidden, teeters airily between the medical, the prurient, and the obscene, is full of a careless familiarity that would have shocked an earlier and less tolerant generation? Would Sophia Western talk like her father if there were a Fielding in our day? Anyway, one need not be accused of superfluity of bile if he sees a wide revolt against Puritanism in the United States, or of Philistinism if he insists that Puritanism was not as blue as it has been painted.

"Decency," what is becoming, what is fitting. There can be no comeliness, no beauty, without it. No Puritanism, but anti-Puritanism, is injuring beauty here. Would decency be too much of an "innovation" for the Americans of today?

How Mr. Taft Was Buncoed

New York World: It is a crushing exposure which Secretary of War Garrison visits upon the author of recent articles pretending to show forth the "demoralization" of the present American government in the Philippines. They are proved to be the work of a mercenary, a former member of the Philippine department of education, who was either so stupid or so shameless in his commercialism as to seek through the chief of the bureau of insular affairs in Mr. Garrison's department a market for articles of an opposite kind which he said he had stronger grounds for writing.

So much for O. Garfield Jones. But what about ex-President Taft? How did he come to associate his name and great influence with the now confessedly lying articles about the Wilson policy and Governor General Harrison's administration in the islands? Had he not himself in the same position suffered from the lies and misrepresentations of what he once referred to as "the drunken, truculent American loafers" who "give us more trouble than any other element in the islands?"

Mr. Wilson's Philippine policy does not differ essentially from Mr. Taft's Philippine policy. Both would administer the islands for the Filipinos exclusively. Mr. Taft favors their independence when they are fit for it. Mr. Wilson favors progressive measures to fit them for it.

The ex-president has been buncoed by Philippine carpet-baggers, and experience by this time should have taught him better.

Saturday Night Talk

By the Parson.

Little Foxes.

In the fields of Palestine long ago there roamed the "little foxes that spoil the vines." As the Australian farmer fights rabbits and the New England farmer woodchucks, so the Hebrew farmer of Bible times had to contend with foxes, little pests that trampled his vines and nibbled his grapes. Discouraging indeed must have been his toil when, in a night, marauders with bushy tails could spoil the ripening crop.

A little fox is not a formidable creature and will run at the crack of a popgun. But he can be destructive in a measure altogether out of proportion to his size. Wherein he resembles some of the traits of human nature. A fault may be apparently insignificant, but still capable of tremendous damage.

There are some sins, besides those of the first order, against which one must be on his guard. It is here not a question alone of eternal salvation or loss, but of present symmetry, beauty and effectiveness of character. A little fault may spoil us. The size of a thing is no measure of its power. A battleship looks big in the water and seems a mighty instrument of destruction. There is, on the other hand, a tiny germ called the tubercle bacillus so small that 900 of them can find room on the point of a needle. Yet the baccili destroy more lives each year than all the battleships of all the navies.

Goliath fell before David because he refused to take the lad seriously. "When the Philistine looked about and saw David, he disdained him, for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance." Not otherwise do we disdain many an apparently insignificant opponent—and to our cost.

There is, for instance, the habit of procrastination, the willingness to put things off. How many mortals are never quite ready to do the thing they ought to do? They will write that letter and make that call—tomorrow. After the manner of our easy-going Southern neighbors, they say placidly, "manana." Not all the Mexicans live in Mexico.

There is the habit of exaggeration. How easily may one, anxious to tell a good story, or to give a vivid description, fall into it. It is possible so to dress up an event in the narration of it or so to fill one's recital of some experience with inaccuracies as barely to escape the charge of falsehood. One might almost as well have the reputation of a liar as of one who habitually tells "big stories." Gradually people begin to distrust one who does so, and to set him down as an unreliable person.

There is the habit of discourtesy. A host of people who are impolite would not, to be sure, steal your purse, but, at least, their impoliteness adds no luster to their honesty. Morals are above manners, and even if the latter are bad the former may be good, which is often consoling. But how much more attractive the good morals would be if they had manners to match them. In the life of a civilized community the boor is heavily handicapped. For him many a fair vine of opportunity is trampled down.

The difficulty with the control of little foxes is that they won't stay little. They grow up all the time and their appetites grow with them. By and by they are too big to be fondled and petted, or laughted at. They are more like wolves who travel and hunt in packs. The best protection is to catch them young and put them securely in limbo. THE PARSON.

The Captain's Feather.

The dew is on the heather,
The moon is in the sky,
And the captain's waving feather
Proclaims the hour is nigh
When some upon their horses
Shall through the battle ride,
And some with bleeding corses
Must on the heather bide.

The dust is on the heather,
The moon is in the sky,
And about the captain's feather
The bolts of battle fly;
But hark, what sudden wonder
Breaks forth upon the gloom?
It is the cannon's thunder—
It is the voice of doom!

The blood is on the heather,
The night is in the sky,
And the gallant captain's feather
Shall wave no more on high;

The grave and holy brother
To God is saying mass,
But who shall tell his mother,
And who shall tell his lass?

A BALKY LEADER

By SAVOYARD

Washington, Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hon. Claude Kitchin is too garrulous for a safe counsellor. It is admirable for a parliamentary leader to be eloquent; but mere loquacity should be avoided. The Democratic public was ready to overlook Mr. Kitchin's opposition to the declared policy of the president on an important though non-partisan issue, as it had condoned Mr. Underwood's similar conduct in the last congress. The former leader announced that he opposed the repeal of the ship subsidy as an individual, and not as leader of the majority of the house of representatives, and Mr. Kitchin says that in his opposition to the program of the leader of his party he is acting as an individual member and not as the organ of his party in congress. Very well.

But why did Mr. Kitchin deliver himself of the following:

> "Four-fifths of the Democrats are opposed (to the president's policy touching preparedness) but many of them—I fear a large majority—will fling away their convictions on this question to please the president and do his will."

Is that the opinion of Mr. Kitchin? Somebody once asked, "Where the priest is a monkey, what must the laity be?" What must be Mr. Kitchin's opinion of the constituencies of those Democrats in congress of whom he speaks so contemptuously? A member of the American house of representatives is supposed to be the cream of his community, and here is Mr. Kitchin asserting that a majority of the Democrats in congress have no moral stamina and no mental independence.

Why does he seek to lead such a set? Sir John Falstaff recruited a squad of which he was chosen leader; but he had some shame, and he exclaimed, "I'll not march through Coventry with them; that's flat."

Probably it was Thomas Jefferson who smote primogeniture in our country and it withered, though it survives in both houses of the American congress. Mr. Kitchin owes his position to seniority of service. When the late Tom Reed was chosen speaker of the Fifty-fourth congress he brushed this foolish fetish aside. Sereno E. Payne was in line of promotion, was senior of his party's ways and means committee; but Reed chose Nelson Dingley for the chairmanship and Payne had to yield to him. And Reed had precedent, for in the Fifty-third congress Mr. Speaker Crisp deposed William M. Springer from the leadership and gave the place to William L. Wilson. Some of these days primogeniture in congress will be as odious as it is silly.

The sixteen years, 1895-1911, that the Republicans held their majority in the house of representatives can be laid to just one thing, and one thing only—the refusal of the Democratic party in congress and out of congress to recognize Grover Cleveland as the head of his party while he was president and give him loyal support. All intelligent Democrats now know he was right, and all candid Democrats now confess he was right. And if the Democratic party shall go down in defeat in 1916 that disaster will be due to those Democrats who refuse to follow the counsel of Woodrow Wilson, the leader of his party and the head of the nation.

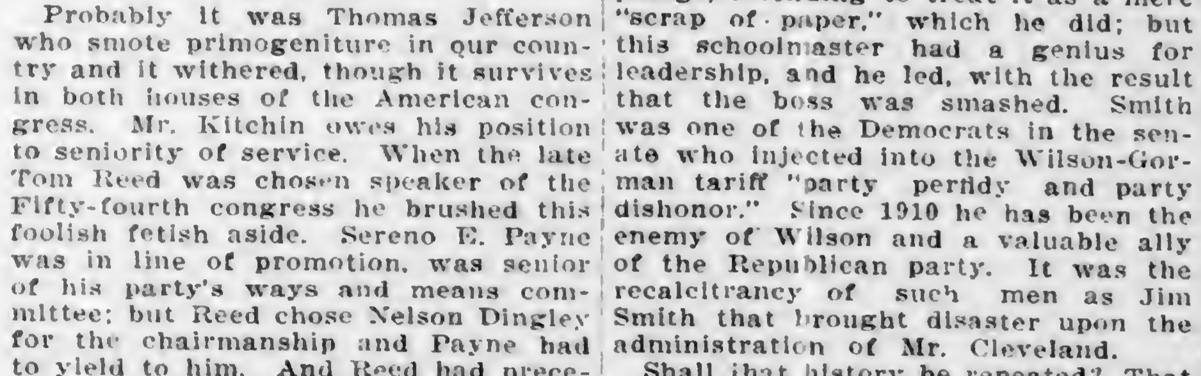
Politics is much like war, and success comes from wisdom in the leader and loyalty in the follower. Every Democrat will tell you that Wilson is a wise man. He is in a position to see things that are hidden from the public. Is he an honest man? Is he a patriot? If so, there is nothing for a Democrat in congress or out of congress to do but to recognize his primacy and embrace it, or get out of the party, as Carl Schurz, Charles Sumner and Lyman Trumbull left the Republican party in 1872, when they could no longer follow President Grant.

Woodrow Wilson is a consummate politician—the greatest our country has known since Abraham Lincoln. They sneer at him as a schoolmaster. So he was, and a very good one, if one shall give credence to common fame. That sneer reminds of the gibe, "Beggars of the Sea," bestowed on the Dutch by the Spaniards in the time of William the Silent. In 1910 there was just one Democrat in New Jersey who could be elected governor of that state. Boss Jim Smith knew that, and he brought about his nomination. But Wilson refused to accept the leadership until Smith pledged himself not to be a candidate for senator in congress. Looking on the nominee as a mere schoolmaster, Smith made the pledge, intending to treat it as a mere "scrap of paper," which he did; but this schoolmaster had a genius for leadership, and he led, with the result that the boss was smashed. Smith was one of the Democrats in the senate who injected into the Wilson-Gorman tariff "party perfidy and party dishonor." Since 1910 he has been the enemy of Wilson and a valuable ally of the Republican party. It was the recalcitrancy of such men as Jim Smith that brought disaster upon the administration of Mr. Cleveland.

Shall that history be repeated? That is a question that confronts every Democrat in congress and out of congress. There is this to say, and there is comfort in it—while a very great man, Mr. Cleveland was not a first-class politician; Wilson is a very great man and an admirable politician.

Mr. Kitchin should reflect that there are two elements of our citizenship demanding that the United States shall be prepared for defense against foreign aggression, whether that attack shall or shall not come. Wilson represents one element and Congressman Gardiner another. If the Wilson plan shall fail be sure the Gardiners will be called on to manage the affair. Gardiner demands a navy that can lick England's and an army that can lick Germany's. Wilson's idea is an army and a navy that can hold any adversary, however powerful, in check till we can recruit and drill an army that will be able to insure ultimate victory.

As for Mr. Bryan's plan, it has one fatal defect—it is based on the assumption that the millennium is already come and the prophecy of Isaiah already fulfilled.



HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Cystic Goiter

THE largest, the most hideous appearing and the most harmless kind of goiter is the cystic goiter. Cyst means a swelling containing some fluid. In cystic goiter the enlargement of the neck is often monstrous, and the enlargement within the normal outline of the neck is sometimes as great as the visible outward growth. However, outside of the appearance and the annoyance of the enlarged neck, there is no influence upon the general health.

As for remedies, we have never observed the slightest benefit from any remedy whatever in cases of true cystic goiter, although simple goiter and exophthalmic goiter do respond to treatment in most instances.

A cystic goiter, in our humble opinion, is as amenable to local or internal medication, charms or incantations as a wen on the scalp—and a wen utterly refuses to disappear until it is neatly and painlessly excised.

There are three monstrosities which people carry though life in preference to undergoing a simple operation—fatty tumors, wens and cystic goiters. Of course, it is up to the owner of the monstrosity, if he or she prefers the blemish to a wee bit of safe, aseptic, shockless, painless modern surgery.

For our part, though cowardly as the next doctor, we would not harbor one of these three unpleasant things a single day if we knew a good surgeon who would take the job seriously.

The large size attained by a cystic goiter is no bar to operative cure. Indeed the surgical removal of an exceedingly large cystic goiter weighing many pounds is a minor feat compared with the operation done for a case of exophthalmic goiter of scarcely noticeable size. The patient's general physical health not being affected by the goiter, it is all smooth sailing for the skilled operator.

Any one afflicted with a cystic goiter, if otherwise healthy and not already advanced in age, should consider the question of sugical cure intelligently and with due regard for the mental comfort to be anticipated in an absolute and permanent cure of the condition which cannot but handicap and ruin a useful life. There is no more excuse for harboring such a thing than there is for nursing wens or preserving simple fatty tumors; for modern surgery, despite the cunning insinuations of the fake "goiter specialist," is safe and efficient—and that is something no other alleged remedy for cystic goiter can claim to be.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Gargle for Speakers and Singers.

Please suggest a simple astringent gargle which one doing much public speaking and singing may use to clear the voice.

Answer—Mix a dram of powdered alum with half a pint of barley water and add an ounce or two of honey and rose. Gargle before speaking or singing to avoid roughness of the voice.

Wool Is Near to Nature.

What is considered the most hygienic material for underwear—cotton, silk, wool or linen?

Answer—For the eight months of the year when the weather is such that indoor heating is required, wool is the ideal stuff—light weight, knitted garments.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

To Gladden the Gardener's Heart.

THE GARDEN BLUEBOOK. A Manual of the Perennial Garden. By Leicester B. Holland. With more than 200 illustrations and color chart for garden planting. Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday, Page & Co. $3.50 net.

If among your friends or kin there is a garden lover, and you wish to get on the good side of him—or her—and to be remembered gratefully forever, buy him—or her—this garden book de luxe. It is a book to delight the heart of the flower-grower, and to be gloated over and read and reread and referred to time and time again. It is both de luxe and definitive. It treats something like 200 perennials, and it is a well-selected list, including all the old and new favorites. It gives a picture of each, with full description setting forth its character, description, cultural directions, enemies and remedies and method of propagation. Opposite each page is an ingenious blank form for entering your own observations of its habits in your climate and soil; also a blank form for entering facts about perennials not treated in this volume. A novel and valuable feature is a color chart, printed on canvas, showing at a glance the following facts about each perennial: color, height, time of blooming, preference for sun or shade, wet or dry soil, fragrance, cutting qualities—in short, the whole story about all the dependable perennials. The introductory article is also a valuable feature. It discusses the proper use of the charts; garden planting for color harmony, all-season bloom, etc. Nothing is lacking, and the treatment is practical and authoritative. The book is beautifully printed and the photographic reproductions are admirable, making it a peculiarly desirable gift which anybody who loves flower-gardening will prize and cherish and find useful through many years.

An Unusual Novel.

DAVID PENSTEPHEN. By Richard Pryce, author of "Christopher," "Jezebel," etc. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin company. $1.35 net.

Mr. Pryce has chosen a startlingly novel theme, and has made an extraordinarily worth-while book out of it.

When the story opens David is 7 years old, and is wondering—wondering about things that he is not to account for till his young manhood, when the strength and beauty of his character are to demonstrate themselves under stress of unusual poignancy. David, his father, his mother, his little sister and Betsy, their faithful servant, are on the continent, wandering. Why were they always traveling? Why was his mother so often sad? Why did they move so suddenly from Brussels to Holmburg? The reader is soon to know. They moved from Brussels because a great lady had commanded the landlord to put them out of the hotel, on penalty of losing her patronage. The reason was that David's mother and father were religious rebels, from families of religious rebels, and they had never been married. They did not believe in marriage. The story deals with the social punishment that attached to their stand for conscience's sake.

But when the persecution followed them to Homburg, where they were happily situated, it was too much for David's mother. She broke down, and good old Betsy told John Penstephen the truth—which was that she was living against her conscience. So David's father and mother were married. Then an accident made David's father heir to a baronetcy, and soon after a baby boy was born. He, not David the eldest, was the presumptive heir to the baronetcy. David and his little sister had no legal existence.

Not knowing this, David went to school. Not knowing it yet, he made friendships there—developed a talent for acting that took him to the Shropshire home of a school friend to play in "A School for Scandal." There a cad, in love with a girl who was attracted by David, told him, in public, for the first time what he was. How this unusual situation worked on David's character, and how that character was nobly formed, made the story. The people are very real. The style is highly agreeable, with much whimsical humor. The novel has uncommon interest and value.

A Biographical Romance.

THE GLORIOUS RASCAL. By Justin Huntley McCarthy, author of "If I Were King," "A Fool of April," etc. New York: John Lane company. $1.35 net.

This diverting tale is half biography, half romance, with that shining villain, Francois Villon, as its hero. We meet him first as a child, son of a good but illiterate mother, in the days when the Paris of Charles VII was in the hands of the English and the Burgundians, and the English king Henry VI claimed to be king of France. A drunken Burgundian brought to the house a girl babe, which he had picked up in the streets from the arms of her frozen mother, and rescued from wolves. Little Huguette and Francois were playmates till the Burgundian, bethinking him of the value in his declining years of a pretty girl daughter, returns to claim her, and Francois does not meet her again for many years. Then he has risen in the world, and is the protege of his fat, prosperous uncle the canon and of a valiant but voiceless knight, for whom he weaves dainty verses that win him Ambroise de Lore, daughter of the provost of Paris, which is singularly like Huguette. Huguette he finds dancing in the street, a mountebank, but he misses her after the dancing is over. Here, too, Francois makes an enemy in Phillippe Sermois, a fifteenth century Uriah Heep. Later, in Paris, where Francois is attending the university, he falls into the hands of Rene de Montigny, who with Guy Tabarie teaches him vice. There is a poignant picture of a clean youth's first plunge into the cesspool of dissipation, and of his gradual decline. While he is learning vice, Francois is learning sword-play. In both, he is an apt pupil—soon a master. Huguette reappears, a dainty light-'o-love, and their comradeship is resumed, though at first on a platonic basis. Sermois appears, too, and plots to destroy not only Francois Villon, but others. The story sweeps to a highly dramatic and romantic climax. Structurally it would have been stronger, perhaps, if it was either a romance or a biography instead of being both. As it is, it has abundant and thrilling interest, and in it, we think, there are the beginnings of another romantic play as successful as "If I Were King."

A Conservative Who Isn't Tied to a Post.

ETHICS IN SERVICE. By William Howard Taft, LL. D., D. C. L., Kent professor of Law, Yale college. New Haven: Yale University Press. $1 net.

Allowing first for the inborn conservatism of the man, one may find much interest and profit in the lectures included in this volume. His is a viewpoint, and one that it well to have wisely upheld, as he wisely upholds it. If it prevailed, we should have stagnation; without it as a restraint, we should have precipitate calamity. Judge Taft's arguments are delivered with the good humor that so graces him, and if there is such a thing as liberal illiberality in social thought, he has it. On issues not involved in the eternal struggle between those who push forward and those who cling to the status quo, the ex-president is wise, forward-looking and on crucial issues he as often the most progressive of standpatters. The lectures included in the volume are: "History of the Profession of Law," "Legal Ethics," "The Executive Power," "Signs of the Times," "More Signs of the Times." In his discussion of the law he is often truly progressive. In his discussion of "Signs of the Times" he is often lamentably reactionary. Always he is interesting, impressive, clearheaded and able.

About Wild Flowers.

WILD FLOWERS OF THE NORTH AMERICAN MOUNTAINS. By Julia W. Henshaw, F. R. G. S., honorary secretary of the Alpine club of Canada. Illustrated. New York: Robert M. McBride & Co. $2.50 net.

This popular guide to the wild flowers of the hills and mountains of the United States and Canada is equipped with a reference color key which will help the student—whether amateur botanist or tourist or mountain climber—to locate easily the name and family and characteristics of the flowers he comes upon. Intended for the untrained observer rather than for the scientist, it is at the same time scientifically accurate. The descriptions are clear and interesting. The new Vienna rules are followed in the nomenclature. There are many photographs, sixteen of them in color, of extraordinary excellence.

Care of the New Baby.

YOUR BABY. By Dr. E. B. Lowry. Chicago: Forbes & Co. $1 net.

Dr. Lowry pleads for "better babies," and plainly tells how to prepare for them and how to start them in life. The book seems to be one that prospective mothers and young mothers will find very valuable, as it covers virtually everything that need be known by a mother regarding the care of herself and her baby. Nearly half the book is devoted to the mother's care of herself before the baby is born, though it contains the latest and best advice about the baby's feeding, clothing, exercise, sleep and training.

The "American Ailment."

NEURASTHENIA. By John Harvey Kellogg, M. D., superintendent of the Battle Creek Sanitarium. Revised Edition. Battle Creek, Mich.: Good Health Publishing company. $2.

"The American disease," this has been called; and doubtless it is the most prevalent and the least understood of diseases. It does not often kill, but it does lessen efficiency and make many lives miserable; it drives out positive and useful thought to fill the mind with worry and fretting and selfishness. That many suffer from it may be partly realized from the fact that this revised edition of Dr. Kellogg's book comes out within a year of the first edition, so great is the demand for it. It has been improved by important and useful additions.

Dr. Kellogg disposes of many false notions about "neurasthenia"—which name he preserves because of its popularity, though it is going out of professional usage. He declares it not to be a disease, but a symptom; and most often a symptom of putrefying surplus food elements in the colon. It is characteristic of the neurasthenic that it was felt necessary to omit the usual long lists of symptoms, because of the certainty that every neurasthenic that reads it would immediately begin reveling in a new set of symptoms of his own. Another false idea about the trouble is upset by Dr. Kellogg's opinion that it is seldom due to overwork. He discusses the various varieties of neurasthenia and its causes, and suggests simple and practical remedies, having mostly to do with diet, baths, exercises and other substitutes for worse than useless medicines. While possibly the author goes farther toward strict vegetarianism than many other authorities would sanction, his book and his advice will be found helpful by those who are hampered by the innumerable varieties of "nervous troubles."

A Remarkable Study.

THE WAY OF MARTHA AND THE WAY OF MARY. By Stephen Graham, author of "Russia And the World," etc. New York: The Macmillan company. $2 net.

This is quite the most wonderful of Mr. Graham's books, all of which show an amazing insight which could not be gained merely by observation, even after the prolonged and patient study he has given the Russian people. Perhaps nobody has performed such a service in bringing the Christian West to an understanding of the Christian East, represented by Russia, as Mr. Graham.

His book is a survey of Eastern Christianity; but it is much more than that: it is a picture of Western Christianity as well, reflected against the background of the Eastern Christianity which is the theme of the book. It is, also, a picture of the inner life of the Russian people, for when you know the religion of a people you know that people. One section is devoted to a journey made from Egypt to Russia, and one to the story of how Christianity came to Russia. The book is, in a way, a sequel to and a summing up of the author's preceding books on Russia.

Says the author in his preface: "The quotation 'Martha, Martha, thou art cumbered about with many things: but one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her' is as common in Russia as 'faith without works is dead' is common here. Speaking roughly, Eastern Christianity is associated with Mary's good part and Western Christianity with the way of Martha and service. The two aspects seem to be irreconcilable, but they are not; and I have called my book 'The Way of Martha and the Way of Mary' because the ways of the sisters are touchstones for Christianity, and in their reconciliation is a great beauty. 'The Way of Martha and the Way of Mary' is an interpretation and a survey of Eastern Christianity, and a consideration of the ideas at present to the fore in Christianity generally." The picture is given additional vividness by the reactions of war.

In the Witches' Caldron.

THE CRIMSON GONDOLA. By Nathan Gallizier, author of "Castel de Monte," "The Sorceress of Rome," "The Hill of Venus," etc. Boston: The Page company. $1.35 net.

With a setting at the time of the great tension between Venice and Constantinople, which culminated in the fourth Crusade and the Latin conquest of Constantinople, this latest work of Nathan Gallizier is a romance full of the warfare, duels and love tales found in the novels of the eighteenth century. There is excitement in plenty and readers of romantic fiction will find considerable enjoyment in "The Crimson Gondola."

The story concerns itself with the fortunes and adventures of Audran de Vere while in Constantinople on a mission to take the Lady Eleanor of Montserrat from the witches' caldron of the Greek capitol.

For Younger Readers.

"Collecting Relics."

THE BOY COLLECTOR'S HANDBOOK. By A. Hyatt Verrill, author of "The Boy's Vacation Book," "The Wireless Book," etc. New York: Robert M. McBride & Co. $1.50 net.

Every boy, at some time in his life, is a collector of something, whether it is coins, stamps, rocks, egg shells or walnuts. Often the same spirit continues into maturity. Wealthy collectors of paintings, scarabs, antique furniture and articles of virtu are actuated by much the same spirit as that of the boy collecting foreign postage stamps. It's good business, too; it sharpens observation, widens knowledge, provides a wholesome interest in life. Mr. Verrill in this crowded volume tells all about it—how to start a collection, how to plan it, enlarge it, systematize it, make it most to contribute to interest and knowledge. He covers the whole field, too. Besides general chapters, there are chapters on rocks and minerals, fossils, plants and vegetable specimens, insects, fresh water animals, marine animals, Indian relics, historical relics, stamps, coins, postcards, etc. There are also useful chapters on the camera and the microscope. Boys should find the volume practical, interesting and helpful.

Things for Boys to Do.

THE BOY MECHANIC. One Thousand Things for Boys to Do. Vol. 2. Chicago: Popular Mechanics company. $1.50.

The boy with a mechanical turn of mind surely ought to revel in this fat, full and well illustrated volume. It includes an amazing variety of information on devices for winter sports, indoor games, making innumerable articles, with nearly a thousand illustrations to supplement the text. Its 472 pages include a handy index. All of the articles described, it is said, have actually been made, so that the work outlined is practical. The instructions are clear, and the volume should prove interesting and valuable to boys who like to make things.

Child Life in Mexico.

THE MEXICAN TWINS. By Lucy Fitch Perkins, author of "The Irish Twins," "The Japanese Twins," etc. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin company. $1 net.

As in her former stories of this character, Mrs. Perkins manages to draw a lively and interesting picture of life in Mexico, while telling a story into which is woven entertaining descriptions of the social and family customs of the country. The tale of little Tonio and Tita begins on San Ramon's day, when all the animals and fowls must be taken to the priest for blessing, and ends with the Christmas observances.

War From a New Viewpoint.

BATTLEGROUND ADVENTURES IN THE CIVIL WAR. By Clifton Johnson. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin company. $2 net.

It is amazing that after fifty years a fresh viewpoint for the treatment of war stories should be found, but Mr. Johnson has found it. These stories of the Civil war are from the viewpoint of those whose homes were on or near the battlegrounds, and they are told mainly by non-combatant eye-witnesses. Mr. Johnson made a trip over the battlefields and located survivors among the local inhabitants who could tell him the experiences of themselves and their neighbors when war invaded their peaceful homes. For instance, the story of Bull Run is told by the daughter of a farmer who lived close to the line of battle, and the story of Fredericksburg by a man whom the Union soldiers then called "the little rebel." A slave blacksmith tells one story, a canal boatman another. It requires personal experience to supply the touch of vividness which no imagination can equal, and this the author has achieved abundantly. While interesting to anybody, the book will make an especial appeal to American boys.

Among the Magazines.

"Notes on the Intelligence of Woman" is the challenging title of the opening article of the December Atlantic. It comes from the pen of W. L. George, the English feminist, woes goes at his subject in a truly scientific fashion, and illustrates with a series of entertaining anecdotes and characteristic fragments of conversation his unusual point of view, which is bound to be the subject of lively discussion across many a dinner table this winter. Two other papers in the magazine also attract special attention: John Koren's "Drink Reform in Europe" and Henry Sydnor Harrison's "Poor America." Mr. Koren, who is a recognized authority on the liquor problem both at home and abroad, reviews the temperance legislation which the belligerent nations of Europe have passed since the war began, and finds it to have done little good; he especially shows the deplorable results of the vodka ban in Russia, of which so many enthusiastic and misleading reports have reached this country. The best liquor legislation in Europe he finds in Sweden. Mr. Harrison, the popular novelist, comes to the rescue of the American reading public, which is so often accused of lack of critical taste. He claims that the average American likes good literature, and that the ablest fiction of our day usually stands among the "six best-sellers."

Three unusual articles on the war are contained in the December American Magazine. Under the title "War the Result of Poor Advertising," Gerald Stanley Lee explains why war is the last resort of governmental publicity bureaus and what takes place in a great country when the national billboards go down. A town that is built from gunpowder and where the great bulk of war orders is filled is described by Merle Crowell, who gives his readers perhaps the best description of the powder industries that has been published since the beginning of the present conflict. E. Richard Schayer, an American, who has seen seven months' active service with the British army in France, tells the strange story of a French soldier who let himself be shot for cowardice and desertion rather than kill his enemies. In his "Annual Christmas Farce," Edwin L. Sabin offers help to the reluctant giver in saving his money and keeping his friends.

"Pranks and Perils on the Sea" is the title of an article written for the Youth's Companion by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Dr. Clark describes in pleasant fashion various humorous and startling incidents that occurred during a trip round the world in a Hamburg-American liner. He also describes a narrow escape he had on another liner on the Atlantic.

The World's Work for December opens a campaign against the pork barrel and congressional extravagance. "Shall We Have Responsible Government?" by Burton J. Hendrick, emphasizes how every civilized nation in the world, except the United States, runs its finances on the budget system, and how the financiers we have had in congress have favored a budget system. The evils of our present financial system and the advantages of the budget system are graphically put forward. A profusely illustrated article on "Italy and the Great War," by W. Morton Fullerton, gives an interesting and instructive account of how Austria wished to attack Serbia a year before the great war broke out—and how Italy was cognizant of the fact; also Italy's position among the European powers and the reasons for her actions and "hesitations" since August, 1914. D. Thomas Curtin's "Sweden's Role in the Great War" graphically describes the economic and diplomatic struggles of the belligerents in Scandinavia. "Behind the Greek and Bulgar Scenes," by George Marvin, gives a good picture of the diplomatic and political situations in the Balkans which clearly explain many of the original causes of the actions and reactions in the near East.

The December St. Nicholas is altogether a Christmas number, dressed up for the occasion and offering many gifts appropriate to the season. In "Anna Belle's Christmas Eve," by Josephine Scribner Gates, author of "The Live Dolls" series, Anna Belle interviews a Christmas fairy and discovers just what the holiday means and how to observe it. "The Spirit of Christmas," by Dora H. Hooker, tells how old Mr. Grouch went on a trip and was cured of his bad temper. This story is illustrated in two colors by C. Clyde Squires. Carolyn Wells contributes "The Little Fir Tree," a parable as beautiful as one of Hans Andersen's. "The Fate of the Christmas Pie," is a rollicking ballad by Ellen Manly, with illustrations in color by Reginald B. Birch. Mrs. Reeve Burton's amusing verses, "When Christmas Comes," are illustrated by Fanny Y. Cory. "Will Bradley's Wonder Box" will be opened for Christmas—and will stay open for many months to come; while J. D. Whitney, offers in "Mr. S. Claus's Predicament" a Christmas play which groups of children the country over will find just the right play to give themselves.

Andrew Carnegie sends a personal message of inspiration to the boys of America in an interview in the Christmas issue of the American Boy magazine. Mr. Carnegie in an article entitled "Getting a Start in the World," tells of the hardships of his own boyhood, and gives an autographed motto that has been the guide of his own successful life. "Christmas Morning in Our Village" is a delightful cover, in Harrison Cady's inimitable style. "The Clean Cookee," a Christmas story by Clarence B. Kelland, is a live story of a real boy, in whose vocabulary the word "quit" was entirely missing. Another tale filled with the holiday spirit is "The Lynx's Christmas," by Harold de Polo.

The December Century contains a number of special Christmas features, among them a frontispiece by Maxfield Parrish, the first example of this famous illustrator's work to be published in a long time. Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett contributes "The Little Hunchback Zia," a Christmas story of nineteen hundred years ago, with all this beloved author's peculiar and inexhaustible glamour. Another story, "The Fruit of the Tree," by William Merriam Rouse, is filled to the brim with the contagious Christmas spirit. Especially notable is the first installment of "Our Nation in the Building," a series of picturesque essays on the early social history of the Republic, by Helen Nicolay, daughter of Lincoln's famous secretary and biographer. John Adams, "An Idol's Successor," and Thomas Jefferson, "Imperialist or Democrat?" are the subjects of her first two chapters, which give the most intimate aspects of those early days almost as a contemporary would have seen them. There are twelve illustrations. "C. F.," an article by John D. Williams, business manager of the Charles Frohman company, is a character sketch of the great manager who controlled theaters in five capitals, moved about dozens of the greatest artists like pawns on a chess-board, was called by Bernard Shaw the "most wildly adventurous person" of his acquaintance, and met with his last and greatest adventure when the Lusitania went down. "C. F." is Frohman as his closest friends saw him. Many photographs accompany the article.

In "An Amateur Climb of Grand Teton," in the December Outing, the author, an army officer, describes how he and two other men—a sergeant and a private—climbed one of the steepest teton peaks on the Western side of Jackson Hole, Wyo. "Speed Made to Order" is an article on the development of automobile speedways, taking the new one at Sheepshead Bay as an example. The subject is dealt with from the standpoint of speed as a development in automobile racing, rather than the mere manner and cost of the speedway construction. In an article entitled "Outfit for Walking Trips," Mr. Kephart describes in detail the right kind of outfit for the man who wants to carry everything he needs on his back. He makes up a pack weighing less than thirty pounds, containing tent, blanket, cooking kit, hatchet and provisions for one week.

Leading position in the Engineering Magazine for December is given to a thoughtful article by Alex Del Mar on "How to Sell to Latin-America." Mr. Del Mar speaks from long experience and his position as president of the Latin-American Chamber of Commerce gives his words authority. Most attractive illustrations accompany this article. Of equally broad appeal is an analysis by Prof. Harold Pender of the factors involved in long distance radio-telephony and its future development; the wonderful achievements in this direction of the last few months make this an unusually timely article. In urging his friends in the steel industry to devote more energy to advertising their products, George H. Jones of the Inland Steel company is doing some important pioneer work. The successful competition with cement and timber products and the expansion of the street product field, Mr. Jones declares, depends on adequate and intelligent advertising.

This number of the Strand is also replete with articles of special and timely interest, by such well known authors as Sir Whitworth Wallis and Walter Emanuel, whose chat on "Among My Drawings" is catchingly illustrated.

The Metropolitan for December leads with an article, "The Burning Balkans," by John Reed who, having spent some months in the region, writes with an intimate knowledge of affairs in these troubled states. It is illustrated by sketches made on the spot by Boardman Robinson. Henry Reuterdahl in "Arm or Surrender," tells to what straits the American army has been reduced by this country's lack of military responsibility. Will Irwin in his article, "Lord Northcliffe," gives a vivid pen picture of this remarkable Englishman who is the biggest newspaper proprietor in the world, and whose expose of the munitions situation in England brought about the formation of the new war cabinet. The serial, "Then I'll Come Back to You," by Larry Evans is concluded, and "The Lion's Share" by Arnold Bennett is continued. There are short stories by Fannie Hurst, George Weston and Jessie Trimble.

TUBERCULIN TESTS FOR OUTSIDE DAIRIES

Inspection Brings Higher Grade of Milk to Duluth.

Tuberculin tests of all cattle from outside dairies shipping milk into Duluth are now being made by the city health department to protect the local consumers.

In his monthly report for November, Gust Hedman, city dairy and milk inspector, announces the new plan for safeguarding the public and preventing unhealthful milk from being shipped into the city.

His report on the bacterial count taken of milk shipped during the month shows that outside dairies are sending better milk for local consumption, not a single violation of the state law having been found throughout the month. The state allows 300,000 bacteria to each cubic centimeter of milk.

According to Inspector Hedman, all herds belonging to outside dairies will be inspected and given the tuberculin test by Jan. 1. His complete report was submitted to Health Director Fahey yesterday.

Following is the bacterial count of the outside dairies:

Pine City Creamery company, Pine City	48,000
A. C. Taylor, Foxboro, Wis.	59,000
J. C. Anderson, Bruno, Minn.	78,000
C. H. Lovett, Foxboro	54,000

When the bacterial counts were first taken of outside shipments last spring, it was discovered that there were from 500,000 to 2,000,000 bacteria in a cubic centimeter and Director Fahey immediately started an active campaign against the shippers.

"STRAWBERRIES NOT WORTH THE MONEY"

Local Dealer Stops Payment on Check; Put Under Arrest.

Strawberries don't interest the $100-a-month man much at this time of year, but a certain shipment of strawberries arriving in Duluth last summer is causing all kinds of trouble for A. A. King, treasurer-manager of the Northwestern Produce company.

Mr. King was arrested on complaint of George F. Morgan, representing the Bayfield County (Wis.) Farmers' Fruit Growers' association. Mr. Morgan alleges that Mr. King drew a check for $324 on July 10 last in payment for a shipment of Bayfield county berries and that the check proved worthless.

"I stopped payment on the check because the berries weren't what they were supposed to be," explained Mr. King yesterday when arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting in municipal court, police said.

Refusing to waive examination he was taken to the county jail. He will be given a prelim'nary hearing Dec. 17.

AIDS NEEDY; STOPS WASTE

President of Associated Charities Addresses Club on Methods of Work.

E. A. Silberstein Declares Organization Helps and Protects.

"It is the aim of the Associated Charities to save the stamina of families and the money of charitably inclined persons," said E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, in an address before the Lakeside Brotherhood club at the club's dinner last evening. He spoke on "Methods of Operation of the Associated Charities."

"The Associated Charities applies business and scientific principles to social needs and develops correlated church and charitable societies into efficient working bodies," he said. "It operates on the order of a doctor or business expert and a diagnosis of the case is first made. The home is visited and if emergency distress is found the nearest grocery store or coal bin furnishes the immediate solution.

Subject Must Help.

"A large portion of the charitable work must be solved by the subject. Operatives of the charities can help and suggest, but the subject must cooperate. The Charities must also have the co-operation of branch charitable societies if succor is to be properly given."

Walter S. Adams addressed the members of the brotherhood on "The By-Products of Coal." He referred to the scarcity of dye products since the outbreak of the big European war.

"The dye formulas are now in possession of the foreign chemists, but the ingenuity of the American chemists will overcome the disadvantage within a short time."

The meeting was held in the annex of the Lakeside Presbyterian church, Forty-fifth avenue east and McCulloch street. The dinner, which preceded the speaking program, was served by the women of the church.

HEBREW PUPILS WILL STAGE PLAY

Allegorical Pageant Will Be Put on at Adas Israel Synagogue.

Children of the Hebrew free school will stage an allegorical pageant at the Adas Israel synagogue tomorrow evening, depicting incidents in the history of the Jews that led to the rededication of the temple and the festival of Hanukkah, which is being observed this week.

Rabbi W. Kissin, director of the schools, is in charge of the program, which will also include a series of tableaux, showing the seven holiday seasons of the Jewish race, the victory of Judas Maccabeus over the Syrians, the growth of the Jewish race and and various periods in its history leading down to modern times. The climax will include a description of the present war in Europe, showing how the Jews are suffering in Poland, Galicia and Roumania.

The program will start at 7 o'clock and those who will participate follow:

Irene Bergstein, Anna Winer and Mollie Singer, introductory; Joe Fox, kindling of the lights; Morris Zlatkovsky, Adas Israel congregation; Bennie Garon, Hanukkah; Sherman Kasmir, Passover; Bennie Toback, Pentecost, the feast of weeks; Sam Casmir, Succoth, the feast of tabernacles; Agnes Safer, the solemn days of Rosh Hashannah and Yom Kippur; Carl Kaplan, representing Zionism.

GOVERNOR WILL AID IN FIGHT

Urges All State Officials to Buy Red Cross Seals.

Governor Hammond is taking an official as well as a personal part in the Red Cross Christmas seal campaign this season and is directing attention to the educational as well as financial value of the seal.

Governor Hammond was deeply impressed by the electric light which he saw at a tuberculosis exhibit, flashing every thirty seconds to indicate the death from tuberculosis of some one in the civilized world.

"I am appalled at this statement, and I feel that every method and device should be employed to rid the world of so terrible a disease," says the governor. "The sale of Red Cross Christmas seals serves a double purpose; first, it calls attention to the financial outlay in caring for tuberculosis; secondly, it furnishes means to carry on the work of preventing and relieving a disease which claims one of every four persons dying between the ages of fifteen and fifty.

"I am glad to see that efforts are being made everywhere to combat the ravages of tuberculosis, and I feel that the Minnesota Public Health association is to be commended in its efforts to make Tuberculosis Week, Dec. 6 to 12, one in which the people will be instructed in the fight to prevent and eradicate this evil."

The governor is urging all state officials to boost the campaign personally and officially by buying and encouraging the purchase of the seals, 90 per cent of the proceeds of which will be used in anti-tuberculosis work in this state.

SUSPECTED OF KILLING FATHER

Son of Banker Dickins of Longmont, Cal., Placed Under Arrest.

Longmont, Colo., Dec. 4.—Rienzi C. Dickins, son of William H. Dickins, the aged banker who was killed in his home Tuesday night by a bullet fired through the library window, was arrested late yesterday by Sheriff Buster of Boulder county in connection with his father's death. The arrest immediately followed the funeral services, which the son attended in custody of a deputy marshal. Members of the Dickins family protested at the action of the sheriff upon the ground of insufficient evidence.

Officers and detectives said that suspicion was directed toward Rienzi Dickins through the discovery that about a month ago he purchased a high power rifle in Denver and also ordered a patent silencer, which he afterward received by mail. The officers said that this rifle and silencer had been discovered in young Dickins' garage, where it had been taken to pieces and concealed in different parts of the building.

Young Dickins stoutly maintained his innocence and declared that on the evening of his father's murder he was at his home with two of his children, while his wife and three other children attended a motion picture show.

The prisoner has been engaged in the cattle business and is said to have lost heavily during the last year.

BURIED AT CUMBERLAND.

Victim of North Dakota Tragedy Brought to Wisconsin.

Cumberland, Wis., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Paul Lee arrived here from Hettinger, N. D., yesterday, and interment was made in Lakeside cemetery here. Mr. Lee, who was a very popular young farmer of this place, went out to North Dakota on a visit a month ago and while driving in a sulky cart from one town to another got lost in a blizzard. As he was fording the Flat river, the horse went into a deep hole and both Lee and the horse were drowned and as the ice froze over them, the bodies were not found for nearly a week.

RULING HEADS OFF MORE LAW ATTACKS

North Dakota Supreme Court Believed to Have Stopped Such Acts.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — The state supreme court, by refusing original jurisdiction in the tax commission case, has blockaded the numerous actions which threatened to attack the constitutionality of the laws creating the state tax commission, the state board of control, the state board of regents and numerous deficit appropriations. For a while, as a result of attacks and counter attacks there threatened to be a regular epidemic of these actions and the attitude of the supreme court is regarded as clarifying the situation.

Court Is Commended.

Generally the court is commended for its common sense in heading off these actions, even if it did rather reverse itself. A day or two prior to its refusal to take original jurisdiction in the tax commission case it did permit the institution of action to test the validity of the state bonding measure.

Many of the actions threatened were largely of a political character and also largely retaliatory.

INSTANTLY KILLED THAWING DYNAMITE

Lumber Company Employe on Couderay Reservation Loses Life.

Couderay, Wis., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Perry of Rice Lake was instantly killed on the Couderay Indian reservation yesterday afternoon while thawing out some dynamite. He was foreman for the Bekkedal Lumber company in one of their logging camps and was thawing out the dynamite to be used for stump blowing in building roads, when it exploded. He was about 40 years old and leaves a wife and several children.

Valuable Hints On Care of the Teeth

Great care should be exercised in selecting a dentifrice. Some powders and creams contain grit that scratches the teeth. Others actually eat away the enamel little by little. Others contain coloring matter that stains the teeth. Still others are so powerfully astringent they cause the gums to shrink and recede. Most of them have little effect on discolored films or "placques" which adhere so tenaciously and prevent many from having really white teeth, no matter how they rub and scrub.

The very best thing to use on the tooth brush is ordinary refined avatol, which may be found in any drug store in convenient tubes. It is open to none of the objections named and, besides being so thoroughly cleansing, actually removes even the most obstinate stains or spots. Used daily, like a tooth paste, it will keep all teeth glistening white, healthy and beautiful. Occasionally a little of the refined avatol should be put on a coarse thread and drawn between the teeth, to keep the sides antiseptically clean and spotless. —Advertisement.

COMMENT ON PLAYS AND PLAYERS — WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS PROMISE

AFTER Mr. Cyril Maude and his delightful company of English actors close their too brief engagement at the Lyceum tonight, "The Birth of a Nation" will return to the Lyceum for a week's extended engagement.

This wonderful film is setting a new record for a long run in Duluth that is not likely to be equalled for several years to come. It has already been presented thirty-seven times, and sixteen more performances will be given.

Following "The Birth of a Nation" the bookings at the Lyceum will be rather uncertain. It is difficult to get first class road attractions for the simple reason that they are not available. The Lyceum management would gladly book the theater "solid" with such attractions as "Grumpy" if they were available, but they are not, and during the six or eight weeks following next week the bookings are few and far between. It is possible that popular priced vaudeville will be used to fill in the open time, but this has not yet been definitely decided.

Thomas Furniss with his Rex and Lyric theaters, now has both the Paramount and the Triangle programs. The Lyric has been made the home of the former, and the new Triangle programs are being shown at the Rex.

Meanwhile the New Grand has the vaudeville field to itself, and after tonight will be the only theater in Duluth playing anything but pictures.

Duluth friends of Al Smith will be interested in knowing that he is now in Dover, N. J., associated with William Mortimer, formerly of the Baldwin Players, in a stock company enterprise. In a brief note to The Herald "Al" reports that "Darkest New England" seems to like the stock company.

ANOTHER WEEK FOR "BIRTH OF NATION"

Lyceum Secures Farewell Engagement of Famous Griffith Photoplay.

So numerous have been the requests of in and out-of-town patrons of the Lyceum theater to Manager Morrissey for an extension of the engagement of the mighty spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," that after much telegraphing, long distance telephoning and the like to the next stand in which the picture was scheduled to play (Grand Forks), Mr. Morrissey has been able to secure one more week of this pictorial masterpiece, starting with the usual daily matinee on Sunday.

The splendid musical score was especially written and arranged for Griffith's master conception by Prof. Karl Breil. It is fully rendered at each exhibition of the play by an orchestra and synchronizes perfectly with each of the several thousand scenes. So complicated is the blending in each of these special numbers to the visual scene to be thus matched, that each leader has to "sit in" with an orchestra playing it a full month before he is competent to direct the score himself. And each orchestra put out on the road is thoroughly rehearsed day and night for two weeks under this director before attempting to handle the music.

As no spoken lines or lecturing can explain the masterful story being unfolded, this orchestra, by its serene or sweet, calm or stormy, wild or picturesque passages, illustrates or "brings home" to the spectators each one of the scenes and every variation of the immense action.

One of the Powerful Romances.

At the outset of the narrative, Ben Cameron (the famous "Little Colonel" of the play, represented by Henry B. Walthall) is in love with Elsie Stoneman (Lillian Gish), a Northern girl, whose father afterwards turns out to be the notorious "carpet-bagger," who joins forces with the ambitious negro, Lynch, to control the free "nigger" vote and ride into office and get his hands on fat treasuries through the operation.

The cruel war, in which the "Little Colonel" gallantly wins his spurs, intervenes and four long and painful years are the lovers separated. Stoneman hates Ben Cameron and the war and the bitter hatreds it engenders, has built a barrier between the two proud hearts.

Later, when the unprincipled mulatto, Lynch, decides he has Stoneman "where he wants him," and determines to found a black empire with himself as "the emperor," he resolves that lovely Elsie Stoneman, the unfortunate daughter of his fellow plotter, must be the white empress.

Stoneman now realizes, when it is too late, where his over-reaching tactics have landed him and his innocent child—but he is broken and helpless, and absolutely at the mercy of the maddened Lynch, who has the upper hand, with the free "niggers" and the colored militia back of him.

Nothing would have saved the unfortunate girl at that moment from a fate more distasteful than death, but the timely intervention of Leader Ben Cameron and his fearless clansmen, who picturesquely bear down upon the rendezvous and break up the repulsive ceremony, occasioning one of the bloodiest fights recorded in the picture.

This brings Stoneman to his senses and he has no further opposition to Cameron; it also settles all the false pride on lovely Elsie's part, who has been saved from such a horrible fate.

SCENE FROM "THE BROKEN LAW" AT THE LYRIC.

ENGAGEMENT OF "THE BIRTH OF A NATION" IS EXTENDED

D. W. GRIFFITH,
Producer of "The Birth of a Nation.

When David W. Griffith started the outdoor staging of the Civil war and Reconstruction scenes in "The Birth of a Nation," which will be shown at the Lyceum theater for a farewell week starting with tomorrow's matinee, he was confronted with seemingly insuperable difficulties. An area of private war was required about as large as the corner of Belgium occupied by the Anglo-French forces. Thousands of cavalrymen had to be shown, in an historic raid of the North Carolina clans. Their run was to be many, many miles of typical Southern sandy roads. Though an acknowledged "wizard" of the films, Mr. Griffith is not a "war lord," with power to commandeer.

In this emergency, the county authorities of "The Birth of a Nation" producing locale were applied to. They finally consented to mark off an area of ten square miles for the use of the horsemen. Along all the roads within this area, the county commissioners pasted notices forbidding all traffic on "the day of days." Pedestrians were also warned off. But the roads themselves did not look southern. David Griffith handled this difficulty—with the authorities' permission—by remaking such of the highways as would come within the camera's eye. Many tons of sand and gravel were spread by gangs of his workmen. Landscape engineering changed the look of the landscape to the rounded hills, piny woods and deep gullies of old North state. The race of the northern clansmen to rescue their South Carolina brethren took place on the appointed day, without an accident or a flaw. After it was over, Mr. Griffith's men scraped the sand off the macadam roads, took down the signs, and life in the sleepy countryside resumed its normal course. It cost about $25,000 to do the trick. The producer thinks it was worth all it cost, particularly after hearing the enthusiastic comments of "The Birth of a Nation" patrons on his work.

CLASSY PROGRAM AT NEW GRAND

Thrilling Japanese Act Toplines Show for Week-End.

Class sticks out all over the present bill at the popular New Grand, which is one of the best seen in that charming little playhouse for many days. Toplining the bill are the Three Mori Brothers, Japanese athletes, offering a routine of Japanese pastimes such as thrilling and daring hand balancing, gymnastics, acrobatics and tumbling. There are plenty of sensations and thrills by the score throughout the offering.

The Read St. John Trio offer a musical surprise. Their style is original, their music of the best and their repertoire a popular one.

Robert and Robert, a man and a dog in an impressive skit, "A True Friend," give a remarkable exhibition of animal intelligence and training. The dog Robert seems endowed with almost human intelligence and goes through his part of the performance without a word of instruction, picking up his cues with incredible skill. A conglomeration of wit and humor, intermingled with some clever parodies, is the offering of Dunbar and Turner. The whole is refreshing and enjoyable entertainment and register them one of the true hits of the bill.

Heading the photoplays is "The Woman's Share," a two-reel drama with a strong plot and a timely thesis, ably played by an all-star Vitagraph cast. One of "The Ventures of Marguerite," "A Society Schemer," two comedies and the Hearst-Selig News projecting unusual events from all over the world, make up the remainder of a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

The new bill opening Monday promises much in the way of entertainment. Heading the bill is an imported novelty, Bobbker's Arabs, consisting of eight Arabian athletes in feats of pyramiding and whirlwind tumbling. Charming Dora Pelletier, singing comedienne; Dave Raefeil and company in a ventriloqual skit, "On the Farm," and Berns and Dean, two dainty maids in a song and dance revue, are among the other good things in a vaudeville way.

Heading the photoplays is a story of army life in the Philippines, "As the Twig Is Bent," in three reels, interpretd by an all-star cast. Two comedies complete the program.

AT THE REX.

"Martyrs of the Alamo" With Noted Historical Characters Shown.

American or foreign born, neutral or partisan, "Martyrs of the Alamo," will make Duluthians understand why this country is what it is today. The fight for the independence of Texas is shown in pictures of intense, graphic, gripping realism that thrills as they recall the history of the bravery and courage displayed by such famous charcters as Bowie, Crockett, Houston, "Silent" Smith and Santa Anna. And through it all runs a love story that ends happily. D. W. Griffith has selected a decidedly historical subject but has made the whole production sensational.

Sennet's hilarious comedy, "Saved by Wireless," is, strictly speaking, a "burlesque" of fun and frolic with hair-raising stunts that make one gasp. Chester Conklin and Mack Swain do battle on a rope appended to an aeroplane.

Beginning Thursday, William S. Hart will be the star of the Triangle Fine Arts productions, as the shooting parson in "The Disciple" and Polly Moran as the stage-struck girl in love with a matinee idol, is the laugh provoker in the Triangle Keystone. Its good, clean comedy makes one laugh the full thirty minutes.

THREE MORI BROTHERS,
In "Japanese Pastimes" Now at the New Grand.

FOX FILMS DRAW CROWDS

Lyric Patrons Well Pleased With Star Attractions.

The worth of a trade mark is well represented by the crowds attending the Lyric, the new home of Paramount and Fox pictures.

In producing "The Broken Law," which will be at the Lyric tomorrow, William Fox, it will be conceded, has surpassed himself. It is a story of uncanny powerfulness, full of absorbing and rapid action. William Farnum, the idol of thousands, carries the star part, and Dorothy Barnard as his support, is attractive as usual.

The play deals with a society man bearing the title of Henry Esmond, who is sent by his father to search for a lost half-sister. Esmond (William Farnum) joins a band of gypsies to seek for the girl. Ursula, a girl of the tribe, falls in love with him. He pays no attention to her as he loves a girl of his own people.

"The Broken Law" is emotionally strong throughout. The logging scene might have been presented with a little less raelism, for it is a scene that "makes the hair stand" and one feel rather "creepy." But this is a Fox picture and that means of the finest in direction, actors and settings.

During the coming week two excellent Paramount productions will be shown at the Lyric—Charles Cherry being the star in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," Wednesday and Thursday, and the popular Victor Moore in "Chimmie Fadden Out West," Friday and Saturday. The boys of the Y. M. C. A. are very much interested in "Chimmie Fadden's" Duluth success as they are sharing in the spoils from the two days' receipts, and one of the "Y" boys says there is a special prize for the kid that sells the most Lyric tickets.

At the Sunbeam.

The program of the New Sunbeam for the coming week will show a number of new attractions that will undoubtedly please photoplay admirers. As a successor to the "Who Pays?" series, which won wide approval, the Sunbeam will offer as a Friday and Saturday feature "Sealed Orders," the first of the attractions of the De Luxe Attractions Film company. This sensational film is up to the minute, having war as its background, and teeming with army and navy incidents all woven into a clever and exciting plot. Critics who have seen this film declare that it reaches the acme of the film photographer's art.

For Sunday there will be a strong program. The headline feature will be "When the Earth Trembled," starring Miss Ormi Haawley, one of filmdom's favorites. This picture is a thriller, showing the most sensational quake scenes, flood scenes, etc. A city was built and destroyed to produce the big effects in this picture. The Dayton floods are taken as the background. Among other Sunday features are "The Girl and the Mail Bag," starring Tom Mix and Victoria Forde in an exciting Western drama, and "The Offending Kiss," a Western Vitagraph photoplay in two parts.

"Under Oath," one of the twelve weekly two-act "Mysteries of the Grand Hotel" will be shown as usual Monday and Tuesday. These stirring detective stories, ably portrayed by a star Kalem cast, are of gripping interest. True Boardman, Marin Sais and other film favorites are introduced. In addition the Pathe News will show news of world-wide importance and the latest women's fashions on living models.

"The God Within," directed by D. W. Griffith, with several of the stars seen in "The Birth of a Nation," will be the feature for Wednesday and Thursday. Blanche Sweet, Henry B. Walthall, Lionel Barrymore and others are in the cast. John Bunny also will be seen in one of his corking good comedies.

The main feature for the last two days of the week will be "Sealed Orders" in seven parts, which is expected to be the big hit of the year at the New Sunbeam.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske is shortly to be seen in a new play. It will be called "Erstwhile Susan." The story deals with the life of the Pennsylvania Dutch, and is the work of Marion de Forest, one of the dramatizers of "Little Women." Mrs. Fiske will be under the management of the newly organized firm of Madison Corey and John D. Williams. Her husband, Harrison Grey Fiske, who has heretofore managed all her affairs will stage the play for her.

A cable was received recently by the Messrs. Shubert from George McClellan informing them that he was unable to carry out his contract for the production of Franz Lehar's operetta, "Alone at Last," in London. He was unable to secure a license, owing to the fact that "Alone at Last" was a piece of Austrian origin.

Mrs. Mira Barrie Wilson, wife of Francis Wilson, actor, died last week at her home in New York, after a lingering illness. She was 59 years old. Early in life Mrs. Wilson was on the stage, appearing with Mr. Wilson first in "Falka" many years ago, and later in other plays. She retired from the stage a few years after her marriage to Mr. Wilson, which took place in 1881. Besides her husband, Mrs. Wilson is survived by two daughters, the Baroness Huard of Paris, and Mrs. Russell Adams Bliss.

New York has had its all-night license for restaurants, its day and night bank, its all-night barber shops and eating places and now comes the twenty-four-hour box office at the Hippodrome. This dramatic necessity was caused by the demand for seats at Charles Dillingham's vast playhouse where the seats are now on sale for the balance of 1915—including Christmas and New Year's eve and New Year's night. The treasurers at the big playhouse have begun their endless grind in the box office that will never cease until the big record sale is over.

Oliver Morosco has reached an arrangement with Emily Stevens whereby she will become a full-fledged star under his direction for a term of years. Miss Stevens is at present acting the title role in "The Unchastened Woman."

A special matinee of "The Eternal Magdalene," the unusual new play by Robert McLaughlin, in which Julia Arthur is now appearing at the Forty eighth Street theater after a retirement that covered a long period of years, was held for the clergy of Greater New York recently. Invitations were extended to every clergyman in the greater city, and acceptances were received in numbers more than sufficient to fill the theater.

WHAT ADVERTISING READING MEANS

Advertising is news. It is information. One cannot be said to be posted of what is going on in the material world unless he reads the advertisements in the paper he keeps. He does not get his money's worth out of his paper if he neglects to read the ads it carries in each issue. These ads are messages from manufacturers to retailers and from the merchants to the consumers. Advertising reading will enlighten you on goods and their prices. Business messages as they are represented by ads are intended for the public and ought to be read by it. They need not do what they are requested to do by these messages, yet they can learn a great deal by them, so as to act intelligently when the time comes to do things. As a general educator on business advertising reading is a great force. It makes it possible for the average man to keep ahead. There are also numerous instances where advertising readers have picked up in advertisements suggestions that meant a great deal for them, in fact have pointed out to them the way to new undertakings, endeavors and profits.—(The Mail Order Journal.)

WHISKEY COSTS ONLY 12 CENTS A GALLON

A Kansas City Man Is Mailing a Free Book Giving the Formula By Which the Whiskey Trust Makes Their $5 Per Gallon Whiskey for Only 12c Per Gallon.

Mr. Marcel, located at 518 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo., has published a book entitled "Secrets of the Whiskey Trust Exposed," and "Why Is Marcel a Socialist," in which he shows how the whiskey trust takes a bushel of corn, a pinch of barley malt, a penny's worth of yeast, and makes five gallons of whiskey at a total cost of less than 50c, and then sells it at from four to five dollars a gallon. He explains how the whiskey barons make their millions and shows who pays for their mansions and automobiles.

The book is a fascinating story of a great crime against the consumers of whiskey.

Mr. Marcel is mailing out thousands of these books exposing the secret formula of the whiskey trust on account of the trust's fight against him. Any one interested should write for the book, as it will be sent free.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SIMILARITY IN CAREERS

Much in Common in Lives of Three North Dakota Candidates.

Burdick, Fraine and Smith Have Many Coincidences in Their Careers.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coincidences in the political careers of two of the three men who have announced their candidacy for the governorship are attracting attention in North Dakota. The first candidate was Usher L. Burdick, the next was George Smith of Plaza and the last is Col. Fraine of Grafton.

Burdick was a Minnesota football hero, a member of the legislature, speaker of the house, later lieutenant governor and is a lawyer.

Fraine was a member of the legislature, speaker of the house, later lieutenant governor and presiding officer of the senate, and also an attorney at law. While he didn't play football, he served with the North Dakota regiment in the Philippines and has been prominent in national guard circles.

Smith is the editor of eight weeklies and a magazine, all devoted enthusiastically to the cause of the equity union. He is regarded as the equity candidate and will also have the support of the Non-Partisan league, it is claimed.

VINCENT AT WARREN.

State University President Delivers Some Addresses.

Warren, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—George E. Vincent, president of the state university, was here Friday at North Star college, where he spoke to the students, and then went to the high school and addressed the students. His talks at both schools were full of scholarly advice and he held his audience of young men and women spell bound. In the afternoon he attended a conference of school men from Marshall and Kittson counties.

At 6 o'clock last evening he was tendered a dinner, which was attended by the high school principals and the superintendents of county schools of Marshall and Kittson counties, State School Inspectors Phillips and Barnes and the Warren board of education. The dinner was prepared by the domestic science class of the Warren high school.

Mr. Vincent lectured last evening to the largest gathering of men and women ever in attendance at the Warren auditorium.

PRISONERS ARE WORKING

Ransom County, N. D., Jail Inmates Are in County Service.

Lisbon, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ransom county prisoners, put on the honor system by Sheriff Craig, are relieving the county of all expense incident to their keep, and are also putting by a bit of cash for their own benefit.

With five prisoners in the county jail, four of them being held as bootleggers, Sheriff Craig has found positions for the men about the city. They are escorted to their work in the morning by a deputy sheriff, and report back to the jail at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Under the scheme the wages being split, 50-50, between the county and the men, the county receives more than it costs to keep the prisoners—and soon will be able to declare an official dividend on its jail if Sheriff Craig's plan continues successful.

SHOE CATCHES IN FROG, BUT CHILD IS SAVED.

Valley City, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marguerite Anderson, age 6 years, was saved from death under an approaching switch engine when her foot became entangled in a track frog by the quick action of Harry Olson, who unbottoned the child's shoe and released her.

SHIPPING OWN GRAIN.

Langdon, N. D., Grain Growers Ignore Line Elevators.

Langdon, N. D., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fully 50 per cent of the wheat marketed here this year is shipped out by the producers, the farmers loading their own grain and shipping to the terminals, according to local Great Northern railroad records, a condition vastly different from that prevailing several years ago, when the bulk of the grain was sold to line elevators.

Up to yesterday, 915,000 bushels of grain had been taken out of Langdon by the railroad, and there is about 80,000 bushels of grain stored here, making the total grain marketed about 1,000,000 bushels.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Salts, Calomel, Pills Act on Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils.

Enjoy Life! Don't Stay Bilious, Sick, Headachy and Constipated.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10c per box at any drug store.—Advertisement.

IS GETTING DATA ON LEVELS OF LAKE

Member of Minnesota Board of Health Visits Warroad.

Warroad, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. P. Wolf, a member of the Minnesota state board of health, was here Tuesday to determine the effect the lake level had upon the disposal of sewage and the sanitary condition of the village. He met members of the village council and other citizens to get enlightened on the matter. Upon being questioned, however, he admitted that he was here at the instigation of Myers & White, engineers in charge of the international joint commission, and had been told to make investigations as stated when the lake was placed at a level of 1,060, 1,061 or 1,062. He was shown that such a level would be a menace to the village of Warroad and vicinity. In fact, any level above 1,057 would be damaging to the welfare of the people.

ROSEAU COUNTY DITCH IS FORMALLY APPROVED

Warroad, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Ditch No. 23, in the townships of Beaver, Falum and America, has been approved by the county board and the contracts will be let in about a month.

The new system will drain the territory between the Pine ridge and the Roseau river, north as far as Bear creek, east on a section line past Conrad and three miles into America township. At the final hearing George Gibson of America township appeared with a petition of those in his neighborhood for an extension of the ditch two miles eastward. This, however, was not found practical, so a new petition is out for three miles of ditching in America to connect with No. 23. The proposed ditch, together with No. 23, will make a good road across the township from Conrad east to the Clear River state road.

BAUDETTE LAND DEALS.

Several Realty Sales Are Reported in That Locality.

Baudette, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pere Uden, who resides south of here, sold forty acres to Knut Balsett, who will make a stock farm of it. The Baudette Realty company sold eighty acres of the Chase farm to Joseph Zak of Cedar Rapids, who will move his family here this winter.

Hancock—William Kerredge has acquired the strip of land between the Kerredge theater and the Scott hotel. Mr. Kerredge practically closed the deal for the purchase of the land several years ago, as he felt certain that it would be necessary to acquire it sooner or later in order to make improvements he was planning for.

Calumet—The Calumet Hockey club has been organized for the 1915-16 season, the following officers being chosen: President, George Cudlip; manager, Chester Stroud; captain, Joe Linder; secretary-treasurer, Joe Savinni; executive committee, John McLaughlin, Martin Messner, Harry Frimodig, James Ormsby and George Cudlin.

Houghton—Warrants were issued in Justice Price's court at Baraga for the arrest of Joseph Knauf, proprietor of the Knauf hotel of Houghton, and Dean D. Annis of Detroit, a guest at the Knauf, charging them with attaching tags to deer which they did not kill. The deer were seized by Deputy Game Warden St. Claire Willson early in the week. The defendants deny that the deer were killed illegally and they assert they will fight the case.

Hancock—The Hancock Improvement club has formulated plans for a banquet to mark the reopening of the Scott hotel. Arrangements for the function are in charge of the officers of the club, H. M. Field, Charles Mason and Albert S. Ley, together with Mayor Abram Ojala and Alderman Henry F. Keyes. The date is contingent on the arrival here of Dennis Hogan of Marinette, who will become the proprietor of the hotel.

Calumet—The twenty-second anniversary of the Tamarack M. E. church will be observed Sunday. Rev. R. H. Prouse, the pastor, will be assisted by the pastor of other Copper country churches. Rev. G. Perkins of Houghton will preach the anniversary sermon in the morning. Rev. H. Rogers of Atlantic, Rev. Lewis Keast of Pewabic and Rev. Perkins will assist at the platform meeting and Rev. Frank Cookson of Lake Linden will be in charge of the evening services.

WHEAT BULLS IN CONTROL

Market Advances on Urgent Bidding to Cover Shipping Contracts.

Crushers Good Buyers of Flaxseed; Sharp Bulge Is Recorded.

Duluth Board of Trade, Dec. 4.—There were fireworks around the close in the wheat market today, an advance extending up to 2⅝c being recorded in the December future.

The furore was brought about through the disclosing of a large short interest in the near future at Chicago. That was evident in its closing at a premium of ½c over May, whereas only three days ago it sold at 3c discount. Traders down there realized their position, when they endeavored to reinstate lines sold out during the last couple of days, and found themselves compelled to do some climbing. A dearth of offerings was evident.

Generally speaking the situation in spring wheat is regarded as bullish, it being now believed that owing to the poor quality of the winter wheat available, millers will be heavy buyers of it all through the winter. In the meantime with the low stocks being carried in Duluth elevators, shippers are looking for additional supplies to cover contracts for grain to go out before the close of navigation. Taking into account wheat recently loaded out, supplies in store here are now down to approximately 4,500,000 bu, a decrease of over 5,000,000 bu in the week.

Bidding for durum by Minneapolis operators was a feature on the local market today. It is said that millers down there want it, and a substantial tonnage was reported to have been bought. The flow of durum from South Dakota is averred to have been diverted from this market to Minneapolis within the last few days to go forward to the East all-rail.

At the opening the market was weak, a decline of 1c being recorded. During the last hour the tide turned, and closing figures were at the top.

December wheat opened ⅜c off at $1.06, eased off ⅝c more, and closed 2⅝c up at $1.09 bid. May opened ⅜c off at $1.09, sold down to $1.08¼ and closed 2⅝c up at $1.12 asked.

December durum opened ⅜c off at $1.02, weakened 1c more and closed 1⅝c up at $1.04 bid. May opened ½c off at $1.05¾ and closed 1¾c up at $1.08 bid.

Bulge in Flaxseed.

Flaxseed turned strong again on the appearance of fresh crushers' bidding to cover shipping contracts. Supplies of seed in elevators here have been reduced to a minimum during the week.

December flax opened 1c up at $2.02 and closed 1¾c up at $2.02¾ nominally after selling up to $2.04. May opened unchanged at $2.07, and closed 1¾c up at $2.08¾.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed 1⅜c up at $1.83, and May 2½c up at $1.90.

At Buenos Aires flax closed 2½c off at $1.30⅜, and London 1¾c up at $2.32½.

Oats closed ¼c up at 39½c for on the track, rye 1c up at 90c, and barley unchanged at from 57c to 66c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, December oats closed ⅝c up at 40⅝c asked, and May ¾c up at 43c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.09½, and calls at $1.13.

Cash wheat was again in good demand in the Duluth market today and premiums were unchanged at 3c over December for No. 1 northern. Durum was easier, the premium on No. 1 being dropped ½c to 1c over December. This is just the amount of the additional insurance.

A large Philadelphia grain exporter says: "We sold two loads of Manitobas abroad late yesterday. There is an enormous business in flour and wheat doing with British mills and I believe the cancellation of Italian wheat, reported yesterday, may be due to the fact that exchange between Italy and the United States is very bad, while it is much better between Italy and Great Britain. Italy is getting financial help from Great Britain, and I think much of our wheat will reach them indirectly. This exchange situation is a serious problem and often means as much as 5 cents per bu., while, as you know, the margin in handling grain is much less."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat was firm but dull with native offers smaller. Larger American shipments expected caused some pressure and Australian offers are liberal. Spot market was firm, unchanged. Cargoes were easier, winters unchanged; Manitobas 3d lower and Plates and Indians unchanged. Argentine freights continue to advance and Australian tonnage is very scarce. There is a pause in the demand as the advance has been very rapid, but the undertone is still very firm."

Winnipeg wired: "No. 1 northern sold at 3c over December and No. 2 northern at 1c over. Fairly good hedging early broke prices here, but this out way, and better pit demand developed again speculatively and offerings were light. Trade was very narrow."

At Minneapolis cash wheat was dull at about ½c lower for best. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 2c to 4½c over December and No. 1 northern velvet chaff at 1½c to 2c over December.

Argentine weather favors harvesting and new wheat is moving to wharfs. Tonnage is scarce, 100s being bid, but boat owners are not attracted, as most of the boats must sail in ballast one way.

Arrangements are perfected for all-rail rates to the port of Vladivistok, Russia, and these are now low. Some grain will be exported this way as importers' demands are urgent.

Russell's News, New York, says: "Six railroads have put an embargo on export shipments of flour and lumber on through bills of lading. These six include the Pennsylvania & Lehigh Valley, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Erie, New York Central and Lackawanna. This announcement was in a statement issued last evening from the office of the Trunk Line association. The action was taken individually by the roads and not as a result of the joint meeting.

"Owing to the congestion of the freight situation at New York consignees are requested to surrender for the time being the privilege of split delivery, which is greatly delaying the movement of produce at the terminals on account of the great number to be handled.

"The export business late yesterday was reported at about 500,000 bu of wheat, 250,000 bu of oats and 25,000 bu of barley. Exports of wheat through New York since Jan. 1 have been a record, amounting to Dec. 1 to about 78,000,000 bu, against 1,700,000 bu for the entire year of 1914."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Declines in Value on Various Reports of Bearish Nature.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat declined in value today largely because of the failure of Liverpool quotations to reflect yesterday's advances in America. The market here was bearishly affected also by announcement that six railroads to the East had put an embargo on export shipments of flour. An additional influence adverse to the bulls came from advices that congestion of terminal facilities at Galveston was threatened unless vessel arrivals grew more plentiful. After opening a shade to ⅜@½c lower, the market underwent a material further sag.

Later, a sensational advance took place as a result of active buying on the part of prominent houses. Reports were current that Canadian wheat would not be permitted to go anywhere except to Great Britain or her allies. Philadelphia sent word of a huge export business. The close was excited at 2⅞@3c to 5¼c net advance, with December at $1.16⅝ and May at $1.16⅛.

Fine weather and a prospect of more sent prices down grade. Country offerings, however, were said to be small. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c to ⅞c lower, were followed by a moderate additional setback.

Corn took an upward turn when wheat became bullish. The close was firm at ⅜c net advance.

Oats were weak with other grain. The only buying was of a scattered sort on resting orders.

Provisions hardened after some heaviness at the start. Demand was chiefly from short.

STRENGTH SHOWN IN COPPER STOCKS

Operations in mining stocks at Boston today were comparatively quiet and quotation changes were moderate. The price tendency was generally upward, however.

American Zinc closed 87 cents up at $69.63; Butte & Superior unchanged at $71.50; Calumet & Arizona, 25 cents up at $67.75; Copper Range, 25 cents up at $57; Greene-Cananea, 25 cents off at $44.25; Lake, 25 cents up at $15.50; North Butte a shade off at $31.25; and Shattuck, 50 cents up at $35.25.

Commenting upon current market conditions, Skillings' Mining and Market Letter of today says: "The recent recession has been orderly, and should help to put the market in position for further activity on the upside. It will be a good time to acquire some of the good issues which may be depended on for higher prices, and for substantial earnings. Among these are many, and include Shattuck, North Butte, East Butte, Butte-Alex Scott and Interstate-Callahan. Shattuck has been very active, and on the next upturn should advance with great ease through $40. Butte-Alex Scott is in very fair way for a substantial advance when the market turns. East Butte is coming through nicely, being out of debt and making fine earnings. Butte-Ballaklava is making good progress. Big Ledge is in fine shape to carry out its plans of mining and development, and will in a very reasonable time take its place among the growing list of successful Duluth promoted mining companies. The Butte & Zenith City Mining company is well worthy of investigation, from property or management standpoint. Denn-Arizona will bear watching for favorable news."

Reports regarding Alex Scott Copper company from Butte, Mont., show continued good results being obtained at this mine, and production for November has been the best for the property so far. Up to, and including Nov. 27, the mine shipped seventy-seven cars of ore, which indicates the mine is on greater producing basis. The company plans extensive development work on the 2,200-foot level and also to sink the shaft deeper.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Falling off in demand from shippers today tended to weaken the hog market. There were signs of a big supply on Monday. Cattle prices were nearly nominal. Sheep and lambs appeared scarce.

Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; slow, unchanged to 5c under yesterday's average; bulk, $6.30@6.80; light, $5.85@6.80; mixed, $6.10@7.00; heavy, $6.35@7.00; rough, $6.35@6.50; pigs, $4.00@5.70.

Cattle — Receipts, 400; firm; native beef steers, $5.60@10.55; western steers, $6.20@8.25; cows and heifers, $2.65@8.25; calves, $6.50@10.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 2,000; steady; sheep, $6.00@6.30; lambs, $7.00@9.10.

London Stocks.

London, Dec. 4.—American securities, although quiet, developed a better tendency and closed steady. Money and discount rates were quiet and steady. American exchange was steady at 4.71 for cable transfers.

New York Money.

New York, Dec. 4.—Mercantile paper, 2¾@3. Sterling exchange, 60-day bill, 4.66; demand, 4.7035; cables, 4.71. Francs, demand, 5.85; cables, 5.84. Marks, demand, 78⅜; cables, 78½. Guilders, demand, 41⅝; cables, 42. Lire, demand, 6.54; cables, 6.53. Rubles, demand, 31⅞; cables, 32. Bar silver, 55c; Mexican dollars, 42½c. Government bonds, firm. Railroad bonds, irregular.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—Hogs—Receipts, 3,300; steady to strong; range, $6.00@6.45; bulk, $6.20@6.25.

Cattle—Receipts, 600; killers, steady; steers, $3.75@9.00; cows and heifers, $4.25@6.00; calves, steady, $3.75@9.25; stockers and feeders, steady, $4.00@7.00.

Sheep—Receipts, 500; steady; lambs, $3.00@8.50; wethers, 4.75@5.25; ewes, $2.50@5.25.

New York Banks.

New York, Dec. 4.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $179,310,030 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $4,167,310 from last week.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

ADVANCES IN SPECIALTIES

Some Striking Gains Are Recorded and Closing Is Strong.

Changes in More Representative Shares Are Unusually Narrow.

New York, Dec. 4.—Trading in the first hour of today's market was the dullest for that period in many weeks, transactions falling under 70,000 shares. Dealings in active issues were of the most superficial character, consisting largely of settlement of existing contracts. Changes in the more representative shares were unusually narrow, but some specialties, notably General Motors, International Agricultural Chemical preferred, General Electric, Republic Steel and Montana Power, scored striking gains. United Fruit fell 6½ to 144 on account of new financing by the new company, and Bethlehem Steel 10 to 465. Rails were firm but inconspicuous. Prices hardened in the more active final dealings. The closing was strong. Bonds were irregular, with a future sale of Anglo-French notes at 97, a new minimum on the exchange.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, Dec. 4.—Bradstreets says: "Apparently the week has been the busiest in a long time. Activity in trade as well as in leading industries, is unabated—is more marked in fact than heretofore. Jobbers, wholesale dealers, retailers, manufacturers and bankers are a unit in reporting activity and sold-up-for-months-to-come is the condition of numerous industries. Complaints spring from inability to get supplies, and from chagrin at not having bought at lower price levels than now prevail, rather than from lack of demand. Of course, colder weather over a wide area with holiday buying tends to accentuate activity and to testify to increased participation power of the masses thanks to widespread improvement in higher wages.

Incidentally, the steady demands being made for immediate shipments corroborate reports as to depleted stocks—a widespread condition. Industry swings along at an active gain, the iron and steel trade leading, with mills unable to supply demands despite augmented capacity, while new domestic business is unchecked by higher prices. But in other industries, the circle of activity is widening and the situation is one in which producers' views as to prices dominate. Weekly bank clearings $4,911,140,000.

KINNEY MAN FINED.

Kinney, Minn., Dec. 4.—Camille de Caigny, who runs a hunting lodge in the Lake Vermilion district, was arrested by Game Wardens Wood and Hutterly on the charge of having moose meat and venison illegally in his possession and was fined here by Judge J. W. McCleary, amounting to $75 and costs. It is said that Warden Hutterly was a guest of de Caigny several days gathering evidence.

Isaac Maki was found guilty of trapping before season and paid a fine of $10 and costs. His paraphernalia was seized.

John Cadot of Gheen was arrested charged with selling a marked deer to Henry Rivard, an Eveleth bartender. Rivard pleaded guilty to buying the deer and paid $25 and costs. Cadot will appear before Judge McCleary Monday.

Buy Their Own Suits.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coach Alf K. Jackson and others interested in local school athletics are taking exception to the statements credited to Principal Young of the Duluth high school, who claims the Virginia school board buys suits for the school teams here.

"The High School Athletic association is self-supporting," said Coach Jackson. "We purchase our own suits and ask the school board for no aid."

SPEEDER HITS BUS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 4.—A number of school children riding in the school bus running between La Prairie and Warba were cut by glass and shaken up yesterday when the conveyance was struck by a Great Northern railway speeder driven by Section Foreman John Stater, near the Anderson farm, while crossing the track. Both Stater and Eugene Bunell, the bus driver, claim the accident was unavoidable. The bus was wrecked.

Stater and another occupant of the speeder jumped when they realized that a collision could not be avoided. They escaped injury and assisted in clearing away the wreckage.

Holds Juvenile Court.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hughes held juvenile courthere today, considering a number of cases, but following the usual custom, no names of parties arraigned were given out for publication.

HIS DREAM COMES TRUE.

Waking from his sleep after dreaming that he had been robbed, Mike Mashuika, 33, a roomer at the Park hotel, 581 West Superior street, turned over in bed and spied his empty wallet on the floor.

Three $5 bills were gone, and he concluded that his dream must have come true. Police are looking for the thief and Mashuika has given them a description of the man he saw in his dreams.

ALL COPPER ON THE UPPER MICHIGAN DOCKS SHIPPED

Total Shipments During the Season Larger Than in 1914.

Enlargement of Copper Range Regrinding Plant to Be Pushed.

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—All the copper on the docks has been shipped East. The last boat, the North Lake of the Mutual Transit line, waited until the last day permitted by the insurance underwriters, Nov. 30, and gathered up the very last copper produced hot from the furnace, as the smelter men say. Her cargo was the limit allowed by the insurance, 3,000 tons or 6,000,000 pounds. The saving in sending the copper by boat is very great, as the rate to New York by boat to Buffalo and then rail is only 18 cents per 100 pounds as against the all-rail figure, 42 cents. It is much cheaper to ship the metal east and then store it than to forward by rail, but probably all this just freighted away is sold, and also that to be produced for two to four months to come. All-rail shipments will begin very much earlier than usual, most likely in a very few days. The total of the cargoes for the past season have been much larger than for 1914, one line, the Mutual Transit, having carried out this year about 100,000,000 pounds, as against 70,000,000 last year.

Copper Range.

Copper Range soon after the first of the year will begin to proceed much faster with the enlargement of its regrinding plant so as to treat not only the middlings as now but also all the tailings or waste which now flows out onto the shore of Lake Superior or is taken back to the mines for filling for the stopes. This plan had to wait for its complete execution until the turbine, to be run as that in operation for over a year at the Baltic by the exhaust steam, could be installed in order to get more power. At the present time the six stamps at the Champion mill are running on Champion rock, the six at the Baltic on the Baltic and Trimountain rock, and at the Trimountain one is running on the Lakerock and one on the overflow from the Champion, the other two being idle. That at the last named mill treating the Champion excess is regrinding all of the tailings. The amount of the material will be doubled, but the number of additional mills will be much less than that now working as by the use of the manganoids, or manganese steel balls, each Hardinge conical tube mill can mill a much larger amount than by the use of the Danish or French flint pebbles. Only one conical tube mill is now using the manganoids, but this has demonstrated their success. There is quite a good supply of pebbles on hand which are being used up. There will be a good gain in the amount of copper recovered. In the great interest that has been aroused by the success of the principle of a much closer selection, the gain of from three to four pounds since the establishment of the regrinding plant has been seemingly almost forgotten.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla could, if it had the mill room to take care of the rock, increase its tonnage by quite a large figure from the Osceola amygdaloid as there is only one shaft No. 15 out of six that is hoisting to anywhere near its capacity. At that shaft there has been introduced the "middle shift" which works from noon to 8:30 p. m., and which assists in cleaning away the "dirt" so that more drills can be used. There is no sinking being done at any of the shafts of the amygdaloid, as it is not needed since all of the shafts have been carried down far beyond the needs of the most liberal amount of reserves. For instance at No. 15 the bottom of the shaft is the twenty-fifth level, but there are no stopes below the eighteenth level, where it has just been begun. The sinking done before the fall of 1914 appears to have been done more for the purpose of ascertaining the values at depth than for the purpose of providing reserves. The deferring of further sinking is the elimination of a large item of cost. At No. 18, the nearest shaft to the Centennial, and the latest and shallowest, four out of the six drifts are exploratory work, and the stretch to the Centennial line is still continuing to give a good quality of rock.

Ahmeek.

Ahmeek this month will run pretty close to 100,000 tons in its rock output, almost 4,000 tons daily. This mine could send much more rock if it could get the cars, but the fact is that the tonnage is so great at all of the producing mines that the railroad cannot supply cars enough, and it is not a rare occurrence for a mine to have to wait and shut down for a few hours because its bins and those at the mills are full. There is no doubt a sto the increasing richness of the ground at the Nos. 3 and 4, North Ahmeek, as every reliable report is confirmatory. No. 3 has resumed sinking from the fifteenth to the sixteenth level, so as to open this shaft up for production. After two levels or so have been reached at this shaft, the crew will be probably transferred to No. 4, and sinking begun there.

New Baltic.

New Baltic's proposed purchase, which will be undoubtedly consumated and which is outlined below, really doubles the value of the property, making its mineralized area about two forties larger than that of the Wolverine and about twice as large as that of the South Kearsarge. Negotiations are pending between the New Baltic and the New Arcadian for the purchase by the former of the southwest quarter of section 9, township 55, range 33, 160 acres for part cash and part stock of which the former company has 30,000 shares in the treasury. This plan has been endorsed by the largest interests in both companies. With this addition New Baltic will have over 400 acres on the plane of the lode which makes it a good-sized mine. The test pit for a location of the new shaft on the ground recently secured just north of the Johnson estate is now down about thirteen feet and considerable copper float and much vein matter which looks as though it had been broken off of a lode very near by and which carries a good deal of copper, has been disclosed. A vein is undoubtedly very near and should be entered at any moment. Steam power with a bucket hoist has been working since Nov. 30 instead of passing the dirt from one man to another by the shovel.

Contact.

Contact arrived at the ledge in its third hole at the depth of 120 feet. This hole is at an angle of sixty degrees and is being driven to prove up the ground between the two holes already driven. The No. 8 Wyandot lode, the object of the present exploration, was found in the first hole, but in the second the conglomerates that are used as markers were not encountered, and it is inferred that there has been some faulting.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian should at any time run into the New Arcadian lode at the exploratory shaft 1,800 feet south of the shaft where the workings are being carried on, as a distance of 140 feet has been covered from the shaft to the east and in fact some vein matter has just been entered. This lode will be according to the strata passed through the New Arcadian. The two drills on the 1,050-foot level cannot be put into operation until the shaft is far enough down so as not to interfere with the work. All the openings are showing an average of good values, especially on the 250-foot level south.

Tamarack.

Tamarack is now getting the best grades in the Calumet conglomerate at Nos. 5 and 3, particularly at the latter, that have been encountered for a long time and this is raising the yield to nearly twenty pounds a ton. This stretch south of No. 3 mined from the auxiliary shaft which begins on the eighteenth level, has been good in all the levels that have been driven into it.

Centennial.

Centennial is forwarding just about the same tonnage as before the fire, about fourteen cars or 560 tons daily. The exploration work, all that has been done at this mine for some time, on the long levels under the Wolverine and South Kearsarge from the twenty-ninth to the thirty-seventh levels, inclusive, has been begun anew.

Mohawk.

Mohawk is, as for the last year and a half, working its mill to its capacity and is milling part of the Sundays. The same high yield is being obtained. Sinking is being continued at Nos. 4, 5 and 6, No. 4 is down to the twenty-third level, a deepening of two levels since the sinking was resumed, No. 5 has also gained two more levels and is at the seventeenth, and No. 6, which has been carrying its shaft deeper ever since it was started, is bottomed at the fourteenth level, but the crosscut of sixty feet has not yet been made over to the shaft. On the whole No. 5 is the best shaft with No. 4 not far behind, and No. 4 disclosing much better values than ever before.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw has now 900 feet of high-grade ground on the foot-wall side of its sixth level with no signs of any end. The eighth level has finished its oblique drift and is now getting a start in the rich rock. This level reached the good ground before the levl above, which should cut into it at any time. The lode has been up in the hanging-wall or upper side mostly out of the course of the shaft, but owing to its rolling or waving back the shaft is wholly in it now. The addition which has been reopened and which is being continued for 250 feet to the lode should enter it in about a week's time, when there should be for a brief time a great flow of water as the old shaft there has a depth of water of about 100 feet. It will be interesting to ascertain the position of the mineralization of the lode here. It is believed that it will occur both on the hanging and foot-wall side as in the present workings.

Houghton.

Houghton Copper is exposing very good ground in the south drift, which has about 100 feet more to go to meet with the Superior line. The motor now in use in the winze is of too light a capacity for the work and has to be run very slowly pending the arrival of a new and larger one, which has been ordered. The lode has gone into the hanging-wall wholly out of the winze's path. It has always been, like all of our lodes, pretty wavy or rolling, but always comes back leaving the true inclination quite uniform and straight. No attempt will be made to flatten the course of the winze to run into it again, because sooner or later it will curve back to the same average, and therefore if the winze should be curved it would pass through the lode unless another curve should be begun to follow it, which would make mining impracticable.

Victoria.

Victoria until about two months ago has been sending its mineral and mass to the Calumet & Hecla smelter, but to save the cost of railroad transportation is now having the Quincy do its smelting. Moreover Calumet & Hecla is increasing its tonnage greatly and needs the smelter room, while the Quincy cannot increase beyond the present high figure, the maximum, of its three shafts, unless it begins to hoist again from No. 7, which may be done when the repairs there are brought to an end in a month or so.

PROGRESS STEADY AT THE DAVIS-DALY

About Seventy-Five Tons of Ore Being Shipped Daily.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 4.—The Davis-Daly is making steady progress and the drifting in ore on the No. 1 vein is continuing. About 75 tons of ore per day is being mined and shipped and grade of the ore is fine, running approximately 7 per cent in copper.

It is probable that the November profits above expenses will run about $10,000.

The management will probably arrange for two greatly needed improvements, to be made soon after the first of the year. A new engine will be installed under the present program and the shoulder between the 1,700 and 1,900 foot levels will be cut out to make a three-compartment shaft all the distance down to the 2,500-foot level.

These improvements would enable the Davis-Daly to increase its output to close to 400 tons of ore per day, and with the further development of the rich ore bodies opened up on the 2,500-foot level, this should make the profits very large, if the present high price of copper continues.

COPPERMINES IS BEING FINANCED

Col. Wall's Suit for Appointment of Receiver Is Withdrawn.

New York, Dec. 4. — Attention has again been attracted to the shares of the Consolidated Coppermines company, due to the anouncement that the suit of Col. E. A. Wall for the appointment of a receiver has been withdrawn. For years Col. Wall played "dog in the manger" with the Utah Copper, bringing suit after suit against that company, which resulted in no particular benefit to any one, except the lawyers. Col. Wall's grievance against the Consolidated Coppermines company is based on his opposition to the inclusion of the old Giroux property in the consolidation.

It is understood that already arrangements have been made and are ready to be carried into effect for providing Consolidated Coppermines with $1,000,000 additional working capital.

At the present time the only work now going on is the continuance of shipments from the company's Ora claim. Steam shovel mining operations are being carried on by the Nevada Consolidated, free of charge to the company, as a compensation for a temporary right-of-way through the Ora claim is sent under contract to the Nevada Consolidated company's concentrator. The output is at the rate of about 30,000 tons of ore per month. No development operations or other work is going on at the present time, pending the finding of additional new cash capital. During last year considerable drilling was carried on, which added considerable tonnage to the ore reserve.

PREPARING TO RESUME

Butte & Zenith City Company to Start Further Sinking.

Expected Good Ore Will Be Found on 1,000 Level.

The Butte & Zenith City Mining Co. is preparing to resume development at its property in the Butte district. The company owns what has all the earmarks of a valuable property—valuable for copper and the precious metals. The company's property has been developed to a depth of 670 feet, by shaft, and considerable lateral work done, with very encouraging results.

The president of the Butte & Zenith City is I. Freimuth of Duluth, who is also president of the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company, and who was prominent in the early days of the Butte & Superior. Among his associates both in the Butte & Zenith City and the Butte-Ballaklava is John A. Percival, president of the Interstate-Callahan, and John F. Killorin. The Butte & Zenith City company has excellent prospects, and has equipment ample for development to a depth of 1,500 feet or more.

The company is offering some of its stock for subscription. It owes no debts, owns twenty-two mining claims very compactly situated, about two miles west of the Blue Bird, Germania, Nettie, Philadelphia and other mines that have produced large amounts of high grade silver ore. Geological conditions affecting the company's property are very similar to those pertaining in the main portion of the Butte camp, the country being the well known Butte granite with extrusions of aplite and roylite. The properties of the company have been passed on by Dr. Walter Harvey Weed and Dwight E. Woodbridge. The claims consist of 320 acres, and show numerous strong and persistent quartz veins.

Butte is a wonderful mining camp, and it is more than likely that it has much additional mineral wealth to disclose. The Butte & Zenith company has a capital of 300,000 shares of a par value of $10 each, and the management is offering a limited amount at $3.

The management will crosscut the formation at the 1,000-foot level, which will call for 300 feet further of sinking, or about 350 feet including sump. Ultimate depth will, of course, be much greater, but it seems to be very likely that commercial bodies of good ore will be found on the 1,000 level.

GRANBY SHOWING DISAPPOINTING

High Costs of Copper Produced in the Last Quarter.

Much disappointment has been shown over the high cost of the copper produced by Granby in the Sept. 30 quarter. The company had been credited with the ability to lay down its copper in New York at about 8½ cents per pound, but the quarterly statement showed the figure to be 11.9 cents per pound. The company's Grand Forks property has been known to be a high-cost producer, but the new Anyox mine was expected to bring the average much lower than that shown in the Sept. 30 quarter.

Officials of the company explain the situation to the Boston News Bureau as follows: Cost of Anyox was 7,939 cents per pound; at Grand Forks 10.91 cents, to which must be added freight, refining, selling and general eastern expense. These brought the Anyox figure up to 9.4 cents and Grand Forks to 12.4 cents, or an average of 11.9 cents per pound, after all credits for precious metal values. In other words, while Granby's report showed the expense of producing 12,00,000 pounds of copper to have been $1,823,827, an indicated cost of more than 15 cents per pound, precious metal credits amounted to $384,000, or 3.2 cents per pound.

The Grand Forks property is of lessening importance in Granby's operations, and its high cost is not surprising. High costs at Anyox were due in part to the installation of the fourth furnace at the smelter and the new agglomerator, expense of which was charged to operation.

Future costs at Anyox are expected to be much more satisfactory, as construction is practically finished. Furthermore, an increased recovery of about four pounds of copper per ton of ore is possible with the new agglomerator. This should, of course, have a decided tendency to lower costs.

GREENE-CANANEA TO REOPEN SOON

Dr. Ricketts Says Company's Property Has Not Been Injured.

Globe, Ariz., Dec. 4.—Dr. L. D. Ricketts, president of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company, who was here last week with other prominent mining men to inspect the Inspiration mine and plant, stated that as the Villa forces had been driven from Cananea and Northern Sonora was now held by the forces of Gen. Carranza, operation of the mines and smelter at Cananea would probably be resumed within ten days to two weeks. The railroad from Naco to Cananea is in operation and the Cananea Consolidated company is now sending forward supplies which will be required when operations are resumed.

Residents of Cananea are flocking back into the state with every hope that there will be no further trouble of a political nature. With the evacuation of Nogales by the troops of Villa, and their flight southward it would appear that the troubles of Northern Sonora are about at an end.

The company's property, as far as can be learned, has in no way been damaged. When the mines shut down the company was producing in the neighborhood of 4,000,000 pounds per month. With normal conditions the company can increase this production materialy. An anual production of from 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 pounds of copper is within the possibilities of the property. At the present rate of copper this would mean in the neighborhood of $10 a share.

SILVER MINES ARE BOOMING

Leasers Are Active in the North and West Butte Districts.

Strike in Elkhorn Property of the Boston & Montana Company.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The advance in the price of silver from 48 cents an ounce to 56 cents an ounce within a week's time has resulted in a boom in all of the north and west Butte districts. Fully 200 leasers have secured options on claims in the so-called silver district and are already beginning operations. Many of the old abandoned mines are showing renewed life.

Butte last year produced about 12,000,000 ounces of silver. The production for 1915 will run above the 15,000,000 ounce mark. Of this amount the North Butte company has produced approximately 1,500,000 ounces of silver, the Butte & Superior company 3,000,000 ounces and the Anaconda company 9,000,000 ounces with 1,500,000 ounces from the other mines.

If silver continues to rise in price and should go above 60 cents an ounce, silver production will be increased easily to 2,000,000 ounces per month. The Nettie mine in the western district which is now being unwatered has vast quantities of ore that runs high in silver. By the first of the year the Anaconda company will have this mine almost in readiness for operation. The Hibernia and other silver mining properties close to it will probably be started soon after the Nettie resumes.

W. A. Clark's new shaft at the Eveline is being sunk rapidly and this will open up some valuable silver and zinc ore bodies according to the expectations of the engineers who passed upon the property.

The advance in silver to date increases the profits of the North Butte company $10,000 per month or $120,000 per year. Butte & Superior profits have been increased $20,000 per month or $240,000 per year which will add nearly a dollar a year per share to the profits if the price holds at the present level. The estimated increase in earnings of Anaconda due to the rise in silver is $720,000 per year.

Not since the days of the early nineties has the activity in the silver properties been as great as at present. Predictions are freely made that silver is going to 75 cents an ounce but 60-cent silver will satisfy most of the old timers.

At that price they say that fully 2,000 additional miners will be put to work during the coming spring, in the silver producing mines alone.

Claim to Be Divided.

Under the final judgment and decree entered by Judge McClernan of the district court in the case of the North Butte Mining company against the Butte Main Range Copper Mining company, a division is made of the part of the Lillie quartz lode claim in dispute and the North Butte company is ordered to pay to the Butte Main Range company the sum of $30,000 to make the partition equitable.

The Lillie claim is the most southerly of the group of claims of the Butte Main Range company and adjoining the large tract of land recently acquired in the East Butte district by the North Butte Mining company. With the settlement of this dispute, the Butte Main Range company will proceed at once with the development of its properties. The showing made in the Tropic mine of the Anaconda company which lies in ground adjoining the Butte Main Range claims is so satisfactory that the further sinking at the Sinbad will be carried on and a thorough exploration of the ground made by spring.

Boston & Montana.

A strike of a 12-foot vein carrying ore showing an average of 23 per cent zinc, 1.6 per cent copper and over 2 ounces of silver has been reported by the Boston & Montana Development company from its Elkhorn property. It was in the east crosscut being driven from the 2,000-foot station of the tunnel. At a distance of 475 feet from the station the new vein was encountered. At the point where it was reached it was somewhat broken but some drifting indicated that they will soon have a solid vein of ore.

Several stringers running 8 per cent in copper had been encountered in this same crosscut and the increasing quantity of water leads the management to believe that they are getting into a highly mineralized district. They expect to reach the large Park vein at a distance of 850 feet from the tunnel station. This leaves about 375 feet more of crosscutting and at the present rate this will be completed by Feb. 1.

The Idanaha vein that the west crosscut is expected to reach will probably be encountered about the same time. This crosscut is now in 525 feet. Two shifts a day are at work. The rock is of the Butte granite variety and the predictions made by the engineers who made the examination of the property some months ago, have all been verified to date.

Rainbow.

The Rainbow Development company has finished the sinking of its shaft to the 1,500-foot level. The depth of the old shaft was 1,365 feet and sinking began there three months ago. The cutting of the station on the 1,500-foot level has been finished and crosscutting started both north and south from the shaft. The crosscut to the south will be carried 200 feet to the south line of the Rainbow property. The north crosscut will be run a distance of 1,500 feet to the north end.

About 10 feet per day in crosscutting is being made. The north crosscut it is expected will open up the Rainbow lode which carries high values in both zinc and silver and is the large producing lode from which the Elm Orlu, the Blackrock, the Alice and the Moulton mines secure their highest grade ores.

The Rainbow Development company has carried the shaft at the Butte and London property which adjoins the Rainbow, down to the 1,200-foot level. It is all through Butte granite and over three feet per day is being made.

EAST BUTTE HAS PAID ITS DEBTS

Company Is Now Free to Create Surplus for Dividends.

News from the East has it that the East Butte Copper Mining company has completed the payment of its debts and in future will be free to pile up a surplus for possible dividends.

That will be good news to East Butte holders. For a long time the company has had a debt hanging over. This would have been paid months ago, but for the depression caused by the war.

Under the management of Oscar Rohn the property is now going right ahead and improvement is expected to continue.

Regarding operations at the East Butte the News Bureau comments as follows:

"Ore is now being mined on all levels between 600 and 1,500. Considerable development work is being done on the 600, 700 and 800 levels and on the 1,500, with opening of new ore reserves that are showing better grade of ore. It is carrying about ½ to 1 per cent more copper on the average than the ore heretofore taken out.

"Production at Dutton is steady and ore reserves are being well maintained. It is now planned to reopen the southern end of the property and thoroughly explore it.

"New oil flotation plant is practically complete, and two units with capacity of 800 tons daily will be in operation before Jan. 1.

"Total production of copper for eight months since the Pittsmont smelter reopened will exceed 13,000,000 pounds. Average monthly production at present is 1,700,000 pounds. Since changes were made enlarging and remodelling blast furnaces, the plant has capacity for 900 tons ore daily and an output of 2,000,000 pounds of copper per month."

SHIPMENTS FROM STATE IRON MINES

State Auditor Preus Issues Statement on Past Season's Activities.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Preus has issued the following statement with reference to the operations on the Mesaba range this year:

Mining operations on the Mesaba iron range for the season practically have closed. It has been a very successful and prosperous season. It is a little early for exact figures as to shipments from the individual mines or even for the total output. Enough is known, however, to confirm the general belief that the total shipments from the Lake Superior region will equal those of the record year of 1913, namely, 49,000,000 tons.

Minnesota's contribution to the tremendous output of 1913 was 36,338,264 tons, and constituted 62.37 per cent of the total iron ore product mined in the United States in that year. All indications are that she will maintain her record, if not outstrip her performance in this respect, in 1915. Everywhere the steel mills are operating to capacity with waiting orders, and the prospects for increased activity and an increased tonnage for 1916 are most excellent, added to which is the assurance of an advanced price for ore. The price of non-bessemer ore at lower lake ports, this year as last, was $2.85 per ton, the lowest during the last ten-year period. An advance of 50 cents is already assured and it may reach $1 per ton. This raise will stimulate operations on the range generally but will most favorably affect the smaller mines and those containing lower grades of ore.

Another factor advantageously affecting the mining industry in this state is the starting up of the $20,000,000 steel plant at Duluth, which occurred during the past week, and the making of pig iron begun. The site for this immense plant embraces 1,600 acres. The mills are capable of turing out 350,000 tons of finished material annually, and will give employment to 3,500 persons. This big industry belongs in a great measure to the whole state of Minnesota.

The state's own mines which are located on school, swamp and university lands have also shown considerable activity this season. The output from twenty-two leases, up to Nov. 1, the records show, was 2,187,390 tons. It is estimated that the shipments for November will bring the total for the season up to 2,400,000 tons. This, however, is not the record, since the output in 1913 was 2,875,982 tons. The royalty on the ore mined on state leases this season will yield $600,000 to the state's permanent trust funds, and other incomes such as minimum royalties and fees will increase the amount to $675,000.

The following table gives the shipments in tons up to Nov. 1 from the nineteen state mines that were active this season, the shipments for November being estimated:

	Tons.
Leonidas	700,920
Missabe Mountain	556,544
Woodbridge	177,195

DETERRED FROM SUICIDE, WOULD SIGN PLEDGE

William Niemi, Thwarted in Deadly Ambition, Will Take Spite Out on Liquor By Quitting It; Sent to Work Farm.

William Niemi, 36, wanted to sign the pledge this morning.

Every time he imbibes, he becomes despondent, and wants to kill himself.

Yesterday, after several successful attempts to "Fill the cup that clears

Today of past regrets and future fears"

William found that every cloud was very cloudy, and that every lining was dark.

Accordingly, determined to experience what Charles Frohman called "the greatest adventure in life," William wandered right by several saloons without going in, and walked down to the ship canal on lower Lake avenue.

Bystanders caught him just as he was about to do an Annette Kellermann into the lake, and dragged him back to the arms of Patrolman Thompson, who took William to headquarters.

Peering from the jail window, William saw his old enemies, the clouds, and they still were very cloudy.

Determined to make one more attempt to shuffle off, William began looking for a pointed instrument that would be of assistance to a man who wanted to cut his throat.

Jailer Louis Johnson caught him in the act—of looking—and put him in the padded cell.

Today William was sentenced to the work farm for ten days, but he found a cloud that wasn't so very cloudy, and decided that he wanted to swear off on rum, instead of committing suicide.

Prisoners Arraigned.

A. A. King, commission merchant, indicted by the November grand jury on a charge of having drawn a check on a bank in which he had no funds, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a bench warrant and arraigned before Judge Dancer in district court. King pleaded not guilty and was released from custody after furnishing bail.

Earlier in the day King had been picked up by the police on a warrant charging him with the offense for which he was indicted. He was arraigned in municipal court and demanded an examination. It was then learned at police headquarters that he had already been indicted and that a bench warrant was in the hands of the sheriff for his arrest. He was turned over to the sheriff's office and subsequently arraigned in district court.

Andrew G. Johnson, 725 West Superior street, was also arraigned yesterday afternoon on a bench warrant before Judge Dancer. He was indicted by the November grand jury on a charge of having cigarettes in his possession for sale without first having procured a license. The offense is punishable by a maximum sentence of ninety days in jail or a fine or both. Johnson pleaded not guilty and was released on bail.

NO LATE MAIL THIS SEASON

AIDS FOR MAILING CLERK.

Mail Christmas parcels and letters early.

Write address plainly and correctly.

Write return address on every piece of mail.

Wrap securely and tie parcels firmly.

Place matter in postoffice when possible.

Be sure the amount of postage is correct.

Mail your parcels early.

Owing to the tremendous increase in matter handled at the Duluth postoffice during the last few months, since the new prosperity era set in, and the approach of Christmas, Postmaster William E. McEwen has provided men and equipment to take care of from 25 to 50 per cent more mail than was handled last year during the holiday season. Twenty-five per cent more mail can be handled without any congestion whatever, said Mr. McEwen today.

To meet this contingency Postmaster McEwen is transferring furniture and other apparatus at the postoffice to provide more room for handling parcels, which are coming in already by the wagon load. He had planned to secure a building near the postoffice for this purpose but was unable to do so and is make-shifting at the postoffice instead.

"We will make room for the mails if we have to make a storage room out of my office," he said today.

It is the aim of the postmaster this year to have every piece of mail delivered on time before Christmas and to give the public just as prompt service during the holiday season as at any other time of the year.

No Late Presents.

"We shall try not to have any Christmas presents held over for delivery after Christmas. Many a person's Christmas has been spoiled by the congestion of the mails, but we hope to co-operate with Santa Claus in such a way that every present passing through the postoffice shall be safely stowed away in the proper stocking on Christmas eve."

If mails are to be delivered safely and promptly, the public must co-operate says Mr. McEwen. The parcel post service will be larger than ever before this season, and there is an increase of 25 to 50 per cent more mail coming in every day now than a year ago. There are some things the public can do easily that mean much to the overworked mailing clerk.

Parcels and letters should be addressed plainly, and correctly.

They should be mailed early, giving allowance for congestion at terminals.

Parcels should be well wrapped and securely fastened.

All matter should have a return address upon it.

St. Paul is the gateway for all mailing matter from the West to Chicago and eastern points, and there will be a tremendous amount of mail passing through that city. Plans have been made to meet the rush there, but persons having matter to go through that office, should mail it early and help prevent congestion.

WALK BRINGS WOE TO LABORER

"Come on, let's walk. It'll be good for you," said Mike Manula, 29, to Tony Rapich, a laborer, night before last.

It was good for him—as an experience, for while they were enroute to New Duluth from West Duluth on their early-evening constitutional, friends of Manula attacked Rapich, robbed him of $140 and his watch and chain.

When Patrolman Harry Toewe spotted Manula on West Michigan street today he brought him to headquarters, where he was booked as a robbery suspect.

Manula, professing to be a friend of Rapich, invited him to take this walk, and lead him along a dark street, where his two friends were waiting for their prey, it is alleged.

Jumping upon Rapich, they overpowered him, grabbed his "roll" and disappeared, Manula going with them, according to Rapich. Police are looking for the other two.

WILL BE "CREDIT TO COMMUNITY"

Five hundred residents at New Duluth and Gary have signed a petition requesting the city commission to grant Danculovich & Lubratovich a license to operate a saloon at 1313 Commonwealth avenue.

The petition was brought to City Clerk Borgen this morning by Mr. Danculovich, who has also made application for the transfer of his license at 529 West Michigan street to Commonwealth avenue. The application will come up before the council on Monday afternoon, Dec. 20.

The signers of the petition declare that both Danculovich and Lubratovich are "men of good character" and that "they will conduct a saloon that will be a credit to the community."

The city commission has gone on record refusing to grant any licenses to New Duluth and Gary and as a result has turned down several applications in the last six months. Whether this petition filed today will have any influence, is not known, although a large number of the signers are not citizens of this country, while many more are not registered voters of Duluth.

CHANGES IN OFFICIALS.

Omaha Road Announces Promotions in Freight Traffic Department.

News was received today at the local Omaha office of changes made in the list of officials of the Northwestern railway system.

Marvin Hughitt, Jr., formerly freight traffic manager, has been promoted to the office of general traffic manager; Frank P. Eyman, formerly assistant traffic manager, has been promoted to the position of freight traffic manager; Henry W. Beyers, formerly assistant general freight agent, has been made assistant freight traffic manager.

OLD ARMORY MAY BE SOLD

City commissioners are negotiating for the sale of the old armory building and site at the corner of Second avenue east and First street.

Mayor Prince announced this morning that a local syndicate of realty men has offered to buy the corner from the city, if it is for sale, and it is probable that the deal will be consummated before next spring.

The proceeds of the sale will be turned over to the county in payment for the site for the new city hall, purchased by the county authorities several years ago and now being held in trust for the city. The armory sale is expected to bring at least $50,000, this being on the basis of $500 a front foot for 100 feet.

With the sale of the old armory building, the city authorities will have taken the first step toward the erection of a new city hall. Immediately after, it is planned to negotiate for the sale of the present city hall and police station, so that the city will have a substantial nucleus for a fund for the new building.

"There is nothing definite just yet," said Mayor Prince this morning, "but a local syndicate inquired several days ago, if we would sell the building. The council, as far as I know, favors such a deal, providing we can receive a fair price for the property.

"If all our plans go through and congress makes an appropriation for a new Federal building there is some prospect of a new city hall before many years."

CLARK PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF SENATE

Washington, Dec. 4.—Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas was chosen yesterday for president pro tempore of the senate by the Democratic caucus. Senator Clarke defeated Senator Pomerene of Ohio after a spirited caucus. The vote was 28 to 23.

Senator Pomerene was supported by members who urged that the Arkansas senator should not be re-elected because of his revolt against the ship purchase bill at the last session. After the vote was taken Senator Pomerene moved to make the choice of Senator Clarke unanimous and this was done by a rising vote.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

DULUTH BUILDING ACTIVITY IS HELPED BY THE WEATHER

Exceptional Conditions Permit Progress in Construction Work.

Past Month More Than Usually Productive of Building Initiative.

Favored by good weather, building operations are exceptionally active for the season in this city and district. Foundations are being put in for a number of large structures, and it is hoped to get them so far advanced that work may be proceeded with all through the winter.

The list includes five business blocks in the West end, a hotel on West Superior street, and a business building on West First street.

Business men express gratification over the substantial improvements being made on West First street, as it is recognized that the diversion of a proportion of the retail trade to that thoroughfare will aid in relieving the congestion on Superior street, and result in widening the city's commercial district. The latest announcement regarding First street is that Bloom & Co. are arranging to build a three-story store building on the upper side between Lake avenue and First avenue west, at an approximate cost of $17,000. The plans are being prepared by Gilinson & Carson.

West End Improving.

Among the improvements underway in the West end is a two-story business block for J A. Anderson, on Third street between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues west. It is to be 50 by 72 feet in size, and will contain two stores on the ground floor with four flats above. Jacobson Bros. have obtained the general contract at $14,000. Holstead & Sullivan are the architects.

A permit for $35,000 was taken out this week to cover the cost of the municipal building now under erection on Central avenue, West Duluth. William Fawcett is the general contractor, and F. G. German the architect.

Permits of the week ran up to a substantial aggregate, numbering thirty-six, with the cost of improvements involved placed at $89,270.

Statistics issued at the building inspector's office for November afford ground for encouragement. Permits issued during the month numbered 144 for improvements estimated to cost $204,371. This compared with 94 permits for $189,510 taken out during the same month last year. For the eleven months of the current year, 1,649 permits were issued for improvements estimated at $2,549,863.

Gilinson & Carson, architects, will take bids up to Dec. 8 on a hotel to be built for Olaf Pearson at Superior street and Sixteenth avenue west. It will contain forty rooms and its cost is estimated at $35,000.

C. S. Nystrom, architect, is engaged on plans for a large addition to the technical high school at Virginia. The structure will contain sixteen classrooms, two gymnasiums, one for boys and the other for girls, and domestic science and manual training departments. An auditorium with a seating capacity of 700 and a swimming tank will be arranged for. The cost of the structure is estimated at $150,000. It is proposed to call for figures during the winter and award the contract so that work may be started in the early spring.

Plans for the building to be erected for the Swanstrom Investment company at First street and Twenty-first avenue west, are expected to be ready to go out for figures in a few days from the office of Holstead & Sullivan, architects. The building will be three stories high with a frontage of seventy feet on First street.

Joseph Hanson has obtained the excavation contract for the two blocks to be built at Superior street and Twenty-third avenue west. Plans for the superstructures are being prepared by Holstead & Sullivan, and it is expected that figures will be taken upon them within a few weeks. An approximate outlay of $100,000 will be involved in the two propositions.

Fraser & Anderson have obtained the general contract for the R. M. Funck house at Fifth street and Twenty-first avenue east. Its cost will be about $5,000. Arthur N. Starin is the architect.

REAL ESTATE IS MOST STABLE OF INVESTMENTS

"It is axiomatic that real estate is the last investment to reflect hard times and the last one to respond to ameliorating conditions," says the Wall Street Journal. "In addition to general economic and business depression for the last few years, realty has had to contend with a large amount of specific real estate legislation during whose period of adoption and adjustment not yet completed, there has been much vexation of spirit and legitimate anxiety on the part of owners, factors tending to check the development of real estate.

"Pressure of enlarging business is affecting favorably the status of realty. Throughout the country building operations are showing advancement. Demand for lumber and for structural iron and steel is increasing. There is a noticeable stabilizing of real estate values. Conditions in this field are more propitious than for a long time.

"In the down town district of New York improvement is perceptible. The simplest form of proof is shown by the largely increased numbers of tenants on the hall lists of the large structures in the financial district.

"Real estate men agree upon the more favorable aspect for real estate. While there has been no actual advance in the price of rentals it is easier to get good prices. While this is not the season for the renewal of rentings, May 1 being the beginning of the real estate year, new leases are being made all the time. These are rapidly eating up empty space.

"This demand is due both to the improvement in general conditions and to war munitions and improved stock market conditions which have created new corporations and stimulated old firms. Call for more room for office has thus been constant.

"Prices of leases are not yet rising but it is felt that the tendency is in that direction."

HOLIDAY SEASON HAS ITS EFFECT ON REALTY MARKET

Despite Lack of Big Sales, Operators Are Most Optimistic.

Inquiry From Outside Points Increasing—Many Planning Houses.

With the holiday season in its commencement stage, operations in the real estate field were somewhat restricted during the present week.

As the outlook is thought the brightest in years in every branch of trade and industry, operators are sanguine that transactions put through in all classes of properties during the next twelve months will reach a large aggregate. A feature commented upon is the extent of the inquiry coming to hand from outside points. Said a realty man on that score today: "I have been in receipt of letters from Eastern clients lately asking if I have anything desirable to offer in the way of investment. I know of at least two outside capitalists, who have been extensive owners of Duluth property for years, who are desirous of adding to their holdings, provided satisfactory propositions are made to them. It is a significant feature that no outside investors are ready to sell at the present stage."

Realty Dealers Optimistic.

H. W. Cheadle of Richardson, Day & Cheadle thought that the most satisfactory development of late is the increased interest being shown in the better classes of houses. "I know of a number of persons who are figuring on properties running in values from $10,000 to $20,000, and I am hopeful that some nice deals in that line will be closed up before long," he said. "I regard it as a distinct indication of returning prosperity to see business men preparing to invest in good homes. Insofar as I know, no bargain-day property is being offered on the market now. The few blocks that had been overhanging and helping to bear down the market are now out of the way. Persons buying now must expect to pay fair prices. The realty situation is steadily growing stronger in that respect, and it is reasonable to look for materially higher valuations all round in the near future. All the factors making for a bigger and better Duluth are now working."

Other members of the Duluth real estate exchange are similarly optimistic. Attention is drawn to the number of sales of houses that have been made to outside buyers during the last two weeks. In nearly every case the purchasers are arranging to remove to the city.

C. P. Craig & Co. reported continued interest in market gardening tracts and acreages within easy access to the city. Sales of three tracts at Greysolon farms were put through this week.

A. W. Kuehnow, manager of the Gary Land company, expressed gratification over the market improvement in inquiry for Gary building lots during the last ten days. Inquiries are being received from some of the Middle West manufacturing districts and the closing up of a number of sales was effected.

The N. J. Upham company sold for Charles J. Hector, a flat building at Fifth street and First avenue east to an outside investor, at $5,300.

Stryker, Manley & Buck advised some deals under negotiation for central properties. Substantial inquiry is being received for well located houses houses of the better class, foreshadowing the closing up of a good volume of business when the holiday season is over.

The Hoopes-Kohagen company reported the sale of a building lot in the Park Drive division and also of the receipt of earnest money on a West end property.

Broadening inquiry for farming tracts in Lake and Carlton counties was reported by the Ebert-Walker company. A sale of 200 acres in Lake county is expected to be closed up shortly. The purchaser proposes to move upon it next spring.

The Benjamin F. Schweiger company sold this week for Gunder Edwards to Elizabeth McClelland, a 6-room modern dwelling and 35 by 100 feet lot, at 914 Eleventh avenue east, at a consideration of $3,150. It also reported the sale of two Crosley park lots for Jens Jacobson, at a consideration of $200.

THE MOST PERFECT FLAT BUILDING IN THE CITY

The above building, just completed on Second street near Fifth avenue east, has been pronounced by critics as being one of the best examples of a two-flat building ever constructed in the city of Duluth. The exterior of the designs has been carried out in what is known as the Spanish mission. This was done to give the building the certain degree of individuality it possesses. The site on which it stands was taken very carefully into consideration at the time preliminary sketches were being made. If one were to visit the site they would find a magnificent view of the lake, a view that would aid materially to the renting possibilities of the building, if the same was taken advantage of. Realizing this the architects were confronted with one of the most difficult problems of the profession by the way of attaining a view from both the front and rear of the building without passing through any long dark passage or corridor connecting the main rooms. You will notice upon close examination of the plan that one enters directly into the living room from the vestibule which opens from the street. Upon entering the living room the visitor will be confronted with a magnificent view of the entire harbor through the glass doors of the sun-parlor which overlooks this portion of the site. Special attention is called to the compact arrangement of the plan. There are no dark halls, the one little service hall on the west side of the building which is a connecting link of the bed rooms, bathroom and kitchen and dining room is the feature original of this firm of architects. It has been introduced in a number of our buildings and has been a main feature in bringing about a higher rental value in the building. The basement is provided with two separate laundries, store rooms and boiler rooms. This building, no doubt, will be open for inspection tomorrow and those who are interested will be well repaid for their trouble by visiting the premises and ascertaining for themselves as to whether or not this is the best two-family flat building in Duluth.

HIGH SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Central Students Select Prettiest Girl and Most Handsome Boy; Results Will Be Announced Next Spring; Senior Debaters Now School Champions; Lambs' Play Cast Almost Complete; First "Hop" Dec. 17.

In the office of the Zenith board at Central high school are two large boxes, each one well filled with more than a thousand votes to determine the prettiest girl and the most handsome boy among the student body of the local institution.

In an attempt to get something out of the ordinary into this year's Zenith, the feature committee of the 1916 annual decided upon a series of elections to determine the nine persons who are most prominent in their respective and peculiar sides of school life. The most bashful and the laziest persons, the biggest bluffer, roughneck and grafter, and the most popular boy and girl will be singled out one by one in elections to be held throughout the next three weeks.

Election Series Begins.

Yesterday the first election of the series was held. It was to determine the prettiest girl and the most handsome boy. During "election time" the corridors were crowded, the booths were surrounded by eager and tense groups, and a spirit of unusual enthusiasm pervaded the entire school. Whispering co-eds collected in curious groups and confided to each other their own personal ideas concerning their handsome heroes. Groups of boys likewise gathered and started near riots when the big question was put up to them. Even "political grafters" were in evidence and succeeded in swaying voters.

The results of the affair will be kept secret until the Zenith makes its appearance in the spring—if they can be kept under cover that long. The votes will not be counted for some time, and the students are therefore in a tense state of expectation regarding the outcome of their balloting.

It is rumored that a certain member of the male sex, admittedly very pretty, received an overwhelming vote in the contest for the selection of the prettiest girl. The unordinarily attractive co-eds were not on friendly terms yesterday, although they refused to admit that they were jealous of each other.

Election Proves Exciting.

The selection of the handsomest boy proved a great thing for the girls. The fellows who thought that they stood any chance at all were bedecked in their very best, paraded up and down the halls, made a point of coming into the assembly hall late, and did other unusual things to attract the attention of the feminine voters. There was the ordinarily good-looking young man, the gaunt and freckled members of the Boys' Glee club, the orchestra violinist with his flowing hair, and others more or less prominent who were considered as heroes in the eyes of some worshipping maiden. The football hero was in the height of his glory. Despite brutal scars from countless gridiron battles and a countenance that resembled a dynamite explosion, these young warriors were considered handsome and received their share of the votes. All in all it was a gay day and the school was stirred as it has seldom been aroused before.

Work on the Zenith is progressing rapidly, and much of the book has been planned for. Yesterday was the last day to hand in original ideas. The person who suggests the best original idea in regard to the make up in any way of the Zenith will be awarded $5 as first prize. The winner will be determined in about two weeks. Several unusual suggestions have been received by the Zenith board and will undoubtedly be used to great advantage in the publication of the annual.

All stories and poems must be in during the week following the Christmas vacation. By Feb. 1 all drawings must be turned in to the art department. Poets, authors and artists are all working hard to get in on a share of the prize money.

The senior debating team, by reason of its victory over the sophomore trio yesterday afternoon, is now school champion. The fourth-year men had previously won over the strong junior team, and the sophomores had disposed of the freshmen. The school championship was decided yesterday afternoon when the seniors were awarded a 2-to-1 decision over their opponents following an unusually close and interesting contest. The debate was on the national defense question, the same subject used in all of the interclass series this year and the one which will be used as the state debating league question this winter.

The senior trio scored well in their rebuttal. The sophomore team, though defeated, showed remarkable ability in handling the subject and gave the fourth year combination of veteran stars a bad scare. The sophomores should make a great showing in future years. The senior team, supporting the affirmative, was composed of Jacob Garon, Sam Gofin and Willard Thorp, while the sophomore aggregation was composed of Elsa Zachow, Earl Hanson and Raymond Larson.

Work on the school debating team will begin at once under the direction of Prof. Null of the public speaking department. With the aid of several veterans and plenty of good new material, it is expected that Central will be represented by an unusually strong team this year.

With the selection of all but two members of the Lambs' club play cast, preparations for the production to be given in January are already under way. The members of the cast are being tutored by L. C. Rasey, advisor of the Lambs' club and well known for the great success which he achieved in directing the 1915 senior class play held last spring.

"Our Boys," to be presented by the cast, is a well balanced three-act play, abounding in hearty humor and earnestness. The play is an old one but when well produced never fails to make a hit.

With two exceptions the cast has been chosen. The persons already selected and the positions which they will fill are as follows: Sir Geoffry Champneys, a county magnate, Albert Armstrong; Talbot Champneys, his son, Neil Upham; Perkyn Middlewick, a retired butterman of Devonshire House, Jack Rideout; Charles Middlewick, his son, Don Alexander; Violet Melrose, an heiress, Roberta Ritchie; Mary Melrose, her poor cousin, Irene Johnson; Clarissa Champneys, Sir Geoffry's sister, Katherine Birch; Belinda, lodging house slave, Sue Alexander.

The regular weekly meeting of the Lambs' club was held following the close of school yesterday. The meeting was featured by an address by Monick Altman.

The regular meeting of the Girls' Literary and Debating society was held following the close of school Tuesday. The club is composed of sophomore girls interested in this line of work, having been founded last year. The members are planning an unusually active campaign this year and expect to overshadow their accomplishments of last year. Programs of attractiveness and interest will be arranged for every meeting and debates will be arranged with other literary societies of the school. The members of the society are not missing the social side of life and held their first important party last evening.

The efforts of the club have been far reaching, and it has done inestimable good in training the girls for literary work and study. It is an enthusiastic organization and has become very popular among the students. A few weeks ago the members of the society made several hundred "D" arm bands and sold them as a benefit for the school athletic association.

The first school "hop" of the year will be held on the evening of Dec. 17 in the corridors of the school building. This was the decision reached by the members of the interclass dance committees in a joint meeting held last week. There are two big school parties held during the year in addition to one affair for each of the classes. All of the classes have selected their representative "hop" committees.

The committees are as follows: Seniors, Ila Whiteside and Norman Tufty; juniors, Gladys Anderson and Galen Pearsons; sophomores, Wallace Nott and Agnes Ewell; freshmen, Melba Bruen and William Abbott.

In addition to choosing their "hop" committee the freshmen, at their meeting held Tuesday afternoon, selected blue and gold, the colors of last year's graduating class, for their class colors. Donald MacGregor and Stephen Welchart were chosen sergeants-at-arms. The pin committee made its report and the students voted on their class pin. A very attractive model was chosen. An order will be taken among the first year pupils in the near future and sent to the firm making the chosen design.

An address by Prof. Lawson of the school manual training department featured the regular weekly meeting of the Industrial club, held following the close of school Tuesday. His talk proved exceedingly interesting. It was one of a series of lectures to be delivered throughout the year by prominent business men of Duluth and by the school faculty.

Basket ball took a firm hold on the students of the school during the week just closed. The round robin tournament proved a decided success and some good material was brought up to Coach Blake's inspection. The interclass series will be staged next week. Tags selling for 10 cents each were put on sale by the athletic association last week and many of them were sold. One of these admits the student to every game, whereas in former years the same amount was charged for each game. In this way it is hoped to get out some big crowds to the class series. As soon as the class contests are out of the way real work will be begun on the school quint.

CENTRAL STUDENTS ORGANIZE CREAMERY

Butter and Other Dairy Products Will Be Manufactured.

Students of the Central high school have put themselves in the lead of all others in the United States in dairying by completing plans for a creamery to be run in connection with the school. This is the first organization of its kind in the United States, and if figures compiled can be depended upon, should prove profitable. Final arrangements for the work were laid out and rules of incorporation agreed upon at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

Stock for the corporation was issued upon a small deposit of the members so as to guarantee the credit of the company, and the stockholders were limited to twenty-five members. The purpose of the organization is to give the students experience in the operation of a co-operative creamery.

There will be a special study of butter making, from the fresh milk stage to the ripening of the cream. Other dairy products such as buttermilk, and cottage and cream cheese will be manufactured. There will be three churnings of butter each week and three or four students will be employed each time.

The creamery has been organized along the usual corporation lines. It will be dissolved at the end of each year for the purpose of dividing the profits. At this time also officers for the corporation will be elected for next year so that the organization will be permanent. Members who leave school at the end of the year may transfer their stock to other students. The following officers were elected yesterday:

Carl Johnson, president; Oliver Maggard, vice president; Vernon Hutchinson, secretary; Harold Hughes, treasurer; Harold Rachlin, Richard Beerhalter, and August Anderson, directors.

The officers of the creamery met with E. P. Gibson, the manager and instructor, and went over plans for the year.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Debating Teams Are Busy—Invitations to Ford's "Peace Party" Declined—Dale McAlpine Getting Ideas for the Garrick Club.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is a week of debates at the University of Minnesota. One debating team has journeyed to Iowa City to talk over the question of industrial insurance with the team representing the University of Iowa, and another team has remained at home to entertain the University of Illinois representatives. The Gopher team in Iowa City will defend the negative side of the resolution that the states should establish a system of compulsory industrial insurance, while the team which remains at home will uphold the affirmative.

Henry Ford sent invitations to the university authorities asking that one man and one woman be appointed to accompany his "peace party" to Europe. President Vincent telegraphed in reply that he would be overstepping his authority to officially indorse the expedition, but referred Mr. Ford to Wendell Burns of Duluth, who is president of the All-University Student council. Mr. Burns called a council meeting upon receiving Mr. Ford's wire, and the subject was thoroughly discussed. The conclusion was finally reached that the time was too limited to canvass the students to determine whether they favord the purpose of the trip, so no official representative was appointed. In addition to this offer to the university officials, however, Raymond Gruettsmacher was especially invited. Mr. Gruettsmacher is the center of the peace movement at the university, the president of the Minnesota branch of the International Polity league, and a strenuous advocate of universal peace. He spent several weeks in the East during the summer at a conference of college men held under the auspices of the Carnegie institute, and at that time came to the attention of Mr. Ford, who showed his esteem by the invitation just tendered. Mr. Gruettsmacher, however, is a member of the debating team which is representing the University of Minnesota in Iowa City, and decided that he could not conscientiously desert his colleagues at the last minute, and so declined the offer.

The Christmas spirit has reached the campus early, borne by a number of the fairest co-eds who have undertaken to raise an especially large fund through the sale of Christmas seals. The sale is already heavy, owing only in part, it is feared, to the natural generosity of the male students.

The Garrick club, the entirely men's dramatic organization, is completing preparations for the presentation of "Lady Frederick." There is to be no farce in the depiction, but rather a sincere effort to interpret a very interesting play, and the fact that men take the female parts is handled as artistically as possible. When not appearing on the boards, the Garrick club has meetings to discuss the drama and its numerous movements. One of its members, Dale McAlpine of Duluth, has been appointed to interview every dramatic star who visits the Twin Cities, getting what ideas that person may have, and also a photograph to hang on the wall of the house which they soon hope to occupy. The club is planning to build a clubhouse and theater near the university, where they will assume the nature of a dramatic fraternity, composed of student dramatists, actors and stage managers.

The Forensic league, a union of all the debating societies on the campus, held a meeting at the Agricultural college on Wednesday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to adopt a new constitution, which had been prepared, in considerable part, by Freddo Ossanna of Duluth, who is secretary of the league. After the business, President Vincent spoke, and plans were laid for a series of debates between the numerous societies represented.

Wen Ping Pan, a Chinese student at the university, has started a series of articles in the Minnesota Daily dealing with Chinese problems, customs and habits. Mr. Pan has succeeded Mr. Kokatnur and Mr. Chiplunker, who have just completed a series of articles on India, and Mr. Calvin, who has done the same for Russia. The Chinese articles will continue for about twelve days, when Salvator Bovino will write for Spain, and he, in turn, will be followed by representatives of other nationalities attending the university.

LAST SEASON SUCCESSFUL

Crops Average Well Despite Some Disappointments, Says County Agent.

In a letter sent out by H. G. Larson, county agricultural agent, he declares that the season of 1915 so far as the farmer was concerned was a fairly successful one. He declares that there were some disappointments, but upon the whole the year was an average one. Among other things, he says: "The season of 1915, from our farmers point of view, is closed. Some things which we hoped for, failed to materialize while others that we did not expect so much from, prospered beyond our expectations. A number of new silos were built in the county during the year. Unfortunately the corn crop failed, for the first time in many years. A splendid lot of seed potatoes of the Rural and Green Mountain types were planted last spring and an unfavorable season seriously damaged the crop in many places. While not a total failure, it is by no means an average crop.

"Hay and small grain, however, exceed all expectations, both as to yield and quality which demonstrates that the mainstay of Northern Minnesota agriculture is its grass and hay crop and its live stock. The better the grass and hay crop, the better and higher its feeding value, and the better improved breeds of livestock the greater the profit will be.

"Sometimes a person learns more when he fails than when he succeeds, and experience is often an expensive school in which to get an education. A recent article entitled "Safe Farming Always' might well be applied to this section, although it was written for the South with its one crop system (cotton) and from time to time we shall try to describe from actual experience and observation what safe, practical farming means, as it is preached and practised in Northern Minnesota."

PUBLIC LANDS ARE IN BRISK DEMAND

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Preus says that a comparison of the number of acres of state land sold by the state auditor's office this year, and the amount received therefrom, with that of 1914, would indicate that the demand for public lands is as brisk as ever. The total number of acres sold in 1915 was 79,565.31, and the amount realized was $561,352.73, the average price per acre being $7. In 1914 the sales totaled 82,433.66 acres, which brought $597,418.03, the average price per acre being $7.25. Following is a statement of the number of acres sold and the amount received therefrom in all counties in which state land sales have been held during the present year:

year:	Acres.	Amt. of Sale.
Aitkin	22,922.02	$155,663.68
Beltrami	3,781.39	21,774.87
Becker	2,121.71	13,404.42
Cass	5,250.94	35,381.09
Crow Wing	3,699.21	26,835.75
Clearwater	493.55	2,757.65
Carlton	560.00	4,480.00
Hubbard	2,457.05	15,952.72
Itasca	12,698.81	84,830.37
Koochiching	4,203.14	24,456.40
Kittson	40.00	320.00
Lake	1,092.21	5,740.04
Marshall	2,164.13	20,754.00
Morrison	2,110.77	25,414.00
Otter Tail	381.75	2,460.50
Polk	1,600.24	23,543.40
Roseau	3,821.21	23,550.12
St. Louis	6,564.57	49,266.67
Todd	1,360.00	11,280.00
Wadena	1,954.71	11,967.05
Wabasha	40.00	280.00
Winona	247.90	1,239.50
Totals	79,565.31	$561,352.73

Mr. Preus says: "As years go by and the state lands sold diminish in extent, the lands actually sold are less and less being sold to speculators, and more and more to settlers who live in the counties where the lands are sold. At a number of land sales held every parcel of land sold has been purchased by a local farmer who has been desirous of increasing the size of his farm. As the lands offered for sale by the state decrease, so will also the number of acres decrease. The next legislature should make some provision whereby local settlers could acquire with more expedition lands which they desire to purchase. The method now employed is that the lands are appraised one year and sold the following year. The method of sale by public auction is proving itself to be the proper method of selling state lands."

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA, ALSO IOWA,

In 1915 have experienced the biggest corn crop failures in their history. Have you ever heard of a failure in the grass and hay crop in Northern Minnesota, which insures big returns from stock, milk, butter, dairy products? Only one crop of land rapidly passing to stronger hands. Think it over.

Our selected farm lands on eastern extension of Cuyuna range are close to railroad, level, very fertile, easy to clear. You have two chances for profit: increased land value and a good chance for an iron mine. Prices $15 to $20 per acre. Cut-over lands in Lake and St. Louis counties for investment, $2 and upwards per acre, in large or small tracts.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

With the excellent markets offered at the Head of the Lakes and the great amount of road construction now taking place in Northern Minnesota, there is at present no investment safer than a tract of good farm land in this region. Don't wait until the prices have risen beyond your reach. Buy now while land is cheap.

NORTHERN BELTRAMI COUNTY offers, perhaps, the greatest opportunity for the farmer, homeseeker or investor. This rich, level country, free from rock and stone, is being rapidly developed by the state. Vast sums of money have been spent in building roads and ditches. You will find it worth your while to investigate.

We are probably better prepared than anyone else to tell you of this new, rich farming district.

TWO METHODS

—ONE RESULT!

The "Green Goods" man pretends to sell his victim what he wants, but gives him something else instead. The "Substitutor" uses his persuasive powers to induce his victim to accept what he does not call for.

Each uses a different method, but the result is the same.

No reputable merchant will offer you a substitute when you call for a standard advertised article.

GERMANY ASKS STATE DEPARTMENT TO GIVE REASONS FOR REQUESTING THE WITHDRAWAL OF HER ATTACHES

FRANCE WILL NOT MAKE PEACE UNTIL ALSACE AND LORRAINE ARE WON AND GERMANY IS CRUSHED

SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT BY WAR OFFICIAL

Declaration of M. Thomas Is Attracting Widespread Attention in Paris.

Says German Imperialism and Prussian Militarism Must Be Forever Ended.

Speaker Is Cabinet Officer and One of Leaders of Socialists.

Paris, Dec. 6—France will not make peace until Alsace and Lorraine are won, Belgium and Serbia restored and "German imperialism and Prussian militarism are put beyond the possibility of resurrection," Albert Thomas, under-secretary of war, said yesterday. The declaration of M. Thomas is attracting widespread attention, as it is one of the first statements from a responsible cabinet official concerning the attitude of the government in regard to peace.

The statement of M. Thomas was made in an address to a large crowd assembled last evening in memory of the dead of the war of 1870. M. Thomas said:

"There will be no peace until our Alsace and Lorraine are definitely re-established as part of the French unity.

"There will be no peace until our unfortunate brothers of Belgium and Serbia are assured of recovering their

CONGRESS ASSEMBLES FOR WHAT PROMISES TO BE HISTORIC SESSION

IS UNDER INVESTIGATION BY FEDERAL AUTHORITIES

DR. E. W. RITTER.

Held in Cleveland under charge of forging checks, is under suspicion of being connected with representatives of foreign countries in causing trouble in munition plants. He is under investigation by Federal authorities.

Proceedings in Both Houses Brief and Confined Largely to Organization.

Clark Chosen Speaker of House and Makes Short Address.

Senate Re-Elects Senator Clarke of Arkansas as President Pro Tem.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Congress reassembled at noon today for what promises to be the most important and historic session of a generation.

Proceedings in both house and senate were brief, being confined entirely to organization and formal introduction of some bills and resolutions. In accordance with custom, both bodies soon adjourned and sent a committee to formally notify President Wilson that congress was in session.

The real work of the session will begin tomorrow when President Wilson will deliver his annual address to a joint session assembled in the hall of the house.

Clark Re-elected.

Speaker Clark was re-elected and sworn in amid cheers from the floor and galleries. In the senate the organization was perfected by the re-election of Senator Clarke of Arkansas as president pro tempore. Vice President Marshall was not in the chair for the opening.

In his opening address to the house, the speaker paid tribute to Republican Leader Mann and predicted a practically continuous session hereafter.

"I am profoundly grateful to you for the high honor of the speakership, thrice conferred by your friendship," he said, addressing the members. "By reason of the amazing growth of our beloved country and the bewildering increase of business the time is in sight when the congress will remain practically in perpetual session I hope this

BIG INCREASE IN ESTIMATES

Military and Naval Expenditures Placed at Grand Total of $363,842,333.

Includes First Year Cost of New National Defense Program.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The administration's estimate of military and naval expenditures, including the first year's cost of the new national defense program was sent to congress today, with a total of $152,354,259 asked for the army and $211,518,074 for the navy.

For the two branches the increase asked over the appropriations last

VIGOROUS PROTEST IS FILED WITH BRITAIN

United States Objects Strongly to Seizure of American Ships.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Ambassador Page at London today advised the state department that he had filed a vigorous protest with the British foreign office against the requisitioning of vessels of the American trans-Atlantic company without the formality of prize court proceedings.

The dispatch did not contain the text of the protest or information regarding the intention of the British government. It was assumed at the state department, however, that the Hocking now at Halifax and the Genesee at St. Lucia, West Indies, were among the vessels covered by the protest.

In a message of instructions from the state department, the ambassador was told to inquire whether the British government intended to requisition the ships, and if so to make a vigorous protest. He was also told to insist that the cases of various vessels now held for prize courts be settled at the earliest possible moment.

MUTINY BY CHINESE IS QUICKLY SUBDUED

Rebels Take Possession of Cruiser Chao-Ho and Compel Crew to Bombard Shanghai Arsenal.

Pekin, Dec. 6, 1 p. m.—The government announces that it has received a telegram from Gen. Yang at Shanghai, saying that the Chinese cruiser Chao-Ho has been recaptured from its crew, which mutinied Sunday night and opened fire on two other warships and the Kaing-Nan arsenal. It is stated that a rebel land movement against the arsenal was repulsed and that peace has been restored.

Abandon Vessel.

Shanghai, Dec. 6.—The mutinous crew of the Chinese cruiser Chao-Ho abandoned the vessel early today after it had been bombarded and set on fire.

A band of rebels attacked the arsenal at midnight but was repulsed.

The authorities now appear to have complete command of the situation. Three of the mutineers were killed and five were wounded.

A band of thirty or forty rebels, armed with rifles and bombs, attacked the Chapei sub-police station at 4 o'clock this morning. The rebels threw four bombs of which three exploded. One policeman was killed and three were wounded.

A body of regular troops was brought up quickly and the rebels disappeared.

Fire Breaks Out.

After the engagement last evening between the Chao-Ho and the loyal crews of the cruiser Hai-Chi and the gunboat Tung-Ching there was no further firing by the warships until shortly before dawn. At that time the

ASKS $43,000 TO MAINTAIN HARBOR WORK

Other Appropriations for Duluth Are Submitted to Congress.

For Maintenance of Grand Marais Harbor Project $6,000 Is Desired.

Lighthouse Vessel Costing $150,000 for Great Lakes Among Estimates.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 6.—In the estimates of appropriations for the next fiscal year which were submitted to congress today, the secretary of war has asked for an appropriation of $43,000 for the maintenance of the Duluth-Superior harbor. He has also requested an appropriation of $6,000 for the maintenance of the project at Grand Marais harbor, $2,000 for Warroad harbor and Warroad river, and $1,000 for Zipple bay, Lake of the Woods. For the maintenance of the channel in the Mississippi between Brainerd and Grand Rapids an appropriation of $2,000 is asked, and for the improvement of the Mississippi and Leech rivers, as part of the reservoir project, the estimate is $60,000. The secretary of commerce has also asked for an appropriation of $150,000 for a new lighthouse vessel for the Great Lakes.

For Minnesota Forests.

The secretary of agriculture submits estimates of $2,970 for the maintenance of the Minnesota forest reserve and $8,050 for the Superior forest reserve, northeast of Duluth.

The secretary of the treasury asks congress to appropriate $4,000 for the installation of mail conveying ma-

VENIZELOS ASKS THE GREEKS NOT TO VOTE

Former Premier Issues Manifesto Addressed to the Liberal Party.

Paris, Dec. 6.—Eliphtherios Venizelos, former premier of Greece, has issued a manifesto addressed in the name of the Liberal party to the people of his country advising abstention from voting on the forthcoming general elections. The manifesto was issued Nov. 21, but its transmission by telegraph was prevented by the Greek government and it reached Paris today by mail.

ROUMANIA WAVERING; GREECE IS STUBBORN; BALKAN SITUATION

Solution of Affairs in Near East Seems Far From Settlement.

Russian Troops Apparently Still on Frontier Waiting to Cross.

Greece Refuses Concessions Inconsistent With Her Sovereign Rights.

London, Dec. 6.—No solution has yet been reached of affairs in the Balkans. Russian troops, though long poised for action near the frontier of Roumania, have not yet, so far as is known, left their own territory. Roumania's policy still is one of wavering and the Greek situation, despite diplomatic parleys and all sorts of reports of a successful settlement, remains undeveloped.

According to latest reports from Athens, both the Entente group of powers and the Greek government are holding their ground—the Entente reiterating its demands and Greece refusing to make concessions inconsistent with her sovereign rights.

"An official communication has been issued at Athens to the effect that the Greek press does not represent the views of the Hellenic government which is said to be optimistic regarding a successful settlement, but the ground for this optimism, which has failed to impress the newspapers and public either at Athens or in London, is not given.

Premier Skouloudis again conferred yesterday with King Constantine, who afterward received the French minister to Greece, discussing the situation at some length.

AUTHORITY OF STATE SUPREME

Supreme Court Holds Colorado Can Enforce Prohibition Laws.

Cities Governed By Special Charter Cannot Sell Liquor.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 6—The authority of Colorado to enact and enforce state-wide prohibition was upheld by the state supreme court today in an unanimous opinion written by Justice W. H. Gabbert.

The court held that cities governed under special charter were without authority to continue traffic in intoxicating liquors after Jan. 1, 1916, when state-wide prohibition becomes effective in Colorado, under constitutional and statutory enactments.

Taken to Court.

At the request of Gov. George A. Carlson the supreme court took original jurisdiction in the friendly suit to secure a judicial interpretation of Colorado's new prohibition legislation and furnish a basis for its enforcement. The action sought to enjoin the Denver city commissioners from issuing a saloon license to August Koch, extending beyond Jan. 1, 1916, when state-wide prohibition becomes effective. The commissioners in issuing the license based their action on the fact that Denver is governed under a special charter granted by legislature, and at the municipal election last May the electors adopted a charter amendment which sought to give the municipal officials authority to continue the sale of intoxicants.

Cannot Violate State Laws.

The state's case, submitted to the Held Incumbent on U. S. to Return Men Safely to Germany.

Washington, Dec. 6. — Count Von Bernstorff today presented to the state department a communication asking for the reasons for the request for the withdrawal of Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. Von Papen, the German naval and military attaches, respectively.

It was stated authoritatively, though not in the communication, that the ambassador would under no consideration ask the United States to get safe conducts for the attaches. The German government was represented as considering it incumbent upon the United States to return the attaches in safety to German territory and bring their successors here.

May Contest Withdrawals.

Should it develop from the state department's answer that other incidents than the Archibald case and the testimony at the trial of the conspirators of the Hamburg-American line were considered by the United States in asking that the attaches be withdrawn, Germany will contest the withdrawals. Should the department reply that those two incidents alone were responsible,

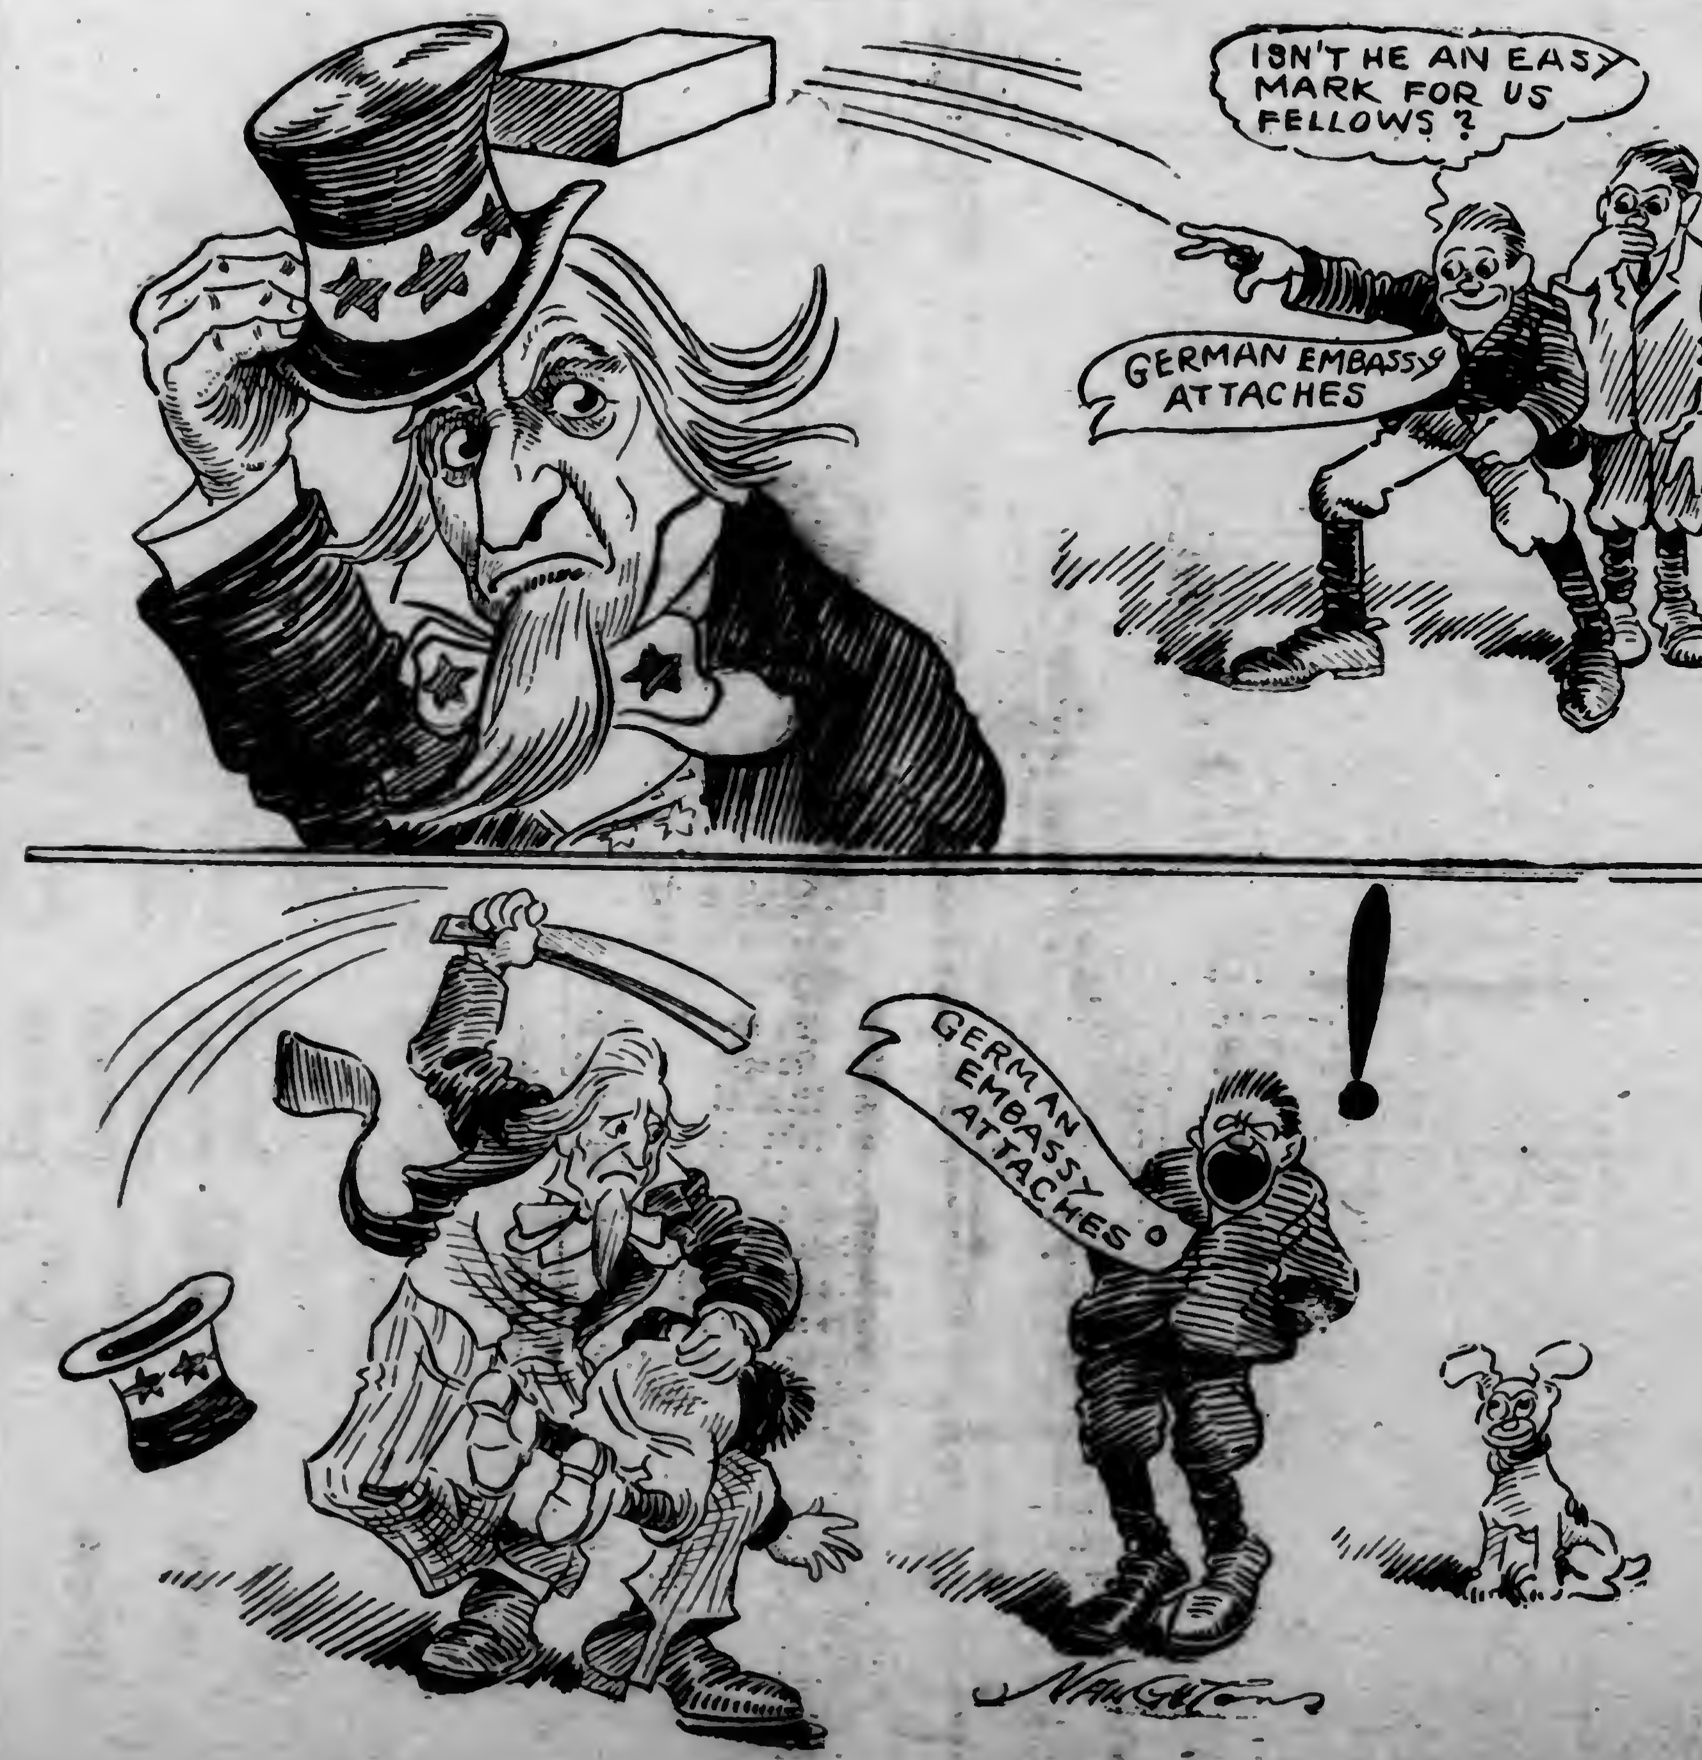
SERBIAN TROOPS IN PRECIPITATE FLIGHT

Bulgarians Announce Further Pursuit of Serbs Through Albania.

London, Dec. 6.—The Bulgarians announce a further pursuit of Serbian forces through Albanian territory. The retreat of the Serbians is reported to have assumed the character of a precipitate flight along the Beli-Drini river towards Scutari. Further north the Austrians report that the Montenegrins fighting on their frontier have been repulsed after offering violent resistance.

On the other fronts only sporadic artillery duels and small engagements of local importance are reported.

NOT QUITE SO EASY AS HE LOOKS



SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The pursuit of the retreating Serbians and the offensive movement against the obstinately resisting Montenegrins apparently are being vigorously pressed. Berlin reports the driving back of Serbian and Montenegrin divisions near Sienica, in Serbia, near the Montenegrin border, and Ipek in Eastern Montenegro.

In the Riga district the Russians initiated an offensive near Lake Babit, but Berlin declares the attack broke down with heavy losses to the Russians. Only artillery engagements, mining and hand grenade warfare and aeroplane combats are reported from the Franco-Belgian front. The German report chronicles the shooting down of two British aeroplanes, the occupants being killed.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg is quoted in an interview as expressing the view that Germany's foes needed further battering in view of their evident lack of desire for peace at this time. Germany, whose tactful position he considers excellent, must continue to press them, Field Marshal von Hindenburg declared.

London announces the escape of the British steamer Japanese Prince with many passengers on board, from a German submarine. Although shelled during the greater part of a struggle lasting five and one-half hours, the ship was so well maneuvered by her master that she succeeded in eluding the under sea boat and reached port without casualties.

Enrollment of the Russian army class in 1917 next year, a year in advance of the ordinary time, is ordered in an imperial ukase issued in Petrograd.

Serbians retiring from Monastir have arrived at Glevgeli to join the French troops under Gen. Sarrail, according to a dispatch from Athens.

M. Venizelos, former premier of Greece, issued a manifesto on Nov. 21, advising the national liberal party, which he heads, to abstain from voting in the coming elections.

France will insist on restoration of Alsace and Lorraine and Teutonic withdrawal from Belgium and Serbia as requisites of peace, declares Albert Thomas, French under-secretary of war. Another requisite is the putting of "German imperialism and Prussian militarism beyond the possibility of resurrection."

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION" TEACHES LESSON OF THE FUTILITY OF WAR

BATTLE SCENE FROM "THE BIRTH OF A NATION."

D. W. Griffith, perhaps a thousandfold more effectively than he realized while he was making it, has proven that war is actually hell, made and fed by man—in his spectacle of spectacles, "The Birth of a Nation," which has returned to the Lyceum for a week's engagement.

As has so many times been said and proven, armed hosts and battles seldom settle disputed questions of state. They may show which is the weaker or less prepared, but when the fight is over and even the winner has lost most heavily, he has not accomplished anything but to arouse the hate of every heart he has opposed.

Widows, orphans, wrecked homes everywhere, the aged parents and weeping little son and daughter, sister and brother, all over are the ones who will heartily say "amen" to this everlasting lesson of war.

chinery in the Duluth postoffice, and $8,000 for a similar purpose for the St. Paul postoffice. For continuing work on public buildings in Minnesota he has asked for the following amounts: Anoka, $40,000; Bemidji, $500; Little Falls, $35,000 and Montevideo, $24,000.

For the Indian service in Minnesota the following estimates are submitted: Pipestone school, $51,725; support of Chippewas, $4,000. Authority is also asked to pay destitute Indians one-fourth of their pro rata share of the Chippewa tribal funds.

For Rivers and Harbors.

Almost $46,000,000 is asked by the army engineers for maintenance and improvement of rivers and harbors for the twelve months beginning July 1, 1916. Estimates for the work submitted to congress today call for appropriations aggregating $45,839,510. That amount is $7,538,308 less than was estimated last December would be required for the year ending on July 1, for which, after a filibuster in the senate defeated the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, $30,000,000 was appropriated in a lump sum to be used among projects selected by the secretary of war.

The great commerce-bearing rivers in the new estimates demand the larger portion of the money, the Mississippi leading with a call for almost $10,000,000 and the Ohio following with $5,509,500.

The country's greatest port of foreign commerce, New York, asks more than $2,000,000 for channels maintenance and improvement over its large area which includes the waterfront and rivers in adjoining New Jersey and Long Island.

Larger Waterways.

Estimates for the larger waterways include: Mississippi river from the Southwest Pass, La., to Pokegama reservoir, Minnesota, $9,982,000, distributed as follows: Southwest Pass, $850,000; Head of Passes to the mouth of the Ohio, including expenses of the Mississippi river commission, $6,000,000; mouth of the Ohio to and including the mouth of the Missouri, $1,000,000; mouth of the Missouri to Minneapolis, $1,900,000; lock and high dam construction between Minneapolis and St. Paul, $170,000; maintenance between Brainerd and Grand Rapids, Minn., $2,000; between Winnibigoshish and Pokegama reservoirs, $60,000.

Missouri river, from its mouth to Fort Benton, $2,275,000, distributed as follows: Mouth to Kansas City, $2,100,000; Kansas City to Sioux City, $25,000; Sioux City to Fort Benton, $150,000.

Ohio river from its mouth to Pittsburgh, $5,509,500, distributed as follows: Lock and dam construction with a view to securing a navigable depth of nine feet, below Pittsburgh, $5,000,000; continuing improvement and maintenance, $509,500.

Hudson river, $2,670,000, distributed as follows: Continuing improvement and maintenance, $1,970,000; channel, from Hudson to East rivers, $250,000; continuing improvement of channel in New York harbor, $450,000.

Delaware river, from Trenton to the sea, $2,465,000.

Columbia river, from Pittsburgh Landing, Ore., to the sea, $2,502,000.

St. Mary's river, Michigan, $1,300,000; Tennessee river, $2,601,000; Cumberland river, $710,000.

The estimates for Michigan are as follows: St. Marys river, at fourth lock, $1,300,000; Alpena, $2,000; Charlevoix, $3,500; Frankfort, $7,500; Grand Haven, $71,750; Grand Marais, $10,000; Harbor Beach, $125,000; Holland, $8,400; Ludington, $250,000; Manistique, $14,000; Muskegon, $12,500; Ontonagon, $9,000; St. Joseph, $36,500; South Haven, $10,000; Ship channell, between Chicago, Duluth and Buffalo, $25,000; Black river, Port Huron, $25,000; Clinton river, $1,500; Grand river, $5,800; Menominee harbor and river, $17,000.

cruiser Ying-Swei opened fire on the Chao-Ho. A shot struck the Chao-Ho abaft the bridge. Fire broke out on the Chao-Ho. The rebels embarked on the launch which put out to the cruiser from the foreign settlement yesterday afternoon before the mutiny began. The mutineers landed on the Pootung side of the city and disappeared in a body.

The attack on the arsenal at midnight was made from the direction of the Hang-Chow railway. There was some rifle firing, but the arsenal troops acted promptly and calmly, and repulsed the attackers. So far as has been learned, there were no casualties at the arsenal. The three men who were killed and the five wounded were shot down on the Chao-Ho.

A visit to the arsenal early this morning showed that the situation there was normal. The Chinese authorities have handled the outbreak with the greatest coolness.

Overpowered By Rebels.

Circumstances disclosed today show that the crew of the Chao-Ho did not mutiny, as was at first reported, but was overpowered by the rebels who went in a launch yesterday afternoon from the foreign settlement to the cruiser The launch drew up alongside the Chao-Ho, flying the admiral's flag. Admiral Sa Cheng-Ping was on board. There were about forty men in the launch. They boarded the cruiser, each carrying a revolver and a bomb, concealed beneath handkerchiefs.

The rebels whipped off the handkerchiefs concealing their weapons and covered the crew with their revolvers, threatening death unless their orders were obeyed instantly. They compelled the crew to open fire on the arsenal and the other warships.

The rebels were unable to make use of the heavier guns, as an officer of the Chao-Ho threw overboard the keys to the magazines containing the six-inch and four-inch shells. His action probably saved the arsenal and the foreign settlement from serious damage. Numerous shots fell in the foreign concessions, but no serious harm was done.

Must Subdue Germany.

"There will be no peace until German imperialism and Prussian militarism is put beyond the possibility of resurrection.

"There will be no peace until a system of right, founded upon the victorious union of the allies, and supported by the free adherence of neutrals, has abolished forever the violence of war.

"Whatever may be the sacrifices France, united, will go steadily forward to accomplish this end. Today, before the terrible obstacle which confronts them, justice and liberty have only one road—that which our nation in arms opens to them, with the machine gun and cannon."

The declaration of M. Thomas derives added significance from the fact that, in addition to his connection with the cabinet, he is one of the leaders of the Socialist party.

Maurice Barres, president of the League of Patriots, also addressed the memorial meeting.

says Reuter's correspondent at Athens, are of a military nature, the impression is general that their solution depends upon the decisions of the war council at Paris.

The war council in Paris on Saturday, together with the text of Italy's adhesion to the pact of London, agreeing not to conclude a separate peace, and the arrival in Paris of Gen. Porro, second in command of the Italian army, are regarded here as gratifying signs of the increasing solidarity of the Entente allies, and it is hoped by the British public that this closer union will soon bear fruit in a more energetic Balkan campaign.

CONGRESS ASSEMBLES

congress will go into history as a working congress."

Usual Scene.

The senate floor and galleries presented the usual scene. After swearing in the new members the senate recessed until 2:30 o'clock.

In the house meanwhile bills and resolutions were pouring into the hopper at the clerk's desk. National defense measures predominated and there were many proposals for various investigations.

Many visitors, including noted suffrage advocates, had been drawn to the capitol to witness the offering by Representative Mondell of Wyoming of the Susan B. Anthony constitutional amendment for equal suffrage as the first resolution of the new congress. Its introduction was to signalize a demonstration for woman suffrage.

An added attraction to the usual scenes on the opening day of congress was the procession of woman suffragists who presented to a committee of congress a huge petition urging a Federal suffrage amendment.

Much Important Business.

Much important business faces the members. Since the gavel last fell in the two houses, many momentous questions have arisen. Overshadowing all others are those caused by the European war, but they do not compose the entire program. In addition to the questions of national defense and revenues, which fall naturally under the general head of preparedness, the merchant marine and rural credits legislation promise to command much attention. Many investigations, centering mainly about war problems, are to be inaugurated, and an interesting fight will ensue in the senate over a proposed cloture rule.

Two hundred and twenty-nine Democrats, 197 Republicans, 6 Progressives, 1 Socialist and 1 Independent compose the new house. The dozen or more Republicans of the "old guard" who went down in defeat three years ago only to be returned to the lower house over Democratic opponents last fall, formed an interesting group. Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the house, and now well on to 80 years of age, stood out prominently. If he finishes his present term he will have served forty years in congress, eight years as speaker. Other Republicans who remained at home during the last congress to reappear today were Nicholas Longworth of Ohio; William B. McKinley, W. A. Rodenberg, William W. Wilson, George E. Foss, John A. Sterling and Charles E. Fuller of Illinois; Ebenezer Hill of Connecticut, Cyrus A. Sulloway of New Hampshire and Benjamin K. Focht of Pennsylvania. Meyer London, the first Socialist elected to congress from New York, attracted much attention.

Familiar Countenances Absent.

Senate proceedings always are quieter than those in the house. As striking as the return of old faces to the house was the absence of familiar countenances in the senate.

Senators Root of New York, Burton of Ohio, Bristow of Kansas, Crawford of South Dakota, Perkins of California and Stephenson of Wisconsin were missing from the Republican side. Democratic ranks missed Thornton of Louisiana, White of Alabma and Camden of Kentucky. The first business was swearing in the new senators. Most of them already are well known in political circles.

Among the Republicans came James W. Wadsworth of New York, successor to Root, who attracted attention as the youthful speaker of the New York assembly; Charles Curtis of Kansas, who succeeds Bristow, and Warren G. Harding of Ohio, who succeeds Burton.

Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, former majority leader of the house, led the new Democrats. Other Democrats who took the oath were James D. Phelan of California, J. C. W. Beckham of Kentucky, Robert F. Broussard of Louisiana, Edwin S. Johnson of South Dakota and Paul O. Husting of Wisconsin. The senate now stands Democrats 56 and Republicans 40.

Tomorrow shortly after noon the house and senate will sit in joint session in the hall of the house to hear President Wilson deliver his annual address.

AS WE GROW OLDER

our minds are quite as active as in former years but our strength does not respond when we need it most; perhaps the kidneys are weak, the liver torpid, rheumatic pains or stiffened joints beset us, and we cannot easily throw off the colds that winter brings.

What we need is the rich cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion to renew the blood and carry strength to every organ of the body, while its glycerine soothes the respiratory tract, and its hypophosphites strengthen the excitable nerves.

Scott's Emulsion is a scientific oil-food, of unusual benefit to those past fifty years—particularly during the colder seasons, it imparts warmth and creates strength. One bottle will prove its worth. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

supreme court by Attorney General Fred Farrar, contended that Denver and other cities under commission government, while they possessed certain special rights in purely municipal matters, did not obtain from their charters authority to conduct their affairs in contravention of state law. It argued that the state authority was supreme and that municipalities had no more right to enact and attempt to enforce ordinances in violation of the state prohibition laws than they had to fix penalties for murder or other crimes.

Attorneys for the defense argued that the Denver charter was granted b ythe state legislature and gave the city authorities enlarged powers that could not be taken away and that these special powers extended to the supervision of the liquor traffic as well as to other matters of municipal government.

Will Conduct Series of Meetings at Hamline University Chapel.

Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist church of Duluth, has gone to St. Paul, where he will be engaged all week in conducting meetings at Hamline university. Each evening of this week, including Sunday, he will speak at the university chapel under auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Hoffman will not return until next Monday, and the pulpit of the First Methodist church will be filled in the morning by Miss Jennie Hughes, who has been a missionary in China for five years, and in the evening by Dr. Doran of St. Paul.

Family in Distress.

Mohall, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two of their children dead, another dying, the mother in a critical condition, and the father, weakened by his long vigil, were conditions found in the home of Ferry Somers, a former Mohall resident, now living on a homestead between Gary and Paola, Mont.

Attacks Late Employers.

Mott, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enraged during the settlement of his season's wages, James Bakkeras, a foreigner, pulled a knife and seriously slashed John and William Plunkett, neighbors, before he was overpowered by several other farm hands who had been attracted to the scene by the struggle.

Bismarck Man Pardoned.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. E. Robertson of Bismarck, prominent socially here, when he was sentenced about eighteen months ago to the state penitentiary for criminal assault, was pardoned by the state board, which concluded its work here Saturday evening. Robertson was serving seven years. Powerful influences worked in his behalf.

FIND BODY OF SUICIDE

Hunters Discover Evidence of Another Tragedy in Woods.

Revolver With One Chamber Empty Tells the Story.

Hunters near French River made the second gruesome find in two weeks yesterday morning, when Richard Erickson, caretaker at the J. P. Johnson farm near Clifton, stumbled across the body of a man while looking for rabbits.

A brown packsack, topped by a revolver with one empty chamber, and an empty whisky bottle, found near the body, tell a story of suicide, authorities are led to believe. The man was about 55 years old. His identity has not been learned, but the body had evidently been there for some time, as it was badly decomposed.

There was a bullet hole in the skull, starting above the right ear and ending on the left side above the temple bone. From the size of the wound, it evidently was made by the revolver found beside the body.

Erickson notified Robert E. Johnson, who in turn notified officials at French River. The body was taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms in Duluth yesterday afternoon.

Coroner C. F. McComb, with other county authorities, will hold an examination today in an attempt to learn more of the shooting, and if possible to establish the identity of the man. Judging from the appearance of the remains, he has been dead since spring.

The man was 5 feet 9 inches tall. He was dressed in a black and gray mackinaw, dark gray trousers, heavy woolen underwear, heavy socks, black soft hat, black four-in-hand tie, grayish black coat and vest with brown stripes, and driving boots.

DEATH CLAIMS JACOB GRUESEN, PIONEER JEWELER

JACOB GRUESEN.

Jacob Gruesen, a well-known jeweler of Duluth and a pioneer resident of Northern Minnesota, died at St. Mary's hospital Saturday evening after a long illness. He was 55 years of age.

Funeral services will be held from St. Anthony's German Catholic church tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Gruesen was born in Coblenz am Rhein, Germany, in 1860, and came to Duluth in 1887. He has lived here since that time.

He was the proprietor of the Gruesen Jewelry company, formerly located on Superior street, but which has been located at Third avenue west and First street for several years.

He is survived by his widow, a son and three daughters, living at the family home, 1416 Jefferson street, and by a sister and brother. The children are Carl, Margareth, Martha and Elizabeth. The sister is Mrs. John Helmer of Duluth, and the brother is Henry Gruesen, 1325 London road.

Mr. Gruesen was a member of the Woodmen, the Maccabees, the Independent Order of Foresters and the Catholic Order of Foresters. During the last two or three years he has not been active in either business or social circles because of his illness.

EXPENDITURES FOR NEXT YEAR

Estimates Presented to Congress Propose Total Outlay of $1,285,857,808.

Increase Due Almost Wholly to Plans for National Preparedness.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Estimates for the most elaborate program of expenditures ever asked of an American congress in times of peace were submitted today proposing a total outlay of $1,285,857,808 or $170,853,614 more than was appropriated last year. The great increase is almost wholly due to the administration plans for military preparedness. More than $116,000,000 of the total is for direct expenditures on the army and navy, with millions more to be used in coast defense and other fortification work. By establishments the amounts asked were:

Legislative	$ 7,573,372
Executive	30,807,505
Judicial	1,368,500
Agriculture	24,159,039
Foreign Intercourse	5,426,699
Military	152,354,259
Naval	211,518,074
Indian affairs	10,175,036
Pensions	160,565,000
Panama canal	27,535,469
Public works	104,644,689
Postal service	316,364,879
Miscellaneous	98,290,563
Permanent appropriations	135,074,673

The postal service estimate is deductible from the total because its receipts are turned back to the treasury. That leaves $969,492,929 as the actual total of appropriationes congress is asked to make, or $167,853,401 more than last year.

Not a single establishment of the government asked for less than was given last year. Many requests were made for increase because of developments of the war in Europe.

State Department.

The state department asked for many increases, including $142,000 for additional clerical force in the departments, $25,000 additional for the salaries of charges de affairs, and $25,000 for transportation and subsistence, and $200,000 instead of the $75,000 asked before to enable the president to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the diplomatic and consular service.

A large item in the treasury department's increases is $2,200,000 for collecting the income tax, an increase of $1,000,000 over last year which, among other things, will be used to hire 485 deputy collectors at $1,600 per year compared with 127 collectors in 1915. The same department wants $50,000 to enforce the cotton futures act.

The department of commerce asked for many increases for gathering information at home and abroad on commerce, industry and manufacture. Among the items included are $250,000 to promote and develop the commercial interests of the United States and $100,000 to be devoted to the same ends with particualr reference to South and Central America. For commercial attaches abroad $225,000 instead of $100,000 was asked; and $100,000 was asked in place of $50,000 to investigate the cost of production and distribution of all articles which are or may be made the subject of tariff legislation with special reference to the prices paid domestic and foreign labor, prices of raw materials with the conditions in foreign and domestic markets affecting the American product, "together with all facts that may be necessary in fixing import duties or aiding officers of the governments in the administration of the customs laws." The same department asked $50,000 to use in collecting statistics of internal commerce and $50,000 to investigate foreign markets for agricultural, mineral and forest products. An echo of the Eastland steamship disaster is heard in a request for an increase of $55,000 for the steamboat inspection service and of $3,000 for employment of inspectors to prevent overcrowding of passenger vessels.

For Labor Conciliators.

Labor conciliators, the labor department says, will need $75,000 this year in place of $25,000. The children's bureau asked for $17,000 more than last year.

The department of agriculture asked for $2,500,000, the same as last year, for eradication of foot and mouth disease, $45,750 to enforce the cotton futures act, and $110,260 to enforce the insecticide act.

Postmaster General Burleson again proposes to conduct the rural free delivery service for less than it has cost in previous years. His estimate for the service is put at $48,500,000, compared with $53,000,000 appropriated for the year which ends June 30 next.

The interstate commerce commission asked generally for little more than last year, but wants $3,000,000 more for physical valuation work. The Federal trade commission, which came into being last March, asked for its first full year's work, $544,566, or about $190,000 more, most of which is to be expended in the salaries of attorneys, examiners, etc.

For Alaska Railroad.

The interior department wants $8,247,000 for the Alaska railroad, compared with $2,000,000 appropriated in 1915.

Both the secret service and the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, which have been busy with investigations of an unusual character on account of the war, asked for increases, the secret service to $225,000 from $145,000 and the bureau of investigation to $550,000 from $485,000. In the request for an increase for the bureau for the first time appears a statement that part of the fund may be used in work for the state department. The department of justice asks for $250,000 instead of $300,000 to enforce the anti-trust laws.

One new feature of the estimates is the incorporation of a proposal for a government monopoly of telephone and telegraph service in Alaska, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands. It is proposed that the wires in these territories be acquired for the postoffice department by proper proceedings after their appraisal by the interstate commerce commission so that they may be actually taken over by July 1, 1916. The postmaster general would be authorized to license private parties to construct and operate lines but with the reservation that the government might buy them. The sum of $300,000 is asked for the purpose.

The usual estimates are submitted for the up-keep of Western mints and assay offices which are the subject of attack at each session of congress.

The pension bill apparently is one of the few decreasing items, $160,565,000 being asked in place of $164,100,000 last year. For public buildings the estimates are about $3,000,000 less than last year.

For the Panama canal, exclusive of fortifications, etc., the estimate is $19,301,369, compared with $16,940,000 last year. For the reclamation service the estimate is $13,930,000 over $9,933,000 appropriated in 1915.

year is about $124,000,000 exclusive of the amounts for fortifications and other items which may be included in a general scheme of military defense. The entire plan calls for something over $150,000,000 in excess of the last appropriations.

The war department asks an increase of more than $4,000,000 for the signal corps, of which about $3,700,000 is for aviation, $300,000 to be made immediately available with $50,000 more for the development of an aviation motor. For the pay of the army $63,706,307 is asked, an increase of more than $14,000,000 to pay about 15,000 more enlisted men. The quartermaster department asks for an increase of more than $4,000,000 for supplies, and about $7,000,000 for clothing, camp and garrison equipment. The number of horses needed is represented by an increase of $355,000 in the estimates. In the engineer corps $660,000 is asked for equipment of troops in place of $48,000 last year. The increase for ordnance stores—for the purchase and manufacture of ammunition for small arms—is from $100,000 to $3,383,000, with $1,500,000 for grenades. An increase of $715,000 is made in the item for small arms target practice, including machine gun practice. For manufacturing, repairing and issuing arms at national armories $1,012,559 is asked, compared with $250,000 last year, and an increase of $1,250,000 for purchase, manufacture and test of rifles.

For the Militia.

For the organized militia, $4,390,000 is estimated as necessary, compared with $250,000 last year with an increase of $500,000 for militia equipment. The military academy is estimated to cost about $350,000 more with provisions for 770 cadets.

For the naval militia the navy department asks an increase of about $210,000. An armor plate plant is again suggested, to cost finally $6,635,107 of which $2,211,702 is asked at once.

Pay for the navy with 55,000 men instead of 48,000 as at present is put at $45,674,997, an increase from $41,240,000 last year and 6,000 apprentice seamen in place of 3,500. For completion of vessels on the stocks and repairs and preservation of those in commission, the estimate is $10,500,000, an increase of about $1,400,000.

For the pay of the marine corps, including that of one additional brigadier general, two additional colonels, two additional lieutenant colonels, other additional officers, an increase of about $400,000 to $4,909,415 is asked. For maintenance of the corps the estimate is $4,655,741 compared with $3,000,000 appropriated last year and the total increase for the marine corps is put at about $2,055,000.

For completing submarine torpedo boats heretofore authorized the estimate is $5,282,593 against $1,341,344 last year. For submarine bases $1,000,000 is asked.

For New Warships.

The big item in the new navy program is an estimate of $27,647,000 as the first year's appropriation for hulls and machinery of two battleships, two battle cruisers, three scout cruisers, 15 destroyers, two gunboats, one hospital ship, one fuel oil ship. This compared with an appropriation of $7,647,000 in last year's program. For the hulls and outfits of five fleet and 25 coast submarines (first year's work) $7,675,000 is asked, compared with $4,890,000 last year. For armor and armament of vessels authorized the estimate is $21,681,000, against $9,577,998 last year. For aviation $2,000,000 is asked, an increase of $1,000,000 and for reserve ammunition $8,000,000, for which there was no appropriation last year.

One million dollars is sought for the proposed experimental laboratory to be placed at the disposal of the naval advisory board.

Coast defense and fortification items include $2,533,000 for gun and mortar batteries and $2,611,500 for modernizing old emplacements; $617,982 for fire control at fortifications and $226,700 for searchlights for harbor defense, all of which show material increases. For submarine mine galleries, cable stations, etc., $254,060 is asked and for sites for forts and sea coast defenses $1,867,000. For armament of these fortifications the estimate is $2,468,000, with a provision that the chief of ordnance may contract for $3,500,000 more. The estimate for the purchase, and test of ammunition for sea coast cannon and the moderizing of projectiles on hand is put at $3,000,000, with provision for $3,500,000 additional. For subcaliber sea coast artillery practice $490,000 is asked. The total armament for forts is estimated to cost $12,567,500, compared with $3,390,000 asked last year.

For Submarine Mines.

For submarine mines in the waters of the United States proper, $690,231 is asked, compared with 284,000 last year. A new item is $947,000 for radio-dynamic torpedoes.

For the purchase and manufacture of armored motor cars, $150,000 is asked, an increase of $100,000 over the last appropriation.

For arsenals, $1,842,350 is the estimated cost, increased from $653,600 last year, and for buildings for sea coast defense, $473,860, compared with $25,000 appropriated in 1915. The total increase in public works under the war department including fortifications and defenses is put at $25,791,972, compared with $7,264,603 last year.

In the Panama canal zone the war department wants $500,000 for sea coast batteries; $240,000 for submarine mines; $1,788,000 for armament of fortifications (an increase of more than $1,000,000 over last year); $660,000 for military trails; a new item, $4,911,600 for arms in quartermaster's storehouses. The total increase for canal fortifications is about $5,600,000.

The following sums are estimates for navy yards: Boston, $47,500; New York, $75,000; Philadelphia, $175,000; Washington, $283,000; Norfolk, $465,000; Charleston, S. C., $12,000; Mare Island, Cal., $75,000; Puget sound, Wash., $15,000; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, naval station, $715,000.

Other navy estimates include $286,000 for guns and munitions storage in various parts of the country; $53,000 for the naval proving grounds at Indian Head, Md.; $96,000 for the naval torpedo station at Newport, R. I., and $460,000 for fuel oil storage at Guantanamo, Cuba.

GERMANY ASKS DEPARTMENT TO GIVE REASONS

the withdrawal will take place without further inquiry or protest.

The embassy was represented as considering that it and the attaches stand before the bar of public opinion. In such circumstances the understanding is that the embassy will deny that the attaches have in any way been connected with anything under attack other than the Archibald incident and the testimony in the Federal court in New York.

Contrary to Precedents.

All this action is considered by officials of the state department to be contrary to precedents of diplomatic procedure. While conferences upon the subject are in progress, the two attaches, Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. von Papen, will remain within the United States.

Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt von Papen were both in Washington today and have conferred with Count von Bernstorff several times. Under all diplomatic usage it is only necessary for the United States to indicate to Germany that the attaches are persona non grata and it is not necessary to give a reason for asking their withdrawal. The German ambassador's action today came as a distinct surprise to officials here.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The militia basket ball team, showing the lack of practice, lost its first game of the season on a strange floor at Buhl on Saturday evening. The score was 20 to 13 and the game was in doubt until the last few minutes of play.

SAYS LUMBER PRICES ARE GOING HIGHER

Isaac Baker, one of the lieutenants of Edward Hines, the multi-millionaire lumber magnate of Chicago, is registered at the Spalding today.

"Lumber prices are higher, and it begins to look as if the demand for lumber will increase and the market expand," said Mr. Baker. "It generally takes one good year before the farmers get into the market. They have already had one good year and have started on another. Under ordinary circumstances, there should be some buying upon the part of the country trade.

"Conditions in general look good, and there is a prospect that there will be a greater demand for lumber in the future. Already there has been an increased demand for several grades of lumber, yellow pine in particular."

Not Known to Berlin Papers.

Berlin, Dec. 6.—The newspapers of Berlin have no information that the recall of Capt. Karl Boy-Ed and Capt. Franz von Pappen, German naval and military attaches at Washington, has been asked.

SATAN STILL IN THE FIGHT

Not Only Debauches Men, But Draws Them From Good Works.

Alcohol, Theater, Cards and Sunday Newspapers Scored By Rev. Fish.

Satan's mission is not only that of debauching men, but also to so enlist the services of men in various un-Christian activities that they have no time to engage in the work of bringing sinners to Christ, declared Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, yesterday morning. The speaker also denounced alcohol, the theater, cards and the Sunday newspaper as instrumentalities of Satan in fighting Christianity. He said in part:

"England and France are anxious lest Greece should suddenly forbid the use of Saloniki as a military base of operations against the Teutons and the Bulgars. Should the Grecian army attempt to disarm or expell these Anglo-French troops there would be trouble in the Egean seaport.

"Less than 1,900 years ago the whole city of Saloniki or Thessalonica was in an uproar. Certain soldiers of the cross having entered the city attempted to enlist recruits and to use it as a base of operations against infidelity and idolatry.

Satan Still Active.

"Satan is very active; not only in Saloniki but in Duluth. He is debauching men with alcohol and lust. He is also deceiving the nations and fanning the flames of war. However, his supreme work is opposing the preaching and denying the message of gospel missionaries, (and every Christian is called to be a missionary.)

"Satan makes otherwise reasonable people unreasonable and prejudiced against a campaign of fervent evangelism. Certain parents will permit their boys to read unclean books and to sell Sunday newspapers, and yet they will resent the attempt of a Sunday school teacher who would lead the boy to repent of Sunday desecration and become a baptized Christian.

"Even religious teachers make an unholy alliance with men of anti-Christian enmities when they excite a protest against the virgin birth of Christ, the imputation of Christ's righteousness, the deity of Jesus Christ, and the absolute infallibility of the Holy Bible. Religious teachers who deny these truths are in the majority only when they join the sorry company of earth's degraded.

Handicaps Evangelists.

"Satan tries to hinder the evangelistic testimony of well intentioned Christians in two important ways.

"He induces Christians to indulge in worldly pleasures. This indulgence that seems harmless, silences the spirit of testimony and makes the Christian so selfconscious of his compromising attitude that he is ashamed to speak of Christ either in the theater or in the ball room or at the card table.

Misleads Mankind.

"He also involves Christians in so many good activities that he has no time for the best and highest service, viz: soul-winning. In fact Satan will tie men up in social uplift movements with its endless committee evils that they have no time or aptitude for leading sinners to Christ.

"We make a mistake if we guard against Satan only in his debauching activities. His great guest is to suppress the message of the gospel. Failing in silencing the speech of Christians he tries to divert their interest and that from the great and supreme work of proclaiming the gospel uncorrupted in all its fulness."

CHRISTMAS CAROLS TO FEATURE PROGRAM

Glee Clubs of Bryant Social Center Prepare Entertainment.

A program of Christmas carols and other features is being arranged by the boys' and girls' glee clubs of the Bryant school social center, which will be given on Tuesday evening, Dec. 14. Rehearsals are being held jointly by the two organizations in perfecting the chorus work.

The rehearsals will be held this evening, Wednesday evening and next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The glee clubs, under the direction of Miss Katherine A. King, principal of the school, have been showing wonderful talent, and will be assisted on the program by the social center mandolin club and prominent soloists of the city.

The mothers' club of the school will assist the clubs in preparing the concert. A nominal charge of 10 cents will be made for admission to the affair. The sum realized will be divided between charitable work and the school library.

In addition to the meeting of the glee clubs at 7:30 o'clock this evening, and the mandolin club at 8 o'clock, the boys' gymnasium class will meet at 7:30 and the domestic science class will meet at 8:15 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening the two glee clubs will again hold their rehearsals, and at 8:15 o'clock the dancing class will meet. The willing workers' club will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The regular meeting of the mothers' club, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, will be postponed until Tuesday evening next week, and will be open to all. Refreshments will be served by the women following the close of the program.

PLAN HOLIDAY PROGRAMS.

Second Presbyterian Church Societies Will Hold Meetings.

The final meeting of the missionary and aid societies of the Second Presbyterian church before the holidays will be held Wednesday afternoon at the church, 1515 West Superior street. Plans for the holiday activities will be formulated.

The missionary society will hold its meeting at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. A. Johnson will be leader. The society is studying the book, "A Child in the Midst." A round table discussion will follow on the topic of "The Mountaineers."

The ladies' aid society will hold its meeting at 4 o'clock. Reports of the recent church supper, held by the society, will be given.

WARNS AGAINST FAKE CHARITY SOLICITORS

To prevent charitably inclined persons from being imposed upon by spurious charity workers is one of the aims of the charity committee of the Duluth Commercial club, according to Secretary H. V. Eva.

The committee has adopted a plan whereby worthy seekers of charity may apply to the committee and receive cards indorsing their work. Charity workers not having such a card should be investigated, Secretary Eva declares.

"At this time of the year," he said, "everyone is imbued with the holiday spirit of giving, and representatives of unworthy charities find it a profitable time to ply their trade."

OLD JAIL METHODS NO LONGER WANTED

New Discipline Will Reduce Number of Prisons, Says "Farm" Head.

Old jail methods of discipline are not wanted at the county work farm, Supt. Fred Ward told an audience yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

"A man recently applied to me for a position as officer. He proudly displayed his muscle and said he was afraid of no one. I told him that we did not want that kind of a man. We handle our people differently and have to put our whole life into the work."

Mr. Ward declared that while social conditions will probably make jails and workhouses indispensable for some time to come, the number of them will gradually decrease because of new disciplinary methods.

He also declared that the farm often sheltered brilliant men of real worth, who had suffered reverses and were down and out. "We aim to reclaim these men," said Mr. Ward. "We try to give everybody a chance to make good."

PAGEANT AT ADAS SYNAGOGUE

Eight Principal Jewish Holidays Are Depicted By Children.

An allegorical pageant, depicting the eight principal holidays in the Jewish calendar, was staged by pupils of the Hebrew free school at the Adas Israel synagogue last evening. Several hundred persons were present.

After the Hanukkah lights were kindled by Rabbi W. Kissin, seven pupils, each representing a holiday, gave a series of dialogues and tableaux, in which the significance of the various feats was explained. Those who took part in the program follow:

Irene Bergstein, Anna Winer and Mollie Singer, introductory; Joe Fox, kindles lights; Morris Zlatkovsky, Adas Israel congregation; Bennie Garon, Channukah; Sherman Kasmir, Passover; Bennie Toback, Pentecost, the feast of weeks; Sam Casmil, Succoth, the feast of tabernacles; Agnes Safer, the solemn days of Rosh Hashannah and Yom Kippur; Carl Kaplan, representing Zionism.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN POSTAL BUSINESS

Washington, Dec. 6.—Marked improvement in business conditions is reflected in the November revenues of the fifty largest postoffices of the country, producing approximately half of all the postal receipts.

Postmaster General Burleson announced this yesterday in a statement showing an increase of $2,032,138, or 17.96 per cent for those offices over November a year ago.

The normal rate of increase is about 7 per cent, but November last year showed a decrease of 5.71 per cent as a result of the business depreciation which began immediately after the outbreak of the European war. The depression was most seriously felt during that month and receipts of the fifty cities was $13,394,450.

RAILS FROM FIRST STEEL

Another Department of the Plant Expected to Open This Week.

Steel rails may be made at the Duluth steel plant before next week, according to present plans. The finishing touches are now being made to the rail mill and these will be completed it is said by Thursday of this week.

In anticipation of having the rail mill ready for operation the latter part of this week the officials have delayed the charging of the open hearth furnaces. It was expected last week to charge these furnaces last night but this work has been postponed until Thursday.

With the rail mill in operation it will not be necessary to store or ship billets, but these will be immediately taken from the blooming mill to the reheating furnaces for reheating for the process of being rolled into rails or rods. The machinery in the rolling mill is all in place but tests have made necessary some slight changes.

The large cooling beds onto which the finished rails will be run are ready to handle the product. The machinery will be driven by the 6,000 horse power motor. This motor is one of the largest in the country. It is located in a special power building which was erected between the rail and merchant mill. A motor of 3,000 horse power to drive machinery in the merchant mill is also located in this power house.

Iron is being cast regularly at the blast furnace every six hours. The work has now got down to a regular routine. The ore for the furnace is being received direct from trains arriving from the range, the surplus being stored at the storage bins.

It is expected that within the next week all the coke ovens will be in operation. Up to last week only sixty of the ninety ovens had been charged. The demand not only for the coke for the furnace but also for the gas for use at the open hearth and reheating furnaces will require the operation of the other thirty ovens. The gas plant will be able to furnish 18,000,000 cubic feet of gas for the plant's daily consumption.

When the added supply of gas is to be had, it will be turned onto the last two of the open hearth furnaces to be lighted. Three of the seven furnaces are now ready for steel making and two others are being given their basic lining. While the fires have been lit in the other two furnaces only wood has been burned in them so far.

Five Arrested for Gambling.

Five men were caught in a raid last evening by the police of the New Duluth station at 1414 Ninety-seventh avenue west. Mike Kantalo was charged with operating a gambling house and four other men were charged with gambling. In police court this morning three of the men forfeited a total of $31 bail and fines of $10 and costs were levied against the others by Judge H. W. Lanners. The police confiscated $4.50, a package of cards and some chips during the raid.

DOCK WORKER FALLS FORTY FEET TO DEATH

Matt Vuletich Fractures Skull in Drop From Coal Bridge.

Matt Vuletich, aged 25, a laborer employed on the coal dock of the Zenith Furnace company, lost his balance while working on the coal bridge of the company's dock Saturday afternoon and was instantly killed. He fell a distance of about forty feet and sustained a fracture of the skull. The body was taken to Fillatrault's undertaking rooms.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock from the undertaking rooms and at 9 o'clock from the St. James' Catholic church with interment in Calvary cemetery.

Vuletich is survived by two brothers, Tony, with whom he made his home at 221 South Fifty-ninth avenue west, and John, who is at the Nopeming sanitarium. He was a member of the Dalmatian Benefit society, which will have charge of the funeral.

JUDAS NO WORSE THAN MANY OTHERS

Had Good and Bad Qualities, Says Mill City Evangelist.

"Judas Up-to-Date" was the subject of a sermon last night by Rev. E. H. Rasmussen of Minneapolis, state evangelist for the Baptists at the revival meeting held last evening at the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues. The pastor has been conducting a series of meetings at the church during the last week and will continue during the present week.

"I do not believe that Judas Iscariot, the betrayer of Jesus Christ, was an incarnate demon or an inhuman monster guilty of sin or a degree of sin impossible to us," said Rev. Mr. Rasmussen.

"He was capable of all our goodness and we are capable of all his badness. It was his capacity for goodness that made him suitable material for discipleship and it is our capacity for badness that makes us rarely material for apostasy.

"No sadder is the story of Judas Iscariot than to realize that the 300,000 lewd women in the brothels of our land, only a few years ago, were innocent little girls in mothers' arms and that the army of criminals behind prison bars today and human wrecks that fill our land were once boys of hope and promise.

"Judas is not necessarily in a class by himself; nor does he stand completely alone as the betrayer of Christ.

"'Wherever there is selfishness, self-centered ambition, an uncrucified self on the throne of the heart, there is the spirit of Judas,' Ruskin said. "The sin of Judas is essentially the sin of the whole world. Men do not disbelive their Christ—They sell Him. And for what an insignificant price was the spiritual treasures of life sold. A few pretty pieces of silver, a little fast-fading pleasure, a little of popular applause, a little something that administers to the lower instinct or bodily comfort are the prices for which men sell their Christ.

"Judas never reached the place where he could enjoy ill-gotten wealth or where he could sin without suffering the pangs of conscience. When he had done wrong, he at least had the manhood to acknowledge it. The crowning sin of Judas was that he became discouraged and ran away and committed suicide. He was lost not because he betrayed Christ but because he despaired of Divine love."

ACTRESS LEAVES JEWELS WORTH $10,000 IN HOTEL ROOM

An artistic temperament will cause its possessor to do most anything. It must have been an artistic temperament that caused Miss Elsie MacKaye of the Cyril Maude company to leave $10,000 worth of jewels in a leather bag in room 801 of the Holland hotel yesterday afternoon.

Miss MacKaye and other members of the company left for Winnipeg last evening. Shortly before midnight the employes of the hotel received a message from the English actress, stating that her jewels had been left at the hotel.

The message was a flurried one—you could read excitement and consternation and all that sort of thing.

Victor Levin was on duty. He didn't dispatch a bellboy for room 801, but took it on the run. Sure enough, there on a corner of the dresser was the little leather case. The clerk hurriedly opened the case and a cluster of sparkling gems met his admiring gaze.

The diamonds and other precious stones were forwarded to Miss MacKaye today.

OPPOSITION TO ANOTHER SALOON

Residents of Steel Plant District Will Again Fight Transfer.

A new saloon license will not be granted for the steel plant district without opposition from a large number of the residents, according to prominent citizens of the district. The signers to the position recently filed on behalf of the proposed saloon are but a small fraction of the citizens, say leaders of the opposition.

The fight against an additional saloon will be combined by the leading residents, members of the W. C. T. U. and other temperance organizations. Temperance leaders claim that there are between 2,500 and 3,000 people interested in the proposition, the large majority of whom, they claim, are opposed to an additional liquor house.

"There will be plenty of opposition to another saloon," said Watson S. Moore, who is largely interested in the district. "The commissioners have said they would not grant another license for that section of the city if the people are opposed to it. We propose to show them that the residents do not want the saloon."

The application for the license in Gary is made by M. Lubratovich and M. Daneulovich, who want a transfer of a license of the latter from 529 West Michigan street to 1313 Commonwealth avenue.

EUROPEAN WAR SENT AS A PUNISHMENT

Is Result of Disbelief, Not Militarism, Says Dr. Krantz.

The warring nations of the world have discarded the fear of God through unbelief and degeneration and the curse of the Lord is now being brought down on them, according to Dr. John A. Krantz, pastor of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street. The pastor said that it was not militarism that was the cause of the war.

"Christ is the content and goal of history," said Dr. Krantz. "History in its multiplicity of events and developments cannot be rightly understood if Christ be eliminated from it. God rules the world pre-eminently for His Son and in the interests of the kingdom He has come to establish. He is the longing and the hope of the individual as well as of the nations. His coming and His reign will always mark an epoch in history.

"The churches at home are putting forth their best efforts in sending and maintaining missionaries, schools and institutions of charity. The activities of the Christian church along these lines was never greater at any period. All of this is done with the single aim of preparing the way for the second coming of the King of Glory. It is true, when we look upon the events of the present times, it would appear as though the nations were not actively engaged in preparing for the entrance of the Prince of Peace, yet we are confident that God will cause even the sanguinary wars to subserve the cause of His kingdom.

"The warring Christian nations have committed too many wrongs to let go unpunished. The Just One declares: 'Vengeance is Mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.' It is not militarism nor navalism nor any other external cause which has caused the death grapple of the warring nations, but the fact that they have discarded the fear of the Lord and thorugh unbelief and national degeneration have relied on the human inventions, civilization and progress and this has failed to produce anything but hatred and revenge and thus bring down the curses from God, whom they have left out of the count.

"But we confidently believe that after the clouds of war have been rolled away, the nations will have seen their folly and with penitence turn to the God of love and mercy and a new era will dawn upon earth and Christ be acknowledged as Savior and King."

CLOQUET LIKED FILM.

"The Birth of a Nation" Played to Good-Sized Houses There.

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The Birth of a Nation," which was shown at the Grand Friday and Saturday, drew crowded houses at each show and created such interest that it was necessary to secure tickets in advance of each performance to obtain seats. Cloquet was the first small city to get this film and many people from the smaller towns and villages in the county took advantage of the opportunity to see it. Supt. C. J. Colvin of the Carlton schools entertained twenty-five of his high school pupils at the show Friday night and Supt. Peter Olesen of Cloquet, with ninety of the Cloquet high school students, comprising the junior and senior classes, attended the matinee Saturday afternoon, and all the students greatly enjoyed the entertainment.

VACATION OF TWO WEEKS WITH PAY

Western Union Employes Welcome New Policy of Company.

In the way of a Christmas gift from the company, employes of the Western Union Telegraph company in all parts of the country have been informed that hereafter all employes who have been in the employ of the company two years will receive an annual vacation of two weeks with full pay, while those who have been in the employ of the company less than two years or one full year will receive an annual vacation of one week with full pay.

E. F. Kelley, district manager of the Western Union office here, stated today that while the announcement of this policy could not really be called a Christmas gift, it came at so appropriate a time that it would be considered in that light by the majority of local employes.

Mr. Kelley stated that even messenger boys would share in the new policy of the company, stating that the announcement of this had caused a large amount of joy among the kids.

It is estimated that the working out of the new plan upon the part of the Western Union will cost the company $2,000,000 annually. The Western Union company is one of the first big corporations to adopt this policy.

MILWAUKEE TESTS ELECTRIC SYSTEM

Special Will Use New Equipment Wednesday; May Be Epoch-Making.

Completed sections of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad's 440 miles of electrically operated line through Montana will be tested out next Wednesday.

The official test train which will consist of three special cars will start from Three Forks, Mont., and make a run over a section of the line that will afford a fair criterion of the whole enterprise in which the Milwaukee road has been engaged for three years. Work on the district between Three Forks and Deer Lodge is now completed, and the section between Three Forks and Harlowton is also nearing completion and is expected to be ready for operation by Jan. 1 next. Electrification is also under way on the two western divisions, comprising the Missoula division, and it is proposed to operate them electrically by Jan. 1, 1917. The entire project will involve an estimated expenditure of $15,000,000.

The special next Wednesday will be hauled by one of the new $100,000 electric locomotives, the largest electrical machines ever built for traction purposes. The test will include travel at all speeds up to seventy miles an hour, though sixty miles is about the maximum that will be required of locomotives in hauling the all-steel passenger trains which are to make their first mountain trips under electrical propulsion shortly after the first of the year.

The electric locomotive which has supplanted that operated by steam in mountain work on the Milwaukee makes light of snow trouble that often stalled its predecessor, for the reasons that it is enormously heavier, weight 260 tons, and more powerful, being of 2,400-horse power, as well as because in the coldest weather, when steam locomotives reach the minimum of efficiency, the electric locomotive on the contrary reaches its maximum of power.

That the Milwaukee electrification plans for the future include extension of the improvement to the Pacific entire system will ultimately be placed entire system will utlimately be placed under wire is a question that remains to be decided solely on the economic side. Whether it is more economical to manufacture electricity from fuel than to burn the fuel directly in steam locomotives with all the waste implied in the operation of the latter, is a problem that engineers are still working on.

Any one who has headache, bilious attacks, heart flutter, or some other of these common ills, had better look to coffee drinking; and remember that there's one sure, easy way to be rid of coffee troubles—quit coffee—and

Use

INSTANT POSTUM

—the Pure Food-Drink

A level teaspoonful in a cup of boiling water makes a delicious drink—instantly. The rich flavour of Instant Postum, much like the mild Javas of the Old Dutch Gov't plantations, makes the change easy.

But more important, Instant Postum, made only of wheat and a bit of molasses is free from the drug, caffeine, in coffee, or any other harmful element. Old and young alike may drink as much as they desire with no bad "after effects."

Pure and delicious, Instant Postum costs less and tastes better than much of the coffee in general use.

No bother to prepare—no bother to health.

CONCLAVE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Duluth Branch, Order of Red Cross of Constantine, Elects Officers.

The annual meeting and banquet of St. George's conclave No. 6, of the Red Cross of Constantine, held at the Kitchi Gammi club Saturday night, brought to Duluth a number of members from the Twin Cities. In all, there were twenty-two guests, and R. B. Knox was toastmaster. At the banquet J. H. Hearding gave an address on the Washington lodge of Masons at Alexandria, Va., and there were other speakers. The officers elected are:

R. B. Knox of Duluth, most puissant sovereign; John Fischel of St. Paul, first vice sovereign; George Stowe of Wadena, second vice soverign; Dr. Robert Graham of Duluth, secretary and treasurer, and J. E. Cooley of Duluth, prelate.

The order of the Red Cross of Constantine is an off-shoot of Masonry although not of the ancient order proper. To become a knight of the Red Cross of Constantine, a Mason must have attained the thirty-second degree of Scottish Rite and the Templar degree of the York rite, and then must be honored by an invitation to join the Constantine order.

CONSTABLE WOUNDS MAN; AFFAIR IS BEING PROBED

Williston, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Renville, recently shot by W. W. Corbett, a constable at Buford, will recover, according to physicians. The constable is under arrest, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. County authorities investigating the case have been unable to establish, to their own satisfaction, the details of the shooting. Renville was shot through the abdomen, four loops of the intestines being perforated.

Corbett and Renville had been enemies for some time. The constable claims he acted in self defense.

BULLETS FOR WAGING WHITE PLAGUE FIGHT

Every Cent for Red Cross Seals Helps, Say Health Officials.

Every cent spent for Red Cross Christmas seals is a bullet in the battle against tuberculosis.

This is the message sent by the Minnesota Public Health association in its campaign to sell the seals in every city and village in the state.

According to a communication received today, there were 2,363 victims of tuberculosis in Minnesota last year, there having been a total of 11,078 deaths from preventable diseases during 1914. Preventable deaths for the principal groups follow:

Tuberculosis	2,363
Pneumonia	2,192
Accidents	2,051
Cancer	1,703
Child diarrhoea	1,021
Typhoid, scarlet fever, etc.	1,748
Total preventable deaths	11,078
Total deaths	25,045
Preventable deaths	44%

The Red Cross seals are now on sale throughout the city, public stands having been opened this morning at the postoffice and the Glass Block store. The sale will continue until Jan. 1.

MAY BUILD PONTOON.

Novel Plan for Bridging Missouri River at Williston.

Williston, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pontoon bridge may be erected across the Missouri river here as a result of a report made by City Engineer H. R. Evans.

It has been found that a pontoon bridge could readily be maintained across the stream, which is about 200 feet wide. If this can be accomplished it will open a big farming territory to Williston markets, as farmers living south of the Missouri, just a mile or two from Williston, are unable to maintain year around business relations with the local business houses, being compelled to travel greater distances to other marketing centers at some seasons of the year.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Many of Them Suggest Work for the Good Fellows.

Several Have Already Applied for Names of Needy Families.

(By the Good Fellow Editor.)

"Seventeen shopping days before Christmas," say the department store ads, and it is time for Good Fellows to start planning for their holiday work.

Already several of the host of Good Fellows in Duluth have applied for the names of a needy family to which they want to play Santa Claus, but the list is growing steadily, as the cold weather continues, and every one who wants to help spread happiness will have an opportunity.

Many a Santa Claus letter, read between the lines, tells of illness and hardship and poverty that a Good Fellow can banish, if he is willing to deny himself a little, and remember the slogan "Personal service."

Here is an appeal which reached the Good Fellow Editor's desk this morning, reproduced just as it was written by a little boy in the West end who wants his mother, father, sister and brother to have a good Christmas:

"Dear Santa Clause: I am writing to you, only I am not sure you will get this letter because our Mamma said you might be busy over in Europe. But I don't think you will forget so many many poor kids in this country.

"We are four children in our family, the oldest brother is 17 years old and instead going to school he has to work to help papa and mamma. Our pa gets $2 and 10c for a night and papa said it is impossible for him to see you and we are very much in debts and he can't afford to have a talk with you.

"Now I got a sister 3 years old and another sister six months old, and I am 10 years old and go to the Bryant school.

"Dear Santa Clause, I and my sisters are not asking for foolish things we need the most warm clothes, stockings and such things to keep warm and if you have some playthings to spare we would be very glad to accept them and some candy and nuts.

"Dear Santa Clause you can never miss our house. The number is ——— street and I guess you will find it."

As soon as an investigator can find what is needed the most in this home, some Good Fellow will be found, who will act as a guide to Santa Claus, so that the good old saint will not miss the house.

If you want to help to make this Christmas a joyous one for some poor family, fill out the Good Fellow coupon, or write to the Good Fellow editor.

Tell him what you want to do, and he will find a deserving mother and father, or a ragged kiddie, for you to help. And it will be a secret between the family, the Good Fellow, and the editor.

IN DULUTH PULPITS

GOD MAY BE SEEN IN MAN

Christ First Who Knew Himself His Son, Says Dr. Gebauer.

Divine Spirit in Thief on the Cross Just as in Jesus.

That God not only manifested Himself in Christ, but is today manifest in persons met in the every-day walks of life, was contended by Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning. He said in part:

"It is a wonderful thing to see God manifested in the flesh, in the son of Mary; but what, after all, boots it, if this be God's only incarnation? Do we not come close here to heathen thought? Thus the heathen deities might assume the garb of man; thus Krisna came into the world. No, the higher inspiration will alone come to us, when we see in Christ merely the first who knew Himself the Son of God, and when we realize that the Father is in all His children, just because and as He was in Christ.

Not in One Man Only.

"To see the Spirit of God in one man only is as if we saw divine beauty only in one rose, and saw it not in the humble weeds and flowers by the wayside. Indeed, we do not know beauty until we see it in the least of plants, in the humble lichen that covers the rock. To see God in the Christ on the cross shows little understanding for the divine; we know more of God if we see him in the thief on the cross, who says to the diviner brother, "Remember, Lord, when Thou comest into Thy kingdom." I am sure Christ saw God there. And perhaps we shall see Him when we grow more in His spirit. Ah, my hearers, God is a very present reality. He does no longer, as believed by those in olden days, come down from heaven to visit the children of men, for He is living among men and in man. Learn but to feel Him in the friendly pressure of a hand; see Him in the affection of one dear to you.

Power to Understand God.

Learn to know that you even could not see and understand God in Christ if the Godhead dwelled not in your own soul. We can only comprehend what is in us. And mind, we are not religious until we thus see God everywhere and in all, because He is in us. And if we do not see Him now, I much doubt that we shall see 'our pilot face to face when we have crossed the bar.'

"It is Walt Whitman who sings so beautifully, so nobly:

"'Why should I wish to see God better than today?
I see something of God each hour of the twenty-four, and each moment of them;
In the face of men and women I see
God, and in my own face in the glass;
I find letters from God dropped in the streets—and every one is signed by God's name,
And I leave them where they are, for I know that wheresoe'er I go,
Others will punctually come forever and forever.'

"Whitman was no Christian as the church defines such, but how many churchmen have a faith so sublime?"

MODERN IDEA OF MESSIAH

More Than Fifty Prophesies Point to Christ, Says Pastor.

Jews Did Not Fully Understand Own Teachings, He Says.

"Although they were bringing to the world the greatest message of all time, the old Hebrew prophets did not clearly understand their own teachings. Nevertheless they taught as they were inspired by God, and we today, with the whole of the Bible before us, can link together the various parts and get from them an understanding that the prophets themselves lacked."

These, in substance, were statements by Rev. R. E. Miller in his sermon yesterday at the Woodland M. E. church. The subject was "The Messianic Hope," and the pastor spoke at length of the Jewish conception of the Messiah and the developments and changes in that conception. At the close of the sermon several new members were added to the church.

Rev. Mr. Miller said, in part:

"We are approaching the time of the celebration of the birth of the Babe, whose life is the central theme of the Bible story. The Old Testament culminates in the greatest of God's revelations—the prophecy of the coming of Jesus Christ. The New Testament completes the story by telling of the work of Jesus among men and of His redemption of man through His life.

"But it is interesting to see what these prophecies meant to the Jews, the race of which the Babe was born. They had as their earliest conception of God that He was their Saviour. They understood that all went well with their nation when they obeyed God, and that all went wrong, that they were harried and oppressed and enslaved, when they disobeyed Him. This conception was fully borne out by their history and experience.

Conception Changed.

"And yet we find that even Jacob caught a glimpse of a king who should form the Hebrew kingdom out of the descendants of his twelve sons, and as others got this same vision, we find growing up the conception of the Messiah as a king, and the prophecies were interpreted as meaning the coming of a king who would unite the different tribes. So it is not surprising that they looked upon David, for a time, as the promised Messiah, until the division of the kingdom into Judah and Israel demonstrated the baselessness of that idea. Then came the carrying into exile and captivity, and the conception of the Messiah as a ruler changed to that of one who should lead in the recovery of their lost nationality.

"During the existence of the monarchy the individual was swallowed up in the race and counted for nothing. He had, in fact, hardly any conception of an individual existence, a fact that was fostered by the stringent laws ascribing punishments, which made the entire family suffer for the fault of one member, and an entire nation for the fault of its ruler. The shattering of the kingdom left the individuals to themselves, and there then developed the consciousness of individual existence, and even of individual responsibility. From this came the new conception of the Messiah as one to lead them back and restore the kingdom. Zachariah was the first of the prophets to voice the changed conception of life which brought with it recognition of individual responsibility.

"With these developments there came also the conception of a sacrifice, and from this grew that of an atonement to be made by the Messiah. There was once an idea that He would come in the form of some of the patriarchs—an idea based on such passages in the Scriptures as the promise of God to Abraham that 'through his seed' all the world should be blessed. But it was Isaiah who gave us the first writing showing the coming one as a sufferer, a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief, who should bear our griefs and carry our sorrows. In the prophecy that He should be led as a lamb to the slaughter, we find the full expression of the idea of atonement; but whereas the Jews regarded Him as coming for them alone, we look on the Messiah as coming to save the entire world.

More Than Fifty Prophecies.

"Today we have the whole Bible to work with, and can connect one book with another and so get, perhaps, a clearer perception of what the prophets meant than they themselves had. There are more than fifty prophecies of the coming of Christ, but probably none of the prophets had a clear conception of the Messiah. They did not understand, but this shows us that these witnesses were directly inspired from God.

"The ancient Jewish conception of God was that of a Being who saved them when they had sinned. That is our conception of the Messiah, but in our understanding the salvation is spiritual instead of national or material. It is but right that we look forward with rejoicing to the anniversary of the day that brought our Savior into the world."

DECLARES LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT

Pastor White Preaches Sermon on "Backbones and Wishbones."

Before a large audience last evening at the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner of Tenth avenue east and Sixth street, Pastor Stemple White spoke on "Wishbones and Backbones," illustrating his address with stereopticon views. Drawing abundantly from Holy Scripture, and using many Bible characters as living illustrations, he said in part:

"Since eternal life and death are set before every free moral agent in this world, our final destiny will be but the result of our own choice. David, who was called a man after God's own heart only because he fully overcame all his sins through Jesus Christ, really felt after God with his whole heart, and found Him. The secret of his successful life is told in his own published experience, where he says that he 'longed' for the 'precepts,' 'commandments,' 'salvation,' and 'courts' of the Lord, even as a hart panteth after the water brooks. Through Jesus Christ, any man in Duluth can as fully rejoice in God's free forgiveness and sweet peace, if he will as fully yield his heart to God.

"Turn a bee and a buzzard loose and the busy little worker seeks a flower, while the big 'wishbone' only finds a carcass. Two men arrive in a city on the same train, but they often seek for far different companions and environments. We can have about what we want in this world, and life is what we make it. Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, while his twin brother, the 'worm Jacob,' became the 'man Israel.' Judas sold the Messiah for a few paltry coins, while Moses yielded up the throne and pleasures of all Egypt for fellowship with the sufferings of Israel's shepherd. Lot gave up Christian pilgrimage for the politics of Sodom, while Abraham, through whole-hearted obedience, became the 'friend of God.' Israel's first king was moved, through fear of the people, to disobey God, and after being deceived through so-called spirit communication, he suicided in Mount Gilboa, while his crown was given to his converted neighbor, David. To us comes the message, 'hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.' He who allows his 'wishbone' to be where his 'backbone' ought to be, is quite apt to be found at last in that cage of 'unclean and hateful birds,' spoken of in the revelation."

It Pays to Advertise.

When an article is so much better than any other of the same kind, that those who buy it once refuse any substitute offered, and insist upon having it again, and recommend it to their friends, it pays to advertise. Foley's Honey and Tar is advertised because no other cough medicine can displace it in homes where it is once used. It gets right at the seat of trouble, clears nose and throat of mucus, heals raw and inflamed surfaces, loosens tightness of the chest. Sold and recommended by leading druggists all over the United States. Sold everywhere.

PREFER MOVIES TO THE SCRIPTURES

Church, Like Many Other Institutions, Is Undergoing Great Test.

Many people prefer the motion picture show, or reading matter that requires no thought, to the Bible, said Dr. A. W. Ryan, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, yesterday morning. There is a continual search going on for new fads, and in this way time is frittered away, he said.

"We are in a great testing time and we are wondering about the very foundations of our notions, and among the rest we are putting the same test to the church and church members.

"In many churches you elect a capable business man to the governing board, and at once he wants the business to take care of itself. As a result, the church is pauperized by incapable and unbusiness-like methods that he would not tolerate for one moment in his counting room. And few churches take up any philanthropic institution and say they will back that up to the utmost of their financial ability.

"Instead, they are content to make the church a select club of congenial people who never pay the bills. When we get to look upon the church as a means to an end, combined to make great success on religious lines; when we feel that church membership gets to mean that we are enlisted as knights of God for a wonderful crusade, then we shall see results that will astonish the whole world.

"We disburse $17,000,000 and send 10,000 men, when $50,000,000 would not more than do the business and 50,000 men should go forth to stop the foreign perils that menace us and our institutions. Social forces are at work now which in time are irresistible. They must be directed into goodly channels, or all we possess may be lost to us.

"This is a call made not to indefinite men somewhere, but to you as individuals, to the better nature within yourself, to a greater manhood that is within you, and which will not be downed until you rise to the biggest ideal that ever took hold of your imagination. Let us not play with the church nor let us attempt to make water-tight our religion from demands on our life and sacrifice. But let us do what lies within us to further God's presence in our modern life, and so set at naught the powers of evil and bring in the kingdom of righteousness for which men really long in the depths of their being."

CHRISTIAN PROGRESS AMONG CELESTIALS

Hollis Wilbur Tells of "Y" Work in the Orient.

The great progress of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in China was discussed yesterday morning by Hollis Wilbur, national president of the association in China, in an address at the Pilgrim Congregational church. He spoke with Rev. George P. Merrill, the newly-elected Congregational secretary for Northern Minnesota.

In addition to his discussion of association work in the Orient, Mr. Wilbur spoke on the Sherwood-Eddy meeting among the convert students. More than 18,000 attended the meetings during the last year, he said. The speaker gave many illustrations regarding association work among the Celestials.

At noon Mr. Wilbur addressed the Sunday school of the First M. E. church and in the evening spoke at the Glen Avon church.

GOD MAY BE SEEN IN MAN

Christ First Who Knew Himself His Son, Says Dr. Gebauer.

Divine Spirit in Thief on the Cross Just as in Jesus.

That God not only manifested Himself in Christ, but is today manifest in persons met in the every-day walks of life, was contended by Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning. He said in part:

"It is a wonderful thing to see God manifested in the flesh, in the son of Mary; but what, after all, boots it, if this be God's only incarnation? Do we not come close here to heathen thought? Thus the heathen deities might assume the garb of man; thus Krisna came into the world. No, the higher inspiration will alone come to us, when we see in Christ merely the first who knew Himself the Son of God, and when we realize that the Father is in all His children, just because and as He was in Christ.

Not in One Man Only.

"To see the Spirit of God in one man only is as if we saw divine beauty only in one rose, and saw it not in the humble weeds and flowers by the wayside. Indeed, we do not know beauty until we see it in the least of plants, in the humble lichen that covers the rock. To see God in the Christ on the cross shows little understanding for the divine; we know more of God if we see him in the thief on the cross, who says to the diviner brother, "Remember, Lord, when Thou comest into Thy kingdom." I am sure Christ saw God there. And perhaps we shall see Him when we grow more in His spirit. Ah, my hearers, God is a very present reality. He does no longer, as believed by those in olden days, come down from heaven to visit the children of men, for He is living among men and in man. Learn but to feel Him in the friendly pressure of a hand; see Him in the affection of one dear to you.

Power to Understand God.

Learn to know that you even could not see and understand God in Christ if the Godhead dwelled not in your own soul. We can only comprehend what is in us. And mind, we are not religious until we thus see God everywhere and in all, because He is in us. And if we do not see Him now, I much doubt that we shall see 'our pilot face to face when we have crossed the bar.'

"It is Walt Whitman who sings so beautifully, so nobly:

"'Why should I wish to see God better than today?
I see something of God each hour of the twenty-four, and each moment of them;
In the face of men and women I see God, and in my own face in the glass;
I find letters from God dropped in the streets—and every one is signed by God's name,
And I leave them where they are, for I know that wheresoe'er I go,
Others will punctually come forever and forever.'

"Whitman was no Christian as the church defines such, but how many churchmen have a faith so sublime?"

Blind Piggers Caught.

Crystal Falls, Mich., Dec. 6.—As a result of raids by Sheriff Sensiba, five illicit liquor dealers in this county were arrested. They are Aristrid Mettifogo of Crystal Falls, Ted La Duke, two Italians and a shoemaker in Iron River.

MODERN IDEA OF MESSIAH

More Than Fifty Prophesies Point to Christ, Says Pastor.

Jews Did Not Fully Understand Own Teachings, He Says.

"Although they were bringing to the world the greatest message of all time, the old Hebrew prophets did not clearly understand their own teachings. Nevertheless they taught as they were inspired by God, and we today, with the whole of the Bible before us, can link together the various parts and get from them an understanding that the prophets themselves lacked."

These, in substance, were statements by Rev. R. E. Miller in his sermon yesterday at the Woodland M. E. church. The subject was "The Messianic Hope," and the pastor spoke at length of the Jewish conception of the Messiah and the developments and changes in that conception. At the close of the sermon several new members were added to the church.

Rev. Mr. Miller said, in part:

"We are approaching the time of the celebration of the birth of the Babe, whose life is the central theme of the Bible story. The Old Testament culminates in the greatest of God's revelations—the prophecy of the coming of Jesus Christ. The New Testament completes the story by telling of the work of Jesus among men and of His redemption of man through His life.

"But it is interesting to see what these prophecies meant to the Jews, the race of which the Babe was born. They had as their earliest conception of God that He was their Saviour. They understood that all went well with their nation when they obeyed God, and that all went wrong, that they were harried and oppressed and enslaved, when they disobeyed Him. This conception was fully borne out by their history and experience.

Conception Changed.

"And yet we find that even Jacob caught a glimpse of a king who should form the Hebrew kingdom out of the descendants of his twelve sons, and as others got this same vision, we find growing up the conception of the Messiah as a king, and the prophecies were interpreted as meaning the coming of a king who would unite the different tribes. So it is not surprising that they looked upon David, for a time, as the promised Messiah, until the division of the kingdom into Judah and Israel demonstrated the baselessness of that idea. Then came the carrying into exile and captivity, and the conception of the Messiah as a ruler changed to that of one who should lead in the recovery of their lost nationality.

"During the existence of the monarchy the individual was swallowed up in the race and counted for nothing. He had, in fact, hardly any conception of an individual existence, a fact that was fostered by the stringent laws ascribing punishments, which made the entire family suffer for the fault of one member, and an entire nation for the fault of its ruler. The shattering of the kingdom left the individuals to themselves, and there then developed the consciousness of individual existence, and even of individual responsibility. From this came the new conception of the Messiah as one to lead them back and restore the kingdom. Zachariah was the first of the prophets to voice the changed conception of life which brought with it recognition of individual responsibility.

"With these developments there came also the conception of a sacrifice, and from this grew that of an atonement to be made by the Messiah. There was once an idea that He would come in the form of some of the patriarchs—an idea based on such passages in the Scriptures as the promise of God to Abraham that 'through his seed' all the world should be blessed. But it was Isaiah who gave us the first writing showing the coming one as a sufferer, a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief, who should bear our griefs and carry our sorrows. In the prophecy that He should be led as a lamb to the slaughter, we find the full expression of the idea of atonement; but whereas the Jews regarded Him as coming for them alone, we look on the Messiah as coming to save the entire world.

More Than Fifty Prophecies.

"Today we have the whole Bible to work with, and can connect one book with another and so get, perhaps, a clearer perception of what the prophets meant than they themselves had. There are more than fifty prophecies of the coming of Christ, but probably none of the prophets had a clear conception of the Messiah. They did not understand, but this shows us that these witnesses were directly inspired from God.

"The ancient Jewish conception of God was that of a Being who saved them when they had sinned. That is our conception of the Messiah, but in our understanding the salvation is spiritual instead of national or material. It is but right that we look forward with rejoicing to the anniversary of the day that brought our Savior into the world."

DECLARES LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT

Pastor White Preaches Sermon on "Backbones and Wishbones."

Before a large audience last evening at the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner of Tenth avenue east and Sixth street, Pastor Stemple White spoke on "Wishbones and Backbones," illustrating his address with stereopticon views. Drawing abundantly from Holy Scripture, and using many Bible characters as living illustrations, he said in part:

"Since eternal life and death are set before every free moral agent in this world, our final destiny will be but the result of our own choice. David, who was called a man after God's own heart only because he fully overcame all his sins through Jesus Christ, really felt after God with his whole heart, and found Him. The secret of his successful life is told in his own published experience, where he says that he 'longed' for the 'precepts,' 'commandments,' 'salvation,' and 'courts' of the Lord, even as a hart panteth after the water brooks. Through Jesus Christ, any man in Duluth can as fully rejoice in God's free forgiveness and sweet peace, if he will as fully yield his heart to God.

"Turn a bee and a buzzard loose and the busy little worker seeks a flower, while the big 'wishbone' only finds a carcass. Two men arrive in a city on the same train, but they often seek for far different companions and environments. We can have about what we want in this world, and life is what we make it. Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, while his twin brother, the 'worm Jacob,' became the 'man Israel.' Judas sold the Messiah for a few paltry coins, while Moses yielded up the throne and pleasures of all Egypt for fellowship with the sufferings of Israel's shepherd. Lot gave up Christian pilgrimage for the politics of Sodom, while Abraham, through whole-hearted obedience, became the 'friend of God.' Israel's first king was moved, through fear of the people, to disobey God, and after being deceived through so-called spirit communication, he suicided in Mount Gilboa, while his crown was given to his converted neighbor, David. To us comes the message, 'hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.' He who allows his 'wishbone' to be where his 'backbone' ought to be, is quite apt to be found at last in that cage of 'unclean and hateful birds,' spoken of in the revelation."

It Pays to Advertise.

When an article is so much better than any other of the same kind, that those who buy it once refuse any substitute offered, and insist upon having it again, and recommend it to their friends, it pays to advertise. Foley's Honey and Tar is advertised because no other cough medicine can displace it in homes where it is once used. It gets right at the seat of trouble, clears nose and throat of mucus, heals raw and inflamed surfaces, loosens tightness of the chest. Sold and recommended by leading druggists all over the United States. Sold everywhere.

PREFER MOVIES TO THE SCRIPTURES

Church, Like Many Other Institutions, Is Undergoing Great Test.

Many people prefer the motion picture show, or reading matter that requires no thought, to the Bible, said Dr. A. W. Ryan, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, yesterday morning. There is a continual search going on for new fads, and in this way time is frittered away, he said.

"We are in a great testing time and we are wondering about the very foundations of our notions, and among the rest we are putting the same test to the church and church members.

"In many churches you elect a capable business man to the governing board, and at once he wants the business to take care of itself. As a result, the church is pauperized by incapable and unbusiness-like methods that he would not tolerate for one moment in his counting room. And few churches take up any philanthropic institution and say they will back that up to the utmost of their financial ability.

"Instead, they are content to make the church a select club of congenial people who never pay the bills. When we get to look upon the church as a means to an end, combined to make great success on religious lines; when we feel that church membership gets to mean that we are enlisted as knights of God for a wonderful crusade, then we shall see results that will astonish the whole world.

"We disburse $17,000,000 and send 10,000 men, when $50,000,000 would not more than do the business and 50,000 men should go forth to stop the foreign perils that menace us and our institutions. Social forces are at work now which in time are irresistible. They must be directed into goodly channels, or all we possess may be lost to us.

"This is a call made not to indefinite men somewhere, but to you as individuals, to the better nature within yourself, to a greater manhood that is within you, and which will not be downed until you rise to the biggest ideal that ever took hold of your imagination. Let us not play with the church nor let us attempt to make water-tight our religion from demands on our life and sacrifice. But let us do what lies within us to further God's presence in our modern life, and so set at naught the powers of evil and bring in the kingdom of righteousness for which men really long in the depths of their being."

CHRISTIAN PROGRESS AMONG CELESTIALS

Hollis Wilbur Tells of "Y" Work in the Orient.

The great progress of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in China was discussed yesterday morning by Hollis Wilbur, national president of the association in China, in an address at the Pilgrim Congregational church. He spoke with Rev. George P. Merrill, the newly-elected Congregational secretary for Northern Minnesota.

In addition to his discussion of association work in the Orient, Mr. Wilbur spoke on the Sherwood-Eddy meeting among the convert students. More than 18,000 attended the meetings during the last year, he said. The speaker gave many illustrations regarding association work among the Celestials.

At noon Mr. Wilbur addressed the Sunday school of the First M. E. church and in the evening spoke at the Glen Avon church.

Will Spend Holidays With Crippled Child

The proceeds from the cake sale, which was given Saturday by the Red, White and Blue society, will be given to a poor mother as part payment for a railroad ticket that will enable her to go to Minneapolis to be with her crippled child during the Christmas holidays. The society thanks those who so liberally donated to this good cause.

"The Power of the Penny."

From the Milwaukee Free Press: Wisconsin's photoplay, "The Power of the Penny," in which state officials, prominent club women, physicians, nurses, social service workers, sanatorium superintendents, public officials and school children by the score have turned movie actors to aid in the state fight against tuberculosis, will be shown to the public for the first time during the coming week.

"The biggest educational project in the entire history of the public health movement," is the way enthusiasts who have watched the production of the photoplay put it. "It will do more for the anti-tuberculosis movement than all the abstract arguments that could be presented, for it shows the people by means of scenes taken from real life what is being done and the great need which exists for doing more."

The closing scenes of the photoplay depict the annual sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. The unique fact that the entire educational work of the Wisconsin association is financed by the sale of these seals without any other appeal to the public for financial aid during the year gives the drama its name, "The Power of the Penny."

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Birth of a Nation."
NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and photoplay.
REX—"The Martyrs of the Alamo," photoplay.
LYRIC—William Farnum in "The Broken Law," photoplay.

Theater Gossip.

Many new original acts are introduced in the new bill booked for the first half of this week at the New Grand, the combination being one of song and comedy.

NEW SHOW OPENS AT GRAND

Bobbker's Arabs head the bill with their stunts in pyramid building and whirlwind acrobatics.

Dora Pelletier is a charming bit of womanhood with a large vocal power and much character comedy cleverness.

In a ventriloqual production entitled "On the Farm," Dave Rafael and company offer a varied routine of comedy and fun. Rafael, known as "America's representative ventriloquist," is noted for his excellent comedy dialogues and his clever manner of extemporizing.

Berns and Dean, two clever and versatile young women, who offer a diversion in singing and dancing, are easily the most satisfying artists in their line that vaudeville has brought to this city in many moons.

"As the Twig Is Bent" heads the photoplays, it being a three-reel story of army life in the Philippines interpreted by an all-star cast. "A Motorcycle Elopement," a comedy, and "The Stranger in the Valley," a drama, are among the other film stories. On Tuesday and Wednesday the twenty-eighth chapter of the "Diamond From the Sky" will be added to the regular program.

Growing interest in the educational motion picture play was clearly demonstrated when "The Martyrs of the Alamo" now at the Rex, was shown at the Knickerbocker theater, New York. A letter to 400 school principals in the greater city, informing them of the possibilities in such film dramas, brought immediate response in the way of reservations, and later responses in the way of letters of congratulations that the Triangle Film corporation had been able to do so much towards inspiring a love for deeper knowledge of past historical events.

GRIFFITH SPECTACLE AT THE REX

In "The Martyrs of the Alamo," D. W. Griffith has condensed the glorious history of the war of Texas for independence from Mexico, fought to success in 1836, into a five-reel spectacle.

The Triangle-Keystone feature, "Saved by Wireless," at the Rex today, shows wild flights and falls in the air, a swift auto and motorcycle race on the land, and a rescue from a dynamited yacht.

In "The Broken Law," at the Lyric theater, William Farnum is cast as Daniel Esmond, an English litterateur, who loving the freedom of the open way joins a gypsy tribe and because of personal worth is chosen as their leader. Esmond has received from his dying father a strange request. Years before, the father had betrayed a young gypsy maid, and then cruelly deserted her and her baby girl. This wronged woman and child, the father commanded Daniel to find. The only clew to their identity is a ring with the Esmond signet, given to the woman by her lover. Strangely enough this unknown half-sister is a member of Esmond's tribe. Her mother dying when the girl Ursula was a baby, confided her, together with the ring, to a wild uncouth creature named Korkiko.

WILLIAM FARNUM AT THE LYRIC

How the oath was kept and what amends fate made to Esmond for the cruel blows dealt him, makes one of the finest productions directed by Oscar C. Appel.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Where Humanity Is Needed.

I know one of those bad boys of whom the papers often tell. One on a par with all the little rascals known as incorrigibles, and I never see him that my heart does not ache for what might have been, nor ever gets done wishing that there was a little more humanness in circulation for just such unfortunate little boys.

This boy was shrewd and keen and active. He never missed any of the opportunities that presented themselves, only they were mostly the wrong ones, so finally he wound up, just as hundreds of these boys do, in a state institution, and, though it is sad to tell, he came out very much worse than when he went in. A hardened little culprit, hating all the world, suspicious alike of the kindly word and the bitter curse, counting no man his friend and the whole world in league to destroy him. And he set forth, single-handed, and lacking in many ways to pull against it.

I wouldn't say that he had not succeeded fairly well; better than most of the men I know who have had a full stomach and a place to lay their heads when the wind blew cold. The state institution played an important part in his life from the time he was 12 until he became of age, and I do not know but that he encountered it in another guise afterward.

The point is, however, that these state institutions are primarily aimed to save the boy or the girl from him or herself and that they fail miserably, or have in the past, all for the want of a little humanity and an understanding of each individual case.

I never see the boy, now a man, who spent succeeding years in a state institution that I am not impressed as to the sort of a man he might have been. For the sweetness every now and then creeps out and surprises you in the cynical, cold man of the world. And the ability is there and the will power, too, until you are of a mind to condemn him wholesale for what he is and what he is not.

If we must take our boys and girls from their natural protectors, let us provide guardians that will understand or endeavor to understand each boy and girl. Let us provide men and women who have a broad love of their fellows and who are over-zealous in the belief that the children of today as the citizens of the future are our most treasured assets—that each is worth saving and making into a real man or woman.

Suffrage Activities

Mrs. Alexander R. Colvin of St. Paul, chairman of the Minnesota Congressional union, left Thursday night for Washington to attend the first convention of the Congressional union, which will begin Monday and continue until Dec. 14, at which will be inaugurated the campaign in behalf of the Susan B. Anthony amendment before the Sixty-fourth congress.

Mrs. Colvin, Mrs. A. H. Bright, Mrs. Gertrude S. Hunter and Mrs. Alden H. Potter of Minneapolis have been chosen by the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage to represent Minnesota at the White House gathering Monday, when envoys of the women voters' convention of San Francisco will be received by the president.

Mrs. Andreas Ueland, president of the Minnesota Woman Suffrage association, left last night for the East. She will go to Cleveland and New York before going to Washington for the convention.

Mrs. George M. Kenyon of St. Paul, vice president of the state association, and member of the executive board of the Congressional union, is now in New York, and will leave from there for the convention.

Practically all the delegates will remain in Washington to attend the forty-seventh annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association, Dec. 14 to 18, inclusive.

The movement of the Minneapolis Equal Suffrage association of 265 members to merge itself in the new Hennepin County Suffrage association is considered by the suffrage leaders of the state as a distinct forward move, as it will bring the women of all parts of the county together and will reach out from county to county in a network of common interest and concerted methods until the state is a solid unit for suffrage.

Mrs. David Simpson, Mrs. Albert McMahon and Miss Josephine Schain, all of whom took active part in the recent Eastern campaign for the vote, are united in the statement that suffrage lost in the East because of lack of organization. The political machines beat suffrage and suffrage had no effective machine with which to fight back.

Suffrage leaders in this state are determined now to put their best effort into lining up their forces. Organization is to be the slogan of Minnesota suffragists for the next two years.

When Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, the Indiana social worker, spoke before the state convention of suffragists at St. Paul this fall, she said emphatically: "The country home is in politics. The country mothers and housekeepers await the issue of politics just as we all do. You can't build a cabin so far away in the backwoods that you can get away from the evils of civilization, house flies and politics. You can't escape taxes; you can't escape the control of legislatures. When 'the home in politics' is referred to, the homes of all the people must be included. Don't make the mistake of thinking that only city women will profit by the extension of the franchise."

In another six months or so, June 5, 1916, is the exact date, Minnesota's sister state, Iowa, will submit its suffrage amendment. The fact that Minnesota is being thoroughly organized along the Iowa border will no doubt be of great assistance to Iowa in the coming campaign.

It is thought that the women of the Southern Minnesota counties, Rock, Noble, Jackson, Martin, Faribault, Freeborn, Mower, Fillmore and Houston, will ignore the state line and carry their activities into Iowa.

Recently Illinois suffragists, anxious that the Iowa women shall share their privileges, subscribed $500 for Iowa's campaign fund. Wisconsin subscribed $100. Most significant of all is the order which has gone forth from Ohio's headquarters that all work in that state must be sidetracked so that the force of Ohio's workers may be thrown into the Iowa campaign.

The women of Sweden are beginning to fear that their countrywomen in America will all vote before they do. A prominent Scandinavian woman of Minneapolis, Mrs. Luth Jaeger, has recently received a letter from Ellen Key, the well-known Swedish writer and feminist. The letter reads:

"To the women of Minnesota who are striving for suffrage—Everywhere that women have risen to the struggle for their rights one must wish them courage and patience until victory is theirs. For just at present the greatest hope for humanity lies in that victory. To be sure, I do not believe that the world war would have been avoided even if women had already had the vote. But if another and more terrible world war is to be averted, the women of the new as well as of the old world must soon, very soon, attain the vote. With all good wishes,

(Signed) "ELLEN KEY."

The women of Norway, Denmark, Finland, Iceland and the Netherlands have already been enfranchised. Only Sweden of the Scandinavian group lags behind.

INDOLENCE

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

It has been said that the crime which Nature never forgives is indolence. It is certain that our bodies were never planned for idleness. Good health is invariably the result of a continued and rational exercising of both our bodies and minds.

Whenever we fail to exercise them for a period of time they are apt to degenerate. Not infrequently, owing to the close association of the various parts of the complex human machinery, this results in the impairment of one part and reflects upon the others.

The complications of modern life are very apt to result in our being forced into a restricted sphere and it requires thought and intelligence to keep mind and body in good condition.

The normal man and woman is endowed with a brain capable of development along various lines. To promote this development along a single line creates a one-sidedness which may readily become abnormal.

There has never been a time when opportunities were so great for those who desire to broaden their horizon and cultivate interests aside from those forced upon them by their particular trade or occupation. Not to have interests and occupation in a world teeming with opportunities and possibilities is to admit of stupidity and sloth.

Fads of one sort or another may not seem worthy of comparison with the more serious employments of life, nevertheless they may serve those who have been relieved of the necessity of labor and in lieu of better occupation prevent degeneration of mind and body. To be occupied with trifles is better than not to be occupied at all.

To devote one's self to tasks which require concentration and a combined effort of mind and body stimulates a rational development and goes far toward keeping us sane and healthy.

FAMILY PRIDE.

Chicago News: "What in the world are you going to do with that?" asked Osher.

"That," answered Mrs. Osher, "is the Digby arms. I am going to hang it up in the hall with the family portraits and the other coats of arms."

"Who was Digby?" asked Mrs. Osher's brother, Dick.

"Digby, Sir Fathead Digby—we are descended from him. He was a crusader. You have seen the Digby tree."

"Oh, yes," answered the incorrigible brother. "Quite a tree, lots of branches, shady, too."

"Your great-grandfather Digby had seven sons——"

"Two shy for a ball team."

"One was a banker, one was a soldier——"

"One was a butcher, I know."

"Nathaniel came to America——"

"Was he the butcher?"

"And he settled in New Hampshire," continued Mrs. Osher.

"I suppose if he hadn't settled they'd have taken him back and put him in jail," suggested Osher.

"Then Filbert, his son, came to Michigan. He married Ann Brisnicker Koblintz——"

"Some banker's widow or millionaire's daughter, I suppose."

"And they had four children, each of whom was heir to a considerable estate, and for one of whom you, Dick, were named."

"And never a cent did I ever get out of it either. I used to have to go over to see Aunt Henrietta every other Sunday and let her kiss me, and never a bit did she leave me."

"That was because your Aunt Matt gobbled it all. It didn't do her any good, either, as her brother Bill borrowed it all to put in his grocery."

"And lost it all playing poker. If they'd only left that money to me I would have retrieved the family fortunes, for I'm a better poker player than Bill was. That's why I say these coats of arms are a failure. They may get you a rich wife, but they don't keep the money in the family. Some grocer gets it and loses it playing poker."

"Now, as I was saying," resumed Mrs. Osher, "we shall invite some very good catches to the house this winter, and as the resemblance between our illustrious ancestor, Sir Buckwheat Tightpants, and Dick here is very striking, we ought to make a match between him and Gertrude Landish. Gertrude has three million."

"Three million is no good," answered Dick. "It sounds too much like a war loan, moving picture money or a cartoonist's salary. Now, if it insured me a raise of $10 a week I might be tempted by it."

LAWMAKING BODY OR MASS MEETING?

For the last two or three years discontent with the form and results of state government in Minnesota has been active and growing.

As a result, a commission was appointed by former Governor Eberhart to revise and simplify the state government in the interests of efficiency and economy. That commission worked faithfully and intelligently for a year and a half, and presented a report to the last legislature—a legislature with a majority pledged to do something to improve the state government.

The fate of that report was one of the most striking illustrations of legislative incapacity this state has seen in a long time. This is true altogether aside from the question whether or not the system proposed by the commission was what the state needs. At least it was a start. If it was inadequate, it could have been strengthened. If it had defects, these defects could have been cured. It could at least have been made the basis for discussion and action. In point of fact it was not considered at all. The job was too big for the legislature, and it backed away from it completely, salving its conscience by providing for another commission to investigate the same subject over again.

What is the matter with the Minnesota legislature?

There is some truth in the frequent statement that the average of its membership is of a smaller caliber than it used to be—too much truth.

But the chief defect goes deeper than that—the legislature is too big. It is more like a mass meeting than a deliberative body; and everybody who has attended mass meetings knows that while they often go very directly and wisely to the heart of a given issue, they are clumsy, unwieldy, waste time and motion, and are ill-suited to legislative uses.

The Minnesota senate has sixty-seven members, and the house has a hundred and thirty. The senate is only a little more than half the size of the house, and it is not surprising, therefore, to find that it does better and more careful work than the house. But even the senate is too large—it is the largest in the United States—while the house is a mere mass meeting at its best, and at its worst is a mob.

Moreover, the legislature always will be too large so long as the present Constitution stands. Every reapportionment made since Minnesota became a state has increased the size of the legislature—in every instance but one both branches have been increased in size. This is because the readjustment compelled by reapportionment, when one part of the state is growing more rapidly than another, can be brought about only by a compromise which gives increased representation to the newer sections without reducing materially the representation of the older sections. Thus the legislature, large enough in the beginning, has grown by every reapportionment.

The legislature never in this wide world will reduce its membership.

There is a way to do it—and it is worth doing because it will make for better legislative service—but only one way.

That is by calling a convention to revise the Constitution, and by having that convention, in the new Constitution it creates, put an arbitrary limit on the size of each branch of the legislature—a senate of fifty and a house of one hundred members, say; or even less would be better still.

That would be one very important and useful task for the constitutional convention to do, and it is needed anyway even if this task were not before it.

Hello, congress, old man!

A WAY TO FORCE PEACE.

One of the peace proposals submitted to its membership by the United States chamber of commerce, which is to be considered by the public affairs committee of the Commercial club tonight, is as follows:

> That the United States should take the initiative in joining with other nations in agreeing to bring concerted economic pressure to bear upon any nation or nations which resort to military measures without submitting their differences to an international court or a council of conciliation, and awaiting the decision of the court or the recommendation of the council, as circumstances make the more appropriate.

This is substantially the proposal outlined and ably advocated by Norman Angell in his new book "The World's Highway." He shows convincingly that absolute neutrality is impossible anyway; that at its best it is difficult, annoying and embarrassing; that neutral nations under present lawless conditions suffer only less than belligerent countries; and that neutrals would be put to no more trouble and expense by adopting this plan than by remaining as they are.

The Dutch jurist Grotius more than three hundred years ago laid down the broad principle that the oceans are common property, and that belligerents have no right to circumscribe their use by neutrals. The disturbance or more or less complete destruction of neutral commerce by belligerents is an impudent piece of business which the world has tolerated too long. The business of the world is peace, not war; and it is monstrous that when nations choose to go to war the rest of the world must sit back with folded hands, suffering enormous annoyance and heavy costs while it waits for the belligerents to fight it out.

How long would Duluth or any other organized community stand it if it found that the private quarrels of neighbors were paralyzing the community's industry?

Mr. Angell's idea grows out of the principle laid down by Grotius. It is simple enough. He would have the nations of the world all agree that whenever any nation or nations go to war without submitting their dispute to arbitration, all the other nations will combine to bring economic pressure to bear against the offending nation or nations.

Then the neutral nations would insist on trading freely with the other belligerents, but would sell nothing or lend nothing to the offending belligerent.

Probably no nation could stand up long against that pressure, applied in addition to the belligerence of its embattled enemies. Probably no nation, knowing that to go to war without submitting the issue to arbitration would mean the sacrifice of the world's friendship, would dare defy the world by wantonly picking a fight.

Moreover, the organization proposed would be a step toward the world union which, in the end, will be necessary to secure lasting peace.

Why are the Christmas cigar jokes so slow in making the rounds?

WHAT THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION STANDS FOR.

Let's get one thing clear and straight, and not forget it, because it is of the highest importance—nothing could be more important.

The Wilson administration stands for better military preparedness—not for war, but for defense; not militarism, just readiness to repel invasion.

But that is not what makes the Wilson administration distinctive.

It won't be what has made it distinctive no matter how mightily we arm.

THIS COUNTRY CAN'T HOPE TO GAIN BY WAR ANY ACHIEVEMENT SO MIGHTY AS THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION HAS GAINED WITHOUT WAR.

By being right and just, and by demanding only righteousness and justice, by asking for this country only what it has a right to ask for all the world, the Wilson administration has conquered the vastest armament in the world, and that without any armament to speak of and without using or even threatening the use of any at all.

That's a greater thing than armies, a bigger thing than war, a mightier thing than battles waged and won.

Wars seldom settle any question. Napoleon conquered Europe, and laid Prussia waste. But conquered Europe rose to chain Napoleon to an island rock, and Prussia, reacting from the impact of the Napoleonic invasion, was forced to become a nation, then an empire. Bismarck crushed France, and only sowed the seeds of the present war. This conflict, unless a substitute for war is found, will inevitably sow the seeds of greater conflicts yet to come. Wars seldom settle any question, and never settle any question so well and wisely as it might be settled otherwise.

War is not Wilson's way.

Being right and decent and fair and just—having his cause unassailable, undeniable—asking for his country nothing that he has not the right to ask for humanity—that is the Wilson way.

The great distinction of the Wilson administration is that it relies not upon force, but justice; not upon war, but upon the human instinct for fair play.

"Hop" might create something of a climax by sending Scoop into Mark Twain's cave on Christmas eve and having him find Prunella there.

Peace and War

Editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A debate is on between Dr. David Starr Jordan and Dr. Charles A. Eaton touching "War as a Scourge"—Dr. Jordan's end of it—and "War as a Regenerator," which Dr. Eaton will undertake to maintain and establish.

Dr. Jordan says he will not leave Dr. Eaton "a leg to stand on."

Dr. Eaton says:

> I am fully in accord with Dr. Jordan in his aversion to war as such. Nor do I fail to realize the frightful suffering, loss and burden imposed by the present gigantic conflict. But the war is an actual fact. It has cast its shadow so broadly over the human race that for any people to miss its lesson would be a calamity of the first magnitude.
> I do not believe that suffering is evil. Indeed history teaches that suffering is the instrument of progress, the very essential condition of life. It is an ominous and revealing fact that large portions of our American people, including great and good men like Dr. Jordan, are exhibiting a frantic revulsion against any kind of suffering. They want peace and attendant prosperity. This is a natural desire. But if life is measured by the qualities of the soul, if the greatness of a nation consists in the character of its people, we must have something as a discipline beyond peace and plenty.
> I look upon the magnificent millions of men laying their lives down at the present moment for what they think is duty as saviors of the world. If we on the outside, surrounded by ease and luxury, are simply shocked at the suffering of these men and do not enter into their soul experience, which makes them suffer gladly, then we reveal a spiritual condition far more dangerous and pitiful than their condition of physical distress.

Here Dr. Eaton seeks, as many other divines, to find some good in what Oscar Straus in a recent address called "This Most Barbaric and Colossal War," which, as the eminent diplomatist went on to say, "puts not God on trial, but man on trial." The New York Sun takes this for a text, and, recalling how the late Prof. Cramb declared before the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, which he largely forecast, that in the Old World, if not in the new, Corsica had conquered Galilee, and that this present year President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, and many others have lamented that, after two thousand years of effort, Christianity has failed to accomplish its avowed mission, impressively says:

> If, as is argued by Haeckel, the ablest of contemporary materialists, the physical universe is a godless, soulless machine, the very existence of which precludes the possibility of a spiritual realm, is the only medium through which mankind's aspirations can find a vent, then indeed does man's inhumanity to man, as illustrated by the man beings within the past twelvemonth, leave no opening for any ray of light or hope from religious sources. Man has been placed on trial, his blood guilt is established, and there is no God.
> But we are herewith confronted by a paradox. The scarlet tragedy that has overthrown European civilization has caused a spiritual awakening in all parts of the world. The cataclysm that should have furnished the materialists with the most crushing argument vouchsafed to them in all the bloody history of the race has intensified the religious fervor of mankind to an unprecedented degree.
> The modern world is prostrate before its altars, offering prayers to the Unknowable. Never before have our churches been so crowded, never before have the exponents of religious teachings found such willing ears, such anxious, eager hearts. What should have happened logically if Corsica has really conquered Galilee in the world of today has by no means taken place.
> On the contrary, the materialism that led Prof. Cramb to make his sweeping generalization has been widely replaced of late by a spiritual quickening, a renewed conviction on the part of countless thousands that there exists a domain beyond and above the material, a domain necessary to explain the phenomena exhibited by the soul of man under the stress of the world's most appalling calamity.

This very fine elucidation might be taken as in some sort bearing out Dr. Eaton's contention, since, if war is to revitalize the soul and bring man back to Christ, it were not wholly evil; but it is hard to measure the spiritual world by the material world, and, in any and every event,

> "God moves in a mysterious way
> His wonders to perform."

The notion that war develops manhood, perpetuating the virility of nations, is a favorite gospel with young men, epic poets and jingoes. Likewise, with plate armor syndicates. But, leaving history out of the account, it is receiving some lively jolts now, Dr. Eaton will find it uphill work maintaining his thesis that "without the iron discipline of wounds and loss we should cease our forward advance and relapse into decadence and failure that liberty, honor, character, justice, are the things which make life worth living, and each of these must be purchased at a great price; that their home is not in the family of luxury and selfishness; that they are found the rather where men live and die heroically."

Peace does not apply only to "luxury and selfishness." There are other than wounds of battle to "discipline" us. Besides, this is not a war of manhood, but of massacre and murder. There is nothing heroic or chivalric about it. If it goes on long enough it will deplete and darken the world, hatred the prevailing international relation, and for a time the overthrow of civilization. Dr. Eaton, being of Canadian birth, may be influenced by his loyalty to England. But, all the same, war is a curse to man without one redeeming feature.

Respectfully Submitted

New York World: Apropos of all the curious theories recently advanced to the effect that the secretary of war should be an army officer, that the general staff should regulate the size of the army and that congress should be merely an instrument for recording the infallible edicts of the staff, we venture to quote certain opinions which raise a doubt as to the wisdom of such procedure.

We present them with hesitation and misgiving, and with suitable apology to the Army and Navy Journal:

> You don't want a general in that position; you want a civilian. The army will obey a civilian better than it will a soldier. If three or four years from now I were dying in my bed of a fever, and if to crown my romance I were to make my will, I would warn the nation against a military government. I would tell it to choose a civilian for its first magistrate.
> It is not as a general that I govern, but because the nation believes that I have civilian qualities that make me fit for governing.

The name of the unworthy author of these unworthy sentiments was Napoleon Bonaparte. Our only excuse for referring to him is that he knew more about war and more about government than any other man that ever lived.

Wonders Never Cease!

Springfield Union: The impossible seems to have happened in the case of John Lind, who has been sued by Henry Lane Wilson for talking too much. Who knows but some day William Jennings Bryan may be taken to task for not talking enough!

Does He Want War?

Editorial in the New York World.

Does Mr. Roosevelt believe that the United States should declare war against Germany? If so, is he afraid to say so? If he is not afraid to say so, why does he not prepare a declaration of war, have the resolution introduced in congress by a member of the Progressive party and make a straight-out appeal to the country on that issue?

That would mean something. All of Mr. Roosevelt's scolding tirades in the newspapers and magazines mean nothing. What could be sillier than Mr. Roosevelt's frenzied denunciation of the kind of indignation that "exhausts itself in words instead of taking shape in deeds," while his own indignation exhausts itself in words instead of taking shape in deeds?

Since the beginning of the war, nobody else—not even Mr. Bryan—has talked one-half so much as Mr. Roosevelt; yet when it comes to translating his own words into what he calls "effective action" he is as spineless as an oyster.

There are only two ways in which a nation can maintain its rights. One is by the slow, clumsy processes of diplomacy. The other is by drawing the sword.

There are Americans who believe that the United States ought long ago to have entered the war on the side of the allies, either to help redress the wrongs of Belgium, or to repay to France the debt of gratitude that we owe her for our own independence, or to aid Great Britain in fighting what many thoughtful men consider the decisive battle of democracy. One may agree or disagree with such Americans, but their criticism of the policy of the United States government is clear and intelligible. We know what they are talking about. They advocate war not merely in the national interest but as a duty to civilization, and they give reasons. But the Roosevelt kind of clamor gets us nowhere. It is clamor without courage, conviction or conscience.

The peace-at-any-price people whom he loads down with opprobrium are far more entitled to respect than he, because they too have definite principles and are advocating those principles. Like the people who think the country should enter the war, they are promoting a concrete policy. It may be wise or unwise, but it is a definite line of action.

We can think of nothing more contemptible in a great national crisis than for men to seek deliberately to embarrass their government when they are too craven to propose a policy of their own as a substitute for the policy that the government is pursuing. No man in or out of congress has a moral right to assail President Wilson's handling of foreign affairs unless that man is ready to vote for war and is ready to urge his fellow-citizens to vote for war.

If Mr. Roosevelt wants war, let him at least have enough manhood to say he wants war and to say that congress should exercise the great sovereign power that is vested in it, and in it alone.

If the Republican Party Had Been in Power

New York Times: "A surplus is Republican, a deficit Democratic;" "Democratic extravagance, Republican economy;" "Republican prosperity, Democratic hard times;" these and similar ancient sacred texts of pre-Adamite Republicanism crowd into the mind as the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, gazing mournfully from the battlements of the battered "citadel of protection," utters these words of woe:

> Democratic papers are asking what the Republican party would have done in the face of the financial condition that confronts the present administration. The question is a vain one, for if the Republican party had been in power this condition would not have confronted us.

We believe it, because it is impossible. But why veil the awful truth? Why spare the erring Democracy the chastisement it merits? If the Republican party had been in power, war wouldn't have dared to break out.

Still, many Republicans of the straitest sect must be perplexed in the extreme. These "bumper" crops, this plethora of money, this monstrous commerce, this revived business can't really have come under a Democratic administration. This so-much-talked-of prosperity must be a dream, a phantom of false morning. It is inconceivable that the United States can thrive without a heaven-high tariff and a Republican administration. Democratic prosperity! Why, the phrase is a contradiction. True prosperity is in the hands of the party that "freed the slave, saved the Union."

Just for a Moment

Oh, just for a moment, when Christmas has come,
Sit down, little girl, little boy,
And silence the trumpet and muffle the drum,
Forget every doll, every toy—
Then think, in the stillness that fills all the room,
Of somewhere far over the sea,
Of hearts that are dumb in the sense of their gloom,
Of Christmas that never will be.

And just for a moment, you grown-ups, suppose
You return from the gladness at home,
Where candle shades give things the color of rose,
And then let your quick fancy roam
To homes that were once, and to hearths that are bare,
To children who know naught of glee—
Then, just for a moment, in thought you will share
The Christmas that never will be.

So, just for a moment, suppose you and I
Agree on this deed we will do:
We'll think of the children who wonder and sigh
Of Christmases that they once knew;
We'll send them a prayer, we'll send them a thought,
And hope that we never may see
The days dipped from hell that of warfare have wrought
The Christmas that never will be.
—Wilbur D. Nesbit in Life.

Progress By Kicking.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A naval lieutenant, assigned to command a submarine, found the storage batteries in what he considered an unsafe condition and reported to his superior, a rear admiral. The superior considered the lieutenant's action merely a "kick." He refused to have all batteries examined, even after investigation showed that the subordinate officer's "kick" was based on fact, and accepted the vessel as it stood.

The matter went to court-martial and the rear admiral was acquitted of negligence. Secretary Daniels disapproved the finding of the court.

Any superior who objects to having his subordinates kick occasionally is not deserving of his rank. Bureaucracy wherever it has developed to curse democracy, is based on precisely the theory this rear admiral appears to have adopted; that all wisdom is centered in the heads of chiefs, and that the only thing that need concern subordinates is the following of orders without questioning or protest.

The world advances by kicking. Reforms are results of kicking, and experience shows that by no means all the profitable kicking in the past has been done by men in gold-laced uniforms or by commanders of industries. Lieutenants and privates have done their share, men in subordinate positions who have dared the wrath of superiors by complaining when things were not right.

Kick; the often the better. Were kicking to cease, the world would stagnate.

The Demand for a Smaller Legislature is Growing

Editorial Writers in the State Press Indorse the Idea.

"To Much Legislature."

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: The Duluth Herald, in a strong editorial, started a newspaper discussion of the undesirability of too much legislature. Everybody that is anybody has already admitted both the house and the senate are too big by half. They're so big they're brainless in organization and efficiency. The last session demonstrated how impotent the house has grown to be through congestion. Very little was accomplished and no really important legislation was enacted. Minnesota would be better off today if that legislature had legislated not at all. Others will be like unto it so long as the present condition exists as to the size of the creatures. There are other important changes to be made that only a constitutional convention can effect. The demand for it should be so unanimous and so relentless by the press and statesmen of Minnesota that prompt action would follow. The Constitution of the state is a cumbersome, chaotic patchwork with an original foundation made for bygone generations and bygone conditions.

That's Why a Constitutional Convention Is Needed.

Baudette Region: All this talk about cutting down the number of legislators is interesting, but there is about as much chance of the present bunch of Minnesota legislators voting themselves out of office as a celluloid dog would have chasing an asbestos cat through—well we cannot use the word here, but you know the place we mean.

It Would Be Vastly Better.

Breckenridge Telegram: A smaller legislature ought to work out to much better advantage than the present one of unwieldy numbers. It would reduce expense and also some logrolling, certainly.

A Bit of Sarcasm.

Waubun Forum: The suggestion has been made by The Duluth Herald and seconded by some other papers that the size of the state legislature be reduced. There seem to be all too few chances for aspiring politicians to get into the leigslature now. Would the economy justify the denial of this great opportunity in democracy?

Applies It to Congress, Too.

Representative C. L. Stevens in the Warren Register: Everything The Duluth Herald says about the Minnesota legislature's being too big applies with equal force to congress. Every congressional apportionment of the past thirty years has made an unwarrantable increase in the size of congress. But for Champ Clark and his gang, the last apportionment might have been an exception. Though it was then generally, almost universally, conceded that congress was so big that it had ceased to be a deliberate body, Clark and has lieutenants jammed through a bill that added more than forty to the membership. But The Herald is not entirely happy in its comparison of the work done by the two houses of the Minnesota legislature at the 1915 session. If it will look up the record, it cannot fail to discover that most of the grafts and questionable legislation that got through received their start in the senate. The senate may have been "much more orderly and deliberate and competent" than the house, but the fact should not be overlooked that the "show me" spirit was much more in evidence in the house than in the "upper" branch. The Herald's advocacy of a constitutional convention we heartily indorse. If The Herald could have prevailed upon Larimore, Carmichael and other Democrats of the house to support the movement for a constitutional convention, it is possible that means for securing one would have been provided by the last legislature.

Two State Needs.

Red Wing Republican: A shorter ballot and a smaller legislature would do much to do away with political log-rolling and worthless legislation and place the responsibility so much more clearly upon the officials chosen that they would respond more promptly to the will of the people who elected them. Minnesota needs both, if it is to take its place and hold it among the progressive states of the Union.

North Dakota Notions

Various Views Expressed by Newspapers of That State.

A Home Recipe.

Fargo Courier-News: One of the best formulas for the making of a good wife is to get her a good husband.

Defenses Not a Party Matter.

Grand Forks Herald: One of the things which is certain about the matter of national defense is that under no circumstances should it be made a matter of party politics. Neither on the broad question itself nor on the more restricted one of method should the element of party politics be permitted to have any influence. The issue is greater than any party, and infinitely greater than any politician. It involves the security of the nation, and it may involve the very principles on which the nation is founded.

"Jes 'Fore Christmas."

Cooperstown Sentinel-Courier: Thanksgiving gone—Christmas next—and meanwhile the little boys and girls are on their best behavior.

Some Battleground.

Oakes Times: Presidential candidates of the Republican party are sparring for openings in the early primary states. There is Root and Burton and Cummins and La Follette and Roosevelt sentiment in this state, and it is guessed this early that each has selected his manager. These managers have not come out in the open yet in North Dakota, but it is time that action was being taken, as the North Dakota presidential primary comes in March. Three years ago Roosevelt selected as his manager our present governor, and it not only defeated the Roosevelt delegates, but threw the scare into Hanna for fall election. Minnesota comes in ahead of North Dakota in primaries next March and in these two Northwestern states the candidates will put up a hard fight to gather in the early delegates. North Dakota will be some political battleground next year.

Hope for Europe.

Valley City Times-Record: Hibbing, Minn., has declared peace without calling in Bryan. There is still hope for Europe.

Looking at Minnesota.

Fargo Courier-News: It is regretable that Mr. Root's conversion to the broader statesmanship did not come sooner. Had he put his tremendous influence on the side of a square deal in 1912 he would have saved his party many sorrows and possibly would have advanced the cause of democracy more than he has otherwise done in a whole lifetime.

It is now said that Minnesota will be the first battleground for the Root forces in the effort to secure the Reupblican nomination for him, and that his chief contestant will be Governor Cummins. If so, the contest will be watched with interest by all the nation. Minnesota was a Roosevelt state, is certainly progressive and the contest will be of great significance.

And we are all wondering will Teddy's name be on the ballot? Some who were prominent in the Bull Moose movement in 1912 in Minnesota have suggested that the Republicans should bring Hiram Johnson into the field. This would certainly be a novel movement.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Speaker Reed now has three gavels with which to call the house of representatives to order, a third one having been presented to him today by E. P. Nelson of Duluth, one of the deputy grain inspectors of Minnesota, through the medium of Congressman Towne. This gavel is made of oak timber taken from the Algonquin, the first vessel making the trip through the Sault canal to reach Duluth. The trip was made in 1847.

Ancient History.

I'd love to know
How long ago
Somebody sprung this ancient wheeze
And other gaglets such as these:
"D' you know married men live longer than single men?"
"No, it just seems longer."

'Twould give me bliss
To know when this
Was first upon the zephyrs sprung,
And if its author vile was hung:
"Who was that lady I seen you walking down the street with last night?"
"That wasn't a lady. That was my wife."

Or, in whose rule
Some crack-brained fool
Got this long-haired from his system
And if the waiting throng all hissed 'im:
Doctor—Your mother-in-law will have to go to a warmer climate.
Son-in-law (bringing in the ax)—Here, Doc, you hit her. I can't.

Also I'd like
To know the Ike
By whom, upon a weary world,
This time-worn bit of cheese was hurled:
Drunken man (to man moving a grandfather's clock)—Why—hic—don't you carry a—hic—watch?
—"Off Agin, On Agin."

Don't Judge the Nations Now.

Gerald Stanley Lee in the American Magazine: We decline to believe that Germany and England and Russia and France are engaged today in expressing German men, English men, Russian men, French men, under the forms of expression which they have chosen to use. America at heart, to her last man, will stand up for German human nature. We will not judge nations in the moments of their despair and dumbness when they stutter in the language of force—in the language of ages long gone by—ideas of truth, liberty, of social and industrial need and power that have only begun to be conceived in the age in which we live, and which can only hope to be expressed in the latest forms of expression and the latest means of attracting attention that the age in which we live can command.

America believes what the North German-Lloyd ships have been telling us all these years the Germans are like. We purpose to believe about Germans only what Germany says when she is speaking about herself in her senses, and when she is using the latest forms of expressing the latest powers of a great people. The ideas about herself she is trying to express with guns, we do not believe about her. The worse muss in expressing German human nature Germany makes—as long as she is trying to express it with guns—the better for Germany and for all of us. We like to think of Germany as she was. We look forward to Germany as she will be—when she again expresses herself.

Allies Fight America's Battles.

The New Republic: At present Europe is in the throes of an internecine war in which the future of civilization is at stake. Upon the outcome depend not only the liberties of Europe and of the world, but also the future of democracy. For in a world so unorganized politically that its peace is at the mercy of one power, the crucial test of any form of political organization cannot be the more or less satisfactory nature of its inner life, but must perforce be its ability to defend itself and to survive in a struggle imposed by others. Were European democracy to fail in this crisis, its fate would be sealed, and America would become the last bulwark of popular government. For this fundamental reason there is an almost literal truth in the statement that the allies are fighting America's battles.

LAWMAKING BODY OR MASS MEETING?

For the last two or three years discontent with the form and results of state government in Minnesota has been active and growing.

As a result, a commission was appointed by former Governor Eberhart to revise and simplify the state government in the interests of efficiency and economy. That commission worked faithfully and intelligently for a year and a half, and presented a report to the last legislature—a legislature with a majority pledged to do something to improve the state government.

The fate of that report was one of the most striking illustrations of legislative incapacity this state has seen in a long time. This is true altogether aside from the question whether or not the system proposed by the commission was what the state needs. At least it was a start. If it was inadequate, it could have been strengthened. If it had defects, these defects could have been cured. It could at least have been made the basis for discussion and action. In point of fact it was not considered at all. The job was too big for the legislature, and it backed away from it completely, salving its conscience by providing for another commission to investigate the same subject over again.

What is the matter with the Minnesota legislature?

There is some truth in the frequent statement that the average of its membership is of a smaller caliber than it used to be—too much truth.

But the chief defect goes deeper than that—the legislature is too big. It is more like a mass meeting than a deliberative body; and everybody who has attended mass meetings knows that while they often go very directly and wisely to the heart of a given issue, they are clumsy, unwieldy, waste time and motion, and are ill-suited to legislative uses.

The Minnesota senate has sixty-seven members, and the house has a hundred and thirty. The senate is only a little more than half the size of the house, and it is not surprising, therefore, to find that it does better and more careful work than the house. But even the senate is too large—it is the largest in the United States—while the house is a mere mass meeting at its best, and at its worst is a mob.

Moreover, the legislature always will be too large so long as the present Constitution stands. Every reapportionment made since Minnesota became a state has increased the size of the legislature—in every instance but one both branches have been increased in size. This is because the readjustment compelled by reapportionment, when one part of the state is growing more rapidly than another, can be brought about only by a compromise which gives increased representation to the newer sections without reducing materially the representation of the older sections. Thus the legislature, large enough in the beginning, has grown by every reapportionment.

The legislature never in this wide world will reduce its membership.

There is a way to do it—and it is worth doing because it will make for better legislative service—but only one way.

That is by calling a convention to revise the Constitution, and by having that convention, in the new Constitution it creates, put an arbitrary limit on the size of each branch of the legislature—a senate of fifty and a house of one hundred members, say; or even less would be better still.

That would be one very important and useful task for the constitutional convention to do, and it is needed anyway even if this task were not before it.

Hello, congress, old man!

A WAY TO FORCE PEACE.

One of the peace proposals submitted to its membership by the United States chamber of commerce, which is to be considered by the public affairs committee of the Commercial club tonight, is as follows:

> That the United States should take the initiative in joining with other nations in agreeing to bring concerted economic pressure to bear upon any nation or nations which resort to military measures without submitting their differences to an international court or a council of conciliation, and awaiting the decision of the court or the recommendation of the council, as circumstances make the more appropriate.

This is substantially the proposal outlined and ably advocated by Norman Angell in his new book "The World's Highway." He shows convincingly that absolute neutrality is impossible anyway; that at its best it is difficult, annoying and embarrassing; that neutral nations under present lawless conditions suffer only less than belligerent countries; and that neutrals would be put to no more trouble and expense by adopting this plan than by remaining as they are.

The Dutch jurist Grotius more than three hundred years ago laid down the broad principle that the oceans are common property, and that belligerents have no right to circumscribe their use by neutrals. The disturbance or more or less complete destruction of neutral commerce by belligerents is an impudent piece of business which the world has tolerated too long. The business of the world is peace, not war; and it is monstrous that when nations choose to go to war the rest of the world must sit back with folded hands, suffering enormous annoyance and heavy costs while it waits for the belligerents to fight it out.

How long would Duluth or any other organized community stand it if it found that the private quarrels of neighbors were paralyzing the community's industry?

Mr. Angell's idea grows out of the principle laid down by Grotius. It is simple enough. He would have the nations of the world all agree that whenever any nation or nations go to war without submitting their dispute to arbitration, all the other nations will combine to bring economic pressure to bear against the offending nation or nations.

Then the neutral nations would insist on trading freely with the other belligerents, but would sell nothing or lend nothing to the offending belligerent.

Probably no nation could stand up long against that pressure, applied in addition to the belligerence of its embattled enemies. Probably no nation, knowing that to go to war without submitting the issue to arbitration would mean the sacrifice of the world's friendship, would dare defy the world by wantonly picking a fight.

Moreover, the organization proposed would be a step toward the world union which, in the end, will be necessary to secure lasting peace.

Why are the Christmas cigar jokes so slow in making the rounds?

WHAT THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION STANDS FOR.

Let's get one thing clear and straight, and not forget it, because it is of the highest importance—nothing could be more important.

The Wilson administration stands for better military preparedness—not for war, but for defense; not militarism, just readiness to repel invasion.

But that is not what makes the Wilson administration distinctive.

It won't be what has made it distinctive no matter how mightily we arm.

THIS COUNTRY CAN'T HOPE TO GAIN BY WAR ANY ACHIEVEMENT SO MIGHTY AS THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION HAS GAINED WITHOUT WAR.

By being right and just, and by demanding only righteousness and justice, by asking for this country only what it has a right to ask for all the world, the Wilson administration has conquered the vastest armament in the world, and that without any armament to speak of and without using or even threatening the use of any at all.

That's a greater thing than armies, a bigger thing than war, a mightier thing than battles waged and won.

Wars seldom settle any question. Napoleon conquered Europe, and laid Prussia waste. But conquered Europe rose to chain Napoleon to an island rock, and Prussia, reacting from the impact of the Napoleonic invasion, was forced to become a nation, then an empire. Bismarck crushed France, and only sowed the seeds of the present war. This conflict, unless a substitute for war is found, will inevitably sow the seeds of greater conflicts yet to come. Wars seldom settle any question, and never settle any question so well and wisely as it might be settled otherwise.

War is not Wilson's way.

Being right and decent and fair and just—having his cause unassailable, undeniable—asking for his country nothing that he has not the right to ask for humanity—that is the Wilson way.

The great distinction of the Wilson administration is that it relies not upon force, but justice; not upon war, but upon the human instinct for fair play.

"Hop" might create something of a climax by sending Scoop into Mark Twain's cave on Christmas eve and having him find Prunella there.

Peace and War

Editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A debate is on between Dr. David Starr Jordan and Dr. Charles A. Eaton touching "War as a Scourge"—Dr. Jordan's end of it—and "War as a Regenerator," which Dr. Eaton will undertake to maintain and establish.

Dr. Jordan says he will not leave Dr. Eaton "a leg to stand on."

Dr. Eaton says:

> I am fully in accord with Dr. Jordan in his aversion to war as such. Nor do I fail to realize the frightful suffering, loss and burden imposed by the present gigantic conflict. But the war is an actual fact. It has cast its shadow so broadly over the human race that for any people to miss its lesson would be a calamity of the first magnitude.
>
> I do not believe that suffering is evil. Indeed history teaches that suffering is the instrument of progress, the very essential condition of life. It is an ominous and revealing fact that large portions of our American people, including great and good men like Dr. Jordan, are exhibiting a frantic revulsion against any kind of suffering. They want peace and attendant prosperity. This is a natural desire. But if life is measured by the qualities of the soul, if the greatness of a nation consists in the character of its people, we must have something as a discipline beyond peace and plenty.
> I look upon the magnificent millions of men laying their lives down at the present moment for what they think is duty as saviors of the world. If we on the outside, surrounded by ease and luxury, are simply shocked at the suffering of these men and do not enter into their soul experience, which makes them suffer gladly, then we reveal a spiritual condition far more dangerous and pitiful than their condition of physical distress.

Here Dr. Eaton seeks, as many other divines, to find some good in what Oscar Straus in a recent address called "This Most Barbaric and Colossal War," which, as the eminent diplomatist went on to say, "puts not God on trial, but man on trial." The New York Sun takes this for a text, and, recalling how the late Prof. Cramb declared before the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, which he largely forecast, that in the Old World, if not in the new, Corsica had conquered Galilee, and that this present year President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, and many others have lamented that, after two thousand years of effort, Christianity has failed to accomplish its avowed mission, impressively says:

> If, as is argued by Haeckel, the ablest of contemporary materialists, the physical universe is a godless, soulless machine, the very existence of which precludes the possibility of a spiritual realm, is the only medium through which mankind's aspirations can find a vent, then indeed does man's inhumanity to man, as illustrated by the man beings within the past twelvemonth, leave no opening for any ray of light or hope from religious sources. Man has been placed on trial, his blood guilt is established, and there is no God.
> But we are herewith confronted by a paradox. The scarlet tragedy that has overthrown European civilization has caused a spiritual awakening in all parts of the world. The cataclysm that should have furnished the materialists with the most crushing argument vouchsafed to them in all the bloody history of the race has intensified the religious fervor of mankind to an unprecedented degree.
> The modern world is prostrate before its altars, offering prayers to the Unknowable. Never before have our churches been so crowded, never before have the exponents of religious teachings found such willing ears, such anxious, eager hearts. What should have happened logically if Corsica has really conquered Galilee in the world of today has by no means taken place.
> On the contrary, the materialism that led Prof. Cramb to make his sweeping generalization has been widely replaced of late by a spiritual quickening, a renewed conviction on the part of countless thousands that there exists a domain beyond and above the material, a domain necessary to explain the phenomena exhibited by the soul of man under the stress of the world's most appalling calamity.

This very fine elucidation might be taken as in some sort bearing out Dr. Eaton's contention, since, if war is to revitalize the soul and bring man back to Christ, it were not wholly evil; but it is hard to measure the spiritual world by the material world, and, in any and every event,

> "God moves in a mysterious way
> His wonders to perform."

The notion that war develops manhood, perpetuating the virility of nations, is a favorite gospel with young men, epic poets and jingoes. Likewise, with plate armor syndicates. But, leaving history out of the account, it is receiving some lively jolts now, Dr. Eaton will find it uphill work maintaining his thesis that "without the iron discipline of wounds and loss we should cease our forward advance and relapse into decadence and failure that liberty, honor, character, justice, are the things which make life worth living, and each of these must be purchased at a great price; that their home is not in the family of luxury and selfishness; that they are found the rather where men live and die heroically."

Peace does not apply only to "luxury and selfishness." There are other than wounds of battle to "discipline" us. Besides, this is not a war of manhood, but of massacre and murder. There is nothing heroic or chivalric about it. If it goes on long enough it will deplete and darken the world, hatred the prevailing international relation, and for a time the overthrow of civilization. Dr. Eaton, being of Canadian birth, may be influenced by his loyalty to England. But, all the same, war is a curse to man without one redeeming feature.

Respectfully Submitted

New York World: Apropos of all the curious theories recently advanced to the effect that the secretary of war should be an army officer, that the general staff should regulate the size of the army and that congress should be merely an instrument for recording the infallible edicts of the staff, we venture to quote certain opinions which raise a doubt as to the wisdom of such procedure.

We present them with hesitation and misgiving, and with suitable apology to the Army and Navy Journal:

> You don't want a general in that position; you want a civilian. The army will obey a civilian better than it will a soldier. If three or four years from now I were dying in my bed of a fever, and if to crown my romance I were to make my will, I would warn the nation against a military government. I would tell it to choose a civilian for its first magistrate.

> It is not as a general that I govern, but because the nation believes that I have civilian qualities that make me fit for governing.

The name of the unworthy author of these unworthy sentiments was Napoleon Bonaparte. Our only excuse for referring to him is that he knew more about war and more about government than any other man that ever lived.

Wonders Never Cease!

Does He Want War?

Editorial in the New York World.

Does Mr. Roosevelt believe that the United States should declare war against Germany?

If so, is he afraid to say so? If he is not afraid to say so, why does he not prepare a declaration of war, have the resolution introduced in congress by a member of the Progressive party and make a straight-out appeal to the country on that issue?

That would mean something. All of Mr. Roosevelt's scolding tirades in the newspapers and magazines mean nothing. What could be sillier than Mr. Roosevelt's frenzied denunciation of the kind of indignation that "exhausts itself in words instead of taking shape in deeds," while his own indignation exhausts itself in words instead of taking shape in deeds?

Since the beginning of the war, nobody else—not even Mr. Bryan—has talked one-half so much as Mr. Roosevelt; yet when it comes to translating his own words into what he calls "effective action" he is as spineless as an oyster.

There are only two ways in which a nation can maintain its rights. One is by the slow, clumsy processes of diplomacy. The other is by drawing the sword.

There are Americans who believe that the United States ought long ago to have entered the war on the side of the allies, either to help redress the wrongs of Belgium, or to repay to France the debt of gratitude that we owe her for our own independence, or to aid Great Britain in fighting what many thoughtful men consider the decisive battle of democracy. One may agree or disagree with such Americans, but their criticism of the policy of the United States government is clear and intelligible. We know what they are talking about. They advocate war not merely in the national interest but as a duty to civilization, and they give reasons. But the Roosevelt kind of clamor gets us nowhere. It is clamor without courage, conviction or conscience.

The peace-at-any-price people whom he loads down with opprobrium are far more entitled to respect than he, because they too have definite principles and are advocating those principles. Like the people who think the country should enter the war, they are promoting a concrete policy. It may be wise or unwise, but it is a definite line of action.

We can think of nothing more contemptible in a great national crisis than for men to seek deliberately to embarrass their government when they are too craven to propose a policy of their own as a substitute for the policy that the government is pursuing. No man in or out of congress has a moral right to assail President Wilson's handling of foreign affairs unless that man is ready to vote for war and is ready to urge his fellow-citizens to vote for war.

If Mr. Roosevelt wants war, let him at least have enough manhood to say he wants war and to say that congress should exercise the great sovereign power that is vested in it, and in it alone.

If the Republican Party Had Been in Power

New York Times: "A surplus is Republican, a deficit Democratic;" "Democratic extravagance, Republican economy;" "Republican prosperity, Democratic hard times;" these and similar ancient sacred texts of pre-Adamite Republicanism crowd into the mind as the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, gazing mournfully from the battlements of the battered "citadel of protection," utters these words of woe:

> Democratic papers are asking what the Republican party would have done in the face of the financial condition that confronts the present administration. The question is a vain one, for if the Republican party had been in power this condition would not have confronted us.

We believe it, because it is impossible. But why vell the awful truth? Why spare the erring Democracy the chastisement it merits? If the Republican party had been in power, war wouldn't have dared to break out.

Still, many Republicans of the straitest sect must be perplexed in the extreme. These "bumper" crops, this plethora of money, this monstrous commerce, this revived business can't really have come under a Democratic administration. This so-much-talked-of prosperity must be a dream, a phantom of false morning. It is inconceivable that the United States can thrive without a heaven-high tariff and a Republican administration. Democratic prosperity! Why, the phrase is a contradiction. True prosperity is in the hands of the party that "freed the slave, saved the Union."

Just for a Moment

Oh, just for a moment, when Christmas has come,
Sit down, little girl, little boy,
And silence the trumpet and muffle the drum,
Forget every doll, every toy—
Then think, in the stillness that fills all the room,
Of somewhere far over the sea,
Of hearts that are dumb in the sense of their gloom,
Of Christmas that never will be.

And just for a moment, you grown-ups, suppose
You return from the gladness at home,
Where candle shades give things the color of rose,
And then let your quick fancy roam
To homes that were once, and to hearths that are bare,
To children who know naught of glee—
Then, just for a moment, in thought you will share
The Christmas that never will be.

So, just for a moment, suppose you and I
Agree on this deed we will do:
We'll think of the children who wonder and sigh
Of Christmases that they once knew;
We'll send them a prayer, we'll send them a thought,
And hope that we never may see
The days dipped from hell that of warfare have wrought
The Christmas that never will be.

Progress By Kicking.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A naval lieutenant, assigned to command a submarine, found the storage batteries in what he considered an unsafe condition and reported to his superior, a rear admiral. The superior considered the lieutenant's action merely a "kick." He refused to have all batteries examined, even after investigation showed that the subordinate officer's "kick" was based on fact, and accepted the vessel as it stood.

The matter went to court-martial and the rear admiral was acquitted of negligence. Secretary Daniels disapproved the finding of the court.

Any superior who objects to having his subordinates kick occasionally is not deserving of his rank. Bureaucracy wherever it has developed to curse democracy, is based on precisely the theory this rear admiral appears to have adopted; that all wisdom is centered in the heads of chiefs, and that the only thing that need concern subordinates is the following of orders without questioning or protest.

The world advances by kicking. Reforms are results of kicking, and experience shows that by no means all the profitable kicking in the past has been done by men in gold-laced uniforms or by commanders of industries. Lieutenants and privates have done their share, men in subordinate positions who have dared the wrath of superiors by complaining when things were not right.

Kick; the often the better. Were kicking to cease, the world would stagnate.

The Demand for a Smaller Legislature is Growing

Editorial Writers in the State Press Indorse the Idea.

"To Much Legislature."

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: The Duluth Herald, in a strong editorial, started a newspaper discussion of the undesirability of too much legislature. Everybody that is anybody has already admitted both the house and the senate are too big by half. They're so big they're brainless in organization and efficiency. The last session demonstrated how impotent the house has grown to be through congestion. Very little was accomplished and no really important legislation was enacted. Minnesota would be better off today if that legislature had legislated not at all. Others will be like unto it so long as the present condition exists as to the size of the creatures. There are other important changes to be made that only a constitutional convention can effect. The demand for it should be so unanimous and so relentless by the press and statesmen of Minnesota that prompt action would follow. The Constitution of the state is a cumbersome, chaotic patchwork with an original foundation made for bygone generations and bygone conditions.

That's Why a Constitutional Convention Is Needed.

Baudette Region: All this talk about cutting down the number of legislators is interesting, but there is about as much chance of the present bunch of Minnesota legislators voting themselves out of office as a celluloid dog would have chasing an asbestos cat through—well we cannot use the word here, but you know the place we mean.

It Would Be Vastly Better.

Breckenridge Telegram: A smaller legislature ought to work out to much better advantage than the present one of unwieldy numbers. It would reduce expense and also some logrolling, certainly.

A Bit of Sarcasm.

Waubun Forum: The suggestion has been made by The Duluth Herald and seconded by some other papers that the size of the state legislature be reduced. There seem to be all too few chances for aspiring politicians to get into the leigslature now. Would the economy justify the denial of this great opportunity in democracy?

Applies It to Congress, Too.

Representative C. L. Stevens in the Warren Register: Everything The Duluth Herald says about the Minnesota legislature's being too big applies with equal force to congress. Every congressional apportionment of the past thirty years has made an unwarrantable increase in the size of congress. But for Champ Clark and his gang, the last apportionment might have been an exception. Though it was then generally, almost universally, conceded that congress was so big that it had ceased to be a deliberate body, Clark and has lieutenants jammed through a bill that added more than forty to the membership. But The Herald is not entirely happy in its comparison of the work done by the two houses of the Minnesota legislature at the 1915 session. If it will look up the record, it cannot fail to discover that most of the grafts and questionable legislation that got through received their start in the senate. The senate may have been "much more orderly and deliberate and competent" than the house, but the fact should not be overlooked that the "show me" spirit was much more in evidence in the house than in the "upper" branch. The Herald's advocacy of a constitutional convention we heartily indorse. If The Herald could have prevailed upon Larimore, Carmichael and other Democrats of the house to support the movement for a constitutional convention, it is possible that means for securing one would have been provided by the last legislature.

Two State Needs.

Red Wing Republican: A shorter ballot and a smaller legislature would do much to do away with political log-rolling and worthless legislation and place the responsibility so much more clearly upon the officials chosen that they would respond more promptly to the will of the people who elected them. Minnesota needs both, if it is to take its place and hold it among the progressive states of the Union.

North Dakota Notions

Various Views Expressed by Newspapers of That State.

A Home Recipe.

Fargo Courier-News: One of the best formulas for the making of a good wife is to get her a good husband.

Defenses Not a Party Matter.

Grand Forks Herald: One of the things which is certain about the matter of national defense is that under no circumstances should it be made a matter of party politics. Neither on the broad question itself nor on the more restricted one of method should the element of party politics be permitted to have any influence. The issue is greater than any party, and infinitely greater than any politician. It involves the security of the nation, and it may involve the very principles on which the nation is founded.

"Jes 'Fore Christmas."

Cooperstown Sentinel-Courier: Thanksgiving gone—Christmas next—and meanwhile the little boys and girls are on their best behavior.

Some Battleground.

Oakes Times: Presidential candidates of the Republican party are sparring for openings in the early primary states. There is Root and Burton and Cummins and La Follette and Roosevelt sentiment in this state, and it is guessed this early that each has selected his manager. These managers have not come out in the open yet in North Dakota, but it is time that action was being taken, as the North Dakota presidential primary comes in March. Three years ago Roosevelt selected as his manager our present governor, and it not only defeated the Roosevelt delegates, but threw the scare into Hanna for fall election. Minnesota comes in ahead of North Dakota in primaries next March and in these two Northwestern states the candidates will put up a hard fight to gather in the early delegates. North Dakota will be some political battleground next year.

Hope for Europe.

Valley City Times-Record: Hibbing, Minn., has declared peace without calling in Bryan. There is still hope for Europe.

Looking at Minnesota.

Fargo Courier-News: It is regretable that Mr. Root's conversion to the broader statesmanship did not come sooner. Had he put his tremendous influence on the side of a square deal in 1912 he would have saved his party many sorrows and possibly would have advanced the cause of democracy more than he has otherwise done in a whole lifetime.

It is now said that Minnesota will be the first battleground for the Root forces in the effort to secure the Reupblican nomination for him, and that his chief contestant will be Governor Cummins. If so, the contest will be watched with interest by all the nation. Minnesota was a Roosevelt state, is certainly progressive and the contest will be of great significance.

And we are all wondering will Teddy's name be on the ballot? Some who were prominent in the Bull Moose movement in 1912 in Minnesota have suggested that the Republicans should bring Hiram Johnson into the field. This would certainly be a novel movement.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Speaker Reed now has three gavels with which to call the house of representatives to order, a third one having been presented to him today by E. P. Nelson of Duluth, one of the deputy grain inspectors of Minnesota, through the medium of Congressman Towne. This gavel is made of oak timber taken from the Algonquin, the first vessel making the trip through the Sault canal to reach Duluth. The trip was made in 1847.

David Buchanan has sold a half interest in the Buchanan block, adjoining the Merchants' hotel, for $20,000 to J. D. Howard.

The A. Booth company has purchased forty feet of dock property adjoining its present property on the east side, and will improve it in the near future.

A marriage license has been issued to Joseph L. Nylander and Karoline Nyman.

W. G. Bonham of the Indian territory, who was formerly a resident of Tower, is at the St. Louis on a visit.

James M. Murray, secretary of the Trades and Labor assembly, left last evening for Winona to attend the convention of the state federation.

Euclid lodge, A. F. & A. M., of West Duluth, has elected the following officers: Edward Elston, W. M.; L. A. Barnes, S. W.; William Simpson, J. W.; N. C. Kingsbury, secretary; A. F. Stewart, treasurer.

The convocation of the new Episcopal diocese of Duluth, held at Brainerd yesterday, was organized with Rev. G. H. Mueller of Moorhead as presiding officer and Charles F. Hendryx of Sauk Center as secretary. A standing committee was appointed consisting of Rev. J. F. Hamelin of Sauk Center, Rev. Dr. Ryan and F. W. Paine of Duluth, and W. D. McKay of Brainerd. Archdeacon Gilfillan was elected registrar of the diocese.

Charles Robinson has been appointed agent of the Lehigh & Wabash Dispatch Fast Freight line at the Head of the Lakes. He is now in Duluth to assume the duties of his new office. He is a brother of Lansing R. Robinson, general agent of the Union Transit company at Duluth.

Van R. Brown and other young Republicans are preparing to organize a West Duluth Republican club.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man.

In all their affliction He was afflicted, and the angel of His presence saved them; in His love and in His pity He redeemed them; and he Bare them and carried them all the days of old.—Isa. liii, 9.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits.—Ps. ciii, 2.

We can be thankful to a friend for a few acres, or a little money; and yet for the freedom and command of the whole earth, and for the great benefits of our being, our life, health and reason, we look upon ourselves as under no obligation.—Seneca.

Gratitude is the homage the heart renders to God for His goodness; Christian cheerfulness is the external manifestation of the homage.

See that thou make them after their pattern, which hath been shewed thee in the mount.—Ex. xxv, 40.

Ancient History.

I'd love to know
How long ago
Somebody sprung this ancient wheeze
And other gaglets such as these:
"D' you know married men live longer than single men?"
"No, it just seems longer."

'Twould give me bliss
To know when this
Was first upon the zephyrs sprung,
And if its author vile was hung:
"Who was that lady I seen you walking down the street with last night?"
"That wasn't a lady. That was my wife."

Or, in whose rule
Some crack-brained fool
Got this long-haired from his system
And if the waiting throng all hissed 'im:
Doctor—Your mother-in-law will have to go to a warmer climate.
Son-in-law (bringing in the ax)—Here, Doc, you hit her. I can't.

Also I'd like
To know the Ike
By whom, upon a weary world,
This time-worn bit of cheese was hurled:
Drunken man (to man moving a grandfather's clock)—Why—hic—don't you carry a—hic—watch?
—"Off Agin, On Agin."

Don't Judge the Nations Now.

Gerald Stanley Lee in the American Magazine: We decline to believe that Germany and England and Russia and France are engaged today in expressing German men, English men, Russian men, French men, under the forms of expression which they have chosen to use. America at heart, to her last man, will stand up for German human nature. We will not judge nations in the moments of their despair and dumbness when they stutter in the language of force—in the language of ages long gone by—ideas of truth, liberty, of social and industrial need and power that have only begun to be conceived in the age in which we live, and which can only hope to be expressed in the latest forms of expression and the latest means of attracting attention that the age in which we live can command.

America believes what the North German-Lloyd ships have been telling us all these years the Germans are like. We purpose to believe about Germans only what Germany says when she is speaking about herself in her senses, and when she is using the latest forms of expressing the latest powers of a great people. The ideas about herself she is trying to express with guns, we do not believe about her. The worse muss in expressing German human nature Germany makes—as long as she is trying to express it with guns—the better for Germany and for all of us. We like to think of Germany as she was. We look forward to Germany as she will be—when she again expresses herself.

Allies Fight America's Battles.

The New Republic: At present Europe is in the throes of an internecine war in which the future of civilization is at stake. Upon the outcome depend not only the liberties of Europe and of the world, but also the future of democracy. For in a world so unorganized politically that its peace is at the mercy of one power, the crucial test of any form of political organization cannot be the more or less satisfactory nature of its inner life, but must perforce be its ability to defend itself and to survive in a struggle imposed by others. Were European democracy to fail in this crisis, its fate would be sealed, and America would become the last bulwark of popular government. For this fundamental reason there is an almost literal truth in the statement that the allies are fighting America's battles.

THINKS WISCONSIN GAME LAW FAILURE

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been hunting deer up on Spruce river south of Superior and I want to say that the deer law this year is a shame, and with the deer that were killed and that a person could not bring out, it would have been better to have given every hunter two deer, buck or doe, than the way it was.

I heard one man say he killed six does and another say he saw seven dead ones in one day, and I would not be afraid to bet that there are 500 dead does in the woods around Spruce and Tamarack rivers.

The man that had that law passed had better get another one passed and then go out hunting and let some one take a shot at him. Yours truly,

MRS. EVERTS.

FORD PEACE SHIP AND CHEAP COMEDY

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me, sir, to congratulate you on your editorial Saturday evening on the Ford peace mission.

The cheap witticisms which have flooded the American press at the expense of the peace party, have been a disgrace to journalism. I do not believe there is any hope of the party being successful in its mission, but at least it will be a glorious failure. In this country we are too prone to glorify anything that succeeds and ricidule anything that fails. I note that Billy Sunday views Mr. Ford as a greater publicity getter than Mr. Barnum. Mr. Sunday ought to be a good judge of publicity. The views he expresses about classify him without further comment, I believe.

But I am glad to see that Duluth has at least one newspaper with the dignity, good taste, and fairness to see in the Ford peace mission something more than a subject for cheap comedy. Our newspapers insulted Miss Jane Addams for a similar glorious failure. Now they would crucify Henry Ford. What more glorious cause could a man ask? He has found something worth fighting for.

THE HERALD AND DEVELOPMENT

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to extend my sincere appreciation for the splendid manner that The Herald has at all times covered the ground in connection with all development work.

Particularly do I wish to compliment you on the editorial "Big Work Ahead" and your "All Minnesota" editorial in issue of Dec. 3 was a masterpiece. Again I thank you. Sincerely,

Menahga, Minn., Dec. 3.

OPPOSED THEM BOTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your issue of Nov. 25 does a slight and inadvertent injustice in its statement "Mr. Calderwood did not favor Mr. Lee's election to the governorship last time. He said that Mr. Hammond's position on the liquor question was more sincere."

I did not favor the election of either Mr. Lee or Mr. Hammond and made no choice between them. Neither of them stood against the liquor traffic, the chief destroyer of this state's resources and the chief polluter of its politics. Most sincerely, yours for humanity,

W. T. CALDERWOOD.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"The Cremation of Sam McGee," from J. M. Sloan of Duluth.

"The Face on the Barroom Floor," from Mrs. A. W. Snyder of White Pine, Mich. This has already been published.

The Cremation of Sam McGhee.

There are strange things done in the midnight sun
By the men who moil for gold,
The Arctic trails have their secret tales
That would make your blood run cold.
The Northern Lights have seen queer sights,
But the queerest they ever did see
Was that night on the marge of Lake Lebarge
I cremated Sam McGee.

Now Sam McGee was from Tennessee, where the cotton blooms and blows.
Why he left his home in the South to roam 'round the Pole, God only knows.
He was always cold, but the land of gold seemed to hold him like a spell,
Though he'd often say in his homely way that "he'd sooner live in hell."

On a Christmas day we were mushing our way over the Dawson trail.
Talk of your cold, through the parka's fold it stabbed like a driven nail.
If our eyes we'd close, then the lashes froze till sometimes we couldn't see,
It wasn't much fun, but the only one to whimper was Sam McGee.

And that very night, as we lay packed tight in our robes beneath the snow,
And the dogs were fed, and the stars o'erhead were dancing heel and toe,
He turned to me, and "Cap," says he, "I'll cash in this trip, I guess,
And if I do, I'm asking that you won't refuse my last request."

Well, he seemed so low that I couldn't say no, then he says with a sort of moan,
"It's the cursed cold, and it's got right hold till I'm chilled clean through to the bone.
Yet 'taint being dead—it's my awful dread of the icy grave that pains,
So I want you to swear that, foul or fair, you'll cremate my last remains."

A pal's last need is a thing to heed, so I swore I would not fail,
And we started on at the streak of dawn, but, God he looked ghastly pale.
He crouched on the sleigh, and he raved all day of his home in Tennessee,
And before nightfall a corpse was all that was left of Sam McGee.

There wasn't a breath in that land of death, and I hurried, horror driven,
With a corpse half hid that I couldn't get rid, because of a promise given,
It was lashed to the sleigh, and it seemed to say: "You may tax your brawn and brains,
But you promised true, and it's up to you to cremate those last remains."

Now a promise made is a debt unpaid, and the trail has its own stern code.
In the days to come, though my lips were dumb, in my heart how I cursed that load.
In the long, long night, by the lone firelight, while the huskies, round in a ring,
Howled out their woes to the homeless snows—O God, how I loathed the thing.

And every day that quiet clay seemed to heavy and heavier grow,
And on I went, though the dogs were spent and the grub was getting low.
The trail was bad, and I felt mad, but I swore I would not give in,
And I'd often sing to the hateful thing, and it hearkened with a grin.

Till I came to the marge of Lake Lebarge, and a derelict there lay,
It was jammed in the ice, but I saw in a trice it was called the "Alice May."
And I looked at it, and I thought a bit, and I looked at my frozen chum,
Then "Here," said I, with a sudden cry, "is my crema-tor-eum."

Some planks I tore from the cabin floor, and I lit the boiler fire,
Some coal I found that was lying around, and I heaped the fuel higher,
The flames just soared, and the furnace roared—such a blaze you seldom see,
And I burrowed a hole in the glowing coal, and I stuffed in Sam McGee.

Then I made a hike, for I didn't like to hear him sizzle so,
And heaven scowled, and the huskies howled, and the wind began to blow.
It was icy cold, but the hot sweat rolled down my cheeks, and I don't know why,
And the greasy smoke in an inky cloak went streaking down the sky.

I do not know how long in the snow I wrestled with grisly fear;
But the stars came out and they danced about ere again I ventured near;
I was sick with dread, but I bravely said: "I'll just take a peep inside.
I guess he's cooked and it's time I looked" * * * then the door I opened wide.

And there sat Sam, looking cool and calm, in the heart of the furnace roar;
And he wore a smile you could see a mile, and he said: "Please close that door.
It's fine in here, but I greatly fear you'll let in the cold and storm—
Since I left Plumtree, down in Tennessee, it's the first time I've been warm."

There are strange things done in the midnight sun
By the men who moil for gold:
The Arctic trails have their secret tales
That would make your blood run cold:
The Northern Lights have seen queer sights,
But the queerest they ever did see
Was that night on the marge of Lake Lebarge
I cremated Sam McGee.

TWO MINE VICTIMS.

Employes of Kearsarge Mine of Copper Country Fatally Hurt.

Hancock, Mich., Dec. 6.—A double funeral was held this afternoon from the Kearsarge M. E. church for William S. Veale and Joshua White, who were killed by a missed hole explosion in the No. 4 shaft of the Kearsarge.

The verdict of the coroner's jury, empaneled by Coroner Fisher to hold an inquest in the deaths of Veale and White, was that they came to their death by the explosion of a hole in the sixteenth level of No. 4 shaft, North Kearsarge, on Dec. 3.

ELKS PAY TRIBUTE TO THEIR DEAD; COWLEY'S ADDRESS STIRS EMOTION

Duluth Elks held their annual lodge of sorrow at the Orpheum-Strand theater yesterday afternoon before an audience that filled the playhouse.

The services were the most impressive of any yet held by the Duluth lodge, according to members of the order, while the address of Stephen J. Cowley of Great Falls, Mont., who delivered the oration of the day, so stirred those present that their emotion was apparent. A finished orator, Mr. Cowley's address will be remembered by those who heard him yesterday afternoon. Mr. Cowley said in part:

"If the Unseen Hand that rules the world hath power to send the rain drops from the heavens to nourish the grass of earth and thence, by nature's drains to the bosom of the angry sea and whence, by the agency of sun and moon, they return to the realms from which they came—should mortality despair? Shall it be said, because at even's dusk the sunbeams stoop to kiss the dusk and fleeting shadows hide them 'neath their mystic veil, that another day shall not be born? If the wild flowers bow their lovely heads and yield their petals to the north wind's icy blast, if though they wither on their stalks and fall beneath its chill, is life forever gone?

Earth's Death Not the End.

"If storm and lightning cleave and fell to earth the giant oak, shall not its roots send forth another branch to grow as strong again? If the vine be shorn of its leaves today, say you that its end hath come? Think you that He who came to redeem the world sought but to save this phantom house of common clay? No, I believe that the anguish-riven splendor of Calvary's cross was God's message to the souls of men; that when death, like a mighty headland, lulls to rest and quiet calm the lashing waves of life—in His vineyard we shall live again.

"I but came today to lay at Memory's feet the tributes of a heart's affection; to spray with love the virtues of mankind; to plant the seeds of hope in the desert of our destiny, and to dignify by word and thought both life and death.

"From the innermost recess of the heart does Elkdom consecrate this day and this hour to the sacred memory of her sons in the distant realm of death.

"And no matter where on earth they roam today, the head of every Elk is bowed in sorrow for his absent brothers and in sympathy with their loved ones."

Decorations Appropriate.

The stage of the theater was appropriately decorated for the occasion with banks of smilax and palms, while the setting that included the open portal, with a single gleaming star suspended from the arch and the names of those members who departed during the year, engraved on the pillars, lent an air of solemnity that was quite in accord with the event.

The services were begun with a number by the orchestra and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee," by the Custance quartet. After this John E. Samuelson, exalted ruler of the local lodge, delivered a brief eulogy on those members who passed away during the last year, also directing the officers of the order in the ceremonies appropriate to the day. The quartet sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," and Miss Loretta O'Gorman rendered "Oh Dry Those Tears," while all the Elks in the audience remained standing and gave the sign of grief. Rev. C. E. Maltas of Lakeside read prayer in the absence of Dr. A. W. Ryan, who was unable to attend because of illness. At this point Mr. Cowley delivered the address of the day. As the closing number of the musical program, Charles Helmer rendered a cornet solo, "The Lost Chord."

The officers of the lodge, who assisted Exalted Ruler Samuelson, follow: A. J. McCulloch, esteemed leading knight; Walter F. Dacey, esteemed loyal knight; E. W. Stevens, esteemed lecturing knight; G. V. Heathcote, secretary; P. B. McTague, treasurer; J. N. Seaman, tiler; Roy V. Harker, esquire; John Allen, inner guard, and William W. Crawford, chaplain.

TOTAL OF $1,300,000 FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Through the central relief committee, organized at the outbreak of the war for the relief of stricken Jews, a total of $1,300,000 has been sent to the various countries in the war zone and Palestine, according to a report just received from Albert Lucas, executive secretary of the organization.

Out of this sum, the American Jewish relief committee has raised $215,000, while the central committee collected $400,000 from 12,799 sources, the report states. Self-taxation stamps, issued a year ago, a large number of which were sold in Duluth, have netted approximately $70,000. The committee itself contributed $172,000 to the various countries and also voted $10,000 towards supplying the food ship Vulcan, which was loaded with $83,000 worth of food, medicines and clothing for the Jewish sufferers in Palestine.

In his report, Mr. Lucas makes another special appeal to the people of the country for assistance during the coming year and asks that contributions be mailed to the treasurer, Harry Fischel, 63 Park Row, New York city.

Says Mr. Lucas in his report:

"What the war has done to Belgium has been recorded times innumerable. What the war has done to Serbia has been discussed over and over again. But Belgium and Serbia have at least a future to look forward to after the war. The nations will not permit them to be totally obliterated. But the Jews, with no land they can call their own, no autonomy, no government, face a situation that is as perplexing as it is tragic. The Jews of America are being appealed to by the Jews all over the world to save the Jews of Europe and Palestine from extinction. All they ask for is enough to tide them over these troublesome times. Millions of Jews have been exiled. Vengeance has been wrecked upon them, not by one or two of the warring nations, but by nearly all the belligerent powers. Their only comfort is that, here in America, they still have members of their race who feel for them and mourn for them.

"Much has been written of the conditions of the Jews in Europe and Asia since the beginning of the war. The tales of horror that have reached us from the war zones of Central Europe have vied in grewsomeness with those from Asia Minor and the Holy Land. The Jews have fought bravely for each of the nations that has claimed them as subjects. They are pitted against one another on all the battlefields of Europe and Asia."

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub Pain From Back With Small Trial Bottle of Old "St. Jacob's Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!—Advertisement.

SETON RESIGNS FROM BOY SCOUTS

Chief Scout Does Not Approve of Change of Policies in Organization.

New York, Dec. 6.—Ernest Thompson Seton, naturalist and writer of books on nature, yesterday announced his resignation as chief scout of the Boy Scouts of America. In a statement explaining his action, Mr. Seton said he resigned because of a gradual change of policies to which he is opposed and for which he blames James E. West of this city, the present chief scout executive.

Militarism now comes first and woodcraft, the original purpose of the movement second, according to Mr. Seton, who announced the formation of the "Woodcrafts league," inviting members of the Boy Scouts to join it.

"When Baden Powell and I organized the Boy Scouts of England in 1908 and the Boy Scouts of America in 1910," Mr. Seton's statement said, "our purpose was to make all young people of America outdoor children, by teaching them the joys of outdoor life. As originally formed, the scouts of America, were to bear a message of conservation and brotherhood.

"The study of trees, flowers and nature," he continued, "is giving way to wig-wagging, drills and other activities of a military nature, thus destroying the symbolism of the organization. As it stands now, militarism comes first and woodcraft second."

"BETAS" PLAN WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Plans were made by members of the Beta Theta Pi Alumni association at their regular monthly dinner held at the Spalding last Saturday evening to meet regularly at luncheon every Saturday noon. A committee, consisting of Philip Ray, Lawrence Davis and Wilbur Joyce, was appointed to make arrangements for the first luncheon on Jan. 9.

Lawrence Davis, Bowdoin '13, presided at the meeting Saturday evening, when a program of toasts, talks and "stunts" was staged following the dinner.

Those present at the dinner follow: George Langley, Wisconsin '15; H. O. Lee, Minnesota '13; Frank Falk, Cornell '13; R. E. Eberhardt, Bowdoin '18; E. G. Field, Dartmouth '80; J. J. Davis, Michigan '82; William Harrison, Westminster '88; C. L. Allensworth, Knox '13; Wilbur Joyce, Minnesota '08; R. F. McDougal, Minnesota '96; Jesse Beecher, Nebraska '96; Fred Hargraves, Cornell '89; Lawrence Davis, Bowdoin '11 and B. D. Bynum, Indiana '12.

FIVE NATIONS TO STICK TOGETHER

Neither Will Make Separate Peace During Present War.

London, Dec. 6.—The text of the declaration signed last week by the British foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, and the French, Italian, Japanese and Russian ambassadors at London, engaging each of the five nations not to conclude a separate peace, is as follows:

The Italian government, having decided to accede to the declaration between the British, French and Russian governments, signed in London, Sept. 5, 1914, which declaration was acceded to by the Japanese government on Oct. 19, 1915, the undersigned, duly authorized thereto by their respective governments, hereby declare as follows:

"The British, French, Italian, Japanese and Russian governments mutually engage not to conclude peace separately during the present war.

"The five governments agree that when terms of peace come to be discussed, no one of the allies will demand conditions of peace without previous agreement of each of the other allies."

LETTER CARRIERS ELECT OFFICERS

L. G. Marlow was named president of the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers at the annual business meeting and election held Saturday evening in the Federal building.

The other officers selected for the ensuing year follow: Vice president, A. D. Mahoney; financial secretary, Julius Nelson; recording secretary, Joseph Wilde; sergeant at arms, John Spoerl; treasurer, J. A. Makowski; trustees, three years, J. A. Lubansky; two years, O. A. Wicklund; one year, A. F. Starkey; collectors, M. B. A., S. H. Pearson; N. S. B., U. D. Sniede; delegates to state convention, O. A. Wicklund, A. R. Armstrong; alternates, J. A. Lubansky and O. S. Buel.

During the meeting John Kusnierek and G. W. Paul, who have been carriers since Aug. 1, 1890, were presented with the 25-year service stars.

CLAIM AGAINST CITY FOR $10,000

Henry Longtin Says He Was Severely Injured By Fall.

Henry Longtin filed a claim for $10,000 with City Clerk Borgen this morning as the result of an alleged fall into an excavation at Woodland avenue and Austin street early last Thursday evening.

The claimant alleges that there is an excavation in the street as the result of some water and gas work now begin done by local contractors and that the roadway was not lighted at all during the evening. He received numerous external and internal injuries, he states in his complaint.

The claim will be referred to the city attorney at the council meeting this afternoon.

DEBATERS ARE CHOSEN

Garon, Cook and Goldberg on Central High Team.

The debating team to represent Central high school in all interscholastic contests with other high schools of the Northwest this winter was announced today by Prof. A. E. Null, head of the Central public speaking department. Jacob Garon, Emanuel Cook and Max Goldberg are the three who will represent the local institution in debates this season.

All three of these boys were members of the strong team which represented the school last year. Irving Grover is the only member of last year's combination who did not return to school this fall. The team chosen today is the one which will represent Duluth in the first debate of the season, to be held at Minneapolis with the North high school of that place on Jan. 14. As all of the members of the local trio are experienced debaters it is expected that Duluth Central will be able to make a very good showing in contests with the best teams of the Northwest this winter. It is quite probable that others will be given chances on the team during the season.

Preparations for the annual Wallace cup contest to be held with the high schools of Duluth and Superior next spring are already under way at Central. The prospective candidates are being given plenty of training so that they will be able to make an unusually strong showing in the big event. Duluth and Superior Centrals have each won three of the annual contests and the affair this year is therefore expected to be exceptionally interesting. There have been more orators reported to Coach Rasey thus far than declaimers.

Those who have already reported to receive the advantage of the early training are: George Nelson, Monick Altman, Sam Gofin, George Jones, Hickman Powell, Milton Mead, Willard Thorp, Max Goldberg, Ralph Wyly, Emanuel Cook, Jacob Garon, John Ahlen, Doris Pennell, Dahlia Nelson, Irene Long, Alice Hilis, Elsa Zachow, Skuli Hrutfiord, Eloise Lawrence, Howard Chubbuck, Genevieve Blanche, Bessie Cyle, Myrna Ebert.

APPEAL FROM VALUATION HEARD

State Wants More Than $8,400 for Virginia School Tract.

P. P. Colgrove, superintendent of the Virginia schools, with William H. Eaton and R. J. McGhee of the board of education and Attorney R. C. Pickering of Virginia are in the city today to attend the hearing scheduled for this afternoon before Judge H. A. Dancer on the appeal taken by the state from the valuation fixed on an eighty-acre tract of land sought by the school authorities for experimental farm purposes. The land is located on the Mountain Iron road opposite the Greenwood cemetery.

A few months ago the board of appraisers, consisting of Michael E. Fanning of Virginia, W. C. Sargent of Duluth and E. Kieffman of Hibbing, decided that the land was worth $8,400. The property is owned by the state and the claim is now urged by the attorney general's office that the award is too low.

The condemnation proceedings involving the proposed site have been in court for three years. Testimony will probably be introduced as to the value of properties. Experts on land values have been engaged by the school board to testify in its behalf.

WOULD REVIVE OLD CHRISTMAS CUSTOM

Mayor Favors Placing of Lighted Candles in Front Windows.

Favoring the reviving of the old custom to place lighted candles in the front windows on Christmas eve, Mayor Prince said this morning that he would recommend such a plan to the committee in charge of the second annual municipal Christmas celebration.

"I have had this plan in mind for some time," Mayor Prince said today, "and I will recommend it to the members of the committee I expect to appoint some time this week. I am very pleased to learn that a number of Duluthians are favoring the proposition.

"By lighting these candles and placing them in conspicuous places in front windows, Duluthians will spread the good cheer of Christmas tide better than any other way I know of."

Baltimore and Minneapolis adopted this custom last year and it was a great success, according to officials from the two cities. The exact origin is not known, but it is believed to have started in Germany.

Detailed arrangements for the Christmas eve celebration will be made during this week. Mayor Prince announced today.

DEFENDANT ILL IN CALIFORNIA

Chiropodist Unable to Appear to Defend Damage Action.

Mrs. Anna Lower, former Duluth chiropodist, who is reported to be seriously ill in California, is defendant in a lawsuit brought to trial before Judge Ensign and a district court jury this morning.

The action is one in which Miss Susan M. House, principal of one of the city schools, is suing to recover $1,350 damages for an alleged unskillful operation performed by the chiropodist when she removed an ingrowing toe nail for Miss House last June. The wound did not heal and it was necessary for the plaintiff to enter a hospital and receive medical treatment. The chiropodist is represented in court by her attorney, A. E. McManus. The contention of the defense is that if infection set in after the operation it was due to the plaintiff's own carelessness.

FARMERS NEAR WOLF ORGANIZE CLUB

Farmers of Wolf, St. Louis county, organized the Farmers' club of Mesaba valley at a meeting held Saturday evening, according to H. G. Larson, county agricultural agent, who returned to Duluth yesterday from a trip to various points around the county. Mr. Larson attended the meeting and was one of the speakers. Others who addressed the farmers on the subject of "Co-operation and Organization" were C. L. Goodell of Barnum, and Prof. O. A. Stangel of the Virginia schools. County Commissioner Charles Pentilla also spoke on "Good Roads." About twenty farmers joined the club. The meeting was held at the Elmwood dairy farm.

FLAG DAY NETS JEWS GOOD SUM

Flag day yesterday netted local Jews a total of $45, which will be contributed to the American war fund for the Jews in Europe.

The sale of the tiny flags was in charge of members of the local Zionist organization, who raised about $100 in a similar manner about a year ago.

Throughout the country last winter the sale of the flags brought a total of $15,000 to help the Jewish war sufferers.

C. S. ORDINANCE WILL BE DELAYED

City Attorney's Illness Prevents Introduction of Measure.

Owing to the absence of City Attorney Greene, who is ill at his home, the commissioners were unable to hold the special conference this morning on the proposed classification of the city's civil service system and, as a result, the ordinance will not be introduced at the regular council meeting this afternoon.

The present draft of the ordinance includes twenty-six city employes, who will be exempt from the civil service regulations, but it is expected that the measure will be changed considerably before the final draft is presented to the commissioners.

The resolution accepting the offer of John H. Darling to erect an observatory on the public park property at Ninth avenue west and Third street will be introduced by Mayor Prince.

Commissioner Silberstein will introduce an amendment to the firearm ordinance, before he presents the measure for passage. The amendment will cut out all that section regulating the carrying of arms on publish streets.

Third reading will be given the ordinances appropriating $4,000 for the maintenance of the new armory during 1916, $1,043 to pay the state examiners for their report of 1915, $750 for filling in underneath the Lincoln park bridge and $635 for the erection of a new smoke stack on the city incinerator plant.

WINTER FISHING ON LAKE SUPERIOR IS CHILLY JOB

ONE OF LAKE SUPERIOR FISHING BOATS AFTER WINTER TRIP.

Winter fishing on Lake Superior is one of the coldest jobs known, yet, scattered along the north shore from Duluth to Grand Marais, a distance of 100 miles, will be found a small army of fishermen who will make a living at this chilly occupation during the next few months.

When the big lake freezes over, many of the fishermen cut holes in the ice and put down their nets. When the catch is ready to pull up, the men are obliged to work barehanded and this often happens when the thermometer is hovering around 20 deg. below and some times at temperatures lower than that. The fish are removed from the net by hand and thrown upon the ice, where they freeze as stiff as a slab of rock within a few moments. The nets are pulled up and later thawed out with steam for the next day's catch.

S. Goldfish, manager of the Lake Superior Fish company, declares that between fifty and sixty tons of fish, principally Lake Superior herring, is being received in Duluth every week from the north shore fishermen. The L. Goldish, a fishing boat owned by this company, makes regular trips during the early winter to north shore points. She came in yesterday afternoon with a cargo of twenty tons. Up to about Dec. 1, the Goldish makes a run from Duluth to Pigeon Point, a distance of about 150 miles, picking up its cargo from about seventy-five fishermen on its return. The trip to Pigeon river and return takes one week. After Dec. 1, the Goldish runs from Duluth to Grand Marais, making two trips a week. Last year she made her last trip on Jan. 22 and this year she pulled in for the last time on Jan. 23.

After the lake freezes over, the fishermen in the vicinity of Grand Marais haul their catch to Kramer, the nearest railroad station where it is shipped to Duluth. From this city weather-frozen fish is distributed to all parts of the United States.

Mr. Goldish declares that the season so far has not had as heavy a run as in former years, but that from all expectations, the winter catch will be as large, if not larger than ever.

HEALTH DIRECTOR'S "BOAT" IS STOLEN

Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of public health, has a new automobile.

He calls it a boat, but experts on motor apparatus unanimously declare that it is not a boat, but a car.

At any rate, the Fahey vehicle was stolen Sunday evening, when the doctor left it standing at the curb in front of 129 Fourteenth avenue east.

A hurry-up call for police started bluecoats out on a search for the machine, and about two hours later they found it abandoned on Fifth street between Sixteenth and Seventeenth avenues east.

"It will go hard with any joyriders who try to steal my wagon, if I catch them," said the doctor.

The vehicle, whether a car, automobile, boat, or wagon, was not damaged.

TO STOP SURFACING OF TACONY STREET

Suit Filed Charging Work Is Causing a Public Nuisance.

Loyal F. and Mary L. Schober of 5911 Tacony street notified the city this morning of the filing of a suit to enjoin the city from continuing the present surfacing on Tacony street near Sixty-third avenue west and to abate what they allege is a public nuisance.

They claim that the city resurfaced the street in 1913 and as a result all the waters now flow on their property. A notice to abate the nuisance, they allege, was filed on Oct. 29, but no action was ever taken by the city.

W. A. Pittinger is attorney for the plaintiffs.

$20 for Christmas Gift Lists

Here Is the Way to Do It—Make up a list of Christmas gifts such as you would like to give this year. For the best all around list that includes at least one article which can be found in each of the stores represented on this page, The Herald will give a $10.00 order. The second best will be given a $7.00 order, and the third will get a $3 order. It doesn't matter what you select to represent each of these stores—suit yourself about that. But, put the name of the store and the price beside each article.

Send Your List to the "Santa Claus" Editor of The Herald

There must be twenty items in the list. Of course, you are not obligated to buy anything you specially include in your list.

The purpose of this contest is to familiarize you with what these stores carry—so it is necessary at least to visit them and see what you can buy. But naturally, after learning what values you can find at these stores, you will make some of your Christmas purchase in there. The contest closes on Decembber 11th.

PARAGRAPHIC COMMENT OF THE SPORTING WORLD

BY BRUCE.

The very fact that some persons believe that Gilmore Dobie could turn out a winning Yale football team, merely goes to prove how well the Pacific coast football coach is thought of.

It is charged that politics is mixed up with the Wisconsin football team. This surely is a terrible knock to Wisconsin politicians.

No one has any right to question the gameness of Fred Fulton. He is going to have Sam Langford as a sparring partner.

Sam McVey is also going to train Jess Willard. Being black, Messrs. McVey and Langford are not to be allowed to fight for the heavyweight championship. The only thing that is left to them, is to show the contenders how to fight.

A committee has been appointed to probe the athletic conditions of the University of Wisconsin. Mrs. Florence Buckstaff of Oshkosh, Wis., has been made a member of the committee. Curiosity impels us to speculate upon the duties Mrs. Buckstaff will perform in this probe, or the suggestions she will offer for the betterment of athletic conditions. Will she organize the fair co-eds into rooting societies or will she advocate the adoption of the ancient Spartan idea, cold and stern, which led mothers, sisters, sweethearts, steadies and even casual female acquaintances, to tell the warriors of old to come home with the booty or be toted back to the home village on their shields? Fragile men have made a dismal failure of athletics at Wisconsin—now comes the grand opportunity for the levening delicate white hand of a woman to grip hold of the rudder of the football ship and attempt to steer clear of some of the boundless lurking shoals that in the past have beset the course of the Madisonites. Here's the very best luck to you, Mrs. Florence Buckstaff.

A committee of business men has been appointed to sell the Cleveland Baseball club. It is not believed possible that one man alone could sell it.

It is announced that Bill Juneau will not coach the Badgers next year. This announcement, it is believed, will cause a profound surprise.

Harfard defeated Yale this year by the score of 41 to 0.

Just, for the sake of amusement, suppose that the Yale football team was a professional prize fighter.

It would go something like this:

"The worst I should have got was a draw. Harvard didn't have a thing on me. It was a case of robbery. I guess the days of honest sport are over. A fellow can't get a square deal any more. I think the public will agree that I am entitled to a return contest. Whoever said Harvard is a champion, is crazy. Harvard's a big cheese and the luckiest stiff that ever held the title."

Down at Juarez, Mexico, there is a running horse competing under the name of "Ready Money." There is reason to believe that the owner of the nag is a humorist.

Johnny Coulon's friends declare they believe he can come back. Johnny Coulon has some of the greatest friends in the world.

The University of Illinois authorities have just instituted a course in the laying out of golf courses. For the past two years there has been a course conducted in the laying out of football teams.

If Henry Ford is desirous of making his peace committee a thoroughly representative one, it is rather inconsistent, not to say startling upon his part, not to take Freddy Welsh along on the Oscar II. Since Freddy has become lightweight champion of the world there has been no fighting for the title and it is widely known that Mr. Welsh, an eminent man of parts, stands irrevocably against any fighting whatever. Mr. Welsh has stood for peace these many years. It is high time that Mr. Ford, the noted philanthropist, (though there is the Ford machine to refute this statement), should recognize the efforts of Mr. Welsh along this line and duly reward them.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 5.—When seen at his home last evening Mike Gibbons, the well known boxer, declared that just because he had consented to box before the athletic club of his home city for a paltry $5,000, he did not want the public to use this as a precedent.

"I am boxing before the fans of my home town for that small amount of money, simply because I think I owe them something," said Mr. Gibbons. "In the past I have received far larger sums and in the future I expect to receive considerably more. Please don't think because I have consented to box ten rounds in St. Paul for a mere $5,000 that I have abandoned my determination to demand more for my services in the future."

Blood certainly is thicker than water. Mike Gibbons declares that Tommy is a better boxer than himself.

SEVENTEEN START IN SIX-DAY RACE

Big Madison Square Garden Annual Event Begins at Early Hour.

New York, Dec. 6.—At one minute after midnight this morning all of the seventeen teams were started in the twenty-third annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square garden. Hill (Boston) and Grenda (Australia) were leading at the end of the first mile. Their time was 2:17.

The field of seventeen teams is representative. Notwithstanding the European war, many prominent foreign riders are taking part in the annual grind. The rules governing last year's event will be enforced this year.

Special prizes for sprints will be offered frequently during the week, and the Berlin system of point-winning sprints during the final hour of the contest will again be employed.

The score at the end of the first hour was 26 miles and 1 lap, with Corry leading. The record is 26 miles and 6 laps, made by Kaiser and Cameron at Chicago last month.

SUMMER BASEBALL RULE STILL STANDS.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Big Nine faculty representatives at their semi-annual gathering here Saturday voted down a proposed abrogation of the rule against summer baseball and expressed sentiment so strongly against the national pastime as to suggest that its abolition as a college sport might be recommended at a later session. The committee voted to require one day of open football practice each week.

SUSPENDED PLAYERS MAY BE REINSTATED

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 6.—The question of possible reinstatement of five Yale athletics who were recently declared ineligible for playing summer baseball, was discussed only informally at a joint meeting of the committees from Harvard, Princeton and Yale in New York last week. This was stated here last night by Prof. R. N. Corwin, chairman of the Yale athletic committee.

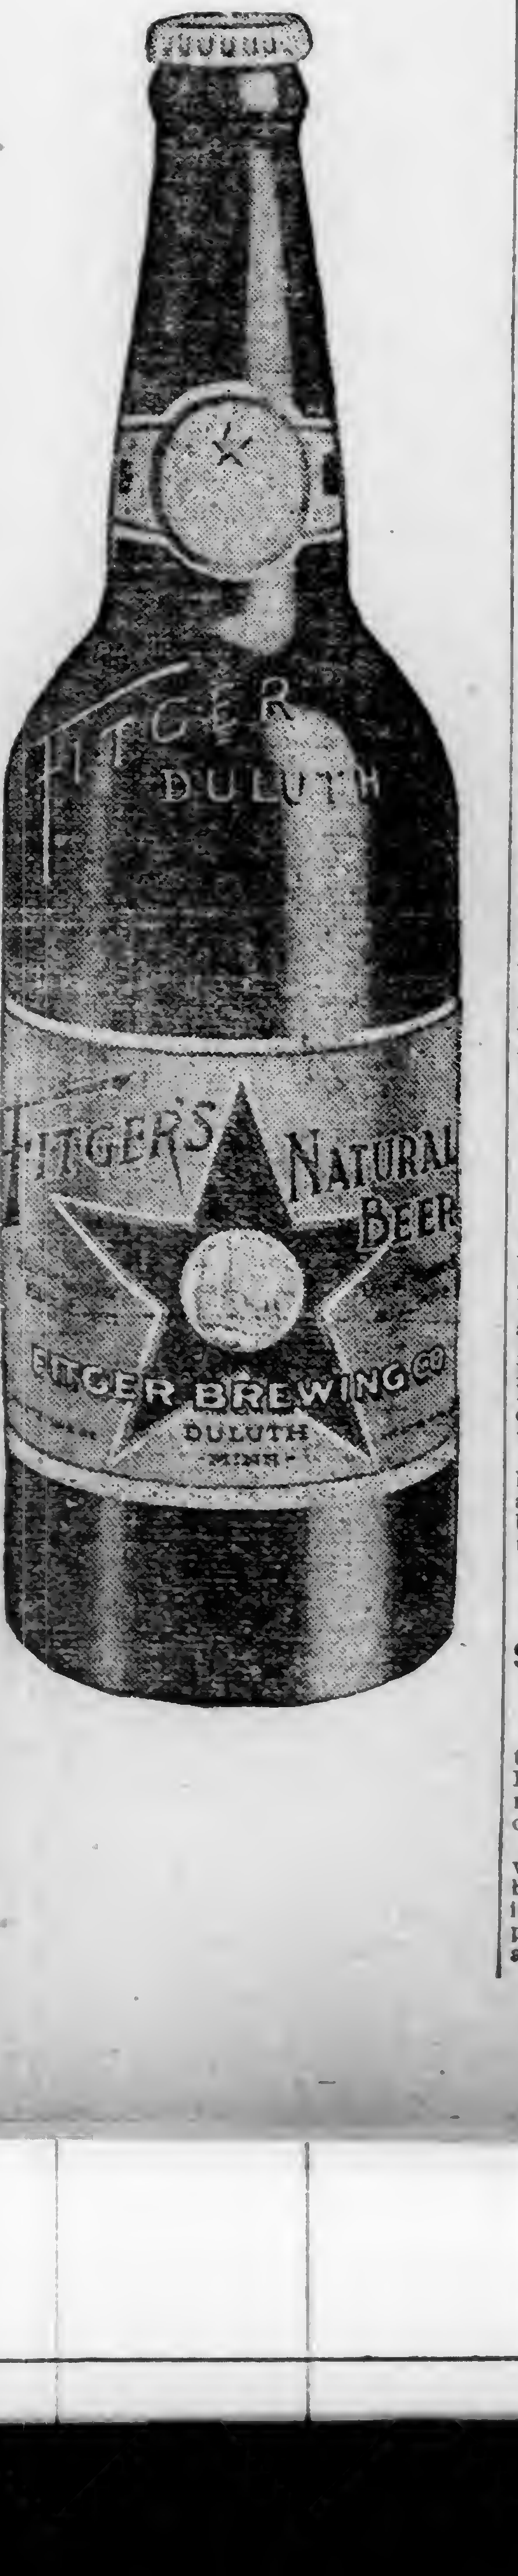
Provisional rules for governing athletics with all three institutions were adopted, but it will be several weeks before the university can pass upon them for ratification.

DOG DERBY OPENS.

Southern Big Event Begins at Montgomery, Ala., With Good List.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 6.—Twenty-two dogs will face the judges in the Derby contest of the seventh annual running of the Southern Field Trials club, which starts this morning.

The drawings for the Derby stake were held last night, and eleven braces will compete for the $750 offered in this stake. The winner of the first place will get $[illegible]00, second place $250, and third place $100.



DICK CLARKSON WILL TAKE UNTO HIMSELF A WIFE

DICK CLARKSON.

Dick Clarkson is going to be married! Know who Richard is? He is the professional golf instructor of the Northland Country club, and a right merry lad is Dick. The happy and thoroughly expectant Dick left last evening for New York. He is scheduled to get married on Dec. 19—just in time to get in on the Christmas shopping and be thoroughly broken in. Later Clarkson—and presumably Mrs. Clarkson—will go to Tarpon Springs, Fla., and will return to Duluth in time for the opening of the golf playing here in the spring.

SAM LANGFORD TO TRAIN FULTON

Arrangements Are Practically Completed With the Boston Black.

According to a telephone message from Mike Collin in St. Paul, the manager of Fred Fulton has practically come to terms with Sam Langford, who is to act as sparring partner for Fulton during his training period for the March meeting with Jess Willard.

Collins and Fulton were planning to leave for the East to fill a theatrical date. It is expected that Fulton will trek to the southland not much later than the first of the year to start training for the big Mardi Gras week pugilistic festival.

A training camp will be seected at a spot contiguous to New Orleans and several camp slaves selected in addition to Chief Langford.

Reports from Los Angeles declare that Willard is also getting ready to start the training grind. If some whispers are true, Willard will need a long siege of training to put him right for the fuss with Fulton.

DAKOTA CITIES WANT FRANCHISES

Aberdeen and Sioux Falls Would Join Northern Baseball League.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 6.—The annual meeting of the Northern league will not be called until after the first of the year, according to President John Burmeister. The circuit matter is still uncertain as the proposed broadening out in Canadian city territory is regarded as doubtful with the war still in progress. Aberdeen and Sioux Falls are both anxious to secure a franchise but no action has been taken toward granting them. Winnipeg and Fort William will be retained and Superior is likely to start again if the fans of that city care to pay for the franchise. Aberdeen is making a hot fight for a berth next year and Burmeister says it may be successful if it can show the financial strength to maintain league baseball.

HOCKEY TICKETS PLACED ON SALE

Season Coupon for Amateur League Games; Ice Is Wanted.

Coupon tickets for the hockey games of the Duluth Amateur league were placed on sale today. As the lovers of hockey will be able to see games cheaper than ever before and the brand of hockey is expected to be up to past standards, it is believed that there will be a heavy demand for season tickets.

Managers of the four teams of the league are hoping that the weather turns colder the present week so that the puck chasers can get out on the ice.

With the hockey squads practically lined up, the managers are eagerly hoping that cold weather will enable their team candidates to get some work on the ice before the schedule starts.

SWIMMING MEET IS SCHEDULED

Y. M. C. A. Team to Compete Against Two Harbors Water Men.

A water polo contest and general swimming meet will be held between the Duluth Y. M. C. A. swimmers and a team representing Two Harbors in the Duluth pool New Year's eve.

There will be a meeting of all swimmers this week, when plans will be made for the organization of the team and candidates asked to come out for the various swimming events.

The Y. M. C. A. indoor baseball team is scheduled to meet the Trinity team of the Masonic league in the Y. M. C. [illegible] this evening.

Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., [illegible] intermediate Basket Ball [illegible] with seven teams, will start its season.

M'CUE WILL MEET PAL

Racine Lightweight Chosen as Opponent of Range Boxer.

Wisconsin Boy Said to Be in Best Form of Ring Career.

Matty McCue of Racine, Wis., is the opponent finally chosen for the come back session of the veteran scrapper of the iron range. McCue and Pal will meet for ten rounds at the Lyceum theater on the evening of Dec. 17.

It was declared yesterday in the morning paper that Joe Rivers knocked McCue out in Milwaukee, McCue taking the place of Ad Wolgast who backed out of the match.

Rivers knocked McCue out in the Vernon arena, which is located in Los Angeles, and the reason Wolgast did not meet Rivers, was that he broke his hand.

Like Brown, McCue has been laying away from the ring stuff for some time until very recently. McCue reentered the ring the other day and celebrated his return by knocking out Teddy Hayes of Milwaukee, the lad who appeared at the last local show against Mike Paulson and was disqualified for back hand hitting.

Before Rivers disposed of McCue he was rated by Tom Jones as one of the coming contenders for the title. The return to the ring of the pride of Racine is said to have shown Matty in first class form again.

On April 21, 1914, McCue went ten rounds against Joe Mandot at Racine, and held his own with the pride of Dixie land. On the Fourth of July, the same year, came the meeting with the Los Angeles Mexican in Tom McCarey's arena.

Wolgast was matched to meet the Mex, but two days before the contest broke a bone in his arm. Tom Jones had both Ad and McCue. Rather than call the glove festivities off, McCue, who had been acting in the role of sparring partner for Wolgast, was sent against the erratic and at times sensational Rivers.

Jose happened to be particularly good that day and the battle was the Mexican's from the start.

McCue is a youngster, rugged and tough, and close followers of the game declare that right now he is showing more goods than at any previous time in the history of his glove career.

Joe Thomas will endeavor to get Brown in the best shape of his life for the meeting. If McCue beats Brown it will have to be generally admitted that the Jackpine kid is through. Brown knows this—so does Thomas—so do a multitude of boxing fans.

It is expected that Brown will labor like a particularly earnest Trojan for this contest, and McCue, hoping to climb over the fallen form of Brown to higher pugilistic levels, may also be expected to make a mighty effort.

Brown wants to wipe out the rankling memory of that Mandot defeat. McCue wants to make the world forget that two-round defeat at the hands of Rivers. In a way it is a comeback upon the part of both boys, and a real battle should be the result.

The range fighter will do his training at the Zenith Athletic club. McCue will come to the Head of the Lakes several days previous to the battle and will put the finishing edge on his training here.

EASTERN CURLERS TO BE INVITED TO LOCAL SPIEL

Stone Throwers of Effete Section Will Be Asked to Watch Real Bonspiel; Warm Weather Takes a Healthy Kick at an Early Curling Start.

Leading Eastern curlers, those who curl in the open on the numerous lakes of New York state and the New England country, will be asked to come up to the Northwestern Curling bonspiel this season.

Secretary Fred Hargraves of the association declared today that he is going to make a strong effort to get some of the Eastern rock throwers up here this season in order that they may get a look at a real bonspiel.

Down in the Eastern country the game for the most part is played on the open ice. It is the belief of Secretary Hargraves that if the Eastern curlers would come up to Duluth and watch a bonspiel, get a glimpse of the finest curling club in the world, and otherwise get the spirit, that it would be a good thing for the sport in general.

Fort Bill Is Coming.

Already Secretary Hargraves has heard from some of the Canadian curlers. At least four rinks will represent Fort William, is the assurance that has been received from the Canadian Head of the Lakes.

"I have already started work in lining up rinks for the annual spiel," said Mr. Hargraves. "All of us believe that this is destined to prove a great year for the sport, and also that the spiel this season will be one of the best the association has ever staged.

"From what I have heard, I am positive that the interest in the game this year is very great. A number of clubs have been heard from and it is certain that practically every club, with the possible exception of Winnipeg, that was here last season, will be back again the present season."

Warm weather has ruined what promised to be an early season start in local curling. There is no prospect that there will be any curling or skating at the curling club this evening. It will require colder weather to make curling ice, and until the thermometer drops the curlers will have to sit tight and twirl their thumbs.

Captain of Notre Dame.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 6.—Stanley Cofall of Cleveland, halfback, was elected captain of the 1916 Notre Dame eleven at the annual football banquet last night.

Doc McChesney Dead.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 6. — Harry ("Doc") McChesney, aged 35, one of the best-known football players in the country a decade ago, is dead at his home here. He was formerly a member of the Chicago All-Americans, a team composed of former college players, and of the famous Canton professionals.

OPERATIONS SUCCESSFUL

Is Claim Made for Patients Sterilized in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 6.—Operations on fifteen additional patients at Chippewa Falls under the sterilization law will be made before the Christmas holidays, according to a statement made by officials of the state board of control.

Secretary M. J. Tappins reports that the first ten operations were entirely successful and that it is planned to have the additional operations soon. All of the patients who have been operated on have had the consent of their relatives given.

CROOKSTON BOY LOSES BOTH LEGS COASTING

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 6.—Milton, the 7-year-old son of J. C. Sandberg, lost both legs under a Great Northern locomotive when he was sliding down hill and was caught beneath the wheels.

POLITICS IN THE NORTH STAR STATE

Comment on Candidates, Near-Candidates and Those Willing to Be Candidates for Public Office; Flotsam and Jetsam on the Surging Sea of Politics.

Few phrases are more overworked than that "politics makes strange bedfellows," but few phrases are more to the point; for political expediency not only occasionally, but at almost all times causes almost unbelievable combinations.

And the season of combining has arrived for Minnesota Republicans who want to hold office. Some of the queerest partnerships are said to be forming that a history of queer ones in state political machinations has ever produced. Just look at these, for instance:

Ed. Smith-A. O. Eberhart-Jim Peterson.

Moses Clapp-C. A. Lindbergh-C. B. Buckman.

The stranger of the two is the latter. The first one is odd for the reason that it is a combination against Julius Schmahl, as well as against others, and when one remembers that Julius was always classed as not unfriendly to the Ed Smith machine in the past, there are things in this connection that it is hard to understand; but more of this later.

As to the second combination outlined, there is nothing strange concerning the combination of the first two members, for they have been political orphans for some time, although—at election time—claiming to be Republicans. Parenthetically, it should be explained that Mr. Clapp wants to be returned to the United States senate, Congressman Lindbergh wants to be governor, and Mr. Buckman wants to go to congress from the Sixth district, an office from which he was ousted when Mr. Lindbergh ran the first time.

Clapp as Republican.

Mr. Clapp, it is announced, has decided to file as a Republican. This is a great relief, for until recently there was only suspicion as to where Mr. Clapp would cast his lot. He has been a Progressive and has denounced the Republican party in scathing terms, which hurt, for as Bill Shakespeare said:

"How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is To have a thankless child."

And Moses was the pet of the family for many, many years. Of late, since the Progressive party has been uttering the death rattle, the junior senator has been drifting off in space by himself. He has been like the moon, away to one side and shining with reflected glory.

But Minnesota is going to elect a United States senator next year to fill Mr. Clapp's place, and Mr. Clapp feels no disposition to give up his seat. So now he is taking advantage of the tide that is sweeping many Progressives back into the Republican party.

As to Lindbergh.

Mr. Lindbergh has drifted around almost everywhere. Each time he has bobbed up for his old place in congress, the papers of his district have been wondering up to the last minute just where he would land, but expediency has caused him, each time, to file as the candidate of the party with which he has not been in accord for years and which he has spoken of "real meanly." Now he wants the Republican nomination for governor.

But the records of Mr. Clapp and Mr. Lindbergh are well known, their party lukewarmness is well known, and their tendency to return to the old home when needing help is well understood.

The puzzle of the combination is Mr. Buckman. "Old Buck," as he is generally known, always has been, is now, and always will be until death do them part, affiliated with the Republican party. There can be no mistaking his position. He is distinctly of the old school, of the cult in the party which Mr. Clapp and Mr. Lindbergh have denounced as "reactionaries."

And yet they say that the reactionary has combined with the radicals and the radicals with the reactionary. It's hard to believe—very, very hard; and yet, as was said in the beginning, "politics makes strange bed-fellows."

As to the Smith-Eberhart-Peterson combination, it is not hard to believe, for Mr. Smith, that much-denounced but most likable "boss" of the G. O. P., as it was, is, despite the fact that many have declared that he is through as dictator of the party, a very strong man, a mighty good man to tie to for the purpose of getting solid support to start on after office. Mr. Eberhart wants to succeed Moses Clapp as United States senator, and Mr. Peterson wants to be governor; and Ed Smith can deliver a very attractive nucleus with which to start their campaign for the offices they desire; a hard-working nucleus, too. All the old wheel-horses will be called upon to support the men that Ed Smith wants in, and most of them will respond. But how far beyond the old wheel-horses they will get is still the question. In fact the big question of that combination is just this: How strong is the old ring now?

Why Oppose Schmahl?

But how about Julius Schmahl, the vote-getting secretary of state? Mr. Schmahl is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. He has always trained with the Smith crowd, supported Eberhart, and in general, because of his sticking qualities and his vote-getting ability, has been considered one of the most valuable members of the organization. That's one reason why he became and remained secretary of state. Don't ever think that the ring presents a man a high office like that of secretary of state and lets him stay there just because he is a good fellow. Not at all. To get that office a man must be a vote producer, the kind that adds strength to the entire ticket, or he doesn't arrive. Good fellowship is a fine thing, but you've got to be some good to the organization to get anything, and a lot of good to it to get high.

Another peculiar thing about the affair is that Ed Smith would be throwing Julius down, or Julius would be crossing the boss's wires, with political conditions as they are. It is generally admitted that when it comes to asking votes in the nominating primaries, Mr. Schmahl will be against the field, for he will be backed by the "wets," with the rest of the candidates either extra dry or dodging the issue. Now it has always been said that Ed Smith was the head and front of the fight against the "drys," and the "wets" depended greatly on him. Can it be that he has thrown over the moist cause of the "wets?" Or can it be that he has sized the situation up to mean that the day of the "drys" has arrived and that it is the opportune time to adopt that cause to regain political supremacy in the state? It's all very odd.

Peter Schwarg of Dodge Center has announced that he will be a candidate in the Republican primaries for state treasurer. Don't ask who Mr. Schwarg is, for all that is known about him is that he is the man that Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, present state treasurer, is going to beat. It would be interesting to know what process of thinking a man follows who concludes that he can come out unknown and unheralded without anything in particular to recommend him, and hope to beat the most popular man in the state. "Walt" Smith is the latter, and, unlike the so-called popular idol who has friends so intense that they would sacrifice anything for him, and enemies so intense that they would sacrifice anything to "git" him, his enemies would furnish a fit subject for scientific research, not only for their rarity, but because most of them would be found to be fossils; while the name of his friends is legion. Mr. Smith is not only popular, but he has proven himself to be one of the most thorough and efficient men who has ever held the office of state treasurer. If he was state treasurer because of his popularity alone, he would have a sorry time of it; but his efficiency creates a demand for his services and his popularity makes his way easy.

* * *

St. Cloud Times: The Cummins presidential boomers from Iowa reached Minneapolis on Monday and have commenced to organize the state for the Iowa senator. It would appear from the composition of the men who have taken hold of his interests that the William E. Lee element of the Republican party is backing the Iowa senator.

Poor Cummins! Who gave him that "bum steer?"

Belle Plaine Herald: Minnesota Republicans were presumed to be the radical Progressive type. This was one of the states that Roosevelt carried in 1912. Today, the name most prominently mentioned as the party's candidate for president is Root of New York, a standpatter of the old school. His forces are the most active in Minnesota and many local leaders who heretofore proclaimed their progressiveness from the house tops are backing the Root boom. Is Minnesota progressiveness but a passing fancy?

Passing fancy! It was a case of the monomania of office getting, the exaggerated ego of T. R., and a frenzy of wholesale denunciation; in short a condition that a good many one-time Republicans like M. Clapp would like to forget.

Pine City Pioneer: One of our correspondents asked us this week if there was any chance of Moses E. Clapp running for the presidency in 1916. Candidly no. Mose Clapp will have all he can do to run for the senate. His chances as a presidential possibility are about as slim as the chances of some others we know. Mr. Clapp is a good fellow but he can't stay put. Two years ago everything was Bull Moose with him and now that the Moose party has passed into oblivion he is back in the Republican fold. According to him two years ago the Republican party was going to be a dead issue. Affairs didn't pan out as he had prophesied and he scuttled back to the fold with much haste.

The Cummins people are feeling more hopeful of grabbing Minnesota's delegates in the primaries of March 16, for there seems to be a reaction against Elihu Root, who, up to a short time ago, seemed to have the inside track here for Republican choice for president. Howard J. Clark of Des Moines is in the state to establish headquarters here and there, and is trying to fix matters in Duluth. Others of the Cummins clan are working hard to get the campaign properly started, and it is claimed that matters are drifting around Cummins' way. It is feared that Senator Root's well known reactionary tendencies will be against him, as will the fact that he is over 70 years of age, and his attitude as chairman of the last Republican convention will not help him any. Even Duluth's own Chester A. Congdon, a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, has turned against the senator. In an interview a few days ago in the Twin Cities, Mr. Congdon said:

> "My first choice would have been Root. But after two months spent on the Pacific coast I am satisfied that Root could not be elected and I have had enough of working for a candidate who stands no chance.
> "If Mr. Root is the nominee there will be a third ticket in the field, and he will be defeated by another split in the party. There may be a third ticket anyway, but it would cut much less figure if a Republican of progressive tendencies is nominated. Because I believe we must nominate a man of that kind to win, I am for Cummins."

L. A. Caswell, clerk of the Minnesota supreme court, has been appointed Minnesota manager for Cummins. The appointment is considered an excellent one, for few men in the state have a larger personal following than Mr. Caswell, and besides that, he is considered one of the shrewdest politicians in Minnesota. He has been a vote-getter and a strength to the ticket on which his name has been presented.

The fact that the Cummins boom has gone far enough to establish headquarters and have one of the leading members of his party named as manager, gives the movement the greatest impetus enjoyed by any candidate up to date. The Root boom seems to have halted. Up to the time the Cummins men really got serious about capturing the Minnesota delegation, which will be the first chosen in the nation, Root seemed to be in the ascendancy. At present it seems to have assumed the well-known attitude of being "flat as a flounder," but it is not likely to remain that way, of course. Cummins at this time leads, and if Root adherents do not bestir themselves, the Iowa man may get a strangle hold on the support of Minnesota that will give him the delegation. However, it is to be presumed that the Root activity will be immediately stirred in Minnesota, for Root is not a passing fancy, and those who want him to get the Republican nomination are in dead earnest and not at all tainted with indifference or diffidence. That the fight for Minnesota is between Cummins and Root is evident. Other candidates are mentioned only incidentally.

Mr. Cummins, Iowa's presidential candidate, is noted for his "long-winded speeches," and has evidently not rid himself of the habit. He excelled in this regard at Los Angeles recently, and his effort is treated by Samuel G. Blythe, one of the most noted political writers in the country, as follows:

> Mr. Cummins has essayed a few speeches here and there. His most notable achievement in that line was at Los Angeles, when, at a dinner where he was to be the principal speaker, he so principally spoke that though he began at 11 p. m. he had not concluded his burning remarks at twenty minutes past 1 a. m., at which time about his only auditor was the Honorable Frank P. Flint, a former colleague in the United States senate, who brought him to the dinner and had to stay to take him away. Mr. Cummins is in a receptive mood, but it does not seem likely that he will receive much of anything save possibly the Iowa delegates.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Dentist, Dispenser of Health

As a prophylactic the dentist is worth his weight in gold fillings. We of the healing cult realize his usefulness, nay, his indispensable help in many of our most obstinate cases. Certain severe stomach troubles, anemias and joint diseases in particular will not respond to treatment until we call a good dentist in consultation and follow his expert advice in the management of the case.

A well-trained and studiously inclined dentist is as much a specialist, a dispenser of health, as any oculist or neurologist or other qualified expert. For example:

A middle-aged man suffered with digestive disturbance which bothered him more and more until it began to undermine his health. His family physician tried without success to give him relief, and then sent him off to a great city specialist on stomach troubles.

The specialist enjoyed all the laboratory aids at his disposal. The patient, being desperate, wished to spare no expense; and gladly submitted to every test the specialist suggested. But the chemical analysis of the stomach contents, obtained by means of the stomach tube after a test meal, showed no indication of ulcer or cancer. The blood count (by another laboratory expert) showed nothing of diagnostic importance. An X-ray photograph after a bismuth meal gave no light on the case. Then a young dentist fresh from college "butted in"—most unprofessionally—and offered some gratuitous advice, which is usually worth about what it costs, but not always.

He happened to meet the patient socially, and, with natural professional instinct, he noticed certain abnormalities about the patient's mouth. "Why not have those septic stumps drawn while you're here in town?" he asked. "I feel sure that the inflamed condition of your gums has something to do with your stomach trouble."

The patient was just fool enough to accept the advice of self-constituted authorities. This is a great fault in many otherwise desirable patients. He permitted the scientific young person to extract the decayed stumps and treat the diseased gums.

From that day onward he was surprised and delighted to find that his stomach bothered him less and less; in the course of a few weeks he gained many pounds in weight and returned home to live happily the rest of his life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

General Development.

Your talk on acne gave me such excellent results (the vaccine treatment you suggested) that I now venture to ask if there is any way to develop the bust without becoming fat all over?

Answer—Only by breathing exercises, kneading bread and physical culture to improve posture.

Dilating the Pupils.

Is dilating the pupils harmful? Will it make the wearing of glasses ever afterward necessary?

Answer—Not when done by a physician. The effect is wholly temporary.

Dr Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. Notice to Lakeside and Woodland People.

We are making two trips daily (Sunday excepted) to Lakeside and Woodland, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. On these trips we take trunks, freight boxes, parcels, etc., at the same price that we charge on like deliveries in the city proper. This is considerably less than the price charged by other companies.

If you have anything at the depots or in any part of the city, including West Duluth, or even Superior, Wis., you can just call our office on the telephone and we will arrange for delivery at your door, thus saving you the trouble of coming down town.

If you have any shipments of freight to be made and will call our office we will pick up the goods, see that they are properly marked, making out the shipping bill and also prepaying your freight on same, if desired, thus relieving you of considerable trouble and annoyance. There is no additional charge for this clerical work. On goods going to Canada or other foreign points we arrange to make out the manifest without extra charge.

We are trying to work up this business so that we can give even better service. You can help a good deal by giving us your business.

FAILED TO TAKE CHANCE OFFERED

Louis Ferrario, Paroled Prisoner, Returned to Old Ways.

Louis Ferrario, 19, heeded not the admonition of the courts with reference to keeping away from pool halls and saloons. Therefore he must do a bit of time at the St. Cloud reformatory until he learns for himself that it is best to obey authority and keep away from temptation.

Ferrario is a confessed thief. Last June he stole a phonograph from a cabin at Woodland. Before being apprehended he made his way to St. Paul, where he obtained employment in one of the larger hotels there. A guest missed a traveling bag and when Ferrario suspected that his name was being mentioned in connection with the affair, he hurriedly came back to Duluth. Soon afterward he was arrested for the phonograph theft.

On Aug. 4, Ferrario appeared before Judge Ensign and pleaded guilty to an information charging him with the crime of grand larceny in the second degree. For this, he was sentenced to a term of not more than five years in the state reformatory. The court, however, paroled him on the condition that he keep away from saloons and poolrooms.

But Louis yielded to temptation. On Nov. 19, last, he stole $60 worth of billiard balls from the pool room of W. A. Wagner, 311 West Michigan street. When an attempt was made to arrest him, he tried to break away from the officer, and was not captured until after an exciting chase in which a deputy sheriff fired at him.

He was bound over to the grand jury but recently decided to plead guilty. Yesterday that privilege was accorded him. When he appeared before Judge Ensign, M. M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, reminded the court of his former appearance and upon the recommendation of the prosecutor, the court vacated the parole and ordered the former sentence put into execution.

"DEATH CAME AS MORNING"

Beautiful Tribute to Henry Abraham Paid By Dr. Lefkovits.

Many Sorrowing Friends Attend Funeral of Duluth Merchant.

Heartfelt tribute to the life and character of Henry Abraham was paid by Dr. Maurice Lefkovits of Temple Emanuel at the funeral services held yesterday mornig from the residence, 2422 East Third street.

"Death came to him like the morning. Almost unawares, it came to him, quietly, softly, gently, mercifully lifting the darkness of his suffering and the gloom of his affliction," said Dr. Lefkovits in his opening words of the eulogy on one of Duluth's most prominent merchants. Mr. Abraham died at 1 o'clock Friday morning after an illness since last April and an affliction that had made him a semi-invalid for the last eighteen years.

Friends, business associates and acquaintances of long standing filled the Abraham residence long before the funeral services were begun and a large number had gathered on the porch, unable to gain entrance into the home.

Following the services at the home, the body was taken to the Woodland cemetery, where interment took place. The active pallbearers were: Bernard Silberstein, commissioner of public safety; Thomas B. Mills of Superior, past grand exalted ruler of the Elks; L. S. Loeb, I. Freimuth, G. A. Klein and J. B. Sattler. The honorary pallbearers, all members of the Duluth lodge of Elks, were: John E. Samuelson, exalted ruler; Joseph Randall, chief of the fire department; Harris Bennett, collector of customs; William F. Henry, M. G. Levy and George Munsey.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Heller, Mr. and Mrs. A. Heller and Albert Heller, all of Minneapolis, were the out-of-town persons to attend the services. Mrs. A. Heller and Mrs. B. Heller are sisters of Mrs. Abraham, wife of the deceased.

Besides a widow, Mr. Abraham leaves a daughter, Virginia, aged 10; a sister, Mrs. H. Stadeker of Chicago, and six brothers, Albert and Isidore of Duluth, Max of Minneapolis, D. C. Abraham of Atlantic City, Lee Abraham of Superior and Seymour Abraham of St. Louis.

Dr. Lefkovits' Talk.

Taking his text from Isaiah viii, 58, Dr. Lefkovits said in part:

"'Thy light has broken forth as the morning and thy healing hath sprung forth gently. Thy righteousness shall go before thee and the glory of the Lord shall follow thee.'

"These words of Isaiah, the greatest of prophets, express in terms, simple, yet significant, the thoughts and sentiments that stir our souls and sway our hearts at this solemn hour when we are about to convey the mortal remains of our departed friend from his home temporal to his abode eternal and everlasting; for death came unto him, in very truth, like the morning. It began to approach him silently, almost in the morning of his life; it overtook him in the morning of the day and as the morning gently lifts the darkness of the night, so death came unto him, almost unawares, quietly, softly, gently, mercifully lifting the darkness of his suffering and the gloom of his affliction.

"'Death came unto him as the light of the morning and his healing had sprung forth gently.' But it also lowered dark clouds of grief and bereavement over those to whom his demise was the very going down of the sun, that imparted unto them sight and vision, cheer and warmth and happiness. And amongst those who will sadly miss him, must be counted, beside his kin and kith a numerous host of friends.

Respect and Esteem.

"For Henry Abraham possessed qualities of mind and heart that gained for him the unfeigned esteem and respect of all who had the privilege of his friendship. Suffering as a man has rarely suffered, visited by the severest affliction that can come to a parent, he bore it all with remarkable self-possession, strength and fortitude. He was a loyal and devoted husband, a tender and solicitous father, a genial and helpful friend, an upright and honorable citizen, a good and true son of Israel. Greatly handicapped in many ways, he did in every respect the very best his feeble powers permitted him to do. 'His righteousness will go before him and the glory of the Lord will follow him.'

"Upon a life thus nobly lived, you my friends, to whom he was near and dear, may look back with just pride, and the memory thereof, I know, will be fondly cherished by you. You will cherish even the sorrow he has caused you by his untimely departure. We love even sorrow, when caused by those who were precious to us. The sorrow for the beloved dead is the only sorrow from which we refuse to be divorced. Every other affliction we try to forget, but this wound we consider a duty to keep open, this affliction we cherish and brood over in solitude, for there is a voice coming from the tomb that is sweeter than song; there is a remembrance of the dead to which we turn even from the charms of the living.

Sanctuary of Dead.

"You, my friends, will often turn away from the noise of the living and direct your steps to that silent spot, wherein lies embedded, whatever was mortal of your beloved. You will go thither and strew roses upon his resting place, stand there in wrapt contemplation, and you will hear his voice kindlier and more tender than ever, whispering to you in tones vibrating with love, love that has defeated death, and conquered the grave and when you hear that voice of love, ascending from beneath, think of Him, enthroned in the heaven above, who is the source of all love, even the Lord, God of Israel.

"May He sustain you in your grief and give you strength to bear your sorrow in fortitude. May He send you His heavenly comfort and benign consolation. May He, who is the judge of the widow and the father of the orphan, envelop you with the wings of his infinite love and mercy to compensate you for the love of your beloved, now transplanted to the life eternal. Unto the mercy of the Lord, our God and Father, I now commend thy soul, Henry Abraham, husband, father, brother, friend. May he let His heavenly light shine upon thy path and lead thee to the abode, where dwell the good and the true. May thy righteousness go before thee and may the glory of the Lord follow thee."

ICE MORE DANGEROUS THAN GASOLINE

Precaution Makes Fire Hazards Small for Oil Stations.

Fire prevention methods used in Minnesota garages are so effective that now ice houses are ranked as bigger fire hazards than oil stations.

"Ice is more dangerous than gasoline," said State Fire Marshall Robert Hargadine. "Sounds funny doesn't it?"

Last year, Mr. Hargadine's report shows, ice house fires entailed a loss of more than $12,000, while that from gasoline filling stations was only $125.

"The average person exercises caution when handling gasoline," said the fire marshall, "while ice houses are regarded as practically non-combustible. In nearly every case of an ice house fire, neglect is recorded as the couse."

Another great source of fires, it is said, is the thawing of frozen water pipes. Last year twenty-five fires due to thawing frozen water pipes were recorded, entailing a loss of more than $40,000.

LATIN GIVING WAY TO MODERN TONGUES

High Schools of State Are Gradually Dropping Dead Languages.

"Caesar, Cicero et Virgil erant."

So said E. M. Phillips, state high school inspector, recently, after a compilation showing that the three Latin courses as high school subjects, were passing.

French, German, Italian, Spanish, and even English, have been taken up in their stead, according to the report. "Any of the modern languages are in demand now in preference to the Latin," said Mr. Phillips.

Twenty years ago, he says, practically every high school in the state had first-year Latin and the higher studies in that line as a subject. In 1895 first-year Latin was a subject in eighty-six high schools; Caesar in seventy-nine high schools; Cicero in seventy, and Virgil in sixty-three.

This year, with 221 high schools in the state, only 184 are registered first year Latin; 167 have Caesar courses; seventy-two have courses in Cicero, and seventy-six have Virgil.

German is by far the most popular language in the class room, as 12,000 high school pupils in the state are taking it at the present time. There are about 1,500 in French classes, 713 in Swedish, 642 in Norwegian and seventy-seven in Danish. Forty pupils are taking Spanish.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets; you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

NOT SUFFICIENTLY BATTERED AS YET

Von Hindenburg Says Enemies Do Not Desire Peace at Present Time.

London, Dec. 6.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in an interview obtained by Dr. Paul Goldmann, expressed the view that the foes of Germany do not desire peace at the present time, says a Berlin dispatch transmitted by Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam.

"They are not yet sufficiently battered," the field marshal is quoted as saying. "We must continue, therefore, to press them, since they will not admit any of our successes".

He considers the German tactical situation excellent the interview reports.

"Particularly in the east," said the field marshal, "the German army has reached the most favorable strategical line conceivable."

CHARGED WITH WHITE SLAVERY

David Hall Arrested in La Crosse for Violating the Mann Act.

La Crosse, Wis., Dec. 6.—David E. Hall, alias Dr. D. D. Howe, aged 30, who was arrested here on a charge of transporting Elizabeth Ehler, aged 17, of Winona, from one state to another in violation of the Mann white slave act, was taken to St. Paul today by C. W. Sterling, special agent of the department of justice. He will be arraigned before a United States court commissioner Tuesday.

According to the story the girl told the La Crosse police, following the arrest of the couple at the Northwestern depot, she was induced to leave her home a month ago to go to St. Paul with Hall under promise of marriage.

The Ehler girl went with Hall, she said, and they visited a number of cities together, including points in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Ohio. They were not married, she said.

SHOWS NEED OF BUILDING

Christmas Rush Provides Evidence of Lack of Space.

Even Wash Rooms Used for Handling Christmas Packages.

The need of a larger Federal building could not be shown to better advantage than during the holiday season when the parcel post rush is on. This year it is expected that parcels will come by the wagonload daily and that every available bit of space in the postoffice will be crowded and that postoffice clerks will be huddled together like bees in a hive.

The furniture and other equipment have been rearranged to meet the emergency and the basement and even the wash rooms have been put into the service. Eggs, turkeys, butter, toys and a thousand and one other things will be piled up, and overcrowding will cause delay and extra work.

If the present national congress allows the $4,000 asked today by the United States treasury department for conveying machinery for the Duluth postoffice, the local office will be made over in such a way that mail of all kinds will be distributed to all parts of the office just as in a department store according to Postmaster William E. McEwen.

"The plan was thoroughly gone over a year ago when the postoffice department overhauled various offices to bring them up to date," said Mr. McEwen. "I don't know exactly how much machinery will be provided, but I understand that parcels, letters, etc., will be conveyed by shooting transmitters just as in department stores. In this way the postoffice clerks are saved thousands of steps daily and the carriers are given more time on their routes thus insuring better service to the public."

RELIEF FOR CARRIERS

Motor Trucks Will Lighten Their Burdens of Christmas Mail.

The motor truck is expected to solve the problem of the Christmas mail rush in Duluth this year, and the mail carrier will not be asked to make a packmule of himself. By arranging special facilities for handling holiday mail, Postmaster McEwen expects to have every letter and parcel passing through the Duluth office, delivered on time.

This noon the postmaster completed arrangements for handling the holiday mail, and a one-ton truck and one two-ton truck were provided to begin work on Monday, Dec. 20 and to continue until Christmas.

These trucks will be used to take the carriers to their runs and to relay mail. This year the carrier will not go from the office loaded down like a packmule and compelled to work ten or more hours a day to get his mail delivered. The trucks will not only take the carriers to their runs, but will also relay the parcels and other matter. When the truck has taken the carrier to his run, he will be let off with just as much mail as he can carry conveniently. The truck will then continue its journey a little further, stopping to drop off some more mail for the carrier. In this way the truck will be used as the packmule and the carrier as a human being.

Postmaster McEwen said today that he thought the arrangement would not only insure prompt delivery of mails, but would also be a money-saving measure. He said the carriers would be able to make their deliveries on time thus making payment for overtime unnecessary. The use of the two trucks he said would not entail an expense of more than $85.

PER CAPITA WEALTH IN MINNESOTA $2,072

If Minnesota's wealth was equally distributed each man, woman and child in the state would be worth $2,072.

At least, this is the per capita wealth as figured from the 1910 population figures and the 1915 valuation estimates as returned by the various assessors of the state.

The full and true value of all taxable property in the state as returned by the assessors to the state tax commission is $4,300,944,830.

A gain of $36,716,439 in the assessed valuation of taxable property compared with 1914 is noted this year. A summary of the comparisons for 1914 and 1915 is as follows:

Personal property	$ 234,968,380	$ 228,893,671
Real estate	1,289,214,531	1,274,159,395
Money and credits	212,134,901	196,548,307
	$1,736,317,812	$1,699,601,373

Increase 1915 over 1914, $36,716,439.

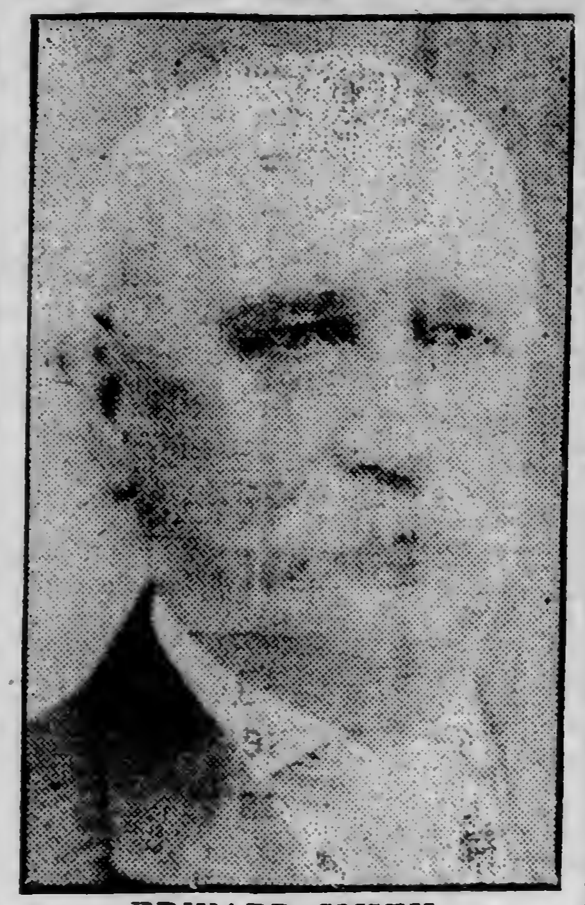
LEADER IN MARINE BUSINESS PASSES AWAY

Edward Smith, president of the American Shipbuilding company, who died yesterday in Buffalo, was well known and equally well liked in Duluth. Capt. G. H. Vrooman, manager of the Union Towing company here, who knew Mr. Smith intimately, said today:

"When Mr. Smith died, a life closed that was successful in a business way and which was kept clean. He was an example of the fact that a man may be a big success in business and yet not overstep the bounds. He was one of the finest men I ever knew, and when he was president of the Great Lakes Towing company, of which this company is a part, I found him the very best and yet the most thorough man I ever knew to work for. He knew shipping to the last word and his advice was generally sought."



EDWARD SMITH,
President American Shipbuilding Company.

G. A. Tomlinson of Duluth, a director of the American Shipbuilding company, said today that Great Lakes shipping has lost a leader and his friends one of the best of companions and advisers. Mr. Tomlinson received word Saturday that Mr. Smith was greatly improved and wrote Mrs. Smith congratulations.

D. T. Helm, another pioneer in the shipping business here, said today that he has known Mr. Smith for more than forty years and knew of no finer man.

DAMAGED BOAT ARRIVES

City of Bangor Probably Out of Commission for Season.

The steamer City of Bangor, which went on a beach on Isle Royale, opposite Siskiwit bay, Friday night, arrived in this harbor yesterday, after being released Saturday night by the tugs Bowman and Whalen of Port Arthur, and has gone to the shipyard in Superior for repairs. Fifteen plates will probably have to be replaced, owing to the fact that the steamer pounded hard in the heavy sea that was running; and it is likely that the steamer has been put out of commission for the rest of the season, as the insurance limit is next Sunday, and it will take all of that time, and probably more, to do the repair work.

The City of Bangor was headed from Port Arthur to Duluth to load grain when she ran ashore Friday night, and being light, was driven so high that she could not release herself with her own power.

LAKE LEVELS.

Stages of Water in Great Lakes During November; Probabilities.

The United States Lake Survey reports the stages of the Great Lakes for the month of November, 1915, as follows:

Lakes—	Feet Above Mean Sea Level.
Superior	602.89
Michigan-Huron	579.52
Erie	571.46
Ontario	244.94

Lake Superior is .14 foot higher than last month, .4 foot higher than a year ago, .42 foot above the average stage of November of the last ten years, .62 foot below the high stage of November, 1900, and 1.39 feet above the low stage of November, 1879. During the last ten years the November level has averaged about .2 foot lower than the October level and .2 foot higher than the December level.

Lakes Michigan Huron are .29 foot lower than last month, .36 foot lower than a year ago, .77 foot below the average stage of November of the last ten years, 3.40 feet below the high stage of November, 1876, and .34 foot above the low stage of November, 1895. During the last ten years the November level has averaged .3 foot lower than the October level and .2 foot higher than the December level.

Lake Erie is .53 foot lower than last month, .01 foot lower than a year ago, .35 foot below the average stage of November of the last ten years, 2.21 feet below the high stage of November, 1861, and .76 foot above the low stage of November, 1915. During the last ten years the November level has averaged .3 foot lower than the October level and .1 foot higher than the December level.

Lake Ontario is .23 foot lower than last month, .31 foot lower than a year ago, .69 foot below the average stage of November of the last ten years, 2.88 feet below the high stage of November, 1861, and 1.53 feet above the low stage of November, 1895. During the last ten years the November level has averaged .2 foot lower than the October level and .1 foot higher than the December level.

BREITUNG INTERESTS ADDING TO FLEET

E. N. Breitung & Co., ore shippers of Cleveland, have purchased the steamer J. W. Moore from the Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal company, and will rename her the Edward N. Breitung. The price was not announced, but was currently reported at $50,000.

This is the second boat the company has bought the last ten days, the other being the steamer Yale. The Moore is a steel ship 246 feet keel, 41 feet beam, 23 feet 6 inches deep, carrying 3,200 tons. She was built in 1890 by the Craig Shipbuilding company.

The firm is negotiating for a larger ship, a vessel of about 7,500 tons capacity upon which they have an option. It is the plan of Messrs. Breitung and Kaufman to acquire a fleet that will be able to carry 500,000 tons of ore a season, which is the amount the company usually floats, the rest of the ore being sold at the upper lake docks.

Some of the negotiations that have been pending are not progressing as rapidly as it was expected they would. Shippers are in the market, but prices are so extremely high they cannot afford to purchase. It is certain, however, a good many ships will change hands by spring and those who are unable to buy what they need say they will build new boats during the winter of 1916-1917.

Wind and Weather on Lakes.

The following were wind and weather conditions on the Great Lakes at 7 o'clock this morning, as reported by the weather bureau:

Duluth—Southeast, cloudy, light.

Port Arthur—Northeast, cloudy, light.

Sault—Northwest, clear, light.

Portage (Lake Superior)—Southeast, partly cloudy, 6 miles.

Whitefish Point (Lake Superior)—Northeast, cloudy, 4 miles.

Middle Island (Lake Huron)—North, cloudy, 16 miles.

Plum Island (Lake Michigan)—North, cloudy, 8 miles.

Notice to Mariners.

In the St. Clair river the Russell island shoal gas buoy is reported run down and sunk by a passing steamer. A cylindrical gas buoy carrying a white light flashing every ten seconds will be established to mark its station until the close of navigation. Vessel masters are cautioned to exercise care in pasing this aid to avoid collision.

BURTON WILL BE GUEST OF HONOR

Dr. Richard Burton, head of the English department at the University of Minnnesota, will deliver the principal address at the annual banquet and election of officers of the Northern Minnesota Alumni association to be held at the Commercial club next Saturday.

Announcement of the banquet and the coming of Dr. Burton was made this morning by Philip Ray, secretary of the alumni association and chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements. Dr. Burton is very well known here in connection with his work at the university and for several lectures that he has delivered in recent years. He is the former head of the Drama League of America, which he helped organize several years ago.

In addition to Dr. Burton, among the guests of honor at the banquet will be John G. Williams, member of the board of regents, and State Senator Charles E. Adams.

The dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and alumni of the university, including men and women, from all parts of Northern Minnesota are expected to attend. Invitations were mailed out today.

Following the banquet, the annual business meeting and election of officers will take place. The present officers are: Laird Goodman, president, and Philip Ray, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Schaull Is Here

Let Her Fit You to a Bon Ton All-Day Corset

It's certainly good news—for many of you know Miss Schaull through her previous visits to Duluth.

We have new all-day models in Bon Ton corsets which are precisely what their name implies. Corsets that give style, grace and poise to such a degree that they can be worn from morning till night with ease and comfort.

There is a scientific molding of the figure according to hygienic standards which appeal to physicians—while the figure lines of Bon Ton corsets appeal strongly to dressmakers who have pride in their work.

There are special models in Bon Ton corsets for stout women. Any exuberance of flesh is molded and controlled so as to bring out the best points of the figure—and not only that, the proper model will prove comfortable — extremely comfortable.

Prices range on the most popular models—$3.00, $3.50, $5.00 and $10.00.

As Miss Schaull is known the country over as an expert corsetiere we are very sure you will appreciate what an opportunity this is to be becomingly corseted.

No charge for fitting—let Miss Schaull prescribe for you!

SUFFRAGETTES AT THE CAPITOL

Washington, Dec. 6.—Woman suffrage workers, undismayed by defeat in Eastern states last month or by the failure of the last congress to grant equal suffrage, took their fight again today to the national capitol.

The Susan B. Anthony amendment, introduced and defeated for many years, was again introduced in the house today by Representative Mondell of Wyoming. A colorful and picturesque demonstration by suffragists of many states, including a parade to the capitol, preceded the introduction.

The mammoth petition for equal suffrage brought by Mrs. Sara Bard Field of Oregon and Miss Frances Joliffe of California was lost at the last moment. It was about 18,000 feet long and bore approximately 500,000 names of voters in suffrage states. Another petition, however, contained several thousand names of voters in non-suffrage states, was presented to Representative Mondell on the east steps of the capitol and the original will be given if it is found. It disappeared somewhere between here and Wilmington, Del., from which city it was shipped by express.

MANY FOREIGN MONEY ORDERS

Duluth Postoffic Faring Better Than Others in Northwest.

Big Line-Up of Applicants at Window of Local Office.

Despite the handicaps placed on the foreign money order business by the European war, the Duluth postoffice is having a big run in that department at present, due to the approach of the holidays. During most of the time today there was a long line of applicants for foreign money orders at that window of the postoffice.

The remarkable thing about this is that in many other large cities the foreign money order business has failed to recover since the war began to cripple communications. A heavy falling off has been reported from various parts of the Northwest.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war there were a great number of applications for foreign money orders, but it was soon found that communications had been cut off in many countries and that it was impossible to get money to relatives in the old countries. Then there was a gradual falling off of applicants for money orders.

In Great Britain and Scandinavian countries money orders are readily accepted and postal conditions are said to be good. On the other hand, money orders are flatly refused in Russia, the Balkan states and Turkey, and sent at the purchaser's risk in other European countries. Belgium, Portugal, Austria, Greece, Egypt and Mexico are for the most part under ban.

A few Duluthians, who are planning a trip abroad, are sending money orders, payable to themselves at their point of destination, thus eliminating the risk of carrying the money in cash or drafts upon their persons.

SAY RIVER ICE IS FIT FOR SOME USES

Changes Wanted By Business Men in Proposed Ordinance.

Eight West Duluth business men called on Commissioner Silberstein this morning and asked for a revision of the proposed ice ordinance, so that they will be permitted to cut ice in St. Louis bay at Sixty-third avenue west, instead of being compelled to go beyond Commonwealth avenue, the western zone limit included in the present draft of the measure.

As a result, Commissioner Silberstein promised to make a thorough investigation, and if the water in the channel at Sixty-third avenue is found to be not contaminated by sewage, he will order a redraft of the proposed ordinance. It will not be introduced at the council meeting this afternoon, he said.

Objections to the ordinance are made by the West Duluth business men on the ground that the ice they use is only for storage and packing purposes, and the enforcement of the measure as now drafted would entail a heavy needless expense every winter. The water in the channel, they say, is in good condition, and they are willing that a thorough test be made by competent authorities.

At present the ordinance prohibits the cutting of ice for any purpose whatever anywhere in the bay, St. Louis river or Lake Superior, between Commonwealth avenue and a point three-fourths of a mile east of Lester river. It is pointed out that sewers empty at numerous points along this zone, and the water is contaminated and unfit for ice.

Just how the ordinance will be changed Commissioner Silberstein is unable to say at this time, but he declared that provision will be made so that the business men will not suffer from any unjust restrictions.

IRONWOOD MINER IS KILLED BY FALLING

Ironwood, Mich., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Carry was instantly killed Saturday evening in C transfer shaft of the Norrie mine. He started to climb down the transfer to get the cage at the nineteenth level just at quitting time, when he fell and his body was found on the bottom of the shaft. He was an old and highly respected resident of Ironwood and was born in the north of England about 54 years ago.

He leaves a widow and four children, three sons, John, William and James and one daughter, Mrs. Samuel Westlake.

Pardoned By Governor.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Frank Johnson, formerly of Wheeling, convicted of stealing a dinner bucket and a coat and sentenced to life imprisonment under the habitual criminal act, has been pardoned by Governor H. D. Hatfield, according to an announcement here. Johnson has served eight years.

Ten Years' Misery Ended.

J. T. Chambers, merchant, Jonesboro, Ark., writes: "Foley Kidney Pills cured me of a ten-year standing case of rheumatism. I suffered miserably. A friend told me of being cured; so I used them, and they cured me, too." Most middle-aged men and women are glad to learn that Foley Kidney Pills afford a way to escape sleep-disturbing bladder weakness, backache, rheumatism, puffiness under eyes, stiff and swollen joints and other ills attributed to kidney troubles. POOR FARM POPULATION AVERAGED 218 IN NOVEMBER

Poor farm authorities were kept busy caring for public charges during November, 1915, according to statistics contained in the monthly report of Dr. C. J. Woolway, filed Saturday afternoon with A. P. Cook, clerk of the poor commission. The report was read at the monthly meeting of the poor commission held at that time.

During November relief and medical assistance were extended to 262 persons at the three institutions maintained at the poor farm. The daily average was 218 dependants. The month started out with 212 persons at the farm, divided among the three institutions as follows: Almshouse, 125; hospital, 58, and tuberculosis pavilion, 29. At the end of November the total population was 224, divided in this manner: Almshouse, 132; hospital, 61, and tuberculosis pavilion, 31.

During the month 90 patients were cared for in the hospital section. Of this number, 27 were discharged. There were 5 deaths, 2 among the hospital cases and 3 in the tuberculosis sanatorium. One of the consumptive patients was transferred to the Nopeming sanatorium.

The population statistics at the three institutions are:

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF POLICE COURT

YOUNG COUPLE DISILLUSIONED

Husband, Aged 20, Held as Wife Deserter; Spouse Goes Home.

Cupid has played a sorry trick on Tecla Strom, a pretty little West end girl, for the three months of her married life have been the unhappiest of her life.

Shortly after her marriage to Louis Weddell, 20, things began to go wrong and then one day she returned to her mother, and said she could not live with him any longer.

Her parents prevailed upon the young couple to make a new start, but again they failed, and the girl came home, despondent and weeping.

"I don't care what happens to me any more," she said, according to the police version of the case.

A week ago, following telephoned instructions, police brought the young husband to headquarters and held him as a wife deserter until they found that there really was no warrant out for him.

This morning, after a warrant had been issued, he was arrested by Officer Noreen on the same charge. Arranged before Judge Cutting, he was held in $250 bail for an examination Dec. 10.

HURRYING AFTER TROUBLE.

Ex-Convict Held for Robbing Man - Who Bought Him a Meal.

Still wearing prison clothes, and scarcely out of the shadow of the bars, Andrew Borysevich faced Judge F. H. Cutting today on a charge of stealing $5 from a man who had befriended him.

Frank Schmitt, the complainant, said he had purchased a meal for Borysevich, and then the two had enjoyed a drink together. When Schmitt awoke after a nap in his room, his money was gone.

Another roomer claims to have been peeking through the keyhole at the time Borysevich ransacked Schmitt's pockets.

Borysevich, admitting that he just had been discharged from the Waupun, Wis., penitentiary, wearily denied the charge against him

OVERHAULED BY CHIEF.

Cloquet Speeder Arrested; Forfeits Bail of $10.

"Can you imagine it?" was the only comment of Albert Levack of Cloquet last night, when he found that he had been racing with Chief R. D. McKercher.

The race, at a thirty-mile clip, began at Eighth avenue west and Superior street, according to the chief. At Twenty-fifth avenue, the officer took the lead and was about to tell Levack he was under arrest when the Cloquet man turned up the avenue.

Catching up with him on the Lincoln Park drive, the chief called to Levack to stop.

"Stop nothing," was the retort; "what's the idea?"

"I'm the chief of police," was the reply.

Levack forfeited $10 bail in police court today.

MY LADY NICOTINE CAUSES HIS ARREST

My Lady Nicotine, usually a comfort to Mike Jannetta, made things uncomfortable for him today, because he was arrested on a charge of stealing tobacco from the American pool hall, 20 East Superior street.

Gust Kallimanis, proprietor of the store, claimed that Mike walked into his place of business Friday evening, and walked out again with seven pounds of choice Virginia leaf.

Arrested by Officer Westerlund, Mike pleaded not guilty and was held in $25 bail for a hearing Dec. 9.

DETECTIVE IN ROLE OF PRISONER

Detectives often appear in court, but seldom is a detective in court as a prisoner.

Albert R. Kelley, private detective, when arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting, pleaded not guilty to a charge of passing a worthless check for $5 and was released on his own recognizance for a hearing Dec. 10.

J. F. Dolan of the Northern Pacific ticket office alleges that the check was worthless. Kelley claims it was a mistake at the bank, according to police.

MADE HOME IN HOSPITAL

Miss Theresa Doran, "Patient," at St. Mary's for Eighteen Years, Dies.

Not Ill Recently—Brought Cheer to Many Sick Rooms.

Eighteen years ago shortly after St. Mary's hospital was built, a kindly, silvery-haired woman paid Duluth a visit, and incidentally called at the new hospital.

Saturday a room which had been sacred to one person for years was vacant, for the silvery-haired woman had concluded her visit, which began eighteen years ago.

When she first came to the hospital, Miss Theresa Doran, for that was her name, was 64 years old. She was not ill, but she was attracted by the sisters and liking her surroundings, decided that she wanted to make the hospital her home.

It was arranged and in due time Miss Theresa became a "patient." She was never ill, but her kindly smile and gentle voice cheered many a fevered brow and in a year or two she was almost as one of the sisters.

Until two years ago Miss Theresa was never ill, but about the time she passed the four-score mark, she was taken sick. Saturday she died.

A brother living at White Bear, Minn., will come to Duluth for the funeral tomorrow morning, but the sisters at St. Mary's will be in charge of it. Services will be held from the Sacred Heart cathedral, starting at 8:30 o'clock, and interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Miss Doran was 82 years old.

WANTS RECIPROCITY ACT TAKEN OFF BOOKS

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Representative Steenerson today introduced a bill providing for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act passed during the Taft administration. "Although Canada failed to ratify the reciprocity law, it is still on our statute book," said Mr. Steenerson, "and I would remove it because it is a possible source of danger to the prosperity of the people of Minnesota."

DULUTH FIRM WILL NOT MAKE SHELLS

Rumors that the Marine Iron Works had signed a contract with the allies to manufacture shells were denied this afternoon by John Geistman, chief clerk for the company.

"We are not equipped for the manufacture of the shells," he said, "nor are we planning to sub-contract for the material. There is nothing to the rumor."

Several companies in the Twin Cities have accepted contracts of this nature, he said, but no such offer has been offered to the local company.

BILLS PRESENTED BY STEENERSON

Minnesota Congressman Presents Large Grist on Opening Day of Session.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

MANY SKATERS OUT.

Sport Good on Twin Lakes and St. Louis River.

Although warm weather is continuing to delay the opening of the public ice skating rinks, several hundred skaters enjoyed the winter sport yesterday on the Twin lakes, at various points on St. Louis river and in West Duluth.

The private rink at Twenty-fifth avenue east and Fourth street was opened yesterday, but the ice was not in the best of condition late in the afternoon.

The public rinks, it was announced today, will be opened after the first cold spell.

ENGLISH TEA FOR ENGLISH COMPANY

Cyril Maude, the eminent English comedian, gave a typical English tea to all the members of his company, at the Holland hotel yesterday afternoon.

English jam and marmalade were served. Tea was made in a samovar, and every possible English touch was given to the affair. As practically every one present was English, and as Manager Sweeney of the hotel chose two English waiters to do the serving, one walking in on the gathering might have thought that he had been suddenly transplanted to merrie old England.

As host, Cyril Maude made a little talk to grace the occasion.

BIRTH REPORTS NECESSARY.

Health Department of City Notifies Delinquent Physicians.

Notices were sent out this morning by the health department to all physicians who are delinquent in sending in birth reports.

Many of the local doctors fail to send the birth reports on time, and as a result the department is greatly hampered in its work. Many of these reports are from one to three months late, when a week is considered a reasonable length of time.

"SLOW PAPER" BLAMED FOR N. D. BANK CLOSING

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The doors of the First National bank of Casselton, N. D., failed to open this morning and Examiner C. H. Anheler is in charge. It is said the closing is due to slow paper and that the bank will again open., R C. Kittel sold his interests in the bank Nov. 27 to the other stockholders and an election made M. G. Straus president. The bank was established in 1882 and is one of the oldest in the eastern part of the state.

Descent of Duluth will be toastmaster. Several speakers who have been at the Head of the Lakes for nearly half a century will be on the program.

NOT BEST TO BE HAD.

Rural School Teachers Poor Owing to Small Salaries, Is Opinion.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of state educators held at the state capitol today the consensus of opinion was that the average rural school teacher is not the best to be had. The reason assigned was small salaries and the failure of the district to insist on thoroughly trained teachers.

The meeting today was attended by about twenty normal and high school teachers, including President Vincent of the university.

GEOGRAPHY NEEDED IN ARIZONA TOWN

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A postal card was received by Governor Hammond today, addressed to the mayor of Minnesota and read:

"Will you kindly tell me the capital of Minnesota? My teacher tells me it is Minneapolis, but she is not sure.
"LEO SANTA ANNA,
"Clifton, Ariz."

Governor Hammond answered that he believed he was in a position to state definitely that the capital of Minnesota was St. Paul.

One Killed in Collision.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 6.—One person was killed, several others seriously injured, and more than a score of passengers suffered minor injuries in a head-on collision between passenger trains No. 205 and 224 of the Illinois Central line at Lensburg, Ill., twenty-five miles southeast of here yesterday.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SOUDAN MINE IS GETTING ACTIVE

Force Increased and Prospects of Busy Season Assured.

Soudan, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work at the Soudan mine is progressing rapidly with the increased force recently put on. Several new families have moved here, a few moving over from Tower. There is now a working force of 250, almost double the number that has been employed for the past few years.

In the early days, the Soudan force numbered 1,000 men, but since the opening up of the Mesaba mines, with a cheaper grade of ore, the Soudan force has gradually diminished, but now with the advent of the steel plant, the high-grade ore from the Soudan will be needed in larger quantities.

Some Improvements.

A new steel shafthouse is to replace the old wooden one, which has already been removed. A car of steel for the American Bridge company, which has the contract, arrived last week, the crew of men is now here and work will go ahead as rapidly as possible.

The shaft, formerly down 1,500 feet, is being extended another 100 feet, better ore and a greater quantity being assured as the operations progress. The local business houses have already enjoyed increased patronage, especially those handling the lines of goods necessary to the miners, one business man finding it necessary to make a hurried trip to Duluth to replenish his depleted stock.

GETTING OUT TIMBER.

Spang & Hollihan Have Camps Working in Itasca County.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Spang & Hoolihan, this winter, are operating quite extensively. They have one camp which they are running themselves, and four contractors who have considerable camps.

The Spang & Hoolihan camp is at Prairie lake, about six miles north of Grand Rapids. They are running some sixty men, and are getting out mostly pine timber, though they are cutting the lands clean, and taking the hardwood and mining timber that is in the way as well as the pine. The pine and hardwood will be hauled here, overland by team. The pine may be shipped, but the hardwood will be landed at the Spang & Hoolihan mill and sawed here. They have not yet decided whether they will saw the pine here or ship it. They expect to land in Grand Rapids about 1,500,000 feet of logs during their winter's work from their camp.

Their contractors are Henry Volke of Bovey, who has a camp north of Buckeye lake: Al Ranger, who has a camp just southeast of Coleraine, and John Lane of Cohasset, who is cutting west of Cohasset. The timber they cut will be landed on the railroad nearest the operations, with the exception of the mining timber cut in the Volke and Range camps, which will be landed at the Oliver Iron Mining company's landings. It is hard to estimate how much stuff these contractors will get out, but it is thought that it will make the total output of Spang & Hoolihan run up to close 3,000,000.

There will not be much doing in the tie business this winter, as the price of ties the past year and the prospects for the future are very unsatisfactory to the operators, most of whom have decided to cut-out the tie operations unless conditions change for the better, but all the operators are planning on getting out cedar and pulpwood. The C. M. Erskine Timber company will run five or six camps, all of them under contractors. Charles Brock will cut at the same camp where he operated last year, and will land in Lawrence lake. Joseph Gilbert, who was with the Erskin company last year will have a camp on Lawrence lake, and will land in the lower end of that lake. There will be at least two other camps between Prairie and Lawrence lakes, and these will land on Prairie river. The camps will all be small, only about fifty or sixty men to be employed.

ELY MOTHERS' CLUB.

Program Will Be Rendered Next Friday Afternoon.

Ely, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' club will be held Friday afternoon next at 3:30 o'clock in the Washington auditorium. The following program will be given Piano solo, Mrs. Victor Koivumaki; (a) exercise by Lincoln kindergarten class; (b) song, John Skufca from Miss Mable Smith's room; (c) story, Miss Fay Dolen's classes. Discussions on child welfare with five-minute talks by the following: (a) "The First Three Years of a Child's Life," Mrs. W. D. Gallagher; (b) "The Contents of Childrens Minds," Mrs. Herbert S. King; (c) "The Boy," Mrs. Emil Lenio; (d) "The Wayward Child," Mrs. Victor Koivumaki; (e) "Training the Child For Citizenship," Mrs. Pierce; vocal solos by Robin Walker.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

Cleanse the little liver and bowels and they get well quicky.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait: give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sort throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs' 'to evacuate the bowel no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

HIBBING'S FIRST DRY SUNDAY TAME

Lid Clamped Down on the Range Village Was Not Loosened.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing's first dry Sunday since the government clamped on the Indian lid last Tuesday passed uneventfully so far as any attempts at tilting are concerned.

Barring the excitement caused by the one raid of last Saturday in the Bank buffet, as told in The Herald, there has nothing occurred here for two days having to do with the lid. There probably were some visits to Buhl and Chisholm yesterday by the thirsty, but the exodus was not marked. Hibbing seems to have settled down to a dry town condition, many apparently being satisfied with the non-alcoholic drinks dispensed over some of the former saloon bars.

Indian agents are still here and there are supposed to be many spotters about town so that those having liquor in their possession are making no effort to dispose of it.

Good Trade Saturday Night.

The opinion expressed by many that because the saloons were closed that a great part of the foreign population would divert their trade to towns having the wet goods was not borne out Saturday night.

The streets were well crowded and the stores had a large business.

Local merchants state that the change was not noticed materially and that Hibbing was as busy a place on Saturday as it has been in months gone past.

ST. PAUL MAN HURT BY FALL AT HIBBING

Employe of State Examiner Slips and Fractures His Rib.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Swinburn of St. Paul, who is here checking up the village books, was stepping from a Mesaba Electric railway car Saturday night, when he slipped on ice on the walk and fell, breaking one of his ribs.

The injury is more painful than serious.

Mr. Swinburn is of the staff of Public Examiner Fritz, who is checking the village books.

VIRGINIA GIRL BRIDE.

Miss Mae Welsh Wedded at Marquette to Peter Paveglio.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 6.—Miss Mae Welsh, daughter of John Welsh of Virginia, Minn., and a resident of this city nearly all of her life, and Peter Paveglio, of the Marquette Granite and Marble works, were married here by Rev. Father H. A. Buchholtz in St. Peter's parsonage. Mr. Paveglio is well known throughout the Upper Peninsula.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the Grill cafe. Mr. and Mrs. Paveglio left for Chicago to spend a few days visiting, and on their return they will stop in Iron Mountain to spend a few days with Mr. Paveglio's parents.

CROSS LAKE VERMILION.

Ice Is Now Strong Enough to Support Teams.

Tower, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lake Vermilion ice is now of a thickness to insure safe traveling. E. R. Cook of the Trout Lake Lumber company made the first trip across the big bay with a team Friday, and several trips since. Provisions are now being taken in loads over the ice to the camps, and this morning thirty-five head of horses were taken up to the lumber camps. George Lott in charge of the stables for the company has recently returned from Hallock, Minn., where he secured sixty head of horses for use by the company this winter, the animals are all at the local stables and will now be taken to camp over the ice.

A dairy route has been started from the Chas. Roland farm, H. E. Prall is in charge. There is a dairy herd of fourteen choice cows.

PICKERING PRESIDENT.

Virginia Attorney Heads the Associated Charities.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Ralph C. Pickering was elected president of the Associated Charities at a meeting of the fifteen directors of the organization Saturday afternoon. Mrs. E. N. Simons was elected first vice president and M. H. Godfrey second vice president. Miss Lenora Vail, present secretary of the Charities, was elected recording secretary. L H. Weir playgrounds expert, spoke on organized charity. There was some discussion on the subject following his address.

The attention of the directors was called to cases of destitution which need aid.

Another meeting of the directors will be held this afternoon when committees on finance and investigation will be appointed. The Charities plan to have a paid secretary and applications for that position will be asked.

AURORA MAN IS BURIED.

Rites Held Sunday for William Gates of Perkins Mine.

Aurora, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of William O. Gates was held Sunday afternoon from the Methodist church and the remains were interred in the Aurora cemetery.

Mr. Gates died Friday evening at 5:30 at his home at the Perkins mine at the age of 58 years. He had been in poor health for the past two years, but his condition was not considered serious until very lately.

Death was the result of cancer of the stomach. Besides his widow he leaves a grown son and daughter—William Gates of Grand Rapids, Minn., and Mrs. E. H. Lucia of Mulberry, Kan., and three brothers and two sisters. Mr. Gates was well known on the range, having been employed at the Perkins and other mines for a number of years.

VIRGINIA VAG MAKES ESCAPE

Jumps From Car Window at Proctor on Way to Work Farm.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Brewer, an itinerant violin player, who was convicted in municipal court here Saturday on a vagrancy charge and sentenced to twenty days at the county work farm, gave Deputy Sheriff Art O'Dea the slip while being taken to Duluth, by jumping from the toilet room of the Missabe passenger train at Proctor.

Brewer claims he was nervously injured a number of years ago while a policeman in a small New York town and since then has been treating himself by using various nostrums, but the police say he is a dope fiend. Saturday night he left the violin he carries in O'Dea's lap and said he would go to the toilet to take some medicine. He did not return and investigation showed he had bolted through the window and made his escape. The officer left the train, but could not find him.

Brewer claims that he is a shoemaker by trade and that he was born in Pennsylvania. He went from Pennsylvania to New York as a young man and on many occasions acted as a special police officer. He claims that he was attacked by a gang of rowdies and since then he has been suffering from nervous trouble.

Has Novel Violin.

His violin, which consists of a keyboard and tin can, arranged by himself, is priceless, according to Brewer. He refuses to sell the instrument. Saturday afternoon he entertained officials at the local county building with violin selections and demonstrated his ability as a musician.

Brewer says he made the violin in Minneapolis a month ago. He has been working in the harvest fields and came to the range last week. He appears to be a man of good family and education.

The prisoner is about six feet tall and is strong.

HOLD SHORT COURSE IN ITASCA COUNTY

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Howard and Miss Frances Lapham of the extension division of the state educational department are holding short courses in the schools of Itasca county this week. They are at the La Prairie school this evening, where the meeting will be under the auspices of the La Prairie Farmers' club. Aside from the talks by Mr. Howard and Miss Lapham, there will be music by Mrs. B. H. Miller and probably other numbers. Tuesday a similar meeting will be held under the auspices of the Cohasset Farmers' club at the La Prairie school; Wednesday at Blackberry school, also by the farmers' club; Thursday at Warba and Friday at the Grand Rapids high school. All the meetings will be at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Grand Rapids meeting will be under the direction of the Parent-Teachers' club. In the daytime Mr. Howard and Miss Lapham will hold meetings at the rural schools.

OUTCLASSES OPPONENTS

Virginia Quint Easily Defeats Chisholm Players.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Outplaying their opponents in every way, the Virginia city basket ball team Saturday night won the first game of the local season from the Chisholm city five, 44 to 16, at the Technical high school gymnasium, before a big crowd.

Forward Stangel of Virginia scored the first basket of the season, he tossing the ball into the Chisholm cage in the first minute of play. Fouls were then called on Chisholm and Stangel again came to the rescue, throwing two baskets from foul. In the first half he threw six out of seven tries for baskets from foul. In the first period of play he scored 22 of the 30 points registered by the locals. Many of his field baskets were thrown from difficult angles. Before he retired in the second half he scored three points, a field basket and a basket from foul.

RAID CHISHOLM PLACE.

Some Contraband Found and Prosecution May Be Result.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indian agents still are patrolling the village and locations on a still hunt for caches, which they suspect will be uncovered as soon as it seems safe by men formerly in the liquor business. Several seizures of small quantities of beer and whisky have been made since the closing last week, but the quantity confiscated amounts on the whole to very little.

Elmer Swanson, a former saloon keeper, had his place raided and a quantity of wine taken from his premises, and there is a rumor that he will be made an example of by the Federal officers.

KEEP MONEY AT HOME.

Is Object Sought By Grand Rapids Commercial Club.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—To stop out-of-town buying of goods that are handled here the Commercial club members met and discussed this menace to local merchants. It is claimed about $7,000 in money is sent out monthly through the local postoffice, mostly to mail order houses, for goods that can be bought here and the club hopes to turn this golden tide in this direction.

The club is proposing to give a prize in an essay writing contest open to school children of District No. 1 on spending money out of town that should be spent at home.

It is figured that this plan would set the people all over the territory tributary to Grand Rapids to thinking about the proposition, and that it would bring home the advantages of trading at home with great force to every thinking person in the county.

The plan will be further discussed and plans outlined at the next meeting of the Commercial club, which will be held this evening.

SNOW

Sunday was one of the prettiest days of the fall and early winter, and Duluthians were not slow to take advantage of the conditions. Snow fell during late Saturday night and early Sunday morning, but only a little of it remained, and there was not enough to cause sloppiness in the melting. Today is mild but with clouds interfering. They are light, with occasional breaks and there is hope that the sun will get a show before the day is over.

A year ago today was beautiful. The sun rose this morning at 7:39 and will set this evening at 4:19, giving eight hours and forty minutes of sunlight, just ten minutes more than on the eight shortest days of the year, which are Dec. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 26. Christmas, coming in between, has a minute more for some reason or other.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

Moderate temperatures are the rule. During the last twenty-four hours there has been a general increase in warmth throughout the Middle West and Northwest. Barometric depressions of moderate intensity overlying Texas and Saskatchewan caused precipitation over Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and widely scattered portions of the lake region and Southern states. Heavy rain occurred at Portland and Roseburg, Or. The winds in the lake region are light and variable as regards direction."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Minnesota—Unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday, probably rain or snow; colder Tuesday in west portion.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with rain or snow Tuesday and in west portion tonight; warmer in east portion tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with rain tonight or Tuesday; warmer in east and central portions tonight

North Dakota and South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; colder Tuesday and in extreme west portions tonight.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; colder tonight.

Lower and Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday.

LOCAL FORECAST.

Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Cloudy weather tonight and Tuesday, probably light snow. Lowest temperature tonight 25 to 30 deg. at Duluth-Superior and 20 to 25 deg. inland and on the iron ranges. Moderate southeasterly winds, shifting to westerly Tuesday.

CARING FOR EMPLOYES.

Doctors Burns of Soudan Look After Trout Lake Lumber Co. Workers.

Tower, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Doctors Burns of the Soudan hospital have taken charge of the employes of the Trout Lake Lumber company, succeeding Doctors Wunder and Goldsworthy of Duluth. Dr. E. J. Hynes has had charge of the local work for the latter and has resigned to accept a position with the Doctors Burns, with whom he will in future be associated. Dr. Wunder had not provided hospital accommodation here for the patients and they had to be either taken to Duluth or cared for at the Soudan hospital. With the large number of men on the company's payroll, it was necessary to have local provision made for their care if necessity demanded their going to a hospital.

There are over 300 men working in the woods for the company. A crew is employed at the local yards, several men repairing for the operations soon to start in the making of lath, which will be done this winter, and the increase of men demanded when the lath mill is opened, which will be in the near future. Dr. R. L. Burns, who is now at the Two Harbors hospital, makes a weekly visit to the local hospital and comes oftener if necessity demands. The new arrangement is gratifying to all concerned.

ELY OPINION DIVIDED.

Question of Paying Special Assessment Work Not Settled.

Ely, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a difference of opinion among property owners affected as to the method of paying for the special improvements made for their property although all have received notices to make payment within six weeks from Dec. 3. Some are of the opinion that the contracts should be paid from the general tax funds while others favor this assessment. Others are objecting to this assessment owing to the assessment which property owners paid, a year or two before the cement sidewalks were started, for new board sidewalks. The assessments of the individual property owners vary. In several cases lots in the same block and adjoining are assessed differently which is causing much comment as well as objections on the part of the owners of the lots.

Hibbing Business Good.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—That business conditions on the Mesaba range are gradually getting better and that Hibbing looks as good as any, is the opinion of C. L. Maas of St. Paul.

"Our business deals in luxuries, and when the dealers buy heavy stocks, that is an indication that the conditions of that town are good and things are prosperous," said Mr. Maas.

"Hibbing is one of the best towns on the range and in St. Paul people have an entire different opinion of your live little city than other folks have. We think your city is all right."

CARRYING DYNAMITE, ITALIAN ARRESTED

Claims He is Mine Powder Man, But Virginia Police Doubt It.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Antonio Rocchio, an Italian, will have to furnish Judge Carey and the police a good explanation in municipal court this afternoon of his actions in carrying thirty-two sticks of dynamite and thirty-five feet of fuse in a gunny sack on a Mesaba Electric railway car. He was arrested here Sunday by Game Warden Wood on suspicion of having moose meat in the gunny sack. On seeing the explosive the warden called in the police and the Italian was hurried to jail. He claims that he was powder man at the Knox mine at Aurora and often carries dynamite with him. Whether he stole the explosive or intended to blow up some property in a Black Hand style the investigation may reveal. He has a family in Italy.

HOME TALENT PLEASES.

Efforts of Hibbing Amateurs Win Many Plaudits.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kipling's "Rollicking Potpouri" was repeated at the Power theater Saturday evening to a large audience.

The amateur talent went through their respective parts in a more finished manner than the opening night and they were encored time and time again.

J. E. Lawler and J. P. Murphy scored a decided hit as the principals in a little sketch entitled "The Littlest Girl." Both local actors were the equal of any professional people playing the parts.

The singing of the large choruses, the pretty costumes and the snap and dash that the entire performance was put on will make the society vaudeville long to be remembered by Hibbing folks.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

RANGE ELKS HAVE MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Rev. Mr. Coolbaugh Hibbing Speaker; Daniel Lawler Heard at Eveleth.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh of the Christ's Episcopal church delivered the principal address yesterday afternoon at the memorial services of the Elks. He paid a beautiful tribute to the day and to the one member who passed away during the year, Archie McFaddean.

A quartete composed of Messrs. Adams, Johnson, Sheehy and Martin sang three selections.

The ritual services of the Elks' lodge was carried out and the Rood hall where they were held was filled with a large crowd.

Lawler Eveleth Speaker.

Eveleth, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Mayor D. W. Lawler of St. Paul delivered the memorial address for the Eveleth and the Virginia Elks who joined here yesterday in the Auditorium in their memorial exercises.

The program follows: Opening ceremonies, exalted ruler; "The Vacant Chair," Herbert Johnson; quartet, Virginia lodge No. 1003; ceremonies, lodge; opening ode; invocation, Rev. Fr. T. Culligan; "One Sweetly, Solemn Thought," (Ambrose), John Bernard; orators, Bro. D. W. Lawler, St. Paul lodge, No. 59; "Like as the Heart Desireth," (Allitson), George C. Jensen; eulogy, Bro. W. J. Archer, Virginia lodge No. 1003; "Lead Us, Oh Father," Norton Park; quartet, Virginia lodge No. 1003; closing ceremonies, lodge; closing ode, lodge and audience; benediction, Rev. O. D. Cannon.

Salminen, Mrs. Joseph Snalgia, Mrs. Joseph Collyard, Jr., Mrs. A. J. Johnson, Mrs. Alfred Newberg, Mrs. J. C. Eastman, Mrs. A. B. Kirk, Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Ingals.

SON WOULD ADMINISTER HIS FATHER'S ESTATE

J. Victor Mulligan of Eveleth today petitioned the probate court for letters of special administration on the estate of his father, George W. Mulligan, who died in Eveleth on Nov. 23 last. Mulligan conducted a cigar business in Eveleth, and his son now desires that he be authorized by the court to conduct the business pending the granting of an application for letters of general administration. The same petitioner is also asking to be appointed general administrator. The heirs are two sons and three daughters.

FORMER MOUNTAIN IRON RESIDENT PASSES

Mountain Iron, Minn., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Ellert Ellertson received word Saturday of the death of her brother, Marion Bonan, in Southern Minnesota, and left immediately to attend the funeral.

Marion Bonan was well known on the range. He lived in Mountain Iron many years up to above seven years ago. He was employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company. He is survived by his widow and two children.

SECOND SON CALLED WITHIN SIX MONTHS

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death has been unusually severe upon Capt. and Mrs. John Williamson, living on Locust street, two of their sons having died within six months. One died half a year ago, and today Garfield, aged 16, passed.

Tower "Indian" Party.

Tower, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Indian" party given in the kindergarten building Saturday evening by the members of the high school classes, proved an enjoyable affair. Everybody came dressed like red men, pow-wows were in order, and presents exchanged. An Indian menu constituted the refreshments.

Chisholm Masonic Ball.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Masonic ball, one of the big social events of the village, will be held on Thursday, Dec. 16, and preparations are being made by the committee in charge. A special orchestra of fifteen pieces will furnish the music.

COLD WEATHER RHEUMATISM

Why should rheumatism, a disease of the blood, be worse in cold weather than in summer?

The rheumatic poison in the blood is the predisposing cause of the disease. If you have the taint in your blood you may have rheumatism whenever the exciting cause stirs it to action. Cold weather and dampness are exciting causes of rheumatism. They excite to action something already in the blood, something that you must get rid of if you would be free from rheumatism.

What this something is, nobody knows. Not very long ago it was thought to be uric acid. Many doctors now think it a microscopic organism or a specific bacillus, but they cannot find the bacillus.

It is a known fact that in rheumatism the blood becomes thin rapidly, that building up the blood relieves the rheumatism and that there will be no return of the rheumatism as long as the condition of the blood is maintained. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for rheumatism because they keep the blood rich and red and free from rheumatic poisons.

The free book, "Building Up the Blood" tells all about the treatment. Send for a copy today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

ALGER-SMITH WILL SHIP MUCH TIMBER

Winter Activities Around Knife River Have Commenced.

Knife River, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The addition to the night force at the Iron Range depot indicates the shipping of logs by Alger-Smith & Co. From four to six trains of thirty cars each go through here daily during the rush season, making more work at that station. This concern is the largest engaged in lumbering in this section. Thirteen camps, two of them for ties and pulpwood, are now in full operation.

These camps are located at various distances from the railroad and it requires much equipment to handle the product. Five hundred and fifty horses are already in use and daily shipments are now being made from here. Two thousand men are employed doing the various kinds of work incidental to the cutting, skidding and loading of the logs on cars ready for transportation. Then a haul by rail seventy miles to their saw mills in Duluth.

To Cut Much Timber.

Fifty million feet will be cut exclusive of ties and 10,000 cords of pulpwood.

Some of these logs are dumped into lakes adjacent to the timber, the larger amount being at once shipped. That put in lakes will be taken out next summer. The wages paid are higher than last year and range from $18 to $30 per month.

LAKE COUNTY CORONER.

Thomas Brown Succeeds Dr. Christensen, Who Resigned.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Christensen having resigned as county coroner because of his press of duties at the Burns-Christensen hospital, the county board appointed Thomas J. Brown, a barber, his successor.

The new coroner is an old resident of the city, having resided here for the past twenty-nine years, and is familiar with the duties of coroner as he has filled that position in Lake county for twenty-one years, vacating a year and a half ago.

Mr. Brown's name was the only one presented to the board and his election was unanimous. His term will expire a year from this coming January.

Being Treated in Duluth.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Nisbett is in Duluth in St. Luke's hospital for treatment of his right eye, which seems to be so seriously affected by some kind of poisoning that may result in its loss. Hugh McEwan, who accompanied him to Duluth, states that the doctors had not figured out what the nature of the poisoning was, but that they said it was some foreign substance which had become lodged in the eye and affected it.

Plan Hibbing Drama League.

Hibbing, Minn. Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing Drama League of America will be organized tonight at the public library. The Saturday club which organization is the prime mover in formation of a local drama league has already obtained the support of over a hundred citizens and expect others to join the movement this week.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.—Advertisement.

SLASHES WIFE WITH RAZOR

P. Tierney Then Attempts Own Life at New Rockford, N. D.

Tries to Kill Charles Olker, Who Interferes in Attack.

New Rockford, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Tierney, moved it is believed by jealousy, attacked his wife with a razor at their home here early Sunday and after viciously cutting the woman tried to commit suicide by cutting himself with the razor. Charles Olker, attracted to the bedroom by the woman's screams, was also attacked by Tierney.

Mrs. Tierney is now in a local hospital, and the attending physicians say she will recover. Olker's wound is not serious, while Tierney, who is held in the county jail, is also recovering from his wound.

Tierney had repeatedly charged his wife with indiscretions, and officials believe his murderous assault was the climax of a drinking bout.

Severs Wife's Windpipe.

It was between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning that Tierney, several hours after they had retired, made the vicious attack upon his wife. With a razor, he slashed her throat, making a wound so deep that it severed the windpipe, and extended from ear to ear. The woman fought desperately, and grabbed the blade of the razor, with the result that the flesh of her hand was slashed badly.

Tierney then cut his own throat, and with blood streaming from his own wound, and with the bed rapidly becoming soaked in the life blood of his wife, attacked Olker, only to be overpowered.

Four children sleeping in an adjoining room, aroused by the cries of their mother, and the oaths of the would-be murderer, ran screaming from the house in their night apparel, summoning neighbors.

WRITES HE IS WELL, THEN PARENTS HEAR HE'S KILLED.

Williston, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I am well," were the last words that Private Edgar Halstad, with the British forces in France, wrote to his parents in England, before a German bullet ended his life.

Private Halstad, a cousin of Mrs. Ethel Campbell of Williston, N. D., had written other notes on a postal card directed to his parents, but the British censorship erased everything but the three words.

The day following the receipt of the short message of cheer the family received official announcement of his death.

JUSTICE HALLAM SPEAKS

Delivers Memorial Address for Bemidji Lodge of Elks.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice Oscar Hallam of the Minnesota supreme court delivered the eulogy at the Elks' annual session of sorrow here Sunday afternoon. More than 300 persons were present.

Judge Hallam, while recognizing that "the season of wars is not upon us," urged that the time of heroes is upon us and that "we need heroes in the time of peace, made of the same stuff as the heroes of war. There is danger that we may lose some of the heroism and chivalry that war engenders."

The panacea for perpetual peace was given by the speaker as the Elks' cardinal principle, charity.

"All history," he said, "admonishes us that the real civilizer of mankind is charity and that the cohesive in all civilization is human love."

The services were in charge of Thayer H. Bailey, acting as exalted ruler, while Exalted Ruler H. H. Mayer filled the chair of esteemed lecturing knight.

There were two solos by Frances Vivian Phillips and a reading by Ida Virginia Brown.

An orchestra furnished music. Rev. H. F. Parshall of Cass Lake, a life member of St. Cloud lodge, acted as chaplain, as he has done at every memorial service here since the Elks lodge was organized nine years ago.

There has been but one death of a member of the Bemidji lodge during the past year, Earnest J. Holler, a resident of International Falls. Since the Bemidji lodge was organized twelve members have died.

INSPECTS RESERVATIONS

Government Agent Visits Bad River and Red Cliff Indians.

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 6.—Inspector H. S. Traylor, who has been in this section for a week looking into Indian affairs and getting a personal insight into conditions on the Bad River and Red Cliff Indian reservations, has left for Washington, D. C.

Mr. Traylor has found conditions on both reservations satisfactory as far as they compare with other reservations throughout the country. There appears to be a great improvement in general health conditions among the Indians in this vicinity since his last visit of a year ago.

He found about seventy-five cases of tuberculosis among the Indians at Red Cliff which he believes is much lower than his last visit among these people. He says the Red Cliff Indians are classed with the most healthy Reds in the country. They are a most industrious Indian and have developed fine farms and have shown an inclination to follow the footsteps of their more energetic white brothers.

BARRON, WIS., HUNTER IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Couderay, Wis., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herbert Karkau of Barron was seriously injured by the accidental discharge of his rifle while hunting near Winter. He was standing on a stump when the rifle was discharged in some manner, the bullet entering his body near the stomach and passing upwards.

LUMBER COMPANY HAS FINE CAMPS

Bayfield, Wis., Dec. 6.—The Wachsmuth Lumber company this winter will cut and log about the same quantity of timber as it did a year ago, about 16,000,000 feet. Already the work in the company's five camps is well under way. It will be prosecuted with increasing vigor as the winter makes easier skidding and hauling. The company will, at the height of the season, have in its employ at least 350 men in its camps on the peninsula.

HAYWARD WOMAN READY FOR DEATH

Mrs. Harding Had Coffin at Home and Lot Bought in Cemetery.

Hayward, Wis., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Kate Harding, aged 85, died here Saturday morning of the infirmities incident to old age. She was born in County Cork, Ireland, and had been a resident of Hayward for thirty years.

Mrs. Harding three years ago, fearing that her spare of years had about been reached, purchased and paid for a lot in the local cemetery, had the tombstone erected, giving the place and date of her birth, reserving space to fill in the date of death and age. She also had the casket and roughbox, which she purchased at the same time, brought to her home and placed in the attic.

Money to Minneapolitan.

She also executed a will, in which she bequeather her fortune of $15,000 to her only living relative, a nephew, who resides in Minneapolis, to whom she also left several diamond rings and earrings valued at several hundred dollars.

When Hayward was the Mecca of lumberjacks, she conducted a restaurant which was called the home of the woodsmen, to whom she proved a mother. Despite her eccentricities she was beloved by the entire city, and not a man, woman or child in Hayward but who knew her. The funeral was held this morning.

BIG CUTOVER LAND DEAL

St. Paul Concern Acquires Large Clearwater County Tract.

Bagley, Minn., Dec. 6.—A deal has been closed whereby the cut-over lands owned by the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, aggregating approximately 22,000 acres in the southern part of Clearwater county, were sold to the Great Northern Land & Stock company of St. Paul. It is the intention of this company to bring in large numbers of settlers as soon as they have completed their roads and drainage ditches, breaking and buildings, all of which will be necessary before settlement of these lands can get very far.

The lands involved in this deal are especially adapted to cattle and sheep raising.

FOR INDIGESTION, GASES, SOURNESS, ACID STOMACHS

The Moment "Pape's Diapepsin" Reaches Stomach All Distress Goes.

Don't Suffer! Eat Without Fear of an Upset Stomach or Dyspepsia.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.—Advertisement.

SEE BENEFIT IN TRIP.

North Dakotans Believe Governor Hanna Can Induce Immigration.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Even should the peace mission of Henry Ford and his associates fail, North Dakotans feel that Governor Hanna of this state, by making the trip, will be in a position to accomplish some highly beneficial things for the state. While his object in making the trip was purely for the purpose of initiating a peace movement, if possible, and he was strongly urged by many North Dakotans to make the trip for this purpose, there are others in the state who see the possibility of his being able to secure many settlers for the state through the trip after peace has once been established and the readjustment in Europe is begun.

Those interested in immigration have suddenly sensed the possibilities along this line and are elated over the action of the governor in making the trip.

THRESHING ABOUT OVER.

North Dakota Farmers, Favored By Weather, Complete Their Work.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Favored by better weather conditions during the past few weeks, North Dakota farmers have been able to complete their threshing of grain in the shock and have about completed the threshing of grain that was stacked.

While there was a loss of grade on wheat which still remained in the shock the farmers have not lost seriously, as the prices are now better than earlier in the season and the results are about the same. Wheat now being threshed from the stacks is also in great demand for seed purposes now and is bringing better than market prices for that purpose.

One of the results of the delayed threshing was the inability of farmers to get as much plowing done this fall as last, but the amount compares favorably with former years.

Despite the unusually large yield over the state this year, farmers are less carried away than in former years of bumper crops and appear more inclined to stick to diversified farming. The years of good work done by different organizations of the state along those lines seems at last to have a permanency so long desired and crop rotation and livestock raising are becoming fixed features of North Dakota agricultural life, not only in a few advanced counties, but in every section of the state.

ST. CLOUD PHYSICIAN IS FORCED INTO ARMY

St. Cloud, Minn., Dec. 6.—Pressed into military service despite the fact that he is a naturalized American citizen, Dr. A. J. Kirghis of this city has written his wife from France asking her to go to Washington to intercede in his behalf and if unsuccessful to go to France to join him.

PAIR ACQUITTED OF TRIPLE MURDER CHARGE

Glenwood, Minn., Dec. 6.—George Nelson and John Jacobson, charged with the murder of the three Mitmoen brothers last May on their farm, were acquitted in the district court here after a four weeks' trial. The jury was out only twenty minutes and took only one ballot.

This leaves the Mitmoen murder an unsolved mystery.

IS BURNED BY ACID IN DYNAMITE PLANT

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 6.—Oscar Cyr of Ashland, age 23, was brought to the hospital here from the dynamite plant at Barksdale, where he was employed on the acid line, suffering with severe sulphuric acid burns about the face and eyes.

Cyr was engaged in cleaning out a sleeve or glass tube through which the acid is conveyed at one of the plants. The acid had become frozen and clogged up the tube. While cleaning out the sleeve the acid spurted out and Cyr was caught in the face and eyes. His left eye is badly burned and there is a possibility of his losing the sight of that optic.

Another Weather Prediction.

Riverton, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Guy Bye, a well-known hunter and justice of the peace, asserts that the winter in Minnesota will be a mild and open one, basing his prediction on the muskrat houses, which the little animals are building high and large. On the other hand, should the winter be a severe one, they burrow deep.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Washburn — Washburn people are expecting to put on a four-day community institute here during February, working in co-operation with the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

Kenosha—The great storm of April 8, 1874, was recalled here Dec. 4 by the death of Traugotte Franke, aged 77, a pioneer German resident. Franke in the early days was a fisherman, and he was one of the twelve men who had gone out from Kenosha on the day of the storm. Eight fishermen were drowned but Franke and four companions hung onto a boat until they were finally washed ashore.

Monroe—The annual Cheesemakers' ball Friday night was a big success.

Neenah—The Fox river is filled with anchor ice here and mills on the water power are experiencing considerable difficulty by the clogging up of the flumes. A thin crust has formed for a considerable distance on Lake Winnebago.

Appleton—The common council today notified the industrial school board that the city would appropriate $50,000 for a new continuation school.

Milwaukee — Christian Voechleing, retired president of Beschting, Shape & Co., who had charge of the Schlitz Brewing company's bottling department, died Dec. 4.

Mellen—Fifty prominent citizens of Mellen met for the purpose of reorganizing a new and more substantial Commercial club on an entirely different footing. The new organization will be a strictly business affair with the interest of Mellen and the surrounding country in view all the time.

Ashland—The Ashland Encampment No. 71, I. O. O. F., elected officers as follows: Past chief patriarch, J. A. Thoreson; chief patriarch, George W. Cole; high priest, Fred Koecher; senior warden, A. M. Thoreson; junior warden, George W. Coe, Jr.; scribe, August Metzdorf; trustee for three years, F. A. Stroshane.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Wahpeton, N. D.—The poor children of Wahpeton and Brekenridge are to have a real Christmas this year, as a result of plans of the Elks' lodges of Wahpeton and Breckenridge.

Fargo, N. D.—Mecca chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, elected these officers: Worthy matron, Mrs. Bertha Miller; worthy patron, Fred O. Olsen; assistant worthy matron, Mrs. F. L. Watkins; secretary, Mrs. Sadie A. Walker; treasurer, Mrs. Minnie E. Hooper; conductress, Mrs. Persy L. E. Godwin; assistant conductress, Mrs. Elmer May; trustees, M. S. Mayo, Mrs. S. J. Christianson and Mrs. Angus Frazier.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Knights of Pythias elected these officers: C. C., F. F. Burchard; V. C., C. K. Baarman; prelate, F. W. Keith; M. of W., Christ Hanson; K. of R. and S., W. M. Morrow; M. of F., P. Standahl; M. of E., I. Johnson; M. of A., John Robertson; I. G., Carl Sorlie; O. G., M. Rasmussen; trustee, H. Krogsrud; representatives to the grand lodge, J. M. Culliton and C. Hanson; alternates, H. P. Knutson and W. M. Day; auditing committee, Sonnes Kogsrud and F. F. Burchard.

Minot, N. D.—Daniel Jordan, who was on trial in the district court here on a charge of blind pigging, the business being conducted at Kenmare, was found guilty by the jury.

Grand Forks, N. D.—James Murray of Salem, Or., formerly a linotype operator on the Herald, has written that recent reports of his legacy were "grossly exaggerated." It was reported that he would get $30,000 from an Irish estate, but Mr. Murray says he will be lucky if he gets $1,000.

Fargo, N. D.—Capt. and Mrs. Buyer and the local workers of the Salvation Army are already busy with their plans for Christmas for the poor and needy of the city.

Anselm, N. D.—Billie Christman of Anselm broke two of his teeth and seriously injured his tongue by striking his face against some scrap iron on which he fell.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Crookston — Miss Virginia Arnold, organizer of the congressional Union for Woman suffrage, has left for her home in Washington, D. C. During the few days that Miss Arnold was in Crookston, she accomplished a great deal for the work in which she is engaged, a number of Crookston women joining the organization.

Warroad—J. H. Davis of Plentywood, Mont., bought a carload of range stock near Warroad, for the purpose of increasing his herd.

Little Falls — Mrs. C. A. Lindbergh, wife of the congressman and son, Charles, have left Detroit, Mich., where they visited several weeks with Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Land, and have gone to Washington, D. C., to spend the winter.

Crookston — President C. E. Sheldon, Treasurer E. C. Erb and Vice President F. H. Erickson of the Red Wing school board, come here, to inspect the new Central high school. They were decidedly pleased with the arrangement of rooms in the local building.

Motley—A. J. Swanberg of Cass Lake and J. B. Jones of Pillager were here. Both are members of the board of county commissioners of Cass county and had been over the new state road from Backus to Motley on a tour of inspection.

WHEAT BULGES SHARPLY WITH EXPORTERS' BIDDING

Market Advances With Demand for Export Shipment and Millers' Account.

Flaxseed Joins on Good Crushers' Inquiry—Day's Offerings Light.

Duluth, Dec. 6.—The market was strong around the close with fresh urgent bidding in sympathy with strength at Chicago.

December wheat closed 4⅞c up, May 4⅜c up and July 4⅜c up. December durum closed 5c up and May 4¼c up.

Oats closed ½c up at 40c for on the track, rye unchanged at 90c and barley 2c up at from 59@68c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, December oats closed ⅝c up at 41⅝c and May ¼c up at 43¼c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.12½ and calls at $1.19¾.

Higher Liverpool cables and buying by large operators for export led to a sharp advance in wheat prices around the opening of the market this morning. Bulges extending up to 4⅛c were recorded during the first three hours' trading. Sharp inquiry was reported for wheat to cover shipping contracts before the close of navigation, due to the greatly reduced stocks as a result of heavy loadings during the last few days. It is estimated that supplies of all classes of wheat held here are down to only 3,500,000 bu, and loading of steamers up to Dec. 12 is now expected. Thanks to the exceptionally favorable weather of the last ten days with no ice to interfere with the movement of steamers into the slips, shipping has been in greater volume than had been counted upon, and it is now taken for granted that elevator stocks will be down to a minimum at the close of navigation. Inquiry for cars for all-rail shipment of wheat was reported on the board of trade this morning, and that movement is expected to attain record volume during the next two months.

A bullish factor today was the appearance of the American visible supply report, showing an increase of only 1,977,000 bu of wheat during the week, whereas a much larger gain had been expected. That was taken to indicate that the invisible absorption had been enormous.

December wheat opened unchanged at $1.09 and advanced to $1.13⅛ at the noon hour. May opened unchanged at $1.12 and bulged 3¾c.

Durum was in demand for export and Eastern millers' account. December opened ¼c up at $1.04¼, and gained 3¼c more. May opened ½c up at $1.08½ and gained 2⅝c more.

Bulge in Flaxseed.

Flaxseed scored a sharp advance early on strong bidding by operators to obtain supplies to cover Eastern contracts. It was reported that another steamer will take on 250,000 bu of flax for Buffalo tomorrow. The holding up of Argentine shipments, through high freight rates and scarcity of steamers, was a factor. The market receded during the late trading.

December flax opened ¼c up at $1.04¼ and closed 1½c up at $2.04¼ asked. May opened ¼c up at $2.09 and closed ½c up at $2.09¼ bid.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed ½c up at $1.83½ bid, and May unchanged at $1.90.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 1⅛c off at $1.29¼c, and London ⅞c up at $2.35⅛.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Wheat stocks in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as on Dec. 4, 1915, were 10,875,000 bu against 24,422,000 bu last year. At Duluth there was 6,050,000 bu against 7,643,000 bu last year, and at Minneapolis, 4,825,000 against 16,779,000 bu last year.

Flaxseed supplies in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as on Dec. 4, 1915, were 774,000 bu against 569,000 bu last year. At Duluth there was 688,000 bu against 235,000 bu last year, and at Minneapolis, 86,000 bu compared with 334,000 bu a year ago.

* * *

Cash demand for wheat was brisk on the Duluth market today. Cash No. 1 northern sold at 3c over December, and cash durum at 1c over December. There was a good call for oats at 3½c under Chicago December for No. 3 white or 1c better for standard white.

* * *

Winnipeg wired: "No. 1 northern spot wheat sold at 3c over December; No. 2 northern at 1c over December. There was a good class of selling early, but it lightened up again. Trade was mostly local."

* * *

London market linseed strong after a period of depression. India is shipping very little linseed and Russia practically nothing. Argentina continues to offer freely at lower prices, but the strong freights are militating against purchases. It is believed there will be very little export from Argentina before March.

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Strong American cables Saturday offset larger American shipments than expected, and the undertone was strong. Spot market was strong, 2d to 4d higher, with an urgent demand for Manitobas, which are strongly held. Cargo market was strong, Manitobas and winters 1s higher, Plates 9d higher, and Indians unchanged. Stocks continue to decrease notwithstanding the larger native movement and free foreign arrivals. Supplies continue inadequate and nervousness is being felt for replenishing reserves, as import offers are being more firmly held and much difficulty is being experienced in obtaining Australian and Argentine wheat, owing to the freight situation. Continent continues to take freely."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Fresh Advances in Wheat Meet Heavy Sales to Realize Profits.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Fresh advances today in the prices of wheat were met by heavy sales to realize profits. Traders who last week had been the most active in the purchasing took the lead today on the selling side. Higher quotations at Liverpool and advices that supplies there continued inadequate were largely responsible for some decided upturns in values here at the start. The opening ranged from ⅝c off to an advance of 2⅜c, but a setback all around followed to well below Saturday's finish. Rallies, however, ensued, especially in the May option.

First prices were $1.16 to $1.18 for December and $1.16½ to $1.18½ for May.

Later swells in the market lifting prices to above $1.20 for May were more or less due to big export clearances and to the smallness of the increases of the domestic visible suppy. The market showed broad activity, and at times jumped ½c between trades. The close was unsettled, 2⅜c to 3⅜c net higher, with December at $1.19¼ and May at $1.19⅞.

Corn rose on account of predictions of unsettled weather. The downturn in wheat, though, tended to check the bulls. After opening ½c to 1⅛c higher, the market lost nearly all of the gains.

Subsequently bullish crop estimates gave the market renewed strength. The close was nervous at 1½@1⅝c to 1⅞c net advance.

Oats swayed with other grain. On the whole, prices nevertheless had an upward slant.

Immense receipts of hogs carried down provisions. The arrivals throughout the West totaled more than twice as many as on the corresponding day a year ago.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Trading Lags During the Greater Part of the Session.

Investment Shares Are in Demand in the Final Hour.

New York, Dec. 6.—Stocks manifested general strength on the resumption of trading today, specialties being most prominent. General Motors rose 7½ to the new record of 500, later advancing to 525, with a rise of 4¾ for the preferred at 121. Mercantile Marine preferred, Roebuck, Anaconda, Colorado Fuel, United States Rubber and Goodrich were a point or more over last week's final prices. Norfolk & Western was strongest of the rails, gaining 2¾ at 120⅜, with minor changes elsewhere in that group. Express shares also showed marked improvement.

Trading broadened after the opening, an unusual variety of issues being embraced in the 200,000-share turnover of the first hour. Copper, oil, sugar and motor stocks made greatest gains and Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric and Crucible Steel assumed some of the recent prominence. Advances in express stocks were materially extended, Adams rising 7 to 129, and American 6½ to 130. Investments were more active, but another decision of the interstate commerce commission, adverse to the coal roads, caused some restraint in that quarter. United Fruit was weak despite its favorable annual report. Bonds were steady.

Trading became stagnant in the early afternoon with moderate recessions in numerous specialties. Texas company was an exception, advancing 5¼ to 217.

Trading lagged during the greater part of today's session with further professional manipulation of various specialties.

Investment shares were in demand in the final hour with general though moderate gains. The closing was strong.

LAKE CLOSE AFFECTS FLAX

Stocks Low and Shipping on Contract Causes Advance.

The demand for flax still keeps up, and it would not be surprising if it should become rather insistent now that the close of navigation is about the next noticeable thing to happen. The stocks here are steadily going down, despite continued good receipts, for with the present pleasant weather for sailing, lake boats are taking huge consignments from the elevators almost daily.

There are only about 600,000 bushels of flax at the Head of the Lakes now and with navigation's close less than a week away, the chances are that the seed, like all other grains, will be very popular for the next week for the filling of contracts.

The closing prices for the past six trading days, compared with the same period a year ago, were:

PICNIC ON LAKE SHORE IN DECEMBER

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dinham, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Yale and Mr. and Mrs. George Yale went by auto to a point several miles beyond Two Harbors yesterday and had a picnic on the lake shore. They had their lunch on the rocks close to the shore and declare that the atmosphere was ideal, the ground dry and the conditions perfect for the affair.

Mr. Dinham declares that the only reason they did not go in bathing was that they had neglected to take their bathing suits along.

CHEMICALS PUT IN BOILERS OF LINER

San Francisco, Dec. 6.—Chemicals put in the water of the Hill liner Minnesota's boilers may have caused the breakdown of the big freighter, now on her way to this port, according to information received by C. W. Wiley, marine superintendent of the Great Northern Steamship company.

All of the sixteen boilers were put out of commission by leaky tubes at various times since the Minnesota left Seattle Nov. 14 for London with a cargo of 16,000 tons of foodstuffs. Five hundred extra tubes were carried for replacing any of the 6,500 tubes in the boilers but the supply has been practically exhausted.

"British agents informed the company," Mr. Wiley said, "that a water tender boasted to his wife that the vessel would not make the voyage. I sent this information to Capt. T. W. Garlick by wireless, but he has made no comment on it.

"I know that the breakdown of so many tubes and all of the boilers was not natural. Chemicals placed in the water would have caused this or ashes might have done it. The report concerning the water tender accords with what happened."

The Minnesota will return here, Mr. Wiley said.

MORE INDICTMENTS AGAINST LIEUT. FAY

New York, Dec. 6.—Five additional indictments were returned today against Robert Fay, Walter Scholz, Max Breitung, Dr. Herbert Kienzle, Englebert Bronkhorst and Paul Darehe. All were charged with conspiracy to commit murder, to commit assault with deadly weapons and to destroy ships. The previous indictments against them merely charged them with attempting to destroy ships.

Fay, who says he is a lieutenant in the German army, and his associates were originally arrested on charges of conspiring to blow up ships carrying munitions to the allies. Fay claimed to have invented a device which could be attached to the propellers of the ships and which would be exploded by the movement of the vessel.

The original charge referred to ships presumably owned by the allied nations. The new indictments specifically state that the alleged conspiracy was directed against Americans and ships owned in part or wholly in this country.

The purpose of the new indictments is to cover possible technicalities not embraced in the original bill, particularly to embrace any events within the territorial waters of the United States.

SHOCKE SHOCKS THE GOVERNOR; IS INSANE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Wesley Shocke, giving his address as Zion City, Ill., walked into the offices of Governor Hammond today and announced that he was insane. He was taken in hand and hustled down to the board of control, where it was found that he had been an inmate of an Illinois insane hospital.

Shocke was anxious to return and the board at once made arrangements for his deportation. He said he had walked from Zion City.

PLEADS GUILTY TO ROBBERY CHARGE

Mile Zerhovich, jointly indicted with Miles Bulotovich for the crime of highway robbery, pleaded guilty to robbery in the second degree when brought before Judge Ensign this morning. Bulotovitch was tried last week and convicted of robbery in the first degree. Both men were brought before the court today and sentenced. Bulotovich will serve not more than forty years and Zerhovich not more than fifteen. The men were committed to the state reformatory at St. Cloud on the indeterminate sentence plan.

The two highwaymen held up George Poloiner at Mesaba on Oct. 7 last. After beating him almost to insensibility with a pair of brass knuckles, they relieved him of $35, all the money he had on his person. They were later captured by a posse, headed by the town marshal and the justice of the peace.

LUMBER BRANDING IS TO BE RECOMMENDED

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 6.—The special committee of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association appointed to investigate the question of branding for Wisconsin and Northern Michigan lumber at a conference today decided to recommend such a step.

The association at a convention Tuesday will be asked to ratify this decision of its committee.

Preliminary to adopting the trademark, the association will be asked to define standards of lumber so that the trade mark will be a guarantee of quality.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS WILL HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The public affairs committee of the Commercial club will hold a regular monthly meeting, following dinner, this evening at the club main dining room. There are a number of matters of importance to come up and be disposed of, and it is requested there be a full attendance.

Some matters submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce will be up for consideration and action, and several local matters will also be dealt with. Dinner will be served at 6:15, following which the meeting will take place.

Rehearing Denied.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The petition of coal operators in the Wyoming region of Pennsylvania for a rehearing on the ne wrates to the Atlantic coast on small sizes of anthracite was denied today by the interstate commerce commission.

Brings Home Canadians.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 6.—The steamship Scandinavian, which arrived yesterday from England, brought 117 Canadian soldiers, including men wounded in battle and some who were sent home on account of illness. They were forwarded by special train to Quebec.

Painting Governor's Portrait.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—An oil painting of Governor Hammond soon will adorn the walls of the executive offices. Today the governor made his first sitting for the picture. N. R. Brewer, St. Paul portrait artist, will do the work.

DOCTRINE OF PAN-AMERICANISM PROCLAIMED BY THE PRESIDENT IN ADDRESS TO CONGRESS

MILITARY AND NAVAL ACTIVITIES CAUSE OF ATTACHES' DISMISSAL

GERMANY'S REQUEST IS ANSWERED

May Be Other Reasons, But They Will Not Be Furnished.

No Matter What Germany Does, Boy-Ed and Von Papen Must Go.

Secretary Lansing Delivers Long Note to Ambassador Von Bernstorff.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Secretary Lansing has replied to Germany that the American government's request for the withdrawal of Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. von Pappen, the naval and military attaches, respectively, of the German embassy here, was entirely because of their military and naval activities.

Secretary Lansing's reply to the German government's inquiry, which indicated the Berlin foreign office intended to contest the withdrawal of the attaches under certain conditions, was delivered in a long communication which the German embassy immediately forwarded to Berlin. At the embassy all comment on it was refused.

Approved By President.

President Wilson has fully approved Secretary Lansing's decision, and, it was said authoritatively today, it will be adhered to, no matter what Germany does.

Neither was there any indication of whether the reply would meet the contention of the German government that it should know the reasons for the

BULGARS REFUSE TO GO TO DARDANELLES

Troops Said to Have Mutinied and Over 300 of Them Shot.

London, Dec. 7.—An unconfirmed report of the mutiny of a Bulgarian infantry regiment received in Amsterdam from Frankfort was forwarded today by the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company. This report is to the effect that the regiment was ordered to proced to the Gallipoli peninsula to fight with the Turks and that when it refused to obey the command 300 of the mutineers were shot.

GERMANS TURN FROM SERBIAN CONQUEST TO ASSAULT ALLIES

WILL JOIN BULGARIANS

Von Gallwitz to Attack Before Reinforcements Can Be Brought Up.

Berlin Information Indicates Troops Have Already Been Detached for Work.

Germans Begin to Show Considerable Interest in Mesopotamia Campaign.

London, Dec. 7.—The campaign against the main Serbian armies having been closed, it is expected Gen. von Gallwitz, with his German forces, will join the Bulgarians in Maceodnia in an effort to crush the French and British armies before they become much stronger.

Information from Berlin indicates that the German forces engaged in the earlier movements in the Balkans have now been detached for the purpose of sharing in the attack on the Franco-British forces along the Southern Macedonian front. Dispatches from Athens partially corroborate this theory, as it is reported two German divisions are co-operating with the Bulgarians near Strumitza.

Usual Minor Operations.

There is little to report from the other fronts save the usual minor operations. The French, however, are carrying on a particularly energetic bombardment of the German lines in the Champagne. In Mesopotamia the

ACCOMPLICE CONFESSES TO HURLING WOMAN OVER CLIFF

Companion of F. D. Price Aided Him in Murder of His Wife.

Pushed Woman Over and Climbed Down and Beat Her Head.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Confessing, according to George W. Armstrong, county prosecutor of Hennepin county, Minnesota, that he aided Frederick T. Price of Minneapolis, in hurling Price's wife to her death over a cliff, Charles D. Etchison, a traveling salesman of Washington, D. C., is due in Minneapolis today to face legal action. Mrs. Price was killed Nov. 28, 1914, one day after she had been given $60,000 by her father.

Etchison was arrested in Washington Sunday by operatives of a private detective agency and was brought to Chicago last night. Accompanying him was Mr. Armstrong, who announced the prisoner had confessed.

Member of Old Family.

"Mrs. Price was the daughter of David H. Fridley, member of one of the oldest Minneapolis families," Etcheison is reported to have said in his confession, "and the day after she got the money, she and Price and I

AUSTRIAN PRISONERS ARE DRAWING WAGES

Saving Money Out of Sums Paid Them for Working in Russian Mines.

New York, Dec. 7.—Thousands of Austrian prisoners in Russian hands in and near Yekaterinburg, Russia, center of the Ural mining region, are saving money out of wages allowed them as miners, and many not only have bank accounts but are sending funds to Austria. J. A. McVicar of Buffalo, N. Y., who for three years had represented an American diamond drill concern in Russia, made this statement today when he arrived on the liner Cameronia from Liverpool.

"Working in the copper mines, these Austrians," he said, "are receiving 1½ rubles a day, in addition to their board and lodging. Banking facilities are provided them by the Russian government, and on the whole they are faring better than Russian troops. When off duty the Austrians are held under nominal guard only and in the town they seem to have more liberty than the Russian soldiers."

College Laboratory Destroyed.

Williamstown, Mass., Dec. 7.—Fire early today totally destroyed the Thompson chemical laboratory of Williams college, with an estimated loss of $100,000. The fire started from spontaneous combustion, according to college authorities.

GREEK GOVERNMENT PLAYING FOR TIME

Hopes Entente Allies Will Be Forced to Retreat, Says Correspondent.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The Athens correspondent of the Matin in a dispatch relative to the attitude of Greece toward the Entente powers, says:

"The government is simply playing for time, hoping that the Entente allies will be forced to the sea by the Austro-Germans and Bulgars. It will be found in a week or so that an agreement between the Greek and the allied states cannot be reached and that the government will declare that, notwithstanding Greece's traditional good will towards the Entente powers, it cannot accede to their demands."

The correspondent affirms that the only effective course is to apply a blockade to Greece, and adds:

"It will be all the more fruitful in results since popular discontent with the royal policy is growing perceptibly. If the elections had been held three weeks ago, the Venizelos party would have been beaten, but now nothwithstanding the extraordinary conditions under which they will be held, he is likely to get a majority. A blockade not only would starve the population, but would ruin the mercantile marine, Greece's sole source of wealth. Consequently the general public is deeply agitated and business circles are anxious."

OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF BORDER CONDITIONS

Washington, Dec. 7.—Governor Ferguson of Texas today gave President Wilson an optimistic view of conditions along the Mexican border and in Mexico itself. The governor told the president that the recognition of Gen. Carranza had gone far toward the resumption of order and he predicted the speedy elimination of Gen. Villa in revolutionary affairs.

Letter From Donald B. McMillan, Dated April 6, Received in New York.

Making Every Effort to Bring Back Ekblaw, Who Is Far Away.

New York, Dec. 7.—Donald B. MacMillan, the Arctic explorer, who went North in search of Crockerland, was at Etah, Greenland, when he wrote a letter just received by the American Museum of Natural History here. MacMillan said in his letter that he was awaiting the arrival of the relief schooner Cluett, which, it is learned, has now been imprisoned by ice at North Star Bay, more than 100 miles from Etah.

A letter from Knud Rasmussen, which was sent from Greenland with MacMillan's letter, said that the captain of Rasmussen's vessel had sent his motor boat to Etah to bring out the MacMillan party, but the result is not yet known.

MacMillan's letter was dated April 6 last. He wrote that "naturally the boys are very anxious to get home, and would be much disappointed if a ship failed to arrive, but do not be a bit alarmed over our safety if such should happen."

The explorer wrote that all his efforts were then directed to bring back to safety W. Elmer Ekblaw, the geologist and botanist, who had not returned from a 1,100-mile trip over Ellesmereland. Ekblaw started late in March and was expected to return about June 1. The MacMillan party was then engaged in placing caches of food at different points on the Greenland coast.

Compelled to Abandon Trip.

MacMillan was compelled to abandon his own proposed trip to King Christianland in order to equip the Ekblaw

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

GERMANS CAPTURE FRENCH TRENCHES

Teutons Resume Activities in Champagne District, West of Auberive.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London, 3:06 p. m.—Capture of 250 meters of an advanced French trench in the Champagne district, east of Auberive, was announced by German headquarters today. Sixty men were taken prisoners in this operation.

French Statement.

Paris, Dec. 7, 2:34 p. m.—The communication of this afternoon from the war office follows:

"There were no important developments last night, with the exception of rather spirited cannonading in the Champagne and a local engagement near one of our advanced posts to the south of Saint Souplet."

St. Catherine Has Bad Fire.

St. Catherine, Ont., Dec. 7.—Fire which started in the sifting room and spread with such rapidity that employes had but bare time to escape, did between $300,000 and $400,000 damage today to the plant of the Maple Leaf Milling company, flour manufacturers.

PEACE PARTY IS RIDICULED

Ford Expedition Comes Up for Discussion in House of Commons.

Paris Papers Refer to the Trip in Facetious Manner.

London, Dec. 7.—A request made in the house of commons yesterday afternoon by Sir Edwin A. Cornwall, Liberal member for the Northeast division of Bethnal Green, that an intimation be sent to Henry Ford and William J. Bryan that their proposed peace mission to this country would be "irritating and unwelcome" at the present time, drew the response from Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs, that as the passports of the members of the peace mission only had been issued for neutral countries, the contingency contemplated by Sir Edwin did not arise.

Not Wanted at Any Time.

A rapid bombardment of questions came from different parts of the house inviting the under secretary to see "that these people left amid a storm of ridicule," that he convey to them in whatever neutral country they find themselves, the intimation that they are not wanted here at any time. Lord Robert Cecil parried the questions, saying:

"Speaking for myself I think it would be in the highest degree undignified for the government of this country to send any intimation to a

PROGRAM TO STRENGTHEN OUR DEFENSES

Must Prepare to Defend Rights of the Western Hemisphere.

American Violators of Neutrality Are Given Scathing Denunciation.

Bursts of Applause Evoked By Striking Features of Address.

(The full text of President Wilson's message is given on pages 12 and 13.)

Washington, Dec. 7.—The doctrine of Pan-Americanism—of full partnership between the nations of the Western Hemisphere in world affairs—was proclaimed by President Wilson today in his third annual address to congress, the theme of which was preparedness by the United States to defend not only its own independence but the rights of those with whom it has made common cause. The message was read by the president to the senate and house assembled in joint session in the chamber of the house.

Every recommendation embodied in the document had to do with comprehensive plans for strengthening the national defense. The program included the army and navy plans already made public by Secretaries Garrison and Daniels; legislation for government owned merchant ships; a rural credit law; the Philippine and Porto Rico bills which failed of final passage at the last session; conservation legislation; a law giving Federal aid to industrial and vocational education; and the creation of a com-

ALLIES' WAR COUNCIL MEETS AGAIN IN PARIS

Representatives of France, Britain, Russia, Italy, Belgium and Serbia Present.

Paris, Dec. 7.—Another meeting of the general war council of the Entente allies will be held here today. At yesterday's meeting, which was attended by representatives of France, Great Britain, Russia, Italy, Belgium and Serbia, and was presided over by Gen. Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, not all the subjects under consideration were fully discussed, making another conference necessary.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Bulgarian military moves, with the possible co-operation of Teutonic troops have forced the French back in Southern Serbia. Berlin today reports withdrawal of the French lines in the Vardar Cerna salient because of a threatened envelopment of the French positions.

In Montenegro the invading Teutonic columns have reached the city of Ipek about fifteen miles beyond the Serbian border. Rounding up of Serbian detachments continues, the taking of 1,250 additional prisoners being announced.

On the front in France the Germans have renewed their activity. They report the capture of about 250 yards of a French advanced trench east of Auberive on the edge of the Champagne region which was the scene of the September offensive by the Entente allies.

Destruction of French positions near Berry-au-Bac by the explosion of mines also is announced by Berlin.

Paris apparently alludes to the Auberive incident as "a local engagement near one of our advanced positions to the south of Saint Souplet. Otherwise only artillery engagements in the Champagne region are mentioned in the French statement.

Constantinople advices relayed by wireless telegraphy from Berlin declare the status of the allied forces on the Gallipoli peninsula is daily growing worse, the troops suffering from lack of water and from interference with provisioning operations, caused by the stormy winter weather.

German participation on a large scale in the Mesopotamian campaign is probable, according to reports reaching Switzerland. The naming of Field Marshal von der Goltz as commander of the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia is commented upon in this connection.

In some quarters it is surmised that German efforts against the British in the east may be directed towards the Persian gulf rather than the Suez canal, as has been hinted.

An unconfirmed report that a Bulgarian infantry regiment which mutinied when ordered to the Gallipoli peninsula to fight with the Turks, has reached London through Amsterdam. Three hundred of the mutineers are said to have been shot.

According to reports through Holland, the German lines in France and Belgium have been heavily reinforced within the past fortnight, it not being known, however, whether the move is made in view of a possible attack by the entente allies or for a German offensive movement.

The only activities in the French front reported by Paris comprised rather lively cannonading in the Champagne and a local engagement near Saint Souplet.

The reassembling of the Russian duma, set for Dec. 18, has been indefinitely postponed by an imperial rescript. Petrograd advices say the action was taken on the ground that the preparation of the budget has not yet been completed.

BRIDGE BILL IS AGAIN INTRODUCED

Miller Presents Measure for Structure Across River at Fond du Lac.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Miller today reintroduced the bill of last session providing for the construction of a bridge across the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac. This was the bill that was defeated by the opposition of Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin. Mr. Miller said today that he hopes to get it through in this congress.

Mr. Miller also introduced a bill providing for the assessment against Indian lands for state highways and drainage improvements. The interior department is to pay the assessments out of tribal funds and charge them against the share of the Indian owners.

Mr. Miller also presented a bill for the creation of a bureau for the deaf and dumb in the department of labor, and for an inheritance tax in the District of Columbia.

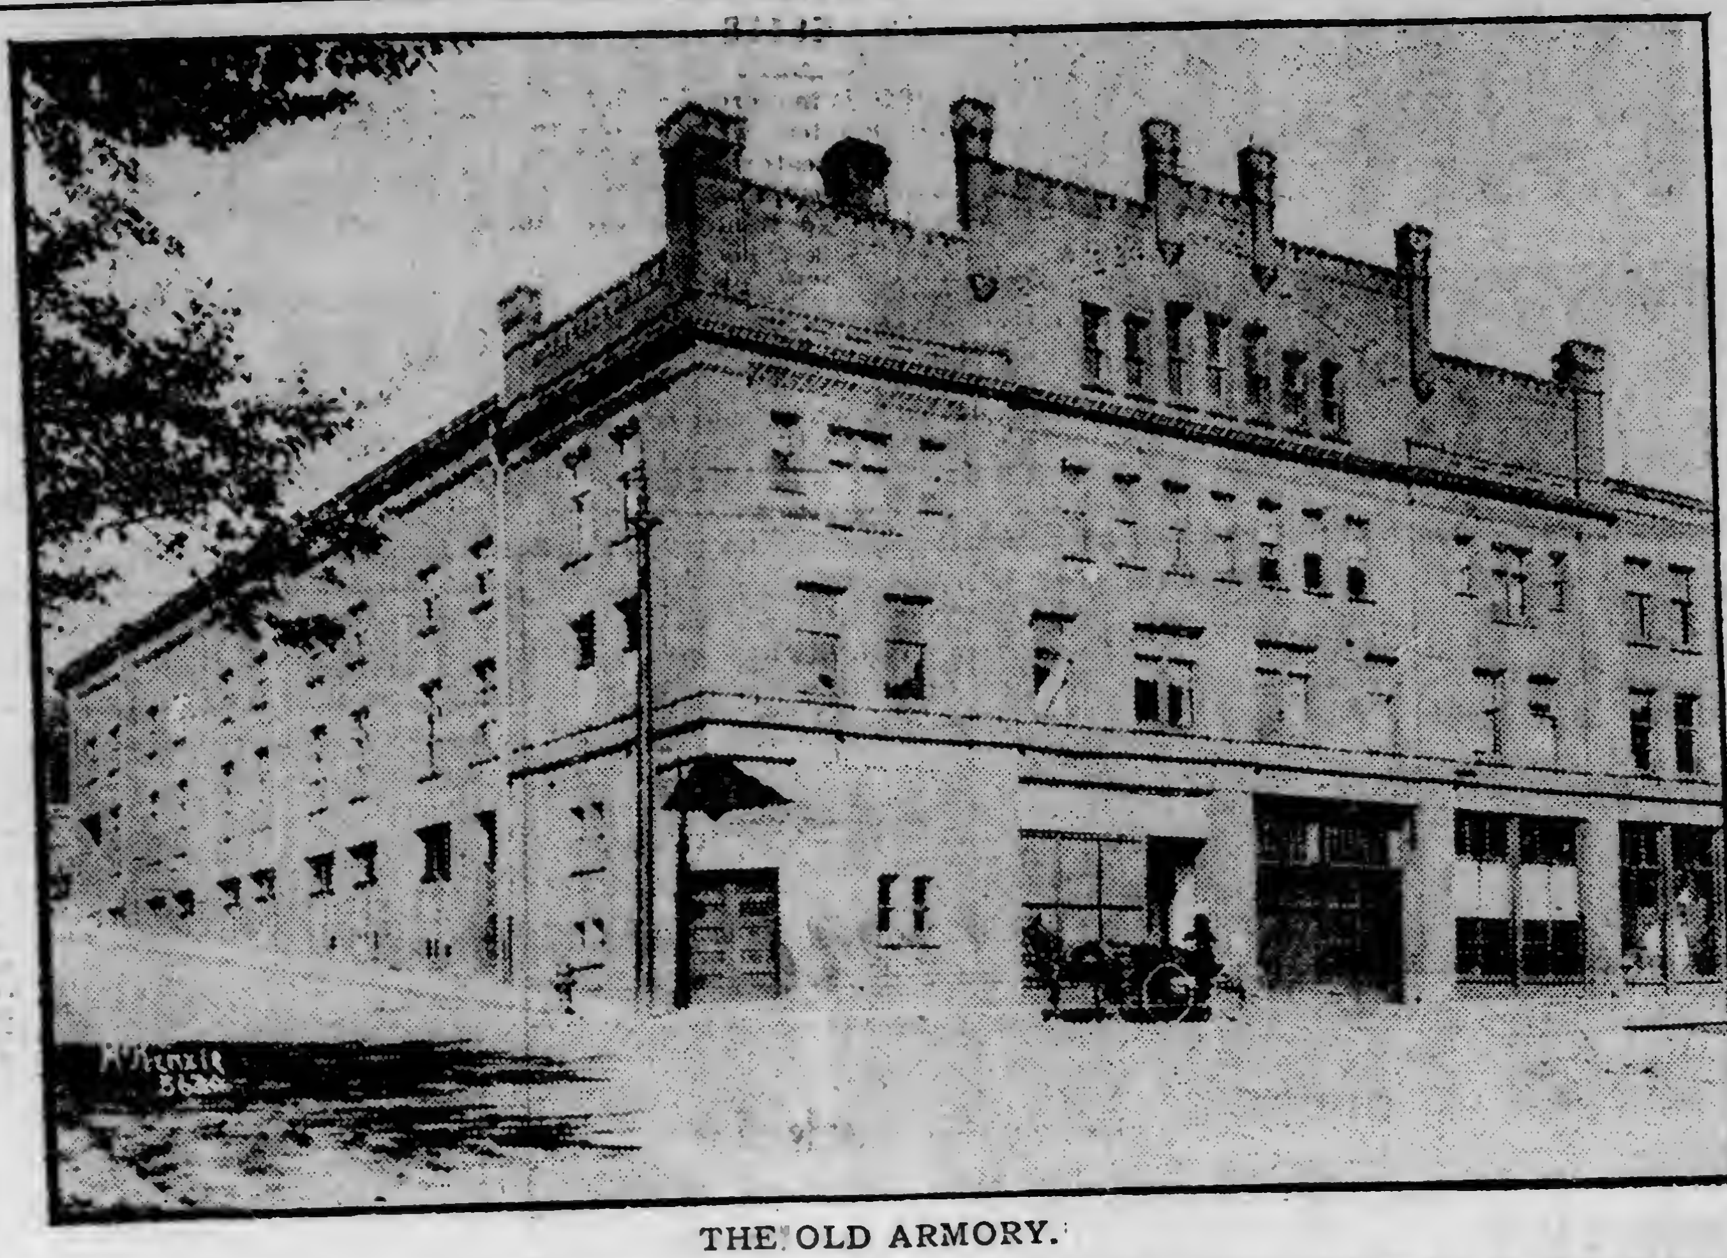
OLD ARMORY BUILDING WILL BE REMODELED FOR SHRINE TEMPLE



THE OLD ARMORY.

A special meeting of the city council will be held either tomorrow or Thursday to accept the offer of the Duluth Shriners to buy the old armory and site for $50,000.

In making an announcement of the special meeting, Mayor Prince said this morning that a majority of the commissioners favor accepting the offer, and at the meeting he will introduce an ordinance authorizing the sale of the building.

The Shriners plan to take immediate possession of the building and to remodel it into an attractive lodge. The entire front and interior will be changed. It is understood that the lot on First avenue west and Fourth street, purchased by the Shriners a year ago, has been sold.

Mayor Prince and Commissioners Silberstein and Voss all favor selling the armory, while Commissioners Merritt and Farrell are opposed to it. The former claim that it would be folly to keep a $50,000 building for a municipal garage or storehouse, as desired by Commissioner Farrell, when a site could be purchased and a more suitable building erected somewhere along South First avenue east for approximately $10,000. The remainder of the money then would be turned over to the county in payment for the city hall site now being held in trust for the municipality.

The commissioners claim that they offered the old armory to the water and light department some time ago, but that Commissioner Merritt and Manager Reid have both refused to use it. They are unable to explain Commissioner Merritt's present offer of $50,000 cash for the building.

It is also understood that a local realty company this morning offered to sell a large downtown structure to the city for $40,000, and this proposition may come up at the special meeting tomorrow or Thursday.

IVERSON IS CANDIDATE

Former State Auditor Gives Definite Statement on Governorship.

Spending Day in Duluth on Personal Business; Presidential Situation.

Samuel G. Iverson, formerly state auditor, and, last year, a candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship before the elimination conference which gave the honor to W. E. Lee of Long Prairie, is in the city today on personal business, and made the first definite admission of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor next year.

Mr. Iverson said this morning that he will formally announce his candidacy and file very soon. This is the first direct statement on the subject that Mr. Iverson has made, although it has been generally understood that he would be a candidate.

"I have not desired to be the first or the last, and now that Mr. Lindbergh and your neighbor, Raab, have gone on record, it seems only fair that they should have company. So I will file in a short time and become, officially, a candidate.

"I feel," continued Mr. Iverson, "that I am going to be nominated and elected. My candidacy was announced by my friends in the party and among the newspaper men, and I have been warmly welcomed as a candidate from all parts of the state. That is a gratifying way to start out, and gives one a good foundation for his campaign. I find a strong sentiment in my favor everywhere, and I know definitely that I will have a strong following with which to begin."

Mr. Iverson, after a considerable period of retirement, is looking to be in excellent health and as though his rest has agreed well with him. He will spend the day in the city on personal business and from here will go to St. Paul.

He did not have much to say regarding politics in general, but on presidential matters regards the fight for the Minnesota Republican delegation as distinctly between Root and Cummins.

WILL GIVE BANQUET AND ELECT OFFICERS

Dinner Is Result of Recent Campaign for New Members.

The annual election of officers to be followed by a banquet will feature the meeting of Camp John G. McEwen No. 6, United Spanish War Veterans, tomorrow evening at Memorial hall, courthouse. The banquet is the result of a membership campaign that has been conducted by two teams, the winning side, led by Theodore T. Simon, adjutant of the camp, having secured forty new applicants.

THEODORE T. SIMON.

The local camp is now one of the largest in the state in point of membership. To it was recently added the membership of the Maj. A. M. Diggles camp No. 13, which disbanded early this year. In addition to these members, the camp has added about sixty veterans of the Spanish war who had not before affiliated themselves with the order.

Members of the camp are taking an active interest in the formation of the new rifle club. This club is now well under way, and Mr. Simon said this morning that he expected within a short time to receive announcement that the United States arsenal would ship the guns and ammunition for the club. The indoor rifle practice will be held at the new armory.

Committees in charge of the banquet tomorrow evening expect to entertain about 100 members at the affair. The election will take place at 8 o'clock, and at 9:30 o'clock it is planned to serve the banquet.

To Meet President.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann, Republican leaders of the senate and house will see President Wilson tomorrow and Thursday respectively, to discuss the administration's national defense plans. The president expects to point out to them that he believes national defense should not be made a partisan matter.

GIVES ADDRESS BEFORE SCHOOLMASTERS' CLUB

L. W. Kline, teacher of psychology at the Duluth state normal school, spoke before the schoolmasters' club at its meeting last night at the Glass Block tearooms. "Civilized Man and the Essentials of His Making" was the subject of Dr. Kline's address.

Twenty-five members of the club were present and Harry O'Brien presided over the meeting.

At the next meeting, Z. D. Scott of the Scott-Graff Lumber company will be the speaker and his topic will be "The Attitude of Business Men Toward the High School." Prof. A. H. Rogers of Lawrence college will address the club in February.

DELLER IS GIVEN APPOINTMENT

Will Succeed Kieswetter in City Office of Missabe Road.

Joseph Deller, rate clerk in the city office of the Omaha railway, has been appointed commercial agent of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, the appointment to take effect Dec. 20. Mr. Deller will have his headquarters in the local freight and passenger office of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, 426 West Superior street.

J. C. Alexander, formerly ticket agent of the local office of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, has been made city passenger agent and will have charge of the passenger business of the downtown office.

The announcement of the appointment of Mr. Deller to the position formerly held by C. W. Kieswetter, under the title of general agent, will be pleasing news to a host of friends in Duluth railway circles possessed by "Joe" Deller.

Before coming to Duluth to take a position in the local office of the Omaha, the new appointee of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern was in the employ of the Great Northern. Mr. Deller has been in the railway service for something like fifteen years and is widely known by railroad men throughout the Northwest.

MAN WEARS PANAMA HAT JUST BEFORE SNOW.

The Herald received several telephone messages this morning from women who were startled because a man passed along West Superior street wearing a Panama hat. They say that he looked to be of normal mentality, but they were not sure. The reports came in before the wind and snow started.

ANOTHER TUG TO MINNESOTA

Additional Assistance Sent to Hill Liner in Distress at Sea.

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—Another tug was sought today to go to the assistance of the Hill liner Minnesota, reported last night 620 miles south of here, making feeble attempts to put back to this port while awaiting the wrecking steamer Iaqua and the tug Dauntless, now in her vicinity. No word has been received as to the arrival of the vessels, but they were expected to reach the Minnesota during the night.

Capt. T. W. Garlick reported by wireless that unexplained breakdowns in the ship's sixteen boilers continued making progress a slow and intermittent process. He reported that as soon as boilers and leaking tubes were repaired, other units broke down.

Natural causes, he said, did not explain the disablement, and he suggested as a possible cause the secret use of chemicals in the water to corrode the boiler tubes.

NO WORD FROM MISSING FAMILY

Wife and Children of Duluthian Lost in War Zone.

Dr. Aidon Cwi of this city, whose wife and three children are lost somewhere in the war zone of Europe, as was told in The Herald some time ago, has heard nothing of his family since Secretary of State Lansing ordered American consular representatives in various cities of Europe to institute a vigorous and persistent search for the wife and children of the Duluthian.

Since receiving the news that his wife and children could not be found, Dr. Cwi has received a letter that his mother has also been driven away from her home and no trace has been discovered of her whereabouts.

Dr. Cwi today sent a letter to Congressman Miller, requesting him to use his influence in the effort to obtain some trace of his wife and three small children.

FARRELL STARTS GARBAGE SURVEY

Getting Ready to Take Charge of Work First of Year.

Four men are now making a survey of the city's garbage collection system under the direction of Commissioner Farrell, works head, who will take charge of the incinerator plant on Jan. 1.

The men are making the surveys in West Duluth, the West end, the central district and Lakeside, and Commissioner Farrell expects detailed reports some time before Christmas, so that he can outline a complete garbage system to become effective when he takes charge of the work on Jan. 1. The surveys will show where the garbage cans are kept, their condition and days of collection.

By obtaining this survey, Commissioner Farrell will know just where defective cans and boxes are being kept, where more collections are necessary and have a detailed knowledge of the city's garbage system. When the report is in, he plans to publish a series of advertisements in the newpapapers urging housewives, restaurant owners and hotel keepers to co-operate with him in keeping the city clean. One of the points to be emphasized will urge the public to wrap garbage up in paper, instead of throwing it loose in the cans and boxes, Commissioner Farrell said this morning.

Commissioner Farrell is now going over about twenty sets of plans for the new incinerator plant, but no action will be taken, he said, until after the first of the year. He is waiting for the new Chicago plant to open, so that he can make an inspection of it during the next month or six weeks. It is probable that the local plant will be modeled after the structure just completed in the Windy City.

ALLIGATORS FOR DULUTH'S NEW ZOO

Two alligators have been offered for Duluth's new zoo.

Elner Johnson of Proctor has two of the reptiles and he offers to sell them to the city for $3. Mayor Prince received his pronosition yesterday and the communication will be presented to the commissioners at their meeting next Monday.

The alligators are each one year old, about a foot long and according to Mr. Johnson, have to be fed on raw meat but once a week. He is leaving Proctor in January and is therefore anxious to get rid of the reptiles, he states.

Maybe the offer will be accepted—maybe.

Would Recall Mayor.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 7.—The recall of Mayor James G. Woodward was demanded in a petition filed yesterday with the city council, containing 3,325 names, or 309 more than the necessary 25 per cent of the city's registered vote. The effort to oust the mayor is an outgrowth, it is asserted, of the recent removal by the police board of which the mayor is a member of Police Chief J. L. Beavers.

SILBERSTEIN WILL SPEAK TO LESTER PARK CLUB

E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, will address the members of the Lester Park Improvement club at their regular monthly meeting to be held tomorrow evening at the Lester Park school.

Mr. Silberstein will talk on the work of the Associated Charities during the last few years. Reports will be made by the officers of the club and plans outlined for the work during the coming winter.

The meeting, which will begin at 8 o'clock, is open to the public.

HEALTH TESTS WEDNESDAY

Medical Examination Day Will Be Observed in Country.

Crusade Against the White Plague Carried on During Week.

Tomorrow is Medical Examination day.

Every person in America is urged by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis to be examined by a physician.

This is Tuberculosis week and the Medical Examination day is a new feature of the national movement. The plan does not mean that the examination must necessarily take place tomorrow, but that every person should be examined at least once a year. It is expected the appeal will be answered by such a large number it will not be possible to examine all in one day. Appointments can be made, however, for another day. In the case of factories, stores and offices, the employes of which are not at present examined periodically, the beginning of such a system for protecting the health of the workers would be appropriate to the day. The intention is to popularize a movement which thousands of persons have already found to be one of the best ways of preventing illness.

Children's Day.

Friday will be Children's Health Crusade day and is to be devoted to interesting children in schools and elsewhere in health plays, compositions, essays and orations on matters of public health, especially tuberculosis and in the sale of Red Cross seals, the proceeds of which are used for anti-tuberculosis work. The importance of instructing children in personal hygiene and in what they can do to raise the health standard of their community cannot be too strongly emphasized.

The week's campaign will come to a close with the celebration of Tuberculosis Sunday, which is an undenominational and non-sectarian movement. It has in past years, and will this year, reach Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic, and all possible relligous groups within these organizations. It has received the endorsement of leading church dignitaries of almost every creed and denomination. It is not required that special sermons be preached on the subject of tubercuolisis, though this may often be desirable. A brief talk in connection with some service, a discussion before a young people's society or some other special group, an oral or a printed announcement is sufficient to answer the requirements.

WANT LEGISLATION FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Recreational Directors of State Will Organize in Duluth.

City recreational directors of Minnesota will meet here in February to organize a state organization and to campaign for special legislation covering playground and community center work in public buildings and schools, according to J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who returned last night from Minneapolis, where he held conferences with the supervisors in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"We held one conference in St. Paul and two in Minneapolis," said Director Batchelor this morning, "and decided finally to meet in Duluth next February. Invitations will be sent to recreational and playground directors in every city in Minnesota for the purpose of organizing a state association. In this way we will be able to combine and unify our work.

"In addition, the association will campaign for special legislation to cover recreational work, which is not included in the statutes at the present time except in a very vague manner. One plan would be to have the legislature give cities authority to make a special appropriation for playground and community center work. Another law desired is one giving school authorities the power to co-operate with the cities in providing play for the children of each community.

"After our state body is organized we will arrange for state contests and inter-city matches, the results to be telegraphed to each city. We also plan to purchase state buttons for the winners in the various events and contests staged locally."

Director Batchelor is pleased with the opinion of the attorney general, declaring this morning that it is exactly as he expected.

"We can go ahead and give the people of Duluth supervised play and recreation," he said. "We will do our best for the city officials, the school board and Duluth at large, so that the money will be well spent."

PREFERENTIAL VOTING IN OHIO ILLEGAL

Preferential voting systems in Cleveland, Columbus and Toledo, similar to the one in Duluth, have been declared unconstitutional by the Ohio supreme court, according to word received today by Mayor Prince.

Duluth's system was declared illegal some time ago by the state supreme court in the first decision on the Smallwood-Windom case, and as a result the charter commission will shortly prepare a new plan of voting for use in this city.

Opponents of the system in the three Ohio cities attacked it some time ago and the decisions of the supreme court are now being handed down.

PHILLIPS, WIS., YOUTH IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Phillips, Wis., Dec. 7.—While rabbit hunting near here Sunday, Oscar Scmidke, aged 15, accidentally shot himself and was taken to a hospital in Ashland, where it is reported his condition is serious. The boy was stepping over a stump when his gun went off, the charge shattering his right leg. Companions carried him home and he was rushed to Ashland, weak from the loss of blood.

ALL READY TO RECEIVE FILINGS OF CANDIDATES

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary of State Schmahl is now prepared to receive filings for those who desire to seek the nomination of president or vice president, or as convention delegate. Blanks necessary under the new presidential preference primary law were received by him today and can be obtained at his office.

DOUBLE CROSS FOR GERMAN

Labor Men Block Efforts of Von Rintelen to Incite Strikes.

Leaders Take Prompt Steps to Check His Activities Among Workmen.

New York, Dec. 7.—United States Attorney Snowden Marshall declared today that Franz von Rintelen, the German agent who is accused of coming to this country to incite strikers in munitions factories, armed with a large corruption fund, was "double-crossed" by the labor men he tried to corrupt and, despite the expenditures of several hundred thousand dollars, failed to accomplish his mission in any effective manner.

Mr. Marshall gave the major credit for Rintelen's failure to the stand taken by high officials in labor organizations.

"Beautifully Double-Crossed."

"Rintelen only succeeded in corrupting some subordinates," Mr. Marshall said, "and he was beautifully double-crossed. The real labor leaders took prompt steps to check his activities. Save for a few small strikes, none of his efforts was successful, all the strikes he did instigate were quickly killed by the good men at the head of the unions. I am not prepared to state just how much money Rintelen expended, but it ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars. He had $500,000 to his credit in one bank."

No Immunity for Le Mar.

Mr. Marshall refused to comment on David Le Mar's activities in the scheme beyond saying emphatically that he would not be called as a witness before the grand jury, accomplishing which might give him immunity from conviction.

If sufficient evidence is obtained it is expected indictments will be sought against the labor men who accepted Rintelen's money.

Rintelen is at present held a prisoner by the British authorities in the Tower of London. No attempt will be made to extradite him, as Mr. Marshall says his offense is not extraditable.

A Druggist's Favorite Kidney Remedy Fixed Him

Fifteen years ago I had an attack of acute kidney trouble. I consulted a physician who gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time. After discontinuing his medicine my trouble returned as severe as before. Having heard of Swamp-Root I gave it a trial and can honestly state that three dollar bottles cured me, never having any sickness in fifteen years. I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a druggist for many years and can give it the very best recommendations at all times.

You are at liberty to use this statement any time you wish.

UNCLE SAM A GOOD FELLOW

Delivers Letters for Santa Claus Without Any Stamp.

Urgent Appeal Made for Widow With Seven Children.

(By the Good Fellow Editor.)

Even Uncle Sam has joined the Good Fellow club.

Letters addressed "Good Fellow" are delivered promptly, though they may not be stamped.

Going farther than that, Uncle Sam has taken upon himself to deliver all of Santa Claus' mail to Saint Nick's right-hand man in Duluth.

Santa Claus has a most able assistant in Duluth, but to be truthful, the assistant isn't a man at all—but a woman. She is one of the charter members of the Good Fellows' organization, of course.

Less than a week ago Good Fellow wrote his fifth annual letter to The Herald, starting the pre-Christmas work, and already several families are assured of food and clothing, and toys for the children, and candy, for Christmas day.

None of them know about it yet, but some Good Fellow has their address, and is making his plans for a surprise party that will brighten their holiday, and make him very happy in the bargain.

Each day's mail brings more stories of poverty and hardships. Here is one that speaks for itself, reproduced just as written:

"Dear Good Fellows: I would like to tell you of a family living in our neighborhood. They are in a very bad condition. There are seven in the family, the oldest being sixteen, a cripple, and the only support. The father is dead.

"There are four boys and three girls."

After a visit to the home, so that the needs of the family can be learned, some one will be found who wants to help the 16-year-old cripple, give his mother, three brothers and three sisters a merry Christmas. Do you want to be the one?

PEACE PARTY RIDICULED

lot of ladies and gentlemen who, whatever their merits may be, are of no particular importance."

Discussion of the subjects closed in laughter aroused by Will Crooks, labor member of Woolwich, who asked:

"If they have the right of asylum here, can we certify them to be insane?"

French Paper Facetious.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The French newspapers publish details of the Ford peace trip, some of them commenting on it. The Journal Des Debats devotes its first page to an article entitled: "The Dreadnaught of Peace," and discusses in a facetious vein the voyage and various interpretations that may be placed on the visit of the peace band to Europe.

"In any case," says the paper, "Mr. Ford has all the requisite qualities entitling him not to be received by the public and powers of the various states of Europe. He merits special watching for he is possessed of extraordinary originality of mind and can always become dangerous."

American Eccentricity.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London.—The German press in general treats the Ford peace mission only as a manifestation of American eccentricity. According to opinion here the mission will have but slight chance of exerting its efforts in Germany or other belligerent countries, in view of the fact that the passports of its members are good only for neutral countries, making it impossible for the mission to operate at much shorter range than if it had remained in New York.

It would be possible, of course, for Germany to relax its regulations and permit the members of the Ford party to enter Germany without passports, but in view of the German knowledge that the mission comes without official inspiration or the approval of Washington it is unlikely to do so, according to present indications.

ACCOMPLICE CONFESSES

went to a matinee together. We returned to the Price home, and Price suggested an automobile ride.

"She sat in the rear with her dog—Price and I in front. Price stopped the car when we got to a spot near the Chicago & Milwaukee railway bridge over the Mississippi. It was near a steep embankment. He muttered something about tire trouble and asked his wife if she didn't want to get out and give the dog some exercise. She started to get out backwards. The car was parallel with the bank, three feet away.

Pushed Over Bank.

"As Mrs. Price stepped out, Price put one arm in front of her and I put an arm in front and we gave a fling. Down she went. Price picked up the dog and threw it after his wife."

When they climbed down the embankment, Etchison is reported to have said, they found her still alive, so Price crushed her head with a rock. Then they hailed some passing motorists and carried the body to a doctor.

"We told everybody that she stepped over the cliff to save her dog," the officials said Etchison confessed. "Price canceled my notes for $1,200 he held, and gave me $3,500 to boot."

Brought to Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Etchison wept, then he threw himself on the floor and prayed. When he arose he told the whole story of how he and Frederick T. Price hurled the latter's wife to death from a cliff."

This was the statement today by George Armstrong, assistant county attorney, who returned from Chicago with Charles D. Etchison and his wife.

"The clock has struck," was all Etchison would say when questioned regarding the details of the murder which took place more than a year ago, and for which he says Price gave him approximately $4,700.

Mr. Armstrong said that when Etchison confessed to the crime in a room in a Chicago hotel yesterday, Mrs. Etchison, who had professed great confidence in her husband's innocence, stiffened and fell to the floor in a deep faint. Her condition is serious.

"I will stick to Charles," she said, as she leaned heavily upon his arm and smiled faintly into the clicking cameras at the railroad station here.

Denied By Price.

"I deny it all. I swear it is not true," declared Frederick T. Price, in a quaking voice when told in his cell at the county jail today of the confession of Charles D. Etchison that he aided Price in the murder of the latter's wife Nov. 28, 1914.

Price turned very pale when confronted with the news and for a moment did not reply.

"There must be some mistake," he said at length. "Etchison and I were standing near my broken automobile, twenty feet from the spot where Mary fell to her death.

"I do not care to say anything further, except to reiterate that the confession is not true."

Price was indicted by the county grand jury last week for bigamy and murder.

Sued City.

After his wife's death Price sued the city of Minneapolis for $7,500 for leaving the river bank unprotected, where he said his wife had fallen over. A detective took the stand for the defense and revealed Price's alleged record.

Forthwith Price dismissed his suit. Last Christmas he married Miss Carrie Olson, a Minneapolis bookkeeper. While his wife was living, it is said, he promised Miss Olson to get a divorce. It is charged he did not get a divorce from one of his three wives.

Officials who have been connected with the case were not surprised by the confession.

GERMANS TURN FROM SERBIAN CONQUEST TO ASSAULT ALLIES

Germans are beginning to show considerable interest in the campaign which is developing in favor of the Turkish allies. It is reported from Geneva that the Germans under Field Marshal von der Goltz are preparing an extensive campaign which will be directed toward the Persian gulf by way of Bagdad.

Further impetus is given to peace talk by the papal consistory, at which Pope Benedict delivered an address calling upon the belligerents to make a just and immediate peace.

The effect of the dismissal of the German military and naval attaches at Washington on the German public is not ascertainable as yet as the German newspapers have not been permitted to publish even the bare facts of the incident.

German Statement.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London, 3:05 p. m.—The war office announced today that the French forces in Southwestern Serbia, near the Vardar river, have been compelled to retreat.

The capture of Ipek, Montenegro, also is announced.

The official statement on the Balkan operations follows:

"Balkan theater: The city of Ipek (Montenegro, about fifteen miles from the Serbian border), has been reached. Some 1,250 prisoners were brought in.

"On account of a threatened envelopment of their positions in the Cerna-Karasu-Vardar salient, the French have been compelled to give up their positions there."

party. "I hoped to pick up another team and get away on a trip, but that will be impossible," he said in his letter. "Within the memory of the oldest Esquimos there has never been such a year. The Esquimos have eaten their dogs as the only food available and burned their sledges for fuel. Have just returned from Peteravik with a skeleton team of thirteen dogs; no meat for love or money. In trying to get my team in shape for Ek we paid as high as five gallons of oil for a single flipper of walrus; ordinarily this would buy a whole one."

Outlining his future plans, McMillan wrote:

"If a ship reaches us and Ekblaw does not remain with me, I may be landed over in Jones Sound with one Esquimo. Here I shall remain for one year for ethnological work and sledge from here to the northern coast of America."

MILITARY AND NAVAL ACTIVITIES CAUSE OF ATTACHES DISMISSAL

request for the withdrawal of its officers.

It was broadly intimated to the state department that if the request was based on something else than the development of the Hamburg-American line conspiracy trial or the case of James F. J. Archibald, the American war correspondent, who secretly carried dispatches for Capt. von Papen, Germany would decline to withdraw either of the men.

The general impression was that Secretary Lansing's reply at some length repeats that the two officers have become persona non grata because of their military and naval activities, and that further, under diplomatic usages existing between nations, it is unnecessary for one government to do more than intimate to another that the presence of a diplomatic officer is distasteful.

May Press for Particulars.

Overnight advices from Berlin indicated that the German government would withdraw the officers as requested although it might press for a bill of particulars. The position of the state department is that it will not discuss the facts in the case nor reveal the sources of information which have led to its decision.

Secretary Lansing also sent a reply to Germany through Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. In making its inquiry Germany also used two avenues of communication, the German ambassador here and the American ambassador in Berlin.

While there is no indication today that the text of Secretary Lansing's communication would be made public, it can be said authoritatively that it declares the American government's action was caused by the military and naval activities of the attaches coupled with circumstances of an accumulative nature which are deemed sufficient for Secretary Lansing's action.

No Mention of Mexican Affairs.

No mention was made of Mexican affairs nor did the name of Gen. Huerta appear.

The German government was informed, however, that an accumulation of circumstances and conditions by inference if not otherwise, connected the attaches with attempts to violate the neutrality laws of the United States.

The Archibald incident, it was said, was mentioned in connection with the case of Capt. von Papen and the trial of the Hamburg-American conspirators was mentioned in connection with the case of Capt. Boy-Ed.

Emphasis placed on the statement that military and naval activities alone were considered was taken to indicate that other German officials were not in any way concerned.

In reply to Germany's intimation that it would contest the withdrawal if it was asked on anything beyond the Hamburg-American trial and the Archibald incident, Secretary Lansing's reply is understood to strongly intimate that other things than those did enter into the case.

As to diplomatic precedent for the request of Germany, it is said, Secretary Lansing's communication does not admit the right of the Berlin foreign office to inquire into facts and their sources. Consequently no specific details of any kind were discussed.

Next Step Not Known.

The German embassy apparently did not know just what the next step might be, but it was said that the embassy wished it understood that it had not been officially advised of the views which might be held by the Berlin foreign office and that no official statement upon the subject had been made for publication.

The state department still has under consideration the case of Alexander von Nuber, Austro-Hungarian consul general at New York. The charge of the Austrian embassy has submitted to Secretary Lansing a number of documents to support von Nuber, among them being a number of personal letters in which the consul general made explanations to the embassy about published reports. These were understood to have been written some time ago.

Germany Will Comply With Usage.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London.—The request received here from the United States for the recall of Capt. Franz von Papen and Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, military and naval attache, respectively, of the German embassy at Washington, will undoubtedly be complied with in accordance with diplomatic usage, it is stated. However, Germany probably will ask first to be informed of the grounds on which the United States government bases the undesirability of the attaches.

News of the request for the recall has not been published as yet by the German press.

The above dispatch is the first direct word to be received from Berlin in regard to the probable action of the German government in response to the request of the United States for the recall of the two attaches. Since Germany already has asked Washington for information as to the grounds on which the United States bases its request for a recall, it would appear that this fact had not been made public in Berlin up to the time of the filing of the dispatch.

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly $2. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PAN-AMERICANISM PROCLAIMED BY THE PRESIDENT

mission to inquire into the transportation problem.

Naturalized and native born Americans who, sympathizing with belligerents abroad, have plotted and conspired to violate their own country's neutrality were scathingly denounced by the president, and congress was urged to provide adequate Federal laws to deal with such offenders.

Internal taxation was proposed as the means of providing the money necessary to add to the naval and military establishments. Sources of taxation suggested were incomes, gasoline, naptha, automobiles and internal explosion engines, fabricated iron and steel, and a stamp tax on bank checks. Extension of the war revenue bill and continuance of the present tariff on sugar were recommended, and the sale of bonds opposed.

This message was the longest Mr. Wilson has ever delivered to congress.

Galleries Are Crowded.

The house galleries were packed three hours before the time for President Wilson to deliver his annual address, and hundreds of disappointed ones who had failed to get the coveted tickets of admission lined the corridors of the capitol and stood on the plaza outside to get a glimpse of the president as he passed in.

Only those who had tickets of admission were permitted to go to the upper galleries, and an elusive rumor of some sort of a woman suffrage demonstration brought out extra guards, which were sprinkled among the spectators and in the corridors through which the president had to pass. A number of men were placed at commanding positions in the galleries.

Officials were silent about the preparations but it was said at the capitol that word of a plan of some of the more militant suffragists to make a demonstration had come to light. It was said that lawyers representing the women had made an examination of the precedents governing contempt in the house, and from that action officials suspected that something was being planned.

Mrs. Galt Attends.

When the galleries had been filled with the usual visitors, the official parties came in. Mrs. Galt, the president's fiancee, and her party took the executive gallery. Other reserved places were occupied by government officials and their wives.

The members of the senate, marching two by two, went over to the house and took seats reserved for them in the front rows.

Just after 12:30 the president took his place at the clerk's desk with his manuscript in hand ready to begin. Everybody in the house, floors and galleries alike rose up and cheered.

President Begins Address.

Then a tense silence settled down over the hall as the president began reading in a low, even voice which could be heard everywhere. His reference to all parts of the American continent standing, "so far as we are concerned, on a footing of genuine equality," aroused the first applause. Then the allusion to "United States aid, but not coercion," of Mexico evoked more enthusiasm.

Mrs. Galt watched the president closely, but occasionally glanced over the house galleries. Another burst of applause followed the reference to "setting America aside as a whole for the uses of independent nations and political freemen."

Many nodded assent as the president, referring to the "war of nations," emphatically averred that the United States had "stood apart, studiously neutral," and that "it was our manifest duty to do so."

National Defense Plans.

When the president approached the subject of national defense, senators and congressmen alike in the rear of the hall were observed to lean forward that they might hear better. The plans as described by the president in a general way were listened to with special attention, particularly when referring to the proposed continental army. The president said that he for one did not doubt "the patriotic devotion either of our young men or of those who give them employment."

The reference to the army and navy program passed, however, without a sign of applause.

A reference to upbuilding the merchant marine for commerce was applauded.

BRITISH SUBMARINE BUSY IN MARMORA

Sinks Turkish Destroyer, Supply Steamer and Four Sailing Vessels.

London, Dec. 7.—The Turkish torpedo boat destroyer Yar Hissar has been sunk in the sea of Marmora by a British submarine, it was announced in a British official statement last evening. A supply steamer and four sailing vessels also were destroyed by the submarine on Dec. 3 and 4.

The official statement is as follows:

A report has been received from one of the British submarines operating in the sea of Marmora, describing her recent activities.

"On December 2, she fired into and damaged a train on the Ismid railway.

"On Dec. 3 she torpedoed and sank the Turkish destroyer Yar Hissar, outside the Gulf of Ismid. She picked up two officers and forty men of the destroyer's crew and placed them on board a sailing vessel.

"On Dec. 4 she sank a supply steamer of 3,000 tons off Panderma by gunfire and also destroyed four sailing vessels carrying supplies."

The torpedo boat destroyer Yar Hissar was built in 1907 at Creusot. She was 184 feet long, 19.7 feet beam and 9.5 feet draft. Her armament consisted of one six-pounder, six three-pounders and two torpedo tubes. Her speed was twenty-eight knots.

MURDERED MAN'S BODY FOUND NEAR ODANAH

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 7.—Coroner Sollie is in the Odanah vicinity probing the latest murder mystery of that section. While Joe Croners and John Polack were returning to Odanah from Alder they found a human head in the brush about two miles south of Odanah. Search by the coroner, who was called, and others disclosed the rest of the body, that of a man, under a pile of logs about five feet from where the head lay.

The man's shoes were missing. His clothing, a gray suit of lumberjack's variety, still remained.

From the state of decay the coroner believes that the body had been lying there for several months.

According to Coroner Sollie there is every evidence that the man came to his death by violent means. It is his belief that the man, returning with his winter's wages last spring, had been set upon and robbed, then murdered and the body concealed under the pile of logs.

Wolves are believed to have gnawed the head from the body.

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and all other good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.—Advertisement.

A Druggist's Favorite Kidney Remedy Fixed Him

Fifteen years ago I had an attack of acute kidney trouble. I consulted a physician who gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time. After discontinuing his medicine my trouble returned as severe as before.

Having heard of Swamp-Root I gave it a trial and can honestly state that three dollar bottles cured me, never having any sickness in fifteen years. I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a druggist for many years and can give it the very best recommendations at all times.

UNCLE SAM A GOOD FELLOW

Delivers Letters for Santa Claus Without Any Stamp.

Urgent Appeal Made for Widow With Seven Children.

(By the Good Fellow Editor.)

Even Uncle Sam has joined the Good Fellow club.

Letters addressed "Good Fellow" are delivered promptly, though they may not be stamped.

Going farther than that, Uncle Sam has taken upon himself to deliver all of Santa Claus' mail to Saint Nick's right-hand man in Duluth.

Santa Claus has a most able assistant in Duluth, but to be truthful, the assistant isn't a man at all—but a woman. She is one of the charter members of the Good Fellows' organization, of course.

Less than a week ago Good Fellow wrote his fifth annual letter to The Herald, starting the pre-Christmas work, and already several families are assured of food and clothing, and toys for the children, and candy, for Christmas day.

None of them know about it yet, but some Good Fellow has their address, and is making his plans for a surprise party that will brighten their holiday, and make him very happy in the bargain.

Each day's mail brings more stories of poverty and hardships. Here is one that speaks for itself, reproduced just as written:

"Dear Good Fellows: I would like to tell you of a family living in our neighborhood. They are in a very bad condition. There are seven in the family, the oldest being sixteen, a cripple, and the only support. The father is dead.

"There are four boys and three girls."

After a visit to the home, so that the needs of the family can be learned, some one will be found who wants to help the 16-year-old cripple, give his mother, three brothers and three sisters a merry Christmas. Do you want to be the one?

PEACE PARTY RIDICULED

lot of ladies and gentlemen who, whatever their merits may be, are of no particular importance."

Discussion of the subjects closed in laughter aroused by Will Crooks, labor member of Woolwich, who asked:

"If they have the right of asylum here, can we certify them to be insane?"

French Paper Facetious.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The French newspapers publish details of the Ford peace trip, some of them commenting on it. The Journal Des Debats devotes its first page to an article entitled: "The Dreadnaught of Peace," and discusses in a facetious vein the voyage and various interpretations that may be placed on the visit of the peace band to Europe.

"In any case," says the paper, "Mr. Ford has all the requisite qualities entitling him not to be received by the public and powers of the various states of Europe. He merits special watching for he is possessed of extraordinary originality of mind and can always become dangerous."

American Eccentricity.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London.—The German press in general treats the Ford peace mission only as a manifestation of American eccentricity. According to opinion here the mission will have but slight chance of exerting its efforts in Germany or other belligerent countries, in view of the fact that the passports of its members are good only for neutral countries, making it impossible for the mission to operate at much shorter range than if it had remained in New York.

It would be possible, of course, for Germany to relax its regulations and permit the members of the Ford party to enter Germany without passports, but in view of the German knowledge that the mission comes without official inspiration or the approval of Washington it is unlikely to do so, according to present indications.

ACCOMPLICE CONFESSES

went to a matinee together. We returned to the Price home, and Price suggested an automobile ride.

"She sat in the rear with her dog—Price and I in front. Price stopped the car when we got to a spot near the Chicago & Milwaukee railway bridge over the Mississippi. It was near a steep embankment. He muttered something about tire trouble and asked his wife if she didn't want to get out and give the dog some exercise. She started to get out backwards. The car was parallel with the bank, three feet away.

Pushed Over Bank.

"As Mrs. Price stepped out, Price put one arm in front of her and I put an arm in front and we gave a fling. Down she went. Price picked up the dog and threw it after his wife."

When they climbed down the embankment, Etchison is reported to have said, they found her still alive, so Price crushed her head with a rock. Then they hailed some passing motorists and carried the body to a doctor.

"We told everybody that she stepped over the cliff to save her dog," the officials said Etchison confessed. "Price canceled my notes for $1,200 he held, and gave me $3,500 to boot."

Brought to Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Etchison wept, then he threw himself on the floor and prayed. When he arose he told the whole story of how he and Frederick T. Price hurled the latter's wife to death from a cliff."

This was the statement today by George Armstrong, assistant county attorney, who returned from Chicago with Charles D. Etchison and his wife.

"The clock has struck," was all Etchison would say when questioned regarding the details of the murder which took place more than a year ago, and for which he says Price gave him approximately $4,700.

Mr. Armstrong said that when Etchison confessed to the crime in a room in a Chicago hotel yesterday, Mrs. Etchison, who had professed great confidence in her husband's innocence, stiffened and fell to the floor in a deep faint. Her condition is serious.

"I will stick to Charles," she said, as she leaned heavily upon his arm and smiled faintly into the clicking cameras at the railroad station here.

Denied By Price.

"I deny it all. I swear it is not true," declared Frederick T. Price, in a quaking voice when told in his cell at the county jail today of the confession of Charles D. Etchison that he aided Price in the murder of the latter's wife Nov. 28, 1914.

Price turned very pale when confronted with the news and for a moment did not reply.

"There must be some mistake," he said at length. "Etchison and I were standing near my broken automobile, twenty feet from the spot where Mary fell to her death.

"I do not care to say anything further, except to reiterate that the confession is not true."

Price was indicted by the county grand jury last week for bigamy and murder.

Sued City.

After his wife's death Price sued the city of Minneapolis for $7,500 for leaving the river bank unprotected, where he said his wife had fallen over. A detective took the stand for the defense and revealed Price's alleged record.

Forthwith Price dismissed his suit. Last Christmas he married Miss Carrie Olson, a Minneapolis bookkeeper. While his wife was living, it is said, he promised Miss Olson to get a divorce. It is charged he did not get a divorce from one of his three wives.

Officials who have been connected with the case were not surprised by the confession.

GERMANS TURN FROM SERBIAN CONQUEST TO ASSAULT ALLIES

Germans are beginning to show considerable interest in the campaign which is developing in favor of the Turkish allies. It is reported from Geneva that the Germans under Field Marshal von der Goltz are preparing an extensive campaign which will be directed toward the Persian gulf by way of Bagdad.

Further impetus is given to peace talk by the papal consistory, at which Pope Benedict delivered an address calling upon the belligerents to make a just and immediate peace.

The effect of the dismissal of the German military and naval attaches at Washington on the German public is not ascertainable as yet as the German newspapers have not been permitted to publish even the bare facts of the incident.

German Statement.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London, 3:05 p. m.—The war office announced today that the French forces in Southwestern Serbia, near the Vardar river, have been compelled to retreat.

The capture of Ipek, Montenegro, also is announced.

The official statement on the Balkan operations follows:

"Balkan theater: The city of Ipek (Montenegro, about fifteen miles from the Serbian border), has been reached. Some 1,250 prisoners were brought in.

"On account of a threatened envelopment of their positions in the Cerna-Karasu-Vardar salient, the French have been compelled to give up their positions there."

party. "I hoped to pick up another team and get away on a trip, but that will be impossible," he said in his letter. "Within the memory of the oldest Esquimos there has never been such a year. The Esquimos have eaten their dogs as the only food available and burned their sledges for fuel. Have just returned from Peteravik with a skeleton team of thirteen dogs; no meat for love or money. In trying to get my team in shape for Ek we paid as high as five gallons of oil for a single flipper of walrus; ordinarily this would buy a whole one."

Outlining his future plans, McMillan wrote:

"If a ship reaches us and Ekblaw does not remain with me, I may be landed over in Jones Sound with one Esquimo. Here I shall remain for one year for ethnological work and sledge from here to the northern coast of America."

MILITARY AND NAVAL ACTIVITIES CAUSE OF ATTACHES DISMISSAL

request for the withdrawal of its officers.

It was broadly intimated to the state department that if the request was based on something else than the development of the Hamburg-American line conspiracy trial or the case of James F. J. Archibald, the American war correspondent, who secretly carried dispatches for Capt. von Papen, Germany would decline to withdraw either of the men.

The general impression was that Secretary Lansing's reply at some length repeats that the two officers have become persona non grata because of their military and naval activities, and that further, under diplomatic usages existing between nations, it is unnecessary for one government to do more than intimate to another that the presence of a diplomatic officer is distasteful.

May Press for Particulars.

Overnight advices from Berlin indicated that the German government would withdraw the officers as requested although it might press for a bill of particulars. The position of the state department is that it will not discuss the facts in the case nor reveal the sources of information which have led to its decision.

Secretary Lansing also sent a reply to Germany through Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. In making its inquiry Germany also used two avenues of communication, the German ambassador here and the American ambassador in Berlin.

While there is no indication today that the text of Secretary Lansing's communication would be made public, it can be said authoritatively that it declares the American government's action was caused by the military and naval activities of the attaches coupled with circumstances of an accumulative nature which are deemed sufficient for Secretary Lansing's action.

No Mention of Mexican Affairs.

No mention was made of Mexican affairs nor did the name of Gen. Huerta appear.

The German government was informed, however, that an accumulation of circumstances and conditions by inference if not otherwise, connected the attaches with attempts to violate the neutrality laws of the United States.

The Archibald incident, it was said, was mentioned in connection with the case of Capt. von Papen and the trial of the Hamburg-American conspirators was mentioned in connection with the case of Capt. Boy-Ed.

Emphasis placed on the statement that military and naval activities alone were considered was taken to indicate that other German officials were not in any way concerned.

In reply to Germany's intimation that it would contest the withdrawal if it was asked on anything beyond the Hamburg-American trial and the Archibald incident, Secretary Lansing's reply is understood to strongly intimate that other things than those did enter into the case.

As to diplomatic precedent for the request of Germany, it is said, Secretary Lansing's communication does not admit the right of the Berlin foreign office to inquire into facts and their sources. Consequently no specific details of any kind were discussed.

Next Step Not Known.

The German embassy apparently did not know just what the next step might be, but it was said that the embassy wished it understood that it had not been officially advised of the views which might be held by the Berlin foreign office and that no official statement upon the subject had been made for publication.

The state department still has under consideration the case of Alexander von Nuber, Austro-Hungarian consul general at New York. The charge of the Austrian embassy has submitted to Secretary Lansing a number of documents to support von Nuber, among them being a number of personal letters in which the consul general made explanations to the embassy about published reports. These were understood to have been written some time ago.

Germany Will Comply With Usage.

Berlin, Dec. 7, via London.—The request received here from the United States for the recall of Capt. Franz von Papen and Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, military and naval attache, respectively, of the German embassy at Washington, will undoubtedly be complied with in accordance with diplomatic usage, it is stated. However, Germany probably will ask first to be informed of the grounds on which the United States government bases the undesirability of the attaches.

News of the request for the recall has not been published as yet by the German press.

The above dispatch is the first direct word to be received from Berlin in regard to the probable action of the German government in response to the request of the United States for the recall of the two attaches. Since Germany already has asked Washington for information as to the grounds on which the United States bases its request for a recall, it would appear that this fact had not been made public in Berlin up to the time of the filing of the dispatch.

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly $2. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PAN-AMERICANISM PROCLAIMED BY THE PRESIDENT

mission to inquire into the transportation problem.

Naturalized and native born Americans who, sympathizing with belligerents abroad, have plotted and conspired to violate their own country's neutrality were scathingly denounced by the president, and congress was urged to provide adequate Federal laws to deal with such offenders.

Internal taxation was proposed as the means of providing the money necessary to add to the naval and military establishments. Sources of taxation suggested were incomes, gasoline, naptha, automobiles and internal explosion engines, fabricated iron and steel, and a stamp tax on bank checks. Extension of the war revenue bill and continuance of the present tariff on sugar were recommended, and the sale of bonds opposed.

This message was the longest Mr. Wilson has ever delivered to congress.

Galleries Are Crowded.

The house galleries were packed three hours before the time for President Wilson to deliver his annual address, and hundreds of disappointed ones who had failed to get the coveted tickets of admission lined the corridors of the capitol and stood on the plaza outside to get a glimpse of the president as he passed in.

Only those who had tickets of admission were permitted to go to the upper galleries, and an elusive rumor of some sort of a woman suffrage demonstration brought out extra guards, which were sprinkled among the spectators and in the corridors through which the president had to pass. A number of men were placed at commanding positions in the galleries.

Officials were silent about the preparations but it was said at the capitol that word of a plan of some of the more militant suffragists to make a demonstration had come to light. It was said that lawyers representing the women had made an examination of the precedents governing contempt in the house, and from that action officials suspected that something was being planned.

Mrs. Galt Attends.

When the galleries had been filled with the usual visitors, the official parties came in. Mrs. Galt, the president's fiancee, and her party took the executive gallery. Other reserved places were occupied by government officials and their wives.

The members of the senate, marching two by two, went over to the house and took seats reserved for them in the front rows.

Just after 12:30 the president took his place at the clerk's desk with his manuscript in hand ready to begin. Everybody in the house, floors and galleries alike rose up and cheered.

President Begins Address.

Then a tense silence settled down over the hall as the president began reading in a low, even voice which could be heard everywhere. His reference to all parts of the American continent standing, "so far as we are concerned, on a footing of genuine equality," aroused the first applause. Then the allusion to "United States aid, but not coercion," of Mexico evoked more enthusiasm.

Mrs. Galt watched the president closely, but occasionally glanced over the house galleries. Another burst of applause followed the reference to "setting America aside as a whole for the uses of independent nations and political freemen."

Many nodded assent as the president, referring to the "war of nations," emphatically averred that the United States had "stood apart, studiously neutral," and that "it was our manifest duty to do so."

National Defense Plans.

When the president approached the subject of national defense, senators and congressmen alike in the rear of the hall were observed to lean forward that they might hear better. The plans as described by the president in a general way were listened to with special attention, particularly when referring to the proposed continental army. The president said that he for one did not doubt "the patriotic devotion either of our young men or of those who give them employment."

The reference to the army and navy program passed, however, without a sign of applause.

A reference to upbuilding the merchant marine for commerce was applauded.

BRITISH SUBMARINE BUSY IN MARMORA

Sinks Turkish Destroyer, Supply Steamer and Four Sailing Vessels.

London, Dec. 7.—The Turkish torpedo boat destroyer Yar Hissar has been sunk in the sea of Marmora by a British submarine, it was announced in a British official statement last evening. A supply steamer and four sailing vessels also were destroyed by the submarine on Dec. 3 and 4.

The official statement is as follows:

A report has been received from one of the British submarines operating in the sea of Marmora, describing her recent activities.

"On December 2, she fired into and damaged a train on the Ismid railway.

"On Dec. 3 she torpedoed and sank the Turkish destroyer Yar Hissar, outside the Gulf of Ismid. She picked up two officers and forty men of the destroyer's crew and placed them on board a sailing vessel.

"On Dec. 4 she sank a supply steamer of 3,000 tons off Panderma by gunfire and also destroyed four sailing vessels carrying supplies."

The torpedo boat destroyer Yar Hissar was built in 1907 at Creusot. She was 184 feet long, 19.7 feet beam and 9.5 feet draft. Her armament consisted of one six-pounder, six three-pounders and two torpedo tubes. Her speed was twenty-eight knots.

MURDERED MAN'S BODY FOUND NEAR ODANAH

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 7.—Coroner Sollie is in the Odanah vicinity probing the latest murder mystery of that section. While Joe Croners and John Polack were returning to Odanah from Alder they found a human head in the brush about two miles south of Odanah. Search by the coroner, who was called, and others disclosed the rest of the body, that of a man, under a pile of logs about five feet from where the head lay.

The man's shoes were missing. His clothing, a gray suit of lumberjack's variety, still remained.

From the state of decay the coroner believes that the body had been lying there for several months.

According to Coroner Sollie there is every evidence that the man came to his death by violent means. It is his belief that the man, returning with his winter's wages last spring, had been set upon and robbed, then murdered and the body concealed under the pile of logs.

Wolves are believed to have gnawed the head from the body.

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and all other good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.—Advertisement.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

MESSAGE BY GREEK KING

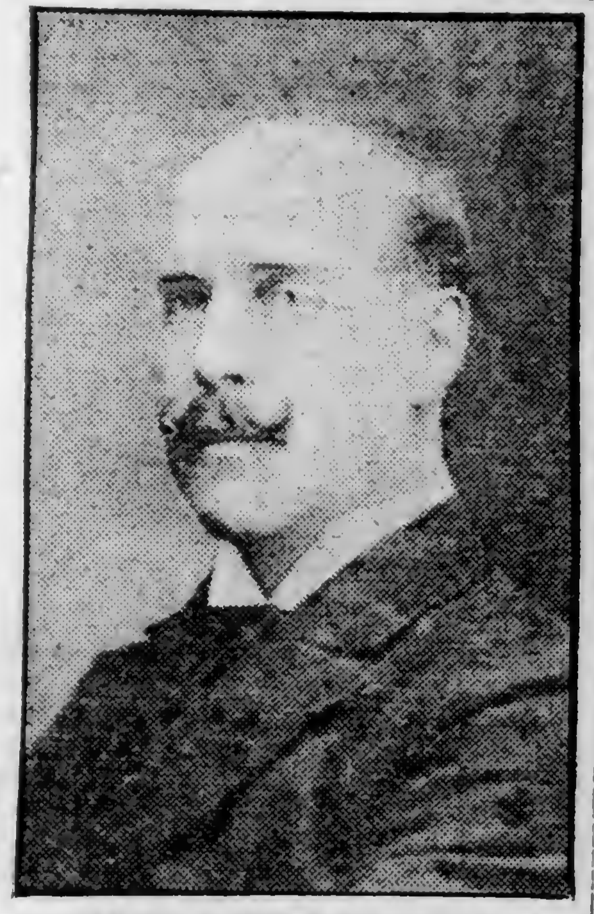
Constantine Explains His Position for Benefit of the American Public.

Neutrality Stretched to Utmost to Accomodate the Entente Powers.

Athens, Dec. 4, via Malta and London, Dec. 7.—Constantine I, king of the Greeks, received the correspondent of The Associated Press today and gave him a message for America on the attitude which Greece has assumed in the world war, and the reasons for the policy which has been followed by the Greek government.

"I am especially glad to talk for America," said the king, "for America will understand Greece's position. We are both neutral and are together determined, if it is humanly possible not to court destruction by permitting ourselves to be drawn into the frightful vortex of the present European conflict. Both are trying by every honorable means to guard our sovereignty, protect our own people and stand up for our national interests without sacrificing that neutrality which we recognize as our only salvation.

"America is protected from immediate danger by distance which separates her from the battlefield. We too thought that once. But the battlefield shifted and may shift again. What is happening in Greece today may happen in America, Holland or any other neutral country tomorrow, if the precedent now sought to be established in the case of Greece is once fixed."



KING CONSTANTINE I.

Interview Lasts Hour.

The interview with the king took place at a small palace which is the king's personal residence, and the audience lasted an hour. The king was dressed in the simple uniform of the Greek general and he displayed the good humored, almost youthful candor of the ideal soldier to whom diplomatic expedients or lack of frankness seemed repugnant or impossible.

From time to time emphasizing the earnestness and sincerity of what he was saying, he thumped the table soundly with his fist. Despite the seriousness of the message he was delivering, his fine gray eyes twinkled with raillery.

"The fundamental cause of the entire threatening attitude of the Entente powers toward Greece today and of the painful situation of my country," said the king, "is the Entente's own assumption, without the slighest reason therefor, that Greece is ready to betray the Entente for Germany at the first favorable opportunity. Is it reasonable to suppose such a thing?

Neutrality Stretched.

"From the very outset of hostilities in the Near East, Greece's neutrality has been stretched to the utmost to accommodate the Entente powers, for whom we have always felt the keenest sympathy and the deepest gratitude. The Dardanelles operations were directed from Greek islands occupied by allied troops. When Serbia was endangered by the combined Austro-German and Bulgarian attack, the allied troops landed unopposed on Greek soil, from which, with the second city of Greece as a base, they prosecuted, not only unmolested but aided in every way consistent with any sort of neutrality, their fruitless and too long delayed effort to rescue their ally.

"Finally I, myself, have given my personal word that Greek troops will never be used to attack the Franco-British forces in Macedonia," merely to allay unjustified suspicions.

"Despite all these evidences of the good faith of Greece, the Entente powers now demand, in a form which is virtually an ultimatum that the Greek troops be withdrawn from Saloniki—and that means all Macedonia—leaving our population unprotected against raids by Bulgarian irregulars and the horrors of war which laid Belgium waste, should the allies be driven back within our frontiers.

"Just suppose the Germans were in a position to demand that your country concede the use of Boston or Seattle as the base for an attack on Canada. What would you say? and if all your military experience and the advice of your general staff told you that such a landing was doomed to failure because made with an inadequate force, and you realized that the British troops in Canada would pursue the retreating Germans across New England, destroying as they went, would you accept the prospect without a struggle?"

Territory Would be Respected.

"But had not your majesty German assurance that the integrity of Greek territory would be respected," the king was asked.

"Of course, and Entente assurance too."

"And similar assurance from Bulgaria."

"Germany" said the king, "has given assurance for herself and her allies. But that does not prevent the German-Bulgarian armies, as a measure of military necessity from pursuing the retiring French and British into Greece, fighting in Greece, and turning Greece into a second Poland. I have that assurance also.

"Why, the Entente powers treat me as if I were the king of a Central African tribe, to whom the sufferings of his own people were a matter of indifference. I have been through three wars. I know what war is. I don't want any more if it can be honorably avoided. My people do not want any more, and if they and I can help it, we shall not have any more."

"Then your majesty does not believe that the intervention policy of the former premier, M. Venizelos, really expressed the will of the Greek people?"

"I know it did not," replied the king forcefully.

Not the Truth.

"Another thing I want to make clear: It is said that M. Venizelos, with my assent, invited the allied troops to come to Saloniki. Nothing could be further from the truth. M. Venizelos may have expressed the personal opinion that if the allied troops landed at Saloniki, Greece would not resist. How could she resist? But that M. Venizelos ever as the responsible head of the Greek government formally invited foreign troops to enter Greek territory is wholly untrue."

"Your majesty believes that the allied Balkan expedition is doomed to failure?"

"Certainly it is doomed to failure if undertaken with no more men than are now there or on the way.

"Great Britain does not seem disposed to send an adequate force and France cannot do the job alone. The minimum army that can hope to accomplish anything in the Balkans is 400,000 men. As that number is not being sent, that is my proof that it is Greece that must suffer, Greece that must pay for the failure of the allied Balkan venture.

Cannot Do More.

"If the Entente will assure me that when they are driven back into Greek territory, they will consider the Balkan game ended, re-embark and leave Greece, I will guarantee with my whole army to protect their retreat against the Germans, Bulgarians or anybody else, and give them time to embark without being endangered. Then I would be legitimately protecting my frontiers and it would not involve Greece in further risks. More I cannot do.

"The Entente's demand is too much. They try to drive Greece out of neutrality; they come into Greek territory and waters as though they were theirs.

"I am willing to discuss reasonably any fair proposals. But two things I will not concede: Greece shall not be forced or cajoled out of her neutrality; Greece will maintain her sovereignty and her sovereign right to protect herself at need."

"And if that is not satisfactory—if coercive measures are used by the Entente powers?" the king was asked.

"We shall protest to the whole world that our sovereign rights are violated. We shall resist passively, as long as we humanly can, being forced by any measures whatsoever into a course which we know will be prejudicial to the liberties and happiness of our people."

"And when you cannot hold out longer?"

"We shall have to demobilize our armies, and await the march of events. What else can we do?"

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID DISEASE

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions. They affect all the organs and functions, membranes and tissues, and are directly responsible for the readiness with which some people contract disease.

For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. It is distinguished for its thoroughness in purifying the blood, which it enriches and invigorates. No other medicine acts like it, for no other medicine is like it.

BELGIUM IS SAVED FROM STARVATION

No Urgent Need of American Charity for Feeding People.

New York, Dec. 7.—Announcement that for the time being there is no urgent need for application of American charity for feeding Belgium is made in a statement given out here, which also announces that Lindon W. Bates, the American civil engineer who has been directing the work of the American committee for more than a year, has resigned.

The statement, which was given out by A. J. Hemphill, chairman of the New York Committee for Relief in Belgium, is as follows:

"The following resolution has been adopted by the committee, which was recently requested by President Wilson to co-operate in the United States with the work of the Commission for Relief in Belgium:

"The recent action of the president of the United States in asking this committee to share in the work of the Commission for Relief in Belgium in the United States, was prompted by a desire, so far as might be, to co-ordinate and centralize the endeavor. Out of it necessarily came some changes in the plan of operations. For the time being, there is no urgent need for application of American charity for food to the distressed country, that department of the work having been, for the time being, otherwise provided. As a result of this modified condition, Mr. Lindon W. Bates, who for more than a year has given of his time and energy without compensation, has resigned his official connection and taken well earned leave of the great undertaking. The committee called into being by the president's invitation cannot permit this retirement without placing on record its sincere appreciation of the great work which Mr. Bates and his volunteer associates have done. Such a great humanitarian undertaking, entered upon when everything in the world was in a state of chaos, brought to state of high efficiency, and carried on in such manner as to challenge criticism and invite admiration at every turn, deserves commendation on our part and the gratitude of every one.

"In this changed condition also there comes a dissolution of the woman's section and the committee takes this opportunity to voice its warmest appreciation of, and deep gratitude for, the services rendered by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, and the members of the woman's executive committee—Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Edward Hewitt, Miss Mary Parsons, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and Miss Maude Wetmore. It expresses its indebtedness to all those in the woman's section who so efficiently and self-sacrificingly have devoted themselves to the work of averting starvation in Belgium. The committee desires to add its heartfelt thanks for the generous offer of continued individual co-operation and assistance extended by the executive of the woman's section.

"A. J. HEMPHILL,
"Chairman of New York Committee.'

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Miss Shelland Leaves.

International Falls, Minn., Dec. 7.—Miss Annie Shelland, former county superintendent, departed Saturday evening for Minneapolis, the home of her parents, where she will visit until she takes up her new duties with the state superintendent of schools the first of the year.

SUICIDE IS THE CORONER'S VERDICT

The body found near Clifton, about a mile from French river, Sunday morning when Richard Erickson was out hunting rabbits, was that of a suicide, according to a verdict returned late yesterday by Coroner C. F. McComb.

"The finding of the revolver, the bullet wound in the head and the fact that the body had not been disturbed all substantiate the theory that the man killed himself," said Dr. McComb.

The body still is being held at Crawford's undertaking rooms, while an attepmt is being made to identify the dead man.

Hair Made Curly In Single Night

(Woman's Tribune.)

It has been discovered that the application of liquid silmerine actually makes straight hair curly and wavy in a single night! Also it acts as a perfectly harmless hair beautifier and dressing. It has the peculiar quality of drying in pretty waves, swirls and creases.

Straight, lanky hair and the cruel curling iron are no longer necessary. Any druggist of course can supply you with a few ounces of the liquid silmerine, enough to keep the hair curly for several weeks. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but very pleasant to use. Apply to the hair at bedtime with a clean tooth brush. In the morning your hair will be very beautiful and have a most natural curl and waviness.

Mrs. M. Raymond Tells What Tanlac Did for Her.

Nerves in Normal Condition, Gains Fifteen Pounds.

"I have suffered from severe headaches, nervousness and dizzy spells for a year," is what Mrs. M. Raymond told the Tanlac agent on Dec. 1st. Mrs. Raymond lives at 114 Twenty-first avenue west, and is very well known and popular in the growing district west of the point of rocks. Continuing, Mrs. Raymond said, "My appetite was very poor, and I had lost 25 pounds in weight in the last six months. I saw Tanlac advertised and decided to give it a trial. I have taken three bottles and it has done wonders for me. I have gained 15 pounds; the dizzy spells disappeared after taking one bottle; my headaches do not bother me any more, and my nerves are quite back again to their normal condition. I have lived in Duluth for five years and gladly recommend Tanlac to all my friends and acquaintances."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, may be purchased in Duluth from William A. Abbett, "the careful druggist," at 219 West Superior street, and at the Abbett branch stores, 101 West Fourth and 932 East Second streets.

BUSY SESSION FOR PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Discusses National Matters, Federal Building and Charities.

Addresses By Bishop McGolrick, E. A. Silberstein and Mayor.

The meeting of the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club, held last evening, had an unusually large attendance, and was an interesting session despite the fact that there were no outstanding features. The business discussed and disposed of was varied and all of importance; in addition to which the committee listened to good speeches made by Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Duluth; Mayor W. I. Prince, James A. Farrell, commissioner of public works, and E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities.

Henry Nolte, chairman of the public affairs committee, presided and conducted the meeting with a snap and speed that brought it through a pile of business by 9 o'clock, at which hour the adjournment came.

Owing to the fact that Booster Chief Frank X. Gravel, chairman of the trade extension committee, had to leave early, his report was given as the first order of business. He spoke optimistically of the work being done by the committee and of the growing business that Duluth is enjoying in old territory and in the new territory into which she is pushing her way.

A report of the executive committee presented a resolution asking that the government replace the present flume at the fish hatchery at Lester Park with an iron pipe to run under ground, the old one being an eyesore and inadequate, and this resolution was adopted. The government was also asked to appropriate money for a new cottage at the hatchery. An appropriation of $3,000 in all was asked.

Will Name Delegates.

The announcement of the fourth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to be held at the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., Feb. 8, 9 and 10, and the meeting of the national council on the afternoon of Feb. 7, was read. The club is to appoint delegates to the annual meeting of the chamber, and as this is regarded as a particularly important meeting, at which war problems will be discussed, the announcement urged careful action. The matter was referred to the executive committee with power to act. R. B. Knox is the Duluth member of the national council, having been elected recently to succeed Julius H. Barnes. Another matter referred to the executive committee was the naming of delegates, should it be decided to participate, to the National Foreign Trade convention, to be held at New Orleans in January.

A communication from the National Erectors' association, regarding arbitration between labor unions and builders, was referred to the committee on building trades.

New Federal Building.

The matter of urging the erection of a new Federal building came up, and Secretary Eva read the editorial in which The Herald started the agitation, a few days ago, to have Congressman Miller renew efforts to have such a building erected at the earliest possible time. This matter and the offer of Col. Edwin Romberg, president of the company controlling the granite quarries at Hinsdale, to furnish, free, all granite needed in public buildings to be erected here, were referred to the municipal committee.

A communication from the Merchants' Association of New York, urging that the government be advised to increase the pay to railroads for carrying mail, was referred to the traffic commission. This communication asserted that the government is asking the railroads to carry freight on passenger trains at one-third the cost of other freight, carried on freight trains; and asserted that the railroads are not getting a fair deal from the government.

Referendums Referred.

Two referendums, submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, were referred to the executive committee with power to act, in view of the fact that it would take too long to debate the matter in a meeting of the committee of the whole, and the vote, to be counted, must be mailed to Washington by Dec. 30. The referendums are Nos. 10 and 11.

Referendum No. 10 is on the second report of the special committee of the chamber on the department of commerce concerning the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and the consular service. In the main it recommends greater appropriations for the consular service and some other steps to increase the efficiency of the service.

Referendum No. 11 is on the report of the special committee on economic results of the war and American business. It makes some interesting recommendations, as follows:

First, that action be taken to secure conferences among neutral countries, on the initiative of the United States, for the purpose of defining and enunciating rules which will at all times give due protection to life and property on the high seas.

Second, that for the decision of questions which arise between nations and which can be resolved upon the application of established rules or upon a determination of facts the United States should take the initiative in joining with other nations in establishing an international court.

Third, that for the consideration of questions which arise between nations and which do not depend upon established rules or upon facts which can be determined by an international court the United States should take the initiative in joining with other nations in establishing a council of conciliation.

Fourth, that the United States should take the initiative in joining with other nations in agreeing to bring concerted economic pressure to bear upon any nation or nations which resort to military measures without submitting their differences to an international court or a council of conciliation, and awaiting the decision of the court or the recommendation of the council, as circumstances make the more appropriate.

Fifth, that the United States take the initiative in joining with other nations in agreeing to use concerted military force in the event that concerted economic pressure exercised by the signatory nations is not sufficient to compel nations which have proceeded to war to desist from military operations and submit the questions at issue to an international court or a council of conciliation, as circumstances make the more appropriate.

Sixth, that the United States should take the initiative in establishing the principle of frequent international conferences at expressly stated intervals for the progressive amendment of international law.

Charities Discussed.

Secretary Eva reported for the committee on charities and charitable organizations. He said that while there is nothing specific to report, the committee has had a good deal of work to do in looking up institutions that are applying for permission to solicit support; and that many of them have been found unworthy and have been turned down.

"The committee is endeavoring to save the people of Duluth from being imposed upon," said Mr. Eva. "Of course people can throw their money away if they want to, but if they wish to give to charities that are worthy and not to those that are unworthy, they will find it a simple matter by demanding of solicitors the card issued to worthy institutions by this committee. We look up those people carefully and without prejudice, and I think that Duluthians, if they wish it, are being well protected."

C. B. Woodruff suggested that a campaign of advertising the club's system would be a good thing. He said that many women will find out in no other way that such cards are issued, and in the goodness of their hearts will give indiscriminately, won by a pathetic story. The suggestion was well received.

E. A. Silberstein, president of the Associated Charities, was called upon for an address on the work of that organization. Mr. Silberstein said that in view of the fact that a majority of people do not seem to understand the methods of the Associated Charities, he would endeavor to answer the ten most pertinent questions that cover the subject. These covered an explanation of the motive of the organization, how it works, what steps are followed when a case is found that requires attention, how an investigation is conducted and the treatment following it, methods of co-operation, what kind of responsibilities are enforced, preventive work, the use and workings of a registration bureau, and, in general, how the work is carried on. He summarized the work as a resume as follows:

Summary of Work.

"For the needy—give immediate relief, find work for those needing it, furnish nurse for sick, sent patients to hospital, obtain pensions for widows with children, get help from relatives, arrange a loan to start in business, place dependents in homes with relative or institutions, provide friendly visitor for advice and help, obtain transportation to good homes, work, and so forth, and notify every agency which should help the family in need.

"For other societies—Make investigations, keep central list of cases, thereby helping to avoid duplication, give advice and active help in solving any case, and report impostors.

"For the business man—Act as agents in giving personal aid to the needy, investigate and report on particular cases, pass upon merits of solicitors, and furnish tickets by which applicants can be referred to us.

"For the community—Help organize and systematize the charity of the city without its losing the personal touch, work to eliminate the causes of poverty and to make the city a better place to live in, stand ready to co-operate with any citizen or society in any non-political measure for the general good, and act as clearing house through which any one wishing to do social work can direct his or her efforts where they are most needed."

Mr. Silberstein summed up the matter with an anecdote and parallel. Said he:

"The proprietor of an English hospital for the insane is in the habit of showing visitors one room which contains nothing but a cement floor and a large cask, the top and the stop-cock of which are wide open. New inmates are given the filling of the cask as a preliminary test of their mental condition. If they continue for hours patiently to pour water in at the top without trying to close the stop-cock near the bottom, it is inferred that they are in need of treatment in the institution.

"As applied to the sanity of charity work, this test is a searching one. Are we not still too often guilty of pouring in at one end what we helplessly permit to flow off at the other? The Associated Charities thinks that we are, and strives, through an adjustment of taps and faucets to rehabilitate neglected family life, and pour into it those healing streams of sympathy and endeavor which else would trickle helplessly to waste."

The report of the municipal committee on plats was laid over for one month at the request of the Real Estate exchange, which meets today to discuss the plat matter.

Bishop Creates Good Humor.

Bishop McGolrick reported for the committee on parks and playgrounds and declared that the work under the new city commission is very favorable. The bishop, however, declared that the city may go too far in its work of training children how to play, and believes that by causing children to adhere too closely to rules for play, much energy will be wasted and not much good done.

"The school and city authorities are on the right track," said the bishop, "but they can go too far. Parents must have adenoids removed from their children now and every man, woman and child is expected to give up the appendix. Then the next thing is that each child has to sacrifice its wisdom teeth. What is left for the parents, I don't know."

The laughter with which that was greeted was renewed when the bishop said:

"It is all right to be paternal, but it seems to me that we are in danger of becoming maternal."

The bishop declared that the parks are an honor to the city and then spoke of the excellent teaching that is accorded the children in the parks. He advocated the establishment of a large park in the West end and in other sections of the city.

He spoke of the development of the commercial course in the city high school, telling of how it began with one room and now has six. He also said that manual training should be developed and expressed the belief that the time is coming when buildings for the teaching of manual training alone will be necessary. He said that the boy who takes manual training is better equipped than the average boy for after life.

"Even should he never follow a trade, it will benefit him," declared the bishop, and then added with his eyes twinkling, "If he marries his wife will say he's handy around the house."

Mayor Prince Speaks.

Mayor Prince spoke briefly of the pleasure that the commissioners feel in the co-operation that they receive from the club and said that they are anxious for its advice and help. He declared that while optimism has ever been felt in Duluth, there never was a time like the present that expectations were as near fulfillment.

For the publicity committee, H. W. Zinsmaster reported on the recent membership campaign and on the taking of scenes for universal display by a motion picture company. He spoke also of the "hit" which the advertising used in the membership campaign had made and quoted the fact that Printers' Ink, a noted periodical has commented favorably on it.

C. F. Macdonald, vice chairman of the traffic commission, reported on matters now before the commission and of the immense amount of work done in the past month. Chairman Nolte declared that the traffic commission is one of the most effective organizations in connection with the club, and has done remarkable work for the city.

Commissioner of Public Works J. A. Farrell, was introduced as the most abused and harassed man in Duluth, but as one of the most efficient officials. Mr. Farrell spoke on paving in general and of specific work that has been done and which it is planned to do next year. He spoke in particular of the road to the steel plant and of the fills that have had to be left this year. One of these—a 600-foot fill—he said, would be "awful next spring, when the melting time comes," but added that it cannot be helped, and the best that can be done is to build a rough wooden bridge out of old bridge lumber over it, a thing for which he is providing the lumber now as old bridges are being replaced by new ones. Mr. Farrell thanked the Commercial club, the Rotary club and the neighborhood clubs for the help and advice they have given him since he took office.

Abstract Books Nonassessable.

St. Cloud, Minn., Dec. 7.—That abstract books cannot be assessed as personal property, as they are the result of individual labor and worthless without being kept up, was the opinion handed down here by Judge Roeser in the case of Benton county against the Benton County Abstract company to collect a tax amounting to about $90.

BRAINERD MAN ON EVE OF OPERATION

E. A. Spohn Finds Relief With First Dose of Remarkable Remedy for Stomach.

E. A. Spohn of Brainerd, Minn., R. F. D. No. 2, was so dangerously ill that his physician declared he could not live unless he was operated upon.

He feared an operation and in seeking a way out he tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. It succeeded.

After he had gained back his strength he wrote:

"I thought I would let you know how I was benefited by Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I took it some time ago. It did all that you claimed it would do. I was so bad that the doctors told me I could not live without an operation, but I did not have one and I don't think I shall ever need one now. I have felt no signs of gall stones since I took your treatment."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now asd try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—Advertisement.

MORE WINTER STREET WORK

Sewer Ordered to Better Conditions at Stowe School.

Iron Staircase for the Contagious Hospital Is Authorized.

More winter street work was ordered by the city commissioners at their regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon.

Sanitary sewers were ordered in South First avenue east, between Buchanan and Morse streets; in Grand avenue, from Ninety-fifth to One Hundred and First avenue west; and in Gary street, between Commonwealth avenue and Ninety-sixth avenue west. The last named sewer will serve the Stowe school, where the conditions were found very unfavorable by Health Director Fahey, who made a complaint to the commission the other day. He pointed out that unless a sewer is put in, he would order the building closed. The sewer will cost $4,328.

Gas and water extensions were ordered in Carlisle avenue and in Wabasha street, while A. Hedenberg was awarded the contract to lay the mains in Sixty-third avenue west, from Sherburne to Fremont street; in Fremont street, from Sixty-third to Sixty-sixth avenue west; in Sixty-fifth avenue west, from Fremont to Waseca street, and in Sixty-sixth avenue west, from Fremont to Natchez street, on his bid of $1,783.

The city attorney was authorized to settle the claim of Bertha Morterud for $35. She was injured on Aug. 13 in a fall on a defective board walk at Wabasha street and Elysian avenue.

The payrolls for the last half of November were approved and the second semi-monthly pay day tomorrow was authorized.

An appropriation of $16 from the public welfare fund to pay for flooding a skating rink at Duluth Heights was authorized.

Commissioner Silberstein introduced an ordinance appropriating $1,250 for an iron stairway in the contagious hospital. Second reading was given the measure appropriating $635 for a smokestack on the incinerator plant, while the ordinances appropriating $4,000 for the maintenance of the new armory during 1916, $750 for filling in underneath the Lincoln park bridge, and $1,043 for paying the state examiners, were all passed.

Licenses granted yesterday follow: Saloon—Sam Olson, 511 West Superior street; Fitzgerald & Winchester, 218 West Superior street; cigarettes—Vukosaw & Colish, 5606 Raleigh street; A. Lofgren, 2030 West Superior street; Nick Pose, 419½ West Michigan street; Charles Morganello, 214 West Superior street; J. C. Anderson, 2001 West Superior street; W. F. Hatley, 301 West Superior street; pool—Charles Morganello, 214 West Superior street.

Arc lights were ordered at Eleventh avenue east and Second street, and Eighteenth avenue east and Fifth street, and incandescent lights at Twenty-eighth avenue west and Michigan street, One Hundred Thirty-first avenue west and Fourth street, Woodland avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, Forty-fifth avenue west and Halifax street and Thirteenth avenue west and Fifth street.

Old Mining Man Dies.

Negaunee, Mich., Dec. 7.—Capt. James Matthews, aged 64, died unexpectedly Sunday at the Cornishtown location. Capt. Matthews, who was one of the most prominent mining captains in the Upper Peninsula, lived in this county for about forty years. He had been a mining captain for fifteen years, until five years ago, when he retired as captain of the Salisbury mine at Ishpeming. Since that time he had been working at the Queen mine at Negaunee as timberman.

Special prepared Lute Fisk served every day at Haley's.

FIREMEN BLAMED IN DAMAGE SUIT

Oliver Brown Sues for $920, Charging Men With Neglect.

Oliver Brown of 517 Eighth avenue east wants $920 from the city, because, he alleges, the fire department was negligent in fighting a blaze at his home on Nov. 5.

The claimant alleges that the firemen failed to extinguish the flames in a reasonable length of time, that there was but a slight chimney blaze when they arrived, that the chemical apparatus was empty, that the hose was connected with an empty hydrant, that after another connection was made, the hose became tangled, causing a further delay, and that the firemen threw burned articles on his stock, killing chickens worth $20.

The claim was turned over to the city attorney for investigation. Mr. Brown's attorney does not affix his signature, so that his identity is unknown.

Mr. Brown is the father of the boy who died from injuries sustained as the result of playing with some old fireworks more than a year ago.

Society ❧ Women's Clubs ❧ Music ❧ Drama

THE Evening Drama class will give a vaudeville program Wednesday night, Dec. 15, in the auditorium of Central high school. "The Veneered Savage," the playlet which was given at the social meeting which the club held last week, will be one of the features. Gustav Jackson will give violin numbers and Wyman Horr will play piano solos. No admission will be charged.

Kindergarten Club Will Hold Meeting in Superior

A program of Christmas music and stories will be given and there will be an exhibit of the kindergartners' Christmas work at the meeting of the Duluth-Superior Kindergarten club, which will be held at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Matt Carpenter school in Superior.

Will Give Dance in Honor of Miss Prindle

In compliment to Miss Muriel Prindle and Cornelius Ayer Wood of Boston, whose wedding will take place Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 15, at Trinity cathedral, Miss Elizabeth Congdon will entertain sixty young persons at a dancing party Monday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Congdon, 3300 London road. Mr. and Mrs. Congdon will be the chaperones.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prindle of 2211 Greysolon road, parents of the bride, will give the bridal dinner Tuesday night at the Kitchi Gammi club.

Fred Wolvin will give a dancing party for the members of the bridal party Wednesday night at the Kitchi Gammi club to entertain the guests after the bride and bridegroom have left. Mr. and Mrs. Augustus B. Wolvin will chaperone the thirty guests.

Children Will Give Another Tea for Serbian Relief Work

A group of children who gave a tea for the benefit of Serbian children several weeks ago will give another tea and a sale of fancy articles from 2 to 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. McGiffert, 2324 East Fifth street. The young hostesses and hosts will be Betty Bohannon, Ruth Bohannon, Gertrude McGiffert, Eleanor Vivian, Rutherford McGiffert, Andrew McGiffert, Elizabeth McPherran, Frederick Rowe, Frederick Harlow, John Harlow and Robert Dunning.

The sale will include Christmas presents that were made by a Duluth woman who said she could not give them to her friends who had plenty while the Serbian children had neither food nor shelter.

Twenty-five baby kits have been made, the children assisting their mothers and friends by pulling out bastings, running in tapes and adjusting pins. The playroom of the McGiffert home has been fitted up as a workshop and anyone who wishes to help is welcome. Many pieces of outing flannel have been donated and a man who heard of the children's undertaking gave $25. The baby kits and the proceeds of the sale will be sent to the three tent hospitals that are under military control.

After the holidays the children will take up Red Cross work as well as Serbian relief work.

Mrs. DeVoist Takes Part in National Suffrage Fight

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Mrs. P. L. De Voist, former president of the Minnesota Suffrage association, is in Washington to promote the passage of the Mondell woman suffrage resolution for an amendment to the Constitution that will permit women to vote. Miss Clara A. Le Duc of Duluth is also here.

Dramatic Feet Present "Thriller" in Five Acts

"Extraordinary Fete Under the Auspices of the Drama Leg," was the startling announcement on placards at the "foot" pantomime given yesterday afternoon by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae at the home of Mrs. Richard Sellwood, 1931 East Second street.

More than 100 members were seated in the ballroom before a curtain that came within a short distance of the floor, a curtain that did not rise, as its mission was to hide all but the feet of the actors and actresses.

Mrs. George A. Reifsteck directed the performance, "Fainting Mabel," which was coached by Mrs. George W. Morgan.

There were eighteen feet to the reel, as the characters included Mabel, Mamma, Charles, Albert, the preacher, the other girl, the messenger boy, the dog and the snake.

Charles' and Albert's attentions to Mabel, rescues from drowning and snakes and several weddings were all interpreted by feet. The action of the drama was explained by Mrs. Reifsteck as the "chorus" and by placards such as "When Charlie Opened His Mouth and Put His Foot in It" and "The Wedding and What Came of It." The spectators were so enthusiastic that it was necessary to repeat all five acts.

Before the performance a short business meeting was held at which Mrs. Archibald T. Banning gave a report of the emergency committee and announced that a card catalog will be prepared with the name and activities of every social worker in the association, to lessen delay in the emergency social work.

Mrs. L. W. Kline, the president, announced that 477 tickets had been sold for the A. C. A. lecture course.

Tea was served in the dining room, where a silver bowl of Russell roses and Easter lilies formed the centerpiece. Assisting in serving were Mrs. William Harrison, Mrs. E. L. Tuohy, Miss Hazel Britts, Miss Dorothy Davis and Miss Emily Merritt.

EVENTS OF TONIGHT AND TOMORROW.

The Bishop's club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Bishop's club room.

Julia Culp will give a concert, under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale, at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the First Methodist church.

The Minnesota National Guard and the Minnesota naval militia will entertain at their first annual joint dancing party tonight at the new armory.

The piano teachers' round table of the Matinee Musicale will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson of 5118 Oneida street will be the hostess for the meeting of the Linnaea club that will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Duluth-Superior club will meet at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Matt Carpenter school, Superior.

Will Sing German and American Songs

Julia Culp will give German and American songs at the First Methodist church tonight, under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale. A suitable background for her lieder will be furnished by Coenraad V. Bos, her accompanist, who was the accompanist for Dr. Wullner when he made a tour of this country.

The Philadelphia Ledger said of the singer: "Julia Culp is unquestionably a wonderfully skilful artist. She has a 'big' voice, with an extended range. The voice is used with such consummate finesse, and does so much that one is lost in admiration of the technical control exhibited."

Mozart Is Subject at Class Meeting

Mozart was the subject of Miss Edna Z. Harris at the meeting of her musical history class that was held last night at her studio in the Edison building. Elizabeth Halden played a piano number, "The Rustle of Spring," by Sinding, and Miss Harris and James Gray played as a piano duet an excerpt from "Il Trovatore." Mildred Sanders won the favor for the musical game. Twenty-four attended the meeting.

Modern Samaritans Hold Annual Election

Ulsrud of 322½ East Fifth street, and Arthur Wentzloff of Adolph, Minn., will be married at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Willard I. Kern of Superior will perform the ceremony in the presence of the two families.

Five Hundred Party.

Mrs. W. H. Konkler of 418 West Fourth street entertained at seven tables of five hundred yesterday afternoon. Favors were won by Mrs. M. Russell, Mrs. James Webber and Mrs. Otto Elstad. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Charles Suech and Mrs. William Drew.

Former Duluth Visitor Marries in California

Judge and Mrs. Myron De Vere Taylor of St. Cloud and St. Paul have announced the marriage of their daughter, Louise Frank, to Dr. Dexter Newell Richards of Berkeley, Cal., which took place Nov. 25 in Berkeley. Dr. and Mrs. Richards will be at home after Dec. 28 at the Channing apartments in Berkeley.

The bride and her sister, Miss Zama Taylor, have visited in Duluth as the guests of Mrs. George A. Reifsteck of 721 East First street, and Mrs. Julius Sobotta of 1516 East Fourth street. They played at several musicales and teas given in their honor. Mrs. Richards, who is a violinist, studied five and a half years at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, and Miss Taylor is a pianist and organist.

Opera Singer Weds Naval Attache

MARGUERITE SYLVA
(Mrs. B. L. Smith.)

Marguerite Sylva, the well-known opera singer, has been married to Lieut. Bernard L. Smith of Richmond, assistant naval attache of the United States embassy in Paris. Miss Sylva divorced W. D. Mann, a theatrical man, some years ago. She sang for some years in grand opera but gave this up for lighter roles in 1911. She has been singing lately at the Opera Comique in Paris.

Drama Class Will Repeat "The Veneered Savage"

The Evening Drama class will repeat the playlet, "The Veneered Savage," which was given at the social meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. M. Cook. An additional act will be given at the second presentation, which will be held in the assembly hall of the Central high school, probably Dec. 15. The young women who took part were Miss E. Pearl Preston, Miss Helen Strand, Miss Hannah Strand, Miss Lillian Dinham, Miss Eva Cohen, Miss Mae Geary and Miss Marguerite Geary.

Musical numbers will be given by Mrs. John C. Young and Wyman Horr, pianists, and Gustav Jackson, violinist.

Christmas Recipes.

From the Milwaukee Free Press:

Fruit Cookies.

Cream together a half a pound of butter with a cup and a half of granulated sugar, then add half a cup of rich milk, one well beaten egg, two teaspoons of baking powder, a teaspoon of grated nutmeg, half a cup of seeded and chopped raisins, and just enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Cut out with a scalloped ring cutter, brush over the top with milk, then sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake until slightly brown in a quick oven.

Nut Cookies.

Cream together one and one-half cup of butter with two cups of granulated sugar, add six well beaten eggs, one and one-half pints of sifted flour, half a cup of cornstarch with which has been mixed a teaspoon of baking powder and a teaspoon of lemon extract. Roll out on a floured board, cut in rounds and sprinkle with finely chopped or rolled English walnut meats, pressing down the nuts with the rolling pin to incorporate them with the dough. Bake in a hot oven for ten minutes or until the edges begin to brown.

English Plum Pudding.

One pound currants.
One pound Sultana raisins.
One pound seeded raisins.
One pound kidney suet, finely chopped.
One pound light brown sugar.
One pound flour.
Six ounces candied lemon peel.
One nutmeg.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon ginger.
Six eggs.
Two wineglasses brandy.

Mix dry ingredients well together, add eggs, cover and let stand over night. Next day add brandy and press into mold. Put into boiling water and boil six hours. Boil two hours when wanted for use.

White Christmas Cake.

Cream together half a cup of butter with twice that amount of granulated sugar, then add three eggs, beating as each is turned in but not separately. Then beat in a cup of hickory or English walnut meats which have been dried and rolled very fine, and a cup of seeded and chopped raisins. Into a pint of sifted flour stir two level teaspoons of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoon each of powdered cinnamon and mace. Add to the other ingredients, finishing with three-quarters of a cup of milk, and the grated rind of a lemon. Bake in an oval tin lined with buttered paper and when cold ice with boiled frosting, made by boiling together a cup of sifted granulated sugar with half a cup of water until a little of the syrup forms a thread, when dropped from a spoon. Remove from fire, flavor with lemon or vanilla and pour slowly over the white of an egg which has been beaten to a stiff froth. Let cool slightly, then pour on cake. When firm make a pattern of holly leaves, using tiny red candles for the berries and making the leaves of thin slices of citron, or make a spray of mistletoe, using small silver-coated drops for the berries. In either case make the stems of melted chocolate.

ARAB ATHLETES AT GRAND.

Picturesque Troupe Pleases Big Audiences on Opening of Bill.

Bobker's Arabs, who come at the tail-end of a new vaudeville show at the Grand theater, pleased large houses yesterday in their picturesque and thrilling feats of skill. There are seven of these athletes, and their pyramid formations, their whirlwind somersaults and many other original stunts were done as no other troupe of gymnasts has ever performed at the New Grand. The act closes with the seven performing at once and the stage presents the appearance of a maze of whirling legs and arms, all moving so swiftly that the figures are scarcely discernible.

Dave Rafael in a ventriloquist act, entitled "On the Farm," has six or seven "persons" all talking in an original act of his own creation. He puts over many comedy stunts that are really amusing.

Berns and Dean are two clever and pretty girls who appear to great advantage in a song and dance act. A number of stunning costumes greatly add to the interest of their act.

Miss Dora Pelletier, the singing comedienne, had a bad cold yesterday, but bravely went through her turn, having to decline several encores. She did some very clever impersonations of well-known stage characters. She was very attractively dressed and has a good personality. It is expected that she will make a big hit when she recovers from her cold.

"As the Twig Is Bent" is a three-reel feature film of unusual interest. It shows the results of home training on the child and drives home a powerful moral lesson. Many interesting scenes of army life in the Philippines are shown. "A Motorcycle Elopement" and a number of other excellent films complete the program.

Today and tomorrow the twenty-eighth chapter of "The Diamond From the Sky" will be shown as an added feature.

Theater Gossip.

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION." The magnitude of David W. Griffith's feat in staging "The Birth of a Nation," is almost appalling—at least to the devotees of the older forms of theatrical entertainment. By comparison with the new art, the "legitimate" measures to the mountain like a molehill. Instead of scenery for his background Griffith has used nature. For subject he has covered 150 years of American life and history. Eighteen thousand people have done his bidding and in the hair-raising rides of the Ku Klux Klan 3,000 riders and horses sweep over the dusty roads.

No wonder that this magnificent historical spectacle is the talk of the country. It has established an entirely new art in the realm of the theater—the art of pantomimic screen spectacles with an orchestral score perfectly synchronized to the action. It has also created a tremendous sensation because of its vaster and more forceful treatment of the theme of Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman," which both as book and play created the greatest furore of the last decade.

The great deeds of the Civil war and the horrors of reconstruction are made to live again. Mr. Griffith, pioneer among directors, managed this stupendous achievement without the aid of dialogue or speech, for motion pictures with music and effects tell vividly this thrilling tale of fifty years ago.

"THE MARTYRS OF THE ALAMO." A play of considerable educational value as well as of thrilling interest is "The Martyrs of the Alamo" at the Rex today and tomorrow. It is a historical drama telling how in the early days the courageous but much outnumbered defenders of the Alamo were slaughtered and how other Americans avenged their death by defeating the Mexicans and winning the independence of Texas. Some of the historical characters that appear in this stirring border drama are: Silent Smith (Sam De Grasse); Santa Anna (Walter Long); Sam Houston (Tom Wilson); David Crockett (A. D. Sears), and James Bowie (Alfred Paget).

"Saved By Wireless" is a clever comedy. There is one scene that keeps the best of the picture fans guessing—Conklin grabs a rope hanging down from an aeroplane and Swain gets hold beneath him. Then there is a fight and Swain is kicked loose from the rope, in midair.

RECOGNIZED AS STATE SHOW

Duluth Poultry Exhibit Attracts Attention of National Association.

Local Fanciers Expect 1,000 Entries in January Competition.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at the Commercial club last evening by those interested in poultry raising in the Northern part of the state.

Following a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, there were several addresses and then a business session was held, during which it was announced that the Duluth Poultry show would be held in the old armory, Jan. 25 to 29 inclusive and that the local show would this year be recognized as the official poultry exhibition of the state, by the National Poultry association.

George W. Hackett of North Freedom, Wis., will be judge. The judging of birds will be done by the comparison system. It is expected that the show to be held in January will be bigger by far than any other previous show given under the auspices of the Duluth Poultry association. Duluth poultrymen look for an entry list of 1,000 birds. Last year's show broke all records with 700 entries.

During the meeting last evening George W. Hackett spoke on the raising and preparing of exhibition birds, reviewing the subject from egg to showroom.

The following prominent poultrymen were present:

Prof. N. E. Chapman, George W. Hackett of New Freedom, Wis.; A. B. Hostetter, Duluth; Judge W. L. Windom, Duluth; W. A. Roycraft, secretary, and H. J. Hammerbeck, president of the Superior Poultry association; D. C. Moore, president of the Duluth association; H. G. Larson, S. B. Suydam, Frank Hallock and E. H. Conkey, secretary of the Duluth association.

At the recent meeting of the Minnesota Poultry Breeders' association in Minneapolis, D. C. Moore of the Duluth association was elected vice president.

CLOQUET'S NEW LATH MILL BEING BUILT

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The site of the new lath and bolt mill which is to be built by the Cloquet Tie & Post company this winter has been completely cleared of slab wood, and construction work on the new mill commenced yesterday. It is expected that the mill will be ready for operation early in the spring and the company is now placing contracts for timber for local delivery this winter to cover its season's requirements.

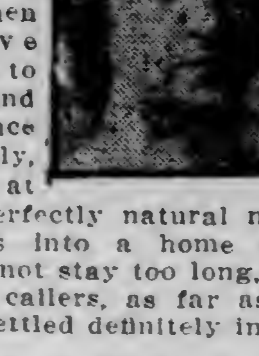
Mrs. A. F. Peterson will entertain the ladies' aid at the Swedish Methodist church tomorrow afternoon.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Some Parents Too Stern.



A young girl of 16 has written and asked me if she is not old enough to receive young men callers at her own house. Most of us can remember our own difficulties in this very matter, for there has always been a disposition on the part of parents generally to prevent the coming of the beau as long as possible.

The young men who is brave enough to come to the front door and ring for admittance in a gentlemanly, courageous and at the same time perfectly natural manner usually gets into a home and, provided he does not stay too long, the question of men callers, as far as he is concerned, is settled definitely in his favor.

Occasionally there is an irate father, and where there isn't an uncompromising father there may be a determined mother who won't have a young man hanging around the girls until they are out of school. I think parents of this type lose more than they ever gain by their strict enforcement of the rule that the young ladies of the household shall not entertain their schoolboy friends. The beau idea, encouraged by the parents of the schoolgirl, is not advisable, but depriving them of the privilege of entertaining their friends, male or female, in their homes, never will be productive of any good.

The very best way is to allow the daughters of a family to entertain their boy and girl friends once, perhaps twice a week, as soon as they show a liking for the company of estimable young men. Be almost certain that they will meet these boy sweethearts somewhere and somehow in spite of your efforts to frustrate them. It is much better to know something of the company your daughters keep, which knowledge may be gleaned while they are under your eye in their own home, than that they should form the habit of meeting whom they will clandestinely because they fear to invite them to their homes.

The young girl who is very anxious to entertain men callers like her grown-up sisters will yet live to be thankful that she followed the advice of her parents in all ways pertaining to her conduct. It is all very nice to have boy friends and admirers and to treat them the best you know how. But as for sweethearts at 16, that is all very silly. Later on there will be a real sweetheart and then if you have been bothered with any make-believe beaux, you will be sorry and wish that you hadn't been so foolish.

For German Citizens.

The program for the German mass meeting and entertainment to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at 8:30 p. m., at the Moose hall, 224 West First street, has been prepared, and a large attendance is expected.

The Germania Singing society, under the leadership of F. Hase, will render the following songs: "Das deutsche Lied," "Das ist der Tag des Herr" and the dialect song, "Juclheissa, mei Dirndl." Franz von Loew will play a piano solo, and Emil Dorn will give a violin solo. F. Oppenheimer will sing some humorous German songs. Fred Doerfer has arranged the program. Max Binheim will address the audience and other speakers are on the program.

Cloquet Man Held.

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary examination of W. H. Wilton, who was arrested last week on a charge of incest, was waived yesterday before Judge Shemp, and the accused is now held by the sheriff to await the action of the grand jury at the February term of the district court.

To Protect Japanese.

Tokio, Dec. 7.—It is understood that Japan, in view of the disturbed conditions in Shanghai, will adopt measures for the protection of Japanese residents and interests there. Several Japanese warships are already on the spot and the cruiser Tsugaru, which has left Yokohama, is believed to be bound for Shanghai.

Society ◆ Women's Clubs ◆ Music ◆ Drama

THE Evening Drama class will give a vaudeville program Wednesday night, Dec. 15, in the auditorium of Central high school. "The Veneered Savage," the playlet which was given at the social meeting which the club held last week, will be one of the features. Gustav Jackson will give violin numbers and Wyman Horr will play piano solos. No admission will be charged.

Kindergarten Club Will Hold Meeting in Superior

A program of Christmas music and stories will be given and there will be an exhibit of the kindergartners' Christmas work at the meeting of the Duluth-Superior Kindergarten club, which will be held at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Matt Carpenter school in Superior.

Will Give Dance in Honor of Miss Prindle

In compliment to Miss Muriel Prindle and Cornelius Ayer Wood of Boston, whose wedding will take place Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 15, at Trinity cathedral, Miss Elizabeth Congdon will entertain sixty young persons at a dancing party Monday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Congdon, 3300 London road. Mr. and Mrs. Congdon will be the chaperones.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prindle of 2211 Greysolon road, parents of the bride, will give the bridal dinner Tuesday night at the Kitchi Gammi club.

Fred Wolvin will give a dancing party for the members of the bridal party Wednesday night at the Kitchi Gammi club to entertain the guests after the bride and bridegroom have left. Mr. and Mrs. Augustus B. Wolvin will chaperone the thirty guests.

Children Will Give Another Tea for Serbian Relief Work

A group of children who gave a tea for the benefit of Serbian children several weeks ago will give another tea and a sale of fancy articles from 2 to 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. McGiffert, 2324 East Fifth street. The young hostesses and hosts will be Betty Bohannon, Ruth Bohannon, Gertrude McGiffert, Eleanor Vivian, Rutherford McGiffert, Andrew McGiffert, Elizabeth McPherran, Frederick Rowe, Frederick Harlow, John Harlow and Robert Dunning.

The sale will include Christmas presents that were made by a Duluth woman who said she could not give them to her friends who had plenty while the Serbian children had neither food nor shelter.

Twenty-five baby kits have been made, the children assisting their mothers and friends by pulling out bastings, running in tapes and adjusting pins. The playroom of the McGiffert home has been fitted up as a workshop and anyone who wishes to help is welcome. Many pieces of outing flannel have been donated and a man who heard of the children's undertaking gave $25. The baby kits and the proceeds of the sale will be sent to the three tent hospitals that are under military control.

After the holidays the children will take up Red Cross work as well as Serbian relief work.

Mrs. DeVoist Takes Part in National Suffrage Fight

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Mrs. P. L. De Voist, former president of the Minnesota Suffrage association, is in Washington to promote the passage of the Mondell woman suffrage resolution for an amendment to the Constitution that will permit women to vote. Miss Clara A. Le Duc of Duluth is also here.

Dramatic Feet Present "Thriller" in Five Acts

"Extraordinary Fete Under the Auspices of the Drama Leg," was the startling announcement on placards at the "foot" pantomime given yesterday afternoon by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae at the home of Mrs. Richard Sellwood, 1931 East Second street.

More than 100 members were seated in the ballroom before a curtain that came within a short distance of the floor, a curtain that did not rise, as its mission was to hide all but the feet of the actors and actresses.

Mrs. George A. Reifsteck directed the performance, "Fainting Mabel," which was coached by Mrs. George W. Morgan.

There were eighteen feet to the reel, as the characters included Mabel, Mamma, Charles, Albert, the preacher, the other girl, the messenger boy, the dog and the snake.

Charles' and Albert's attentions to Mabel, rescues from drowning and snakes and several weddings were all interpreted by feet. The action of the drama was explained by Mrs. Reifsteck as the "chorus" and by placards such as "When Charlie Opened His Mouth and Put His Foot in It" and "The Wedding and What Came of It." The spectators were so enthusiastic that it was necessary to repeat all five acts.

Before the performance a short business meeting was held at which Mrs. Archibald T. Banning gave a report of the emergency committee and announced that a card catalog will be prepared with the name and activities of every social worker in the association, to lessen delay in the emergency social work.

Mrs. L. W. Kline, the president, announced that 477 tickets had been sold for the A. C. A. lecture course.

Tea was served in the dining room, where a silver bowl of Russell roses and Easter lilies formed the centerpiece. Assisting in serving were Mrs. William Harrison, Mrs. E. L. Tuohy, Miss Hazel Britts, Miss Dorothy Davis and Miss Emily Merritt.

EVENTS OF TONIGHT AND TOMORROW.

The Bishop's club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Bishop's club room.

Julia Culp will give a concert, under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale, at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the First Methodist church.

The Minnesota National Guard and the Minnesota naval militia will entertain at their first annual joint dancing party tonight at the new armory.

The piano teachers' round table of the Matinee Musicale will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson of 5118 Oneida street will be the hostess for the meeting of the Linnaea club that will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Duluth-Superior club will meet at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Matt Carpenter school, Superior.

Will Sing German and American Songs

Julia Culp will give German and American songs at the First Methodist church tonight, under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale. A suitable background for her lieder will be furnished by Coenraad V. Bos, her accompanist, who was the accompanist for Dr. Wullner when he made a tour of this country.

The Philadelphia Ledger said of the singer: "Julia Culp is unquestionably a wonderfully skilful artist. She has a 'big' voice, with an extended range. The voice is used with such consummate finesse, and does so much that one is lost in admiration of the technical control exhibited."

Mozart Is Subject at Class Meeting

Mozart was the subject of Miss Edna Z. Harris at the meeting of her musical history class that was held last night at her studio in the Edison building. Elizabeth Halden played a piano number, "The Rustle of Spring," by Sinding, and Miss Harris and James Gray played as a piano duet an excerpt from "Il Trovatore." Mildred Sanders won the favor for the musical game. Twenty-four attended the meeting.

Ulsrud of 322½ East Fifth street, and Arthur Wentzloff of Adolph, Minn., will be married at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Willard I. Kern of Superior will perform the ceremony in the presence of the two families.

Five Hundred Party.

Mrs. W. H. Konkler of 418 West Fourth street entertained at seven tables of five hundred yesterday afternoon. Favors were won by Mrs. M. Russell, Mrs. James Webber and Mrs. Otto Elstad. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Charles Suech and Mrs. William Drew.

Former Duluth Visitor Marries in California

Judge and Mrs. Myron De Vere Taylor of St. Cloud and St. Paul have announced the marriage of their daughter, Louise Frank, to Dr. Dexter Newell Richards of Berkeley, Cal., which took place Nov. 25 in Berkeley. Dr. and Mrs. Richards will be at home after Dec. 28 at the Channing apartments in Berkeley.

The bride and her sister, Miss Zama Taylor, have visited in Duluth as the guests of Mrs. George A. Reifsteck of 721 East First street, and Mrs. Julius Sobotta of 1516 East Fourth street. They played at several musicales and teas given in their honor. Mrs. Richards, who is a violinist, studied five and a half years at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, and Miss Taylor is a pianist and organist.

Opera Singer Weds Naval Attache

MARGUERITE SYLVA
(Mrs. B. L. Smith.)

Marguerite Sylva, the well-known opera singer, has been married to Lieut. Bernard L. Smith of Richmond, assistant naval attache of the United States embassy in Paris. Miss Sylva divorced W. D. Mann, a theatrical man, some years ago. She sang for some years in grand opera but gave this up for lighter roles in 1911. She has been singing lately at the Opera Comique in Paris.

Drama Class Will Repeat "The Veneered Savage"

The Evening Drama class will repeat the playlet, "The Veneered Savage," which was given at the social meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. M. Cook. An additional act will be given at the second presentation, which will be held in the assembly hall of the Central high school, probably Dec. 15. The young women who took part were Miss E. Pearl Preston, Miss Helen Strand, Miss Hannah Strand, Miss Lillian Dinham, Miss Eva Cohen, Miss Mae Geary and Miss Marguerite Geary.

Musical numbers will be given by Mrs. John C. Young and Wyman Horr, pianists, and Gustav Jackson, violinist.

Christmas Recipes.

From the Milwaukee Free Press:

Fruit Cookies.

Cream together a half a pound of butter with a cup and a half of granulated sugar, then add half a cup of rich milk, one well beaten egg, two teaspoons of baking powder, a teaspoon of grated nutmeg, half a cup of seeded and chopped raisins, and just enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Cut out with a scalloped ring cutter, brush over the top with milk, then sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake until slightly brown in a quick oven.

Nut Cookies.

Cream together one and one-half cup of butter with two cups of granulated sugar, add six well beaten eggs, one and one-half pints of sifted flour, half a cup of cornstarch with which has been mixed a teaspoon of baking powder and a teaspoon of lemon extract. Roll out on a floured board, cut in rounds and sprinkle with finely chopped or rolled English walnut meats, pressing down the nuts with the rolling pin to incorporate them with the dough. Bake in a hot oven for ten minutes or until the edges begin to brown.

English Plum Pudding.

One pound currants.
One pound Sultana raisins.
One pound seeded raisins.
One pound kidney suet, finely chopped.
One pound light brown sugar.
One pound flour.
Six ounces candied lemon peel.
One nutmeg.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon ginger.
Six eggs.
Two wineglasses brandy.

Mix dry ingredients well together, add eggs, cover and let stand over night. Next day add brandy and press into mold. Put into boiling water and boil six hours. Boil two hours when wanted for use.

White Christmas Cake.

Cream together half a cup of butter with twice that amount of granulated sugar, then add three eggs, beating as each is turned in but not separately. Then beat in a cup of hickory or English walnut meats which have been dried and rolled very fine, and a cup of seeded and chopped raisins. Into a pint of sifted flour stir two level teaspoons of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoon each of powdered cinnamon and mace. Add to the other ingredients, finishing with three-quarters of a cup of milk, and the grated rind of a lemon. Bake in an oval tin lined with buttered paper and when cold ice with boiled frosting, made by boiling together a cup of sifted granulated sugar with half a cup of water until a little of the syrup forms a thread, when dropped from a spoon. Remove from fire, flavor with lemon or vanilla and pour slowly over the white of an egg which has been beaten to a stiff froth. Let cool slightly, then pour on cake. When firm make a pattern of holly leaves, using tiny red candies for the berries and making the leaves of thin slices of citron, or make a spray of mistletoe, using small silver-coated drops for the berries. In either case make the stems of melted chocolate.

ARAB ATHLETES AT GRAND.

Picturesque Troupe Pleases Big Audiences on Opening of Bill.

Bobker's Arabs, who come at the tail-end of a new vaudeville show at the Grand theater, pleased large houses yesterday in their picturesque and thrilling feats of skill. There are seven of these athletes, and their pyramid formations, their whirlwind somersaults and many other original stunts were done as no other troupe of gymnasts has ever performed at the New Grand. The act closes with the seven performing at once and the stage presents the appearance of a maze of whirling legs and arms, all moving so swiftly that the figures are scarcely discernible.

Dave Rafael in a ventriloquist act, entitled "On the Farm," has six or seven "persons" all talking in an original act of his own creation. He puts over many comedy stunts that are really amusing.

Berns and Dean are two clever and pretty girls who appear to great advantage in a song and dance act. A number of stunning costumes greatly add to the interest of their act.

Miss Dora Pelletier, the singing comedienne, had a bad cold yesterday, but bravely went through her turn, having to decline several encores. She did some very clever impersonations of well-known stage characters. She was very attractively dressed and has a good personality. It is expected that she will make a big hit when she recovers from her cold.

"As the Twig Is Bent" is a three-reel feature film of unusual interest. It shows the results of home training on the child and drives home a powerful moral lesson. Many interesting scenes of army life in the Philippines are shown. "A Motorcycle Elopement" and a number of other excellent films complete the program.

Today and tomorrow the twenty-eighth chapter of "The Diamond From the Sky" will be shown as an added feature.

Theater Gossip.

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION." The magnitude of David W. Griffith's feat in staging "The Birth of a Nation," is almost appalling—at least to the devotees of the older forms of theatrical entertainment. By comparison with the new art, the "legitimate" measures to the mountain like a molehill. Instead of scenery for his background Griffith has used nature. For subject he has covered 150 years of American life and history. Eighteen thousand people have done his bidding and in the hair-raising rides of the Ku Klux Klan 3,000 riders and horses sweep over the dusty roads.

No wonder that this magnificent historical spectacle is the talk of the country. It has established an entirely new art in the realm of the theater—the art of pantomimic screen spectacles with an orchestral score perfectly synchronized to the action. It has also created a tremendous sensation because of its vaster and more forceful treatment of the theme of Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman," which both as book and play created the greatest furore of the last decade.

The great deeds of the Civil war and the horrors of reconstruction are made to live again. Mr. Griffith, pioneer among directors, managed this stupendous achievement without the aid of dialogue or speech, for motion pictures with music and effects tell vividly this thrilling tale of fifty years ago.

"THE MARTYRS OF THE ALAMO." A play of considerable educational value as well as of thrilling interest is "The Martyrs of the Alamo" at the Rex today and tomorrow. It is a historical drama telling how in the early days the courageous but much outnumbered defenders of the Alamo were slaughtered and how other Americans avenged their death by defeating the Mexicans and winning the independence of Texas. Some of the historical characters that appear in this stirring border drama are: Silent Smith (Sam De Grasse); Santa Anna (Walter Long); Sam Houston (Tom Wilson); David Crockett (A. D. Sears), and James Bowie (Alfred Paget).

"Saved By Wireless" is a clever comedy. There is one scene that keeps the best of the picture fans guessing—Conklin grabs a rope hanging down from an aeroplane and Swain gets hold beneath him. Then there is a fight and Swain is kicked loose from the rope, in midair.

RECOGNIZED AS STATE SHOW

Duluth Poultry Exhibit Attracts Attention of National Association.

Local Fanciers Expect 1,000 Entries in January Competition.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at the Commercial club last evening by those interested in poultry raising in the Northern part of the state.

Following a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, there were several addresses and then a business session was held, during which it was announced that the Duluth Poultry show would be held in the old armory, Jan. 25 to 29 inclusive and that the local show would this year be recognized as the official poultry exhibition of the state, by the National Poultry association.

George W. Hackett of North Freedom, Wis., will be judge. The judging of birds will be done by the comparison system. It is expected that the show to be held in January will be bigger by far than any other previous show given under the auspices of the Duluth Poultry association. Duluth poultrymen look for an entry list of 1,000 birds. Last year's show broke all records with 700 entries.

During the meeting last evening George W. Hackett spoke on the raising and preparing of exhibition birds, reviewing the subject from egg to showroom.

The following prominent poultrymen were present:

Prof. N. E. Chapman, George W. Hackett of New Freedom, Wis.; A. B. Hostetter, Duluth; Judge W. L. Windom, Duluth; W. A. Roycraft, secretary, and H. J. Hammerbeck, president of the Superior Poultry association; D. C. Moore, president of the Duluth association; H. G. Larson, S. B. Suydam, Frank Hallock and E. H. Conkey, secretary of the Duluth association.

At the recent meeting of the Minnesota Poultry Breeders' association in Minneapolis, D. C. Moore of the Duluth association was elected vice president.

CLOQUET'S NEW LATH MILL BEING BUILT

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The site of the new lath and bolt mill which is to be built by the Cloquet Tie & Post company this winter has been completely cleared of slab wood, and construction work on the new mill commenced yesterday. It is expected that the mill will be ready for operation early in the spring and the company is now placing contracts for timber for local delivery this winter to cover its season's requirements.

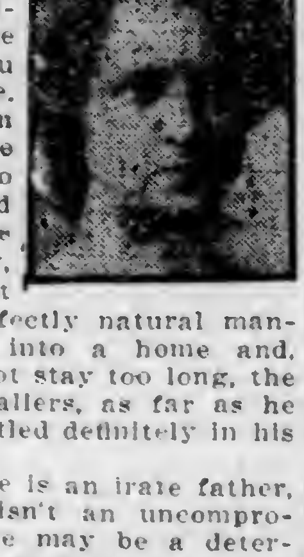
Peggy Peabody's Observations

Some Parents Too Stern.



A young girl of 16 has written and asked me if she is not old enough to receive young men callers at her own house. Most of us can remember our own difficulties in this very matter, for there has always been a disposition on the part of parents generally to prevent the coming of the beau as long as possible.

The young men who is brave enough to come to the front door and ring for admittance in a gentlemanly, courageous and at the same time perfectly natural manner usually gets into a home and, provided he does not stay too long, the question of men callers, as far as he is concerned, is settled definitely in his favor.

Occasionally there is an irate father, and where there isn't an uncompromising father there may be a determined mother who won't have a young man hanging around the girls until they are out of school. I think parents of this type lose more than they ever gain by their strict enforcement of the rule that the young ladies of the household shall not entertain their schoolboy friends. The beau idea, encouraged by the parents of the schoolgirl, is not advisable, but depriving them of the privilege of entertaining their friends, male or female, in their homes, never will be productive of any good.

The very best way is to allow the daughters of a family to entertain their boy and girl friends once, perhaps twice a week, as soon as they show a liking for the company of estimable young men. Be almost certain that they will meet these boy sweethearts somewhere and somehow in spite of your efforts to frustrate them. It is much better to know something of the company your daughters keep, which knowledge may be gleaned while they are under your eye in their own home, than that they should form the habit of meeting whom they will clandestinely because they fear to invite them to their homes.

The young girl who is very anxious to entertain men callers like her grown-up sisters will yet live to be thankful that she followed the advice of her parents in all ways pertaining to her conduct. It is all very nice to have boy friends and admirers and to treat them the best you know how. But as for sweethearts at 16, that is all very silly. Later on there will be a real sweetheart and then if you have been bothered with any make-believe beaux, you will be sorry and wish that you hadn't been so foolish.

For German Citizens.

The program for the German mass meeting and entertainment to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at 8:30 p. m., at the Moose hall, 224 West First street, has been prepared, and a large attendance is expected.

The Germania Singing society, under the leadership of F. Hase, will render the following songs: "Das deutsche Lied," "Das ist der Tag des Herr" and the dialect song, "Juchheissa, mei Dirndl." Franz von Loew will play a piano solo, and Emil Dorn will give a violin solo. F. Oppenheimer will sing some humorous German songs. Fred Doerfer has arranged the program. Max Binheim will address the audience and other speakers are on the program.

Cloquet Man Held.

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary examination of W. H. Wilton, who was arrested last week on a charge of incest, was waived yesterday before Judge Shemp, and the accused is now held by the sheriff to await the action of the grand jury at the February term of the district court.

To Protect Japanese.

Tokio, Dec. 7.—It is understood that Japan, in view of the disturbed conditions in Shanghai, will adopt measures for the protection of Japanese residents and interests there. Several Japanese warships are already on the spot and the cruiser Tsugaru, which has left Yokohama, is believed to be bound for Shanghai.

DULUTH AT BEMIDJI.

The St. Louis county delegation to the annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, to be held at Bemidji Thursday and Friday, will leave tomorrow evening at eight o'clock over the Great Northern.

Duluth's progress will be measured largely by the rate of the development of Northern Minnesota. The business of this Bemidji meeting will be of large importance to the development of Northern Minnesota, and will have a direct bearing on its rate. In this respect it bids fair to be—and it can be made to be—the most important meeting the association has ever had.

Duluth should be strongly represented at that meeting. Those who can possibly arrange to attend it should by all means do so. Duluth and St. Louis county should have their full quota at Bemidji.

PREPAREDNESS—AGAINST ENEMIES ABROAD AND AT HOME.

The president's message is of course the most important of his administration—the most important in many administrations because it paves the way to a new policy of state, that of a larger military establishment. To this weighty decision the president has manifestly come with the utmost reluctance. The administration's plans do not loom large enough to satisfy the wilder demands of the jingoes and the affrighted. They are too large for the extreme pacifists. Yet probably they represent the middle way which a majority of the people approve. There will be differences of opinion as to details—for our part would have been glad to see a milder program. It is perhaps to be doubted whether the proposed continental reserve plan will work; and we regret that a larger place is not provided for the state militia.

Yet on this subject there are so many varying opinions, ranging all the way from military madness to peace-at-any-price, and with hardly any two agreeing as to scope or details, that the president's sane and well-reasoned proposals will have much weight. Those who do not believe in any armament at all would better support this program rather than incur the risk of a mightier, more oppressive and more dangerous establishment. Those who believe in a mightier armament would better support this plan than, by opposing it, perhaps effect the failure of all plans for better preparedness.

"No one," says the president, "who really comprehends the spirit of the great people for whom we are appointed to speak can fail to perceive that their passion is for peace, their genius best displayed in the practice of the arts of peace. But * * * we resent, from whatever quarter it may come, the aggression we ourselves will not practice. We insist upon security in prosecuting our self-chosen lines of national development. We do more than that. We demand it also for others. * * * We regard war merely as a means of asserting the rights of a people against aggression, and we are fiercely jealous of coercive or dictatorial powers within our own nation as of aggression from without. We will not maintain a standing army except for uses which are as necessary in times of peace as in times of war; and we shall always see to it that our military peace establishment is no larger than is actually and continuously needed for the uses of the days in which no enemies move against us. But we do believe in a body of free citizens ready and sufficient to take care of themselves and of the governments which they have set up to serve them."

Thus, wisely and clearly, the president expresses the true ideals of the American people, and the case for reasonable preparedness.

In detail, the army plans are as follows: An increase of the standing army from a theoretical maximum of 108,008 men and officers to 141,843 men and officers, including provision for training the citizen force: a continental reserve of 400,000 men, to be raised at the rate of 133,000 a year. There is nothing of the state militia.

The five-year naval program, besides an immediate increase of 11,500 men in the navy personnel, is as follows: ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty destroyers, fifteen fleet submarines, eighty-five coast submarines, four gunboats, one hospital ship, two ammunition ships, two fuel oil ships, and one repair ship—a total of 190 new vessels of all types to be provided in five years.

As to the citizen reserve, the president does not doubt that young men will patriotically enlist, or that their employers will patriotically arrange it so they can enlist and give two months annually to training. On whether he is right or not depends the success of this plan, otherwise eminently practical.

The president minces no words with hyphenated treason, and strongly urges the immediate passage of laws making it possible to cope with it. After declaring that no danger of war is in sight, he says:

> I am sorry to say that the gravest threats against our national peace and safety have been uttered within our own borders. There are citizens of the United States, I blush to admit, born under other flags, but welcomed under our generous naturalization laws to the full freedom and opportunity of America, who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life; who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them, and to debase our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue. Their number is not great as compared with the whole number of those sturdy hosts by which our nation has been enriched in recent generations out of virile foreign stocks; but it is great enough to have brought deep disgrace upon us and to have made it necessary that we should promptly make use of processes of law by which we may be purged of their corrupt distempers.
> America never witnessed anything like this before. It never dreamed it possible that men sworn into its own citizenship, men drawn out of great free stocks such as supplied some of the best and strongest elements of that little, but how heroic, nation that in a high day of old staked the fortunes of older nations and set up a new standard here,—that men of such origins and free choices of allegiance would ever turn in malign reaction against the government and people who had welcomed and nurtured them and seek to make this proud country once more a hotbed of European passions. A little while ago such a thing would have seemed incredible. Because it was incredible we made no preparation for it. We would have been ashamed to prepare for it, as if suspicious of ourselves, our own comrades and neighbors!
> But the ugly and incredible thing has actually come about, and we are without adequate Federal laws to deal with it. I urge you to enact such laws at the earliest possible moment, and feel that in so doing I am urging you to do nothing less than save the honor and self-respect of the nation.
> Such creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy must be crushed out. They are not many, but they are infinitely malignant, and the hand of our power should close over them at once. They have formed plots to destroy property, they have entered into conspiracies against the neutrality of the government, they have sought to pry into every confidential transaction of the government in order to serve interests alien to our own. It is possible to deal with these things very effectually. I need not suggest the terms in which they may be dealt with.

These words hint at things known by the government but not yet revealed. They are strong words, the strongest the president yet has uttered. They are none too strong. The government will have the utmost possible support from every true American, no matter where he was born, in challenging and destroying this treason.

The president points with justified pride to the disappearance of the old Latin-American conception of Pan-American relations, and to the dawning of "the new day in whose light we now stand, when there is no claim of guardianship or thought of wards but, instead, a full and honorable association as of partners between ourselves and our neighbors, in the ends of all America, north and south." Mexico has tested our good faith, and we have stood the test.

The need that the government take the initiative in creating an adequate merchant marine is again directed to the attention of congress. The need is more important than the question how it is to be met, and the government should act until capital is prepared to act. Attention is re-directed, too, to the need of legislation for Porto Rico and the Philippines—the latter involving more tangible steps toward redeeming the nation's promise of ultimate freedom.

As to the revenues, there was a surplus of $104,170,105.78 at the end of the last fiscal year, and if the emergency taxes and the sugar tax are allowed to expire this will be reduced to $20,644,605.78 at the end of the present fiscal year. With the new military expenses, new revenues will be needed. This could all be raised through the income tax, by somewhat lowering the exemptions and the figure at which the surtax begins and by increasing the surtax, without making the burden oppressive anywhere. Several additional possibilities are pointed out.

At the end of the message a matter of wide importance, likely to be crowded out of consideration temporarily, is suggested. The question is raised whether, under existing laws and conditions, the railroads are able to be of the utmost possible service to the public. A commission to investigate this subject is suggested.

Longer than usual, the message is compact, vigorous, thought-suggesting, AMERICAN. In spirit and expression, in cogency and force, it is a great message.

THE REASONS WHY.

This country having informed it that von Papen and Boy-Ed, the German naval and military attaches, are personae non grata, Germany has taken the unprecedented course of demanding reasons.

Of course the state department need give none. It is not required to give reasons. The demand for reasons is flavored strongly with impudence. Von Papen and Boy-Ed are not wanted, and there's an end of it.

The fact is, of course, that the reason they are not wanted is because the country can't trust them. They have abused the courtesy by which they are here, and while this country is willing that foreign nations should have naval and military attaches, it wants them to be men we need not watch as enemies.

If the answer should be that we don't like the cut of von Papen's moustache or the way Boy-Ed parts his hair, it would be as courteous as this unprecedented request for reasons.

The Coming Armageddon

By Savoyard.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hon. Myron T. Herrick, lately American ambassador to France and recently boomed for the Republican nomination for president, was in Chicago the other day and appeared before the Hamilton club, a Republican organization, and made a speech that is somewhat suggestive of a lightning rod to horn off any proceeding looking to a "draft" of himself by the national convention. Mr. Herrick told the Hamiltonians that the Bull Moose is solidly welded to the G. O. P. He discussed the tariff "from the Republican viewpoint." What is that "viewpoint?" Is it the Pennsylvania idea or the Iowa idea?

All of us know what the "viewpoint" will be if the Republicans sweep the country in 1916. Mr. Fordney, a standpatter, looked on Mr. Aldrich as a moderate protectionist, and Mr. Fordney will be chairman of ways and means and Mr. Penrose will be chairman of the finance committee of the senate. These will undertake the tariff job, and it does not take a Solomon to conjecture how they will shape it. That is the dish that it is proposed to set before the Bull Moose in 1917.

Why does the lady protest so much? If the Republican party had absorbed the Progressive party, a simple statement of the fact ought to be sufficient. But it is sounded in our ears morning, noon and night that the lesser has absorbed the greater, that the Bull Moose is an extinct animal in a political way, that Roosevelt and Barnes, Penrose and Pinchot, Foraker and Garfield, Fairbanks and Beveridge, Cannon and McCormick, Hepburn and Cummins, Curtis and Murdock, La Follette and Stephenson, are all in the same hand-basket joining in chanting the 133rd psalm:

"Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

"It is like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard, that went down to the skirts of his garments;

"As the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion."

And these invincibles are to march shoulder to shoulder and get in battle array at a place called Armageddon!

But who is to lead? Who shall captain the hosts? Massachusetts presents Weeks with Sam McCall in reserve. New York has Root with Whitman and Wadsworth in reserve. Pennsylvania has Knox with Penrose and Brumbaugh in reserve. Ohio has Burton, with Willis, Herrick and Harding in reserve. Michigan has Alden Smith, who stands alone, wrapt in the thought of his own vociferous garrulity. Indiana has Fairbanks with Jim Watson in reserve. Illinois has Sherman with Thompson and Mann in reserve. Hadley is from Missouri, Cummins from Iowa and Borah from Idaho. Then there are others.

Mr. Mann says some of these champions are "two-spots," and he does not think Little Casena is the chap to command at Armageddon. The very next day after Ohio declared for Burton, William H. Taft made public his opinion that Elihu Root is the only one fit to command.

If it is to be a real Armageddon and no nonsense about it why don't they trot out the one hero equal to the campaign? His name is Roosevelt, and he is a hand-and-a-half in the business of fighting an Armageddon.

Mr. John W. Weeks was also "private in the ranks." He is the gentleman who beat Sam McCall for senator in congress from Massachusetts in 1912. Thus the state that honored Webster and Sumner, Choate and Everett in that elder and better day had come to the pass that it would sooner be represented in the American senate by a barrel of money than by a basket of brains. No one need be surprised if Sam McCall and not John W. Weeks should turn out the favorite son of New England in the Republican grand powwow next year that is to name the commander at the approaching Armageddon.

Mr. Weeks before the Hamilton club advocated ship subsidies and condemned the policy of President Wilson as shown in the ship purchase bill that went down before the Republican filibuster in the closing hour of the Sixty-third congress. The Wilson idea is that when the government subsidizes a ship the government should own that ship; the Weeks idea is that the government should run its arm into the people's pocket up to the elbow, take money therefrom and give it to individuals who own the ships. There is a vast difference, absolutely irreconcilable, between those two propositions. When we built the Panama canal the government bought and sailed ships. Had the Weeks plan been adopted the ships of private corporations would have been subsidized and allowed to charge exorbitant freights for transporting government material and supplies to the isthmus.

That filibuster has cost the American people, since the great war began, in advanced freight rates, double the money that it was proposed to expend. Some of the English lines are making dividends amounting to 100 per cent per annum.

In the Republican convention of 1916 the platform is likely to give some trouble. At present the German vote is solidly opposed to Wilson. Why? Because under his administration enormous supplies of arms and munitions of war are sold and shipped to the enemies of Germany. There is an issue the Germans have forced. The Republicans will have to declare for an embargo on such shipments, or oppose such embargo. There is going to be no dodging the question. The party cannot perfunctorily condemn the Wilson policy toward Germany. It must specify. If it is for the embargo the G. O. P. will hold the German vote; if against the embargo it will lose the German vote.

And when we recall that at least 85 per cent of the German vote is Republican, anyhow, we may conclude that it is going to require some wonderful exploits in the way of political gymnastics for the G. O. P. to deal with this matter of an embargo on munitions of war.

Wasn't From Missouri.

Montgomery Messenger: It wasn't a Missouri editor but a printer's devil who was going through his first experience on "making up" forms. The paper was late and the boy got the galleys mixed. The first part of the obituary notice of a pecunious citizen had been dumped in the forms and the next handful of type came off of a galley describing a recent fire. It read like this: "The pallbearers lowered the body to the grave and as it was consigned to the flames there were few if any regrets, for the old wreck had been an eyesore to the town for years. Of course, there was individual loss, but that was fully covered by insurance." The widow thinks the editor wrote the obituary that way because the lamented partner of her joys and sorrows owed him five years' subscription.

Opportunity.

Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel and mart and palace—soon or late
I knock, unbidden, once at every gate!
I sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore.
I answer not, and I return no more!

L'Etoile du Nord

Editorial in the New Ulm Review.

In Minnesota there is a growing state consciousness, a co-ordination of effort, which must have far-reaching consequences in the development of the greatest state in the Union.

A state so rich in natural resources that mere statistics fail to relate the facts, a state so ideally situated as to reach out with one hand to the greatest inland waterway of the world, while with the other it exchanges greeting with the northwestern empire, Minnesota finds its lines cast in pleasant places.

Nature is found here in her most amiable mood. Streams and water courses wind about in an ever-varying setting of hills, valley and rolling prairie. Ten thousand lakes are scattered about its surface in the most reckless profusion.

With a land surface and potential wealth capable of supporting almost the present population of the United States, it is still unfilled, still invites the pioneer and the home-maker, a condition that prevails nowhere else in all the world.

These conditions are awakening the ambition and effort of the present generation, a generation which is striving to hasten forward the day when the bread and butter state, the state of corn, of clover, of wheat, of alfalfa and of the dairy, will have come into its own.

Here are still found the opportunities of a new community joined with the advantages of an already well developed section with thoroughly tilled soils and populous cities.

Providence was in a kindly and generous mood when Minnesota was created. Here is the source of the Father of Waters. Here are 10,000 lakes, scattered broadcast like jewels from the workshop of the Creator. Here are rivers, forests, hills and valleys, interspersed with rolling prairies which appeal to the eye and make the landscape so beautiful that without question the early explorers chose as the motto of the state "L'Etoile du Nord," Star of the North.

While its beauty and possibilities so appealed they could not know that, within the lifetime of many of them, the wilderness would be turned into a garden. They could not know that within a generation the Minnesota forests would have provided timber for the world, that its farm products would outrival those of other states, that its northern section was underlaid with iron whose wealth would rival the fabled mines of Golconda. Nor could they know that at the point where Lake Superior juts into the edge of the state would spring up the greatest inland port of the world.

They could not know this, because the age of miracles had passed, and it seems that only a miracle could have transformed the state of Governor Ramsey into the Minnesota of today.

Star of the North they called it, because its beauty appealed. Star of the North it has become because of the fruition of hope and the accomplishment of happiness that has occurred. Star of the North it must more truly become when its latent water powers are developed, when the great heart of the Northwest pulses out the lifeblood it will generate, when its rich farm lands are fully cultivated and there will be no vacant place that has not known the ministration of the plow.

"The Crowning Outrage"

The crowning outrage has been committed by the Turks on the Armenians. It is dreadful to think that these things can be done and that this nation nevertheless remains "neutral, not only in deed but in thought," between right and the most hideous wrong.—Theodore Roosevelt.

New York Evening Post: In 1902 the Boers lost their independence.

In 1903 was the massacre at Kishineff. Many years after 1903 Macedonia ran red with blood.

In 1905 the horrors of the Congo were officially published.

In 1905 Korea lost its independence.

In 1906 Morocco was parceled out by the powers.

In 1906 the Russian government shot, hanged and massacred thousands of her people.

In 1909 25,000 Armenians were slaughtered at Adana.

Between 1901 and 1909 Theodore Roosevelt was president and the nation remained at peace.

Germany's Good Points Still Exist.

Baron d'Estournelles de Constant in the Atlantic: The Germans came to America in great numbers. They were glad to exchange their former hard status for that of American citizenship. They were retiring, at first, and always industrious; and the only objection I have heard against them was that there were not more of them. It was the same in Russia, England, Italy and France. In the United States there was regret that the level of immigration from Europe was falling, and that the Germans were neglecting North America, giving preference to their colonies and other countries. What was the cause of this regret? It was because the German was a better worker than some others. Can the war alter that? It depresses me to see responsible men naively committing themselves to the assertion that we must do away, not only with German military imperialism, but with German economic imperialism. What a delusion! We might as well say at once that we must make it our business to dispose of a nation with more enterprise and more children than others have. To try to prevent Germans, or the French, or any others, after the war, from working harder than the rest, is not only childish, but a wretched miscalculation. The others ought to work their hardest and best, so as to raise the general level and not try to lower it. Let us abase German pride, but let us imitate, and even improve upon, Germany's good points.

Each in His Own Tongue.

A fire-mist and a planet,—
A crystal and a cell,—
A jelly-fish and a saurian,
And caves where the cave-men dwell;
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the clod,—
Some call it Evolution,
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
The infinite, tender sky,
The rich, ripe tints of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high,—
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod,—
Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.

Like tides on a crescent sea-beach,
When the moon is new and thin,
Into our hearts high yearnings
Come welling and surging in,—
Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot had trod,—
Some of us call it Longing,
And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,—
A mother starved for her brood,—
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood;
And millions who, humble and nameless,
The straight, hard pathway plod,—
Some call it Consecration,
And others call it God.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats From the State Press.

Great Is St. Louis County.

Tower News: St. Louis county now is and is going to be the biggest thing in Minnesota. The bringing of an enterprise like the great steel plant to Duluth is one of the greatest events in history. It is as great as electing a president west of the Mississippi river. It has never been done before. It is an era in big business. Men who think in millions have accomplished this great feat. They saw our natural advantages for such a vast enterprise and had the courage of their convictions. They know, or have reasons to believe, that untold beds of iron ore are here, and sufficient for the ages. Duluth is the logical place for a steel plant. Iron ore from the ranges can be run down hill to the plant. A network of steel rails converge at Duluth. Lake Superior connects with the seaboard. Ships from England and the world will eventually warp up to the Duluth docks. St. Louis county receives the direct benefits accruing from such a great enterprise. Its workmen live here. Their taxes are paid into the one common treasury. It all makes for a greater and a better county. Later on, as agriculture comes and the vast acreage comes under the plow, what a county we shall be. What a county to come to and live in. The opening of the vast plant should be a gala day for every St. Louis county man.

Well, Some Really Do, Too.

Elk River Star-News: "Duluth needs a new government building" screams one of the daily papers of that town. Of course it does. Did you ever hear of a town that didn't need a new public building?

Judgment Swift and Sure.

Bemidji Sentinel: In Duluth the other day Mike O'Hara stood before the judge and swore that he is a Norwegian and that he was innocent of the charge of disorderly conduct. Any man with a name like that who says he is a Norwegian is guilty of disorderly conduct. Officer, call the next prisoner.

This Isn't Up to Your Standard, Alvah.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald suggests that the Republicans should nominate Root, he is so close to the special interests. The Republicans would have to Root hard to get any closer to the big business boys than is President Wilson.

Many Will Indorse the Bishop's Views.

Little Falls Herald: Says Bishop McGolrick of Duluth: "When a $7,000,000 battleship can be put out of commission by a two hundred thousand submarine, I am not for armanent. Thousands for merchant marine, but nothing for armament." A great many folks will indorse these sentiments, in spite of the hubbub created by the munitions makers and their newspaper satellites.

And Still Pigs Is Pigs.

Valley City, N. D., Times-Record: The new steel plant at Duluth will turn out about 75,000 tons of steel each twenty-four hours. That requires a lot of iron ore pigs and should produce a big revenue. However, North Dakota pigs produce a revenue that has it beat the proverbial mile.

More's the Pity.

Eau Claire Leader: "It isn't at all clear what the nations of Europe are striving to achieve by war. They all profess to be fighting on the defensive. They all profess to be fighting in the interest of permanent peace. Their stories are very confusing. But whatever it is they are after, it could be gained much better by peaceable methods than by war."—Duluth Herald.

But facts are facts and not always does erring humanity take the better road.

The Making of a Parasite Wife

Maude Radford Warren in the Saturday Evening Post: Once I was in an office with a very pretty girl, Lucille Hart, who was the special stenographer of the head of the firm for which we were working. She had a good many free hours, in which she did embroidery.

"Why," I asked her, "do you stick that silly needle in and out, and moon, when you could be learning something worth while? Why don't you read that booklet on my desk about stocks and bonds?"

"Nothing doing!" she said. "I'm engaged."

"But don't you want to know things for the sake of knowing them?" I asked.

"Not if they aren't going to be of use to me in my own home," she said. "I'm not going to wear myself out learning anything I can't use."

"But don't you see," I argued, "that if you were to sharpen your mind by learning about stocks and bonds you would have it bright for some housekeeping problem?"

"Housekeeping problem—with a delicatessen shop round one corner and a restaurant round the other? Say, sister, what do you think I'm going to keep—a boarding house?"

"Don't you take any pleasure," I said, "in being able to do more than you're asked? Look at young Barnes. He pokes round the office and does more than the stipulated amount just because he is interested."

"Yes, and do you know why he is interested? Because no fair-haired young girl round the corner is going to support him; he's got to earn for himself and a family. But any girl who's attractive to men has got a gift that's just the same as bed, board and clothes. So long as a girl looks nice, keeps the house going and doesn't nag, she can hold her husband—unless he's a pup; in which case she can get another. Then why should she try to make a highbrow of herself? Not for me!"

Never have I heard more clearly defined the position of the parasite. That Lucille Hart could so clearly gauge her situation was proof positive that she had brains enough to go far in her work if she had cared to use them. She not only did not use them in her office but when she got her own home—and surely the most selfish person ought to be willing to think for her own home—she did not use them there.

Russia After the Vodka Ban.

John Koren in the Atlantic: The spacious claims spread throughout the world about a Russia sober and regenerated have not been verified. Amiable publicists like Stephen Graham and others, out of love for their allies, incline to draw on imagination rather than on facts in picturing the new Russia. In truth, hardly had the country begun to realize the wide bearing of the drink rescript than all the ills accompanying uninforced prohibition sprang up, from the Baltic to the remote Asiatic east. Perhaps the region least affected was the Caucasus, where wine is the staple drink. The story has such a familiar ring! What the government denied the people, they soon began to supply by illicit means. According to the reports of the minister of finance, during the six months following the prohibitive measures revenue officers discovered 1,825 secret distilleries manufacturing a special brand of whisky known as kumusha; 160 distilleries fitted out with the most modern machinery for making vodka; 92 distilleries especially designed for filtering lacquer and varnish; and 60 distilleries engaged in filtering denatured alcohol (Ryetch, Petrograd). Another drink manufactured on a large scale is known as khanza and consists of wood alcohol, pepper and other spices. Even more popular is the so-called kvasok, made from cider, wild hops, dry yeast, a little alcohol and snuff. It is reported sold in huge quantities and its effect is explained by citing the peasant saying, "Spill something on a pig's tail and it will get bold."

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man.

Remember me, O Lord, with the favor that Thou bearest unto Thy people: O visit me with Thy salvation.—Ps. cvi, 4.

It is not a belief in immortality that will deliver a man from the woes of humanity, but faith in the God of life, the Father of lights, the God of all consolation and comfort. Believing in Him, a man can leave his friends, and their and his own immortality, with everything else, even his and their love and protection, with utter confidence, in His hands. Until we have this life in us, we shall never be at peace. The living God dwelling in the heart He has made, and glorying it by inmost speech with Himself,—that is life, assurance, and safety. Nothing else is, or can be, such.—George MacDonald.

God is love.—I John iv, 8.

God, Thou art Love! I build my faith on that.
I know Thee. Thou hast kept my path and made
Light for me in the darkness, tempering sorrow
So that it reached me like a solemn joy.
It were too strange that I should doubt Thy love.

The War as a Spiritual Tonic.

William Austin Smith in the Atlantic: If men grow good through suffering, the beatitude of mourning must have found in Europe since the beginning of the war a staggering brilliance of illustration; for the energy of the race is now enlisted in the making of sorrow. University professors and preachers are seeing in this anguish a fulcrum for our redemption. Militarists of the most zealous school could scarcely go further in the praise of war as a spiritual tonic than some of these apologists from the seclusion of learning have done of late.

Europe had scarcely uttered its first sob of agony from the war before moral deductions were in print. The millions of tearless mourners, ecstatic in their patriotism, praising the worth of life and the glory of dying, became a great world-sermon. It was the second beatitude flashed across the sky. Preachers took up the cry, and since August a year ago the agony of Europe has been coined into countless sermons. The spiritual by-products of war—its superb courage, its sacrifice, its detachment from all sordid concern—are offered as compensation for this harvest of pain. Thus the martyred spirit of the race has wistfully covered with a veil of beauty the shambles in Poland, Belgium and France.

Woman's Vague Idealism.

W. L. George in the Atlantic: Woman reacts against what is, seeking a new freedom; even if she is only seeking a new excitement, a new color, a new god, unconsciously she seeks a more liberal atmosphere, while man is nearly always contented with the atmosphere that is. When he rebels, his tendency is to destroy the old sanctuary, hers to build a new sanctuary. That is a form of idealism, not a very high idealism, for women seldom strains toward the impossible. In literature I cannot call to mind that woman has ever conceived a Utopia such as those imagined by Bellamy, Samuel Butler, William Morris and H. G. Wells. The only woman who voiced ideas of this kind was Mary Wollestonecraft, and her views were hardly utopian. Nothings, such as Utopias, have been always too airy for woman. The heroes in the novels she has written, until recently and with one or two exceptions—such as some of the heroes of George Eliot—are either stagey or sweet. Mr. Rochester is stagey, Grandcourt is stagey, while the hero of "Under Two Flags" is merely Turkish delight.

Here lies a poor woman who always was tired,
She lived in a world where the work wasn't

Her last words on earth were: "Dear friends,
I am going
Where washing ain't done, nor sweeping,
nor sewing;
But everything there is exact to my wishes
For where they don't eat there's no washing up dishes.
I go where loud anthems will always be ringing,
But having no voice, I'll get clear of the singing.
Don't mourn for me now, don't mourn for me never,
I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever."

Missionaries.

Christian Life: A writer in the Charity Organization Review, deprecating the way people talk of "the drab lives of the poor," as greatly a class misunderstanding, repeats a story of some East end girls (matchbox makers) who were taken down to Surrey to spend a summer day in a beautiful house and a garden in a lovely part of the country. When their hostess was wishing them "good-by" she said she had much enjoyed their visit, and one guest replied cheerfully:

"I expect we have cheered you up a bit; it must be deadly dull down here."

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH IN GERMANY

To the Editor of The Herald:

One of the chief reasons for the success of Germany is that all of its economic classes are working together for a common cause. In the decade ending 1890 she had 1,342,000 emigrants; in the year 1912, the rate had fallen to 185,000, while the population had almost doubled. This wonderful showing could not have been possible without a remarkable economic organization. All the more remarkable because it supported, in addition, huge military and aristocratic machines.

The number of persons with incomes up to 900 marks decreased in a short time from 861,400 to 815,900. On the other hand, the number of taxpayers with incomes above 900 marks rose from 2,859,000 to 7,542,000. The number of persons exempt from the tax, including their dependents, fell from 21,066,000 to 16,005,000; but the number of taxpayers, including their dependents, increased from 10,283,000 to 24,232,000.

Germany is putting into practice the theory of the just distribution of wealth. A large part of its population have pased above the income limit of 900 marks within fifteen years. Whereas more than two-thirds of the population were still exempt from the tax in 1896 because their income did not reach the maximum tax limit. Not quite two-fifths of them were exempt for this reason in 1912. Further, whereas the English miner in 1900 had an excess of 148 marks over the German, in 1912 the German was leading the Englishman by 278 marks.

Hoarded wealth is a waste; its use is the only excuse for it. There is no sense in having forty-four persons in America drawing $1,000,000-a-year income. They cannot use that much money, even viciously. We all remember the trouble experienced by Monte Brewster in getting rid of a million or so. The huge income-drawers are a handicap to true social development. It is their business and our business to learn the gospel of economic distribution.

The abolition of existing economic classes is absolutely essential to the true progress of the race. Human progress is not so much of a visionary ideal as it is an evolutionary law. Not until the end of time can there be the Utopia of moral, mental and social equality, but economic equality, in view of the coming social pressure, is more than possible. It is mandatory! There is no escaping from it. The time will come when agitation against capitalists shall cease, but not before existing capitalism is no more. If capitalists would continue in power, they must somehow lose themselves in the system to find themselves. They must learn that they are simply the factors of management, not masters, upon whom responsibility lies for a wise distribution of the wealth that capital and labor together produce. If the capitalists will not heed the handwriting on the wall, then Babylon shall fall again—not because God wills it, but because we, who are not capitalists are in the vast majority and are gradually learning the use of power and appreciating the fact that might is right!

DO YOU DREAD THE COLD?

Some people enjoy cold weather, take pleasure in winter sports and the keen air calls the pink to their cheeks and the red to their lips. Others shrink from cold and turn blue at the least exposure to frosty air.

The difference is in the blood. Rich, red blood warms the body. Every long breath of pure cold air increases the oxygen it carries to every part of the system. Thin blood is unable to take up the life-sustaining oxygen. The body lacks nourishment and the sufferer is always cold, takes a chill easily and is miserable all winter.

Thin blood is largely the sufferer's own fault. It results from neglect because the blood can be built up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills supply the elements that the blood needs to make it rich and red and to enable it to carry more oxygen. Building up the red portion of the blood is simple but because thin blood does not call attention to itself it is often neglected. Have you seriously considered taking a course of treatment with these blood-making pills? If you are in doubt write for information.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send you a booklet "Building Up the Blood" free on request.

HIS VIEWS ON CIVILIZATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have heard so much about the Anglo-Saxon civilization and I thought I would ask a question. Perhaps some reader of your paper could answer. Did the Anglo-Saxon civilization show its superiority over other civilizations when England's best farming land was absorbed by the lords, or when Ireland was captured and the land was turned over to the gentility, or when opium was forced upon China so millions of people were poisoned, or when the South African republics were absorbed, or when the American congress allowed millions of acres of land to fall into private hands.

My own opinion is that civilization requires that a civilized government should fix things so there should be no chance for anyone to get rich on another man's labor. If that is not done then there is discontent and discontent fosters crime and crime causes anarchy.

There is no use to talk about civilization as long as I can hold up a paymaster and then use the stolen money to buy great lawyers to defend myself. No! Money and courts and lawyers should be divorced and the prosecution and defense should be handled by the state and by no one else. Civilization is more than only a phrase.

KEEP THE END IN VIEW; THE MEANS ARE SUBORDINATE

To the Editor of The Herald:

Assuming that it is the pressing business of the United States to have a well wrought opinion on the means of overcoming war, it does not follow that we should be too firmly bound to any precise method.

Events must be the guide. That must be done which the public opinion of mankind directs to be done.

We can without a moment's hesitation agree that the society of nations, already existing but without form, must be so organized that its will may have expression. When we try to commit ourselves to a definite plan, we may hinder as much as help.

For example, when the states of the American union came in conference in 1783 at the end of the war of revolution, if Massachusetts or Virginia had sent delegates pledged to any particular plan, they could have accomplished little. The only plan that could be adopted was the form of government by common consent contained in the Articles of Confederation. That was a failure, but the Constitution could not be adopted till it had been tried and the need of a more perfect union had been impressed on the people of the thirteen little sovereignties.

When the Constitution was framed in 1789, it would have been equally fruitless for any state to restrict itself to a preconceived plan. The only plan that could have been adopted was that which was wrought out in the convention.

As to precise means it is well to discuss them and to have an opinion on them. But when the time comes for action we must be sure of only one thing—that the United States will support any movement that has the sanction of the society of nations for overcoming war, which is setting up civilization now dethroned.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"The Face on the Barroom Floor" from J. S. of Thomaston, Maine. It has already been published.

Requests have been received for one of Wordsworth's poems from Albert Johnstad. It can be readily found at the public library. This column is not intended for well-known poems by standard authors.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I noticed in a recent issue of The Herald, a request for the old favorite song, "The Parson and the Bear." This is probably the same as a poem I learned some years ago entitled, "The Preacher and the Bear." I beg to give it herewith:

S. CURTIS.

Duluth, Dec. 5.

The Preacher and the Bear.

A preacher went out a hunting upon a Sunday morn,
Of course, it was against his religion, but he took his gun along.
He shot himself some very fine quail, and once he killed a hare,
But on his way returnin' home he met a great big grizzly bear.
The bear walked out in the middle of the road and he waltzed to the coon, you see,
This coon got so excited that he climbed up a 'simmon tree.
The bear sat down upon the ground and the coon climbed out on a limb.
He turned his eyes to the Lawd in the skies and these words said to him:

Chorus:

"O, Lawdy, didn't you deliver Daniel from the lions' den?
"Also deliver Jonah from the belly of the whale and then,
"Three Hebrew children from the fiery furnace, so the Good Book do declare,
"Now, Lawdy, if yo' can't help me, fo' goodness sake don't help that bear!"

This coon staid up in that tree, I think it was all night.
He said, "O, Lawdy, if yo' don't help me there's gwine ter be an awful fight."
Just about then the limb let go and the coon came a tumblin' down,
You should have seen him get his "razzer" out before he touched the ground.
He hit the ground, cuttin' right and left and though he put up a very game fight,
But the bear grabbed hold of this coon and he squeezed him a little too tight.
The coon then lost his "razzer," but the bear held on with a vim.
The coon turned his eyes to the Lawd in the skies and once more said to him:

Chorus:

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Larry M., Angora—Is it necessary for a man who came to this country when a boy 15 years old to take out both first and second papers to become a citizen? He has lived here continually. How long a time must elapse after receiving first papers before a person can get second papers?

Ans.—If his father was a citizen when the boy came of age the boy does not need papers. If not, the boy needs both first and second papers. Two years is the answer to the last question.

POLITICS IN THE NORTH STAR STATE

I. A. Caswell, Minnesota Manager for Senator Cummins' Effort to Capture Presidential Primaries, Issues Statement.

I. A. Caswell, who has just been appointed Minnesota manager for Senator Cummins of Iowa, in his effort to capture the Minnesota delegation to the Republican state convention, has issued a statement concerning the attitude of his candidate for the presidential nomination, on public questions, and expresses the belief that Senator Cummins will lead his opponent in this state. The statement just issued from Cummins headquarters in St. Paul follows:

"Senator Cummins' campaign for delegates to the national convention will strengthen the Republican party in Minnesota, for the reason that it will involve a discussion of principles to the exclusion of personalities.

"Minnesota farmers are more interested in the tariff than any other large class of voters, and Mr. Cummins' record upon all bills involving the protection of American farmers proves that he has always been in exact accord with the requirements of his agricultural constituents.

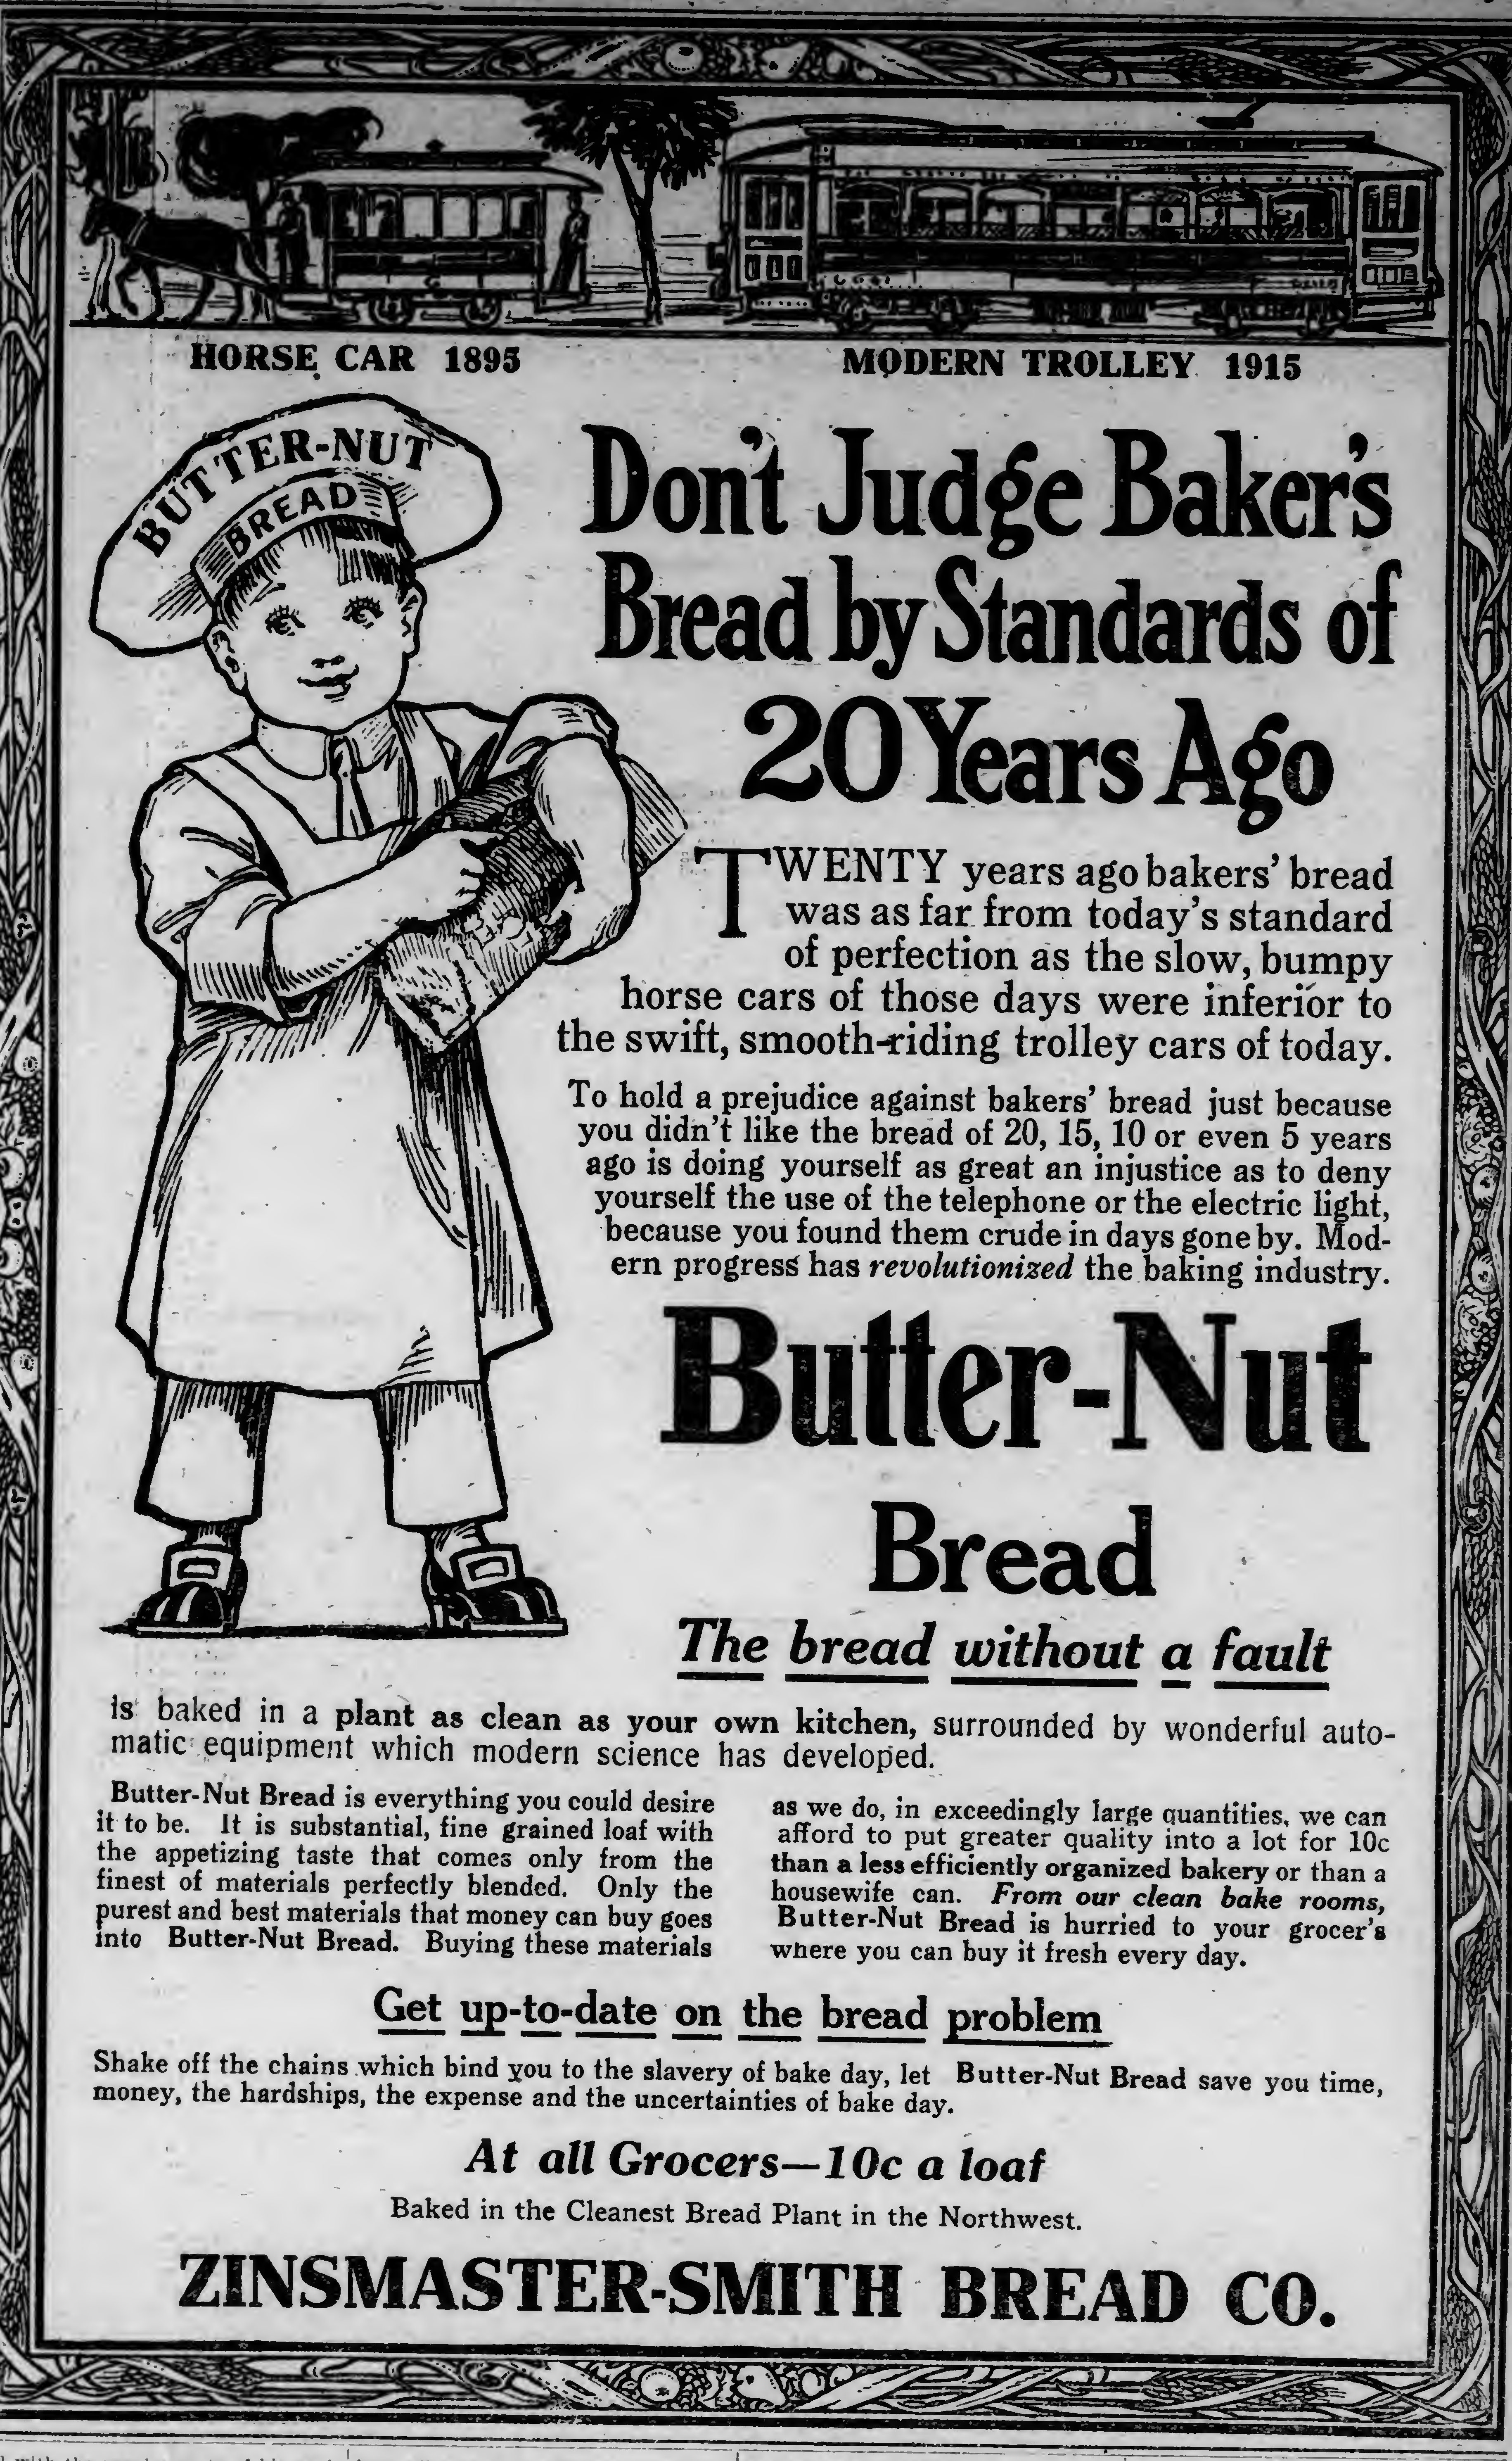
"He has invariably favored the protection of farm products, he has opposed Canadian reciprocity, he has consistently favored laws for the protection of our dairy interests, and has done a great deal to secure reasonable railroad regulation.

"Besides, he has shown a live and sympathetic interest in all measures involving the rights of the laboring man, and has taken a broad and human view of all legislation.

"The March primary will be a farmers' primary, coming as it does upon the annual town meeting day, and I think it fair to assume that the vote upon presidential candidates at that time will be fully as heavy as at the general election in November.

"It is, of course, too early to make positive predictions, but it is my opinion that Senator Cummins will easily lead all his opponents in this state.

"Our plan is immediately to open headquarters in St. Paul and begin the work of organizing the state."



Don't Judge Baker's Bread by Standards of 20 Years Ago

TWENTY years ago bakers' bread was as far from today's standard of perfection as the slow, bumpy horse cars of those days were inferior to the swift, smooth-riding trolley cars of today.

To hold a prejudice against bakers' bread just because you didn't like the bread of 20, 15, 10 or even 5 years ago is doing yourself as great an injustice as to deny yourself the use of the telephone or the electric light, because you found them crude in days gone by. Modern progress has revolutionized the baking industry.

Butter-Nut Bread

TO HOLD SCHOOL OF CIVIC EVANGELISM

Moral and Civic Reformers Invited to Unite With Evangelists.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Evangelists, moral and civic reformers, pastors and missionaries, students in theology and sociology, and business men have been invited to participate in the "School of Civic Evangelism," which is to be held at the Moody institute here from Dec. 28 to 31, inclusive

Gifford Moody of the institute, in making the announcement, said the gathering would be a school and not a convention and would be the first of its kind. He explained that it grew "out of the desire of the nation's leading evangelists to match the union of the churches in revival efforts with a union of reformers." This desire, he added, came about because persons interested "have increasingly felt that the molten energy generated by great union meetings has too frequently been allowed to dissipate without contributing anything to the redemption of community organization."

The themes of the four days will be "Bible Foundaitons of Civic Evangelism," "Preparing for a Revival," "Civic Revivals as the Climax of Tabernacle Meetings" and "Subjects Suitable for Civic Revivals." The list of invited speakers includes Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts of Washington, D. C., superintendent of the International Reform bureau; W. J. Burns, detective; George Cusson, attorney general of Iowa; Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago; Canon William Sheafe Chase, president of the New York Civic league, and Arthur Burrage Farwell, secretary of the Chicago Law and Order league.

CALIFORNIA SATISFIES EVERY TASTE

No matter how extravagant, no matter how simple your tastes, they are satisfied in California—a land of golden sunshine and living flowers. From the gardens under the sea to the glistening summits of the snow-crowned mountains, nature has lavished her gifts most rare on this, her favorite daughter.

But there is more to a journey than just its destination. The scenes en route and the incidents of traveling will be remembered as long as the pleasures at your journey's end. To make your visit to California complete, go via the Golden State Route—the direct line of lowest altitudes—via Rock Island—El Paso Southwestern—Southern Pacific and experience the delightful service of the "Golden State Limited," foremost transcontinental train, and the "Californian," with observation car—through without change between Chicago and California.

Every mile of the Golden State Route is full of historic interest. An ever-changing panorama of scenic beauty with evidences on every hand of America's oldest civilization combine to thrill the traveler with the enchantment of the ages-old Southwest. Excursion tickets provide for over forty divergent scenic circle tours.

Early reservations important. Telephone, write or call for full information, interesting literature, tickets, etc., Rock Island Lines ticket office, 201 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn., or Southern Pacific ticket office, 733 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

ACCEPT OFFER OF J. H. DARLING

Permission Will Be Given to Erect Observatory.

An offer by John H. Darling to erect a $6,000 astronomical observatory on the public playground at Ninth avenue west and Third street was accepted by the city council yesterday afternoon.

The city attorney was authorized to prepare a contract to be signed by Mr. Darling and city officials, in which it will be agreed that the title of the land shall not be affected by the construction of the observatory. Provision will also be made for the use of the building in future years.

It is Mr. Darling's plan to erect a brick observatory at a cost of $3,000 and to install apparatus valued at a similar amount. He will use the building for his own observations, but will permit its use by the public at stated times. There will also be a library in connection for the benefit of local astronomical students.

If all details are arranged satisfactorily, Mr. Darling plans to begin construction work some time in the spring.

Mr. Darling was the United States engineer at the local port for thirty years and is one of the best known astronomical students in this part of the country.

HIGH TARIFF MEN ARE IN SESSION

Condemn the Underwood Law and Demand Upward Revision.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Condemnation of the present tariff law and a demand for upward revision of the customs schedules were voiced here today by speakers who opened a tariff conference called by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Samuel M. Hastings, president of the organization, began the proceedings with a declaration that "there are three things we need in this country right now." These he said were (1) a protective tariff; (2) a merchant marine, and (3) "the best army and navy in the world." He argued briefly on the greater importance of manufacturing as compared with agriculture, quoting census figures to show that whereas in 1900 the farm products of the country were valued at $12,000,000,000, the manufactured products were value at $9,000,000,000 more.

"From these figures it is pretty difficult for the unbiased man to reason that the farmer should be considered more by legislators than the manufacturer," he said. Mr. Hastings then introduced B. A. Eckhart of Chicago as chairman of the conference.

Mr. Eckhart attacked the Underwood tariff as having reduced the revenues of the government and depressed business.

The speaker concluded with an argument for upward revision of the tariff and the creation of a tariff commission to "stop the biennial tinkering with the tariff."

To Fight Tuberculosis

the best weapons any sufferer can obtain are those which Nature places close at hand—fresh air, plain, well-cooked food, rest and personal hygiene. Also, it is well to keep your hopes high and your courage strong.

But many cases do not yield even to the fullest exercise of helpful measures. Even in their incipiency there is need for something more. Nature does all she can, but must have help—and medication is indicated.

In many instances Eckman's Alterative has been used with beneficial results. No exaggerated claims are made for it. Its reputation rests on what it actually has done. And it is safe to try, for it does not contain any poisonous or habit-forming drugs. You can get it from your druggist or direct.

COMPREHENSIVE PLANS FOR STRENGTHENING THE NATIONAL DEFENSE URGED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Internal Taxation Proposed as Means of Providing Money Necessary to Add to the Naval and Military Establishments—Country Must Have Merchant Marine in Order to Secure Self-Efficiency and Self-Security.

> "There are citizens of the United States, I blush to admit, born under other flags but welcomed under our generous naturalization laws to the full freedom and opportunity of America, who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life; who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purpose, to strike at them and to debase our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue. * * * Such creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy must be crushed out. They are not many but they are infinitely malignant and the hand of our power should close over them at once."

> "There is, for example, a very pressing question of trade and shipping involved in this great problem of national adequacy. It is necessary for many weighty reasons of national efficiency and development that we should have a great merchant marine. The great merchant fleet we once used to make us rich, that great body of sturdy sailors who used to carry our flag into every sea, and who were the pride and often the bulwark of the nation, we have almost driven out of existence by inexcusable neglect and indifference and by a hopelessly blind and provincial policy of so-called economic protection. It is high time we repaired our mistake and resumed our commercial independence on the seas."

Washington, Dec. 7.—Preparedness by the United States was the theme of President Wilson's address to congress today. Following is the complete text of his address:

Gentlemen of the Congress: Since I last had the privilege of addressing you on the state of the Union the war of nations on the other side of the sea, which had then only begun to disclose its portentous proportions, has extended its threatening and sinister scope until it has swept within its flame some portion of every quarter of the globe, not excepting our own hemisphere, has altered the whole face of international affairs, and now presents a prospect of reorganization and reconstruction such as statesmen and peoples have never been called upon to attempt before.

We have stood apart, studiously neutral. It was our manifest duty to do so. Not only did we have no part or interest in the policies which seem to have brought the conflict on; it was necessary, if a universal catastrophe was to be avoided, that a limit should be set to the sweep of destructive war and that some part of the great family of nations should keep the processes of peace alive, if only to prevent collective economic ruin and the breakdown throughout the world of the industries by which its populations are fed and sustained. It was manifestly the duty of the self-governed nations of this hemisphere to redress, if possible, the balance of economic loss and confusion in the other, if they could do nothing more. In the day of readjustment and recuperation we earnestly hope and believe that they can be of infinite service.

> In this neutrality, to which they were bidden not only by their separate life and their habitual detachment from the politics of Europe, but also by a clear perception of international duty, the states of America have become conscious of a new and more vital community of interest and moral partnership in affairs, more clearly conscious of the many common sympathies and interests and duties which bid them stand together.

There was a time in the early days of our own great nation and of the republics fighting their way to independence in Central and South America when the government of the United States looked upon itself as in some sort the guardian of the republics to the south of her as against any encroachments or efforts at political control from the other side of the water; felt it its duty to play the part even without invitation from them; and I think that we can claim that the task was undertaken with a true and disinterested enthusiasm for the freedom of the Americas and the unmolested self-government of her independent peoples. But it was always difficult to maintain such a role without offense to the pride of the peoples whose freedom of action we sought to protect, and without provoking serious misconceptions of our motives, and every thoughtful man of affairs must welcome the altered circumstances of the new day in whose light we now stand, when there is no claim of guardianship or thought of wards, but, instead, a full and honorable association as of partners between ourselves and our neighbors, in the interest of all America, north and south. Our concern for the independence and prosperity of the states of Central and South America is not altered.

> We retain unabated the spirit that has inspired us throughout the whole life of our government and which was so frankly put into words by President Monroe. We still mean always to make a common cause of national independence and of political liberty in America.

But that purpose is now better understood so far as it concerns ourselves. It is known not to be a selfish purpose. It is known to have in it no thought of taking advantage of any government in this hemisphere or playing its political fortunes for our own benefit. All the governments of America stand, so far as we are concerned, upon a footing of genuine equality and unquestioned independence.

We have been put to the test in the case of Mexico, and we have stood the test. Whether we have benefited Mexico by the course we have pursued remains to be seen. Her fortunes are in her own hands. But we have at least proved that we will not take advantage of her in her distress and undertake to impose upon her an order and government of our own choosing. Liberty is often a fierce and intractable thing, to which no bounds can be set, and to which no bounds of a few men's choosing ought ever to be set. Every American who has drunk at the true fountains of principle and tradition must subscribe without reservation to the high doctrine of the Virginia Bill of Rights, which in the great days in which our government was set up was everywhere amongst us accepted as the creed of free men. That doctrine is, "That government is, or ought to be, instituted for the common benefit, protection and security of the people, nation or community;" that "of all the various modes and forms of government, that is the best which is capable of producing the greatest degree of happiness and safety, and is most effectually secured against the danger of maladministration; and that, when any government shall be found inadequate or contrary to these purposes, a majority of the community hath an indubitable, inalienable and indefeasible right to reform, alter or abolish it, in such manner as shall be judged most conducive to the public weal." We have unhesitatingly applied that heroic principle to the case of Mexico, and now hopefully await the rebirth of the troubled republic, which had so much of which to purge itself and so little sympathy from any outside quarter in the radical but necessary process.

> We will aid and befriend Mexico, but we will not coerce her, and our course with regard to her ought to be sufficient proof to all America that we seek no political suzerainty or selfish control.

The moral is, that the states of America are not hostile rivals, but co-operating friends, and that their growing sense of community of interest, alike in matters political and in matters economic, is likely to give them a new significance as factors in international affairs and in the political history of the world. It presents them as in a very deep and true sense a unit in world affairs, spiritual partners, standing together because thinking together, quick with common sympathies and common ideals. Separated they are subject to all the cross currents of the confused politics of the world of hostile rivalries; united in spirit and purpose they cannot be disappointed of their peaceful destiny.

> This is Pan-Americanism. It has none of the spirit of empire in it. It is the embodiment, the effectual embodiment, of the spirit of law and independence and liberty and mutual service.

A very notable body of men recently met in the city of Washington, at the invitation and as the guests of this government, whose deliberations are likely to be looked back to as marking a memorable turning point in the history of America. They were representative spokesmen of the several independent states of this hemisphere and were assembled to discuss the financial and commercial relations of the republics of the two continents which nature and political fortune have so intimately linked together. I earnestly recommend to your perusal the reports of their proceedings and of the actions of their committees. You will get from them, I think, a fresh conception of the ease and intelligence and advantage with which Americans of both continents may draw together in practical co-operation and of what the material foundations of this hopeful partnership of interest must consist—of how we should build them and of how necessary it is that we should hasten their building.

There is, I venture to point out, an especial significance just now attaching to this whole matter of drawing the Americas together in bonds of honorable partnership and mutual advantage because of the economic readjustments which the world must inevitably witness within the next generation, when peace shall have at last resumed its healthful tasks. In the performance of these tasks I believe the Americas to be destined to play their parts together. I am interested to fix your attention on this prospect now because unless you take it within your view and permit the full significance of it to command your thought I cannot find the right light in which to set forth the particular matter that lies at the very front of my whole thought as I address you today. I mean national defense.

No one who really comprehends the spirit of the great people for whom we are appointed to speak can fail to perceive that their passion is for peace, their genius best displayed in the practice of the arts of peace. Great democracies are not belligerent. They do not seek or desire war. Their thought is of individual liberty and of the free labor that supports life and the uncensored thought that quickens it. Conquest and dominion are not in our reckoning, or agreeable to our principles.

> But just because we demand unmolested development and the undisturbed government of our own lives upon our own principles of right and liberty, we resent, from whatever quarter it may come, the aggression we ourselves will not practice. We insist upon security in prosecuting our self-chosen lines of national development.

We do more than that. We demand it also for others. We do not confine our enthusiasm for individual liberty and free national development to the incidents and movements of affairs which affect only ourselves. We feel it wherever there is a people that tries to walk in these difficult paths of independence and right. From the first we have made common cause with all partisans of liberty on this side of the sea, and have deemed it as important that our neighbors should be free from all outside domination as that we ourselves should be; have set America aside as a whole for the uses of independent nations and political freemen.

Out of such thoughts grow all our policies. We regard war merely as a means of asserting the rights of a people against aggression. And we are as fiercely jealous of coercive or dictatorial power within our own nation as of aggression from without. We will not maintain a standing army except for uses which are as necessary in times of peace as in times of war, and we shall always see to it that our military peace establishment is no larger than is actually and continuously needed for the uses of days in which no enemies move against us. But we do believe in a body of free citizens ready and sufficient to take care of themselves and of the governments which they have set up to serve them. In our constitutions themselves we have commanded that "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed," and our confidence has been that our safety in times of danger would lie in the rising of the nation to take care of itself, as the farmers rose at Lexington.

> "The European war has extended its threatening and sinister scope until it has swept into its flame some portion of every quarter of the globe, not excepting our own hemisphere, has altered the whole face of international affairs, and now presents a prospect of reorganization and reconstruction such as statesmen and people have never been called upon to attempt before."

> But war has never been a mere matter of men and guns. It is a thing of disciplined might. If our citizens are ever to fight effectively upon a sudden summons, they must know how modern fighting is done, and what to do when the summons comes to render themselves immediately available and immediately effective. And the government must be their servant in this matter, must supply them with the training they need to take care of themselves and of it.

The military arm of their government, which they will not allow to direct them, they may properly use to serve them and make their independence secure—and not their own independence merely, but the rights also of those with whom they have made common cause, should they also be put in jeopardy. They must be fitted to play the great role in the world, and particularly in this hemisphere, for which they are qualified by principle and by chastened ambition to play.

It is with these ideals in mind that the plans of the department of war for more adequate national defense were conceived which will be laid before you, and which I urge you to sanction and put into effect as soon as they can be properly scrutinized and discussed. They seem to me the essential first steps, and they seem to me for the present sufficient.

They contemplate an increase of the standing force of the regular army from its present strength of 5,023 officers and 102,985 enlisted men of all services to a strength of 7,136 officers and 134,707 enlisted men, or 141,843, all told, all services, rank and file, by the addition of fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen companies of engineers, ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery and four aero squadrons, besides 750 officers required for a great variety of extra service, especially the all-important duty of training the citizen force of which I shall presently speak, 792 non-commissioned officers for service in drill, recruiting and the like, and the necessary quota of enlisted men for the quartermaster corps, the hospital corps, the ordnance department and other similar auxiliary services. These are the additions necessary to render the army adequate for its present duties, duties which it has to perform not only upon our own continental coasts and borders and at our interior army posts, but also in the Philippines, in the Hawaiian Islands, at the Isthmus and in Porto Rico.

> By way of making the country ready to assert some part of its real power promptly and upon a larger scale, should occasion arise, the plan also contemplates supplementing the army by a force of 400,000 disciplined citizens, raised in increments of 133,000 a year throughout a period of three years.

This it is proposed to do by a process of enlistment under which the serviceable men of the country would be asked to bind themselves to serve with the colors for purposes of training for short periods throughout three years, and to come to the colors at call at any time throughout an additional "furlough" period of three years. This force of 400,000 men would be provided with personal accouterments as fast as enlisted and their equipment for the field made ready to be supplied at any time. They would be assembled for training at stated intervals at convenient places in association with suitable units of the regular army. Their period of annual training would not necessarily exceed two months in the year.

It would depend upon the patriotic feeling of the younger men of the country whether they responded to such a call to service or not. It would depend upon the patriotic spirit of the employers of the country whether they made it possible for the younger men in their employ to respond under favorable conditions or not. I, for one, do not doubt the patriotic devotion either of the young men or of those who give them employment—those for whose benefit and protection they would in fact enlist. I would look forward to the success of such an experiment with entire confidence.

At least so much by way of preparation for defense seems to me to be absolutely imperative now. We cannot do less.

The program which will be laid before you by the secretary of the navy is similarly conceived. It involves only a shortening of the time within which plans long matured shall be carried out; but it does make definite and explicit a program which has heretofore been only implicit, held in the minds of the committees on naval affairs and disclosed in the debates of the two houses but nowhere formulated or formally adopted.

> It seems to me very clear that it will be to the advantage of the country for the congress to adopt a comprehensive plan for putting the navy upon a final footing of strength and efficiency and to press that plan to completion within the next five years.

We have always looked to the navy of the country as our first and chief line of defense; we have always seen it to be our manifest course of prudence to be strong on the seas. Year by year we have been creating a navy which now ranks very high indeed among the navies of the maritime nations. We should now definitely determine how we shall complete what we have begun, and how soon.

The program to be laid before you contemplates the construction within five years of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty destroyers, fifteen fleet submarines, eighty-five coast submarines, four gunboats, one hospital ship, two ammunition ships, two fuel oil ships and one repair ship. It is proposed that of this number we shall the first year provide for the construction of two battleships, two battle cruisers, three scout cruisers, fifteen destroyers, five fleet submarines, twenty-five coast submarines, two gunboats and one hospital ship; the second year, two battleships, one scout cruiser, ten destroyers, four fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat and one fuel oil ship; the third year, two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, five destroyers, two fleet submarines and fifteen coast submarines; the fourth year, two battleships, two battle cruisers, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one ammunition ship and one fuel oil ship; and the fifth year, two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat, one ammunition ship and one repair ship.

The secretary of the navy is asking also for the immediate addition to the personnel of the navy of 7,500 sailors, 2,500 apprentice seamen and 1,500 marines. This increase would be sufficient to care for the ships which are to be completed within the fiscal year 1917 and also for the number of men which must be put in training to man the ships which will be completed early in 1918. It is also necessary that the number of midshipmen at the naval academy at Annapolis should be increased by at least 300 in order that the force of officers should be more rapidly added to; and authority is asked to appoint, for engineering duties only, approved graduates of engineering colleges, and for service in the aviation corps a certain number of men taken from civil life.

If this full program should be carried out we should have built or building in 1921, according to the estimates of survival and standards of classification followed by the general board of the department, an effective navy consisting of 27 battleships of the first line, 6 battle cruisers, 25 battleships of the second line, 10 armored cruisers, 13 scout cruisers, 5 first-class cruisers, 3 second-class cruisers, 10 third-class cruisers, 108 destroyers, 18 fleet submarines, 157 coast submarines, 6 monitors, 20 gunboats, 4 supply ships, 15 fuel ships, 4 transports, 3 tenders to torpedo vessels, 8 vessels of special types and 2 ammunition ships. This would be a navy fitted to our needs and worthy of our traditions.

> But armies and instruments of war are only part of what has to be considered if we are to consider the supreme matter of national self-sufficiency and security in all its aspects. There are other great matters which will be thrust upon our attention whether we will or not.

There is, for example, a very pressing question of trade and shipping involved in this great problem of national adequacy. It is necessary for many weighty reasons of national efficiency and development that we should have a great merchant marine. The great merchant fleet we once used to make us rich, that great body of sturdy sailors who used to carry our flag into every sea, and who were the pride and often the bulwark of the nation, we have almost driven out of existence by inexcusable neglect and indifference and by a hopelessly blind and provincial policy of so-called economic protection. It is high time we repaired our mistake and resumed our commercial independence on the seas.

For it is a question of independence. If other nations go to war or seek to hamper each other's commerce, our merchants, it seems, are at their mercy, to do with as they please. We must use their ships, and use them as they determine. We have not ships enough of our own. We cannot handle our own commerce on the seas. Our independence is provincial, and is only on land and within our own borders. We are not likely to be permitted to use even the ships of other nations in rivalry of their own trade, and are without means to extend our commerce even where the doors are wide open and our goods desired. Such a situation is not to be endured. It is of capital importance not only that the United States should be its own carrier on the seas and enjoy the economic independence which only an adequate merchant marine would give it, but also that the American hemisphere as a whole should enjoy a like independence and self-sufficiency, if it is not to be drawn into the tangle of European affairs. Without such independence the whole question of our political unity and self-determination is very seriously clouded and complicated indeed.

> Moreover, we can develop no true or effective American policy without ships of our own—not ships of war, but ships of peace, carrying goods and carrying much more: creating friendships and rendering indispensable services to all interests on this side the water. They must move constantly back and forth between the Americas. They are the only shuttles that can weave the delicate fabric of sympathy, comprehension, confidence and mutual dependence in which we wish to clothe our policy of America for Americans.

The task of building up an adequate merchant marine for America private capital must ultimately undertake and achieve, as it has undertaken and achieved every other like task amongst us in the past, with admirable enterprise, intelligence and vigor; and it seems to me a manifest dictate of wisdom that we should promptly remove every legal obstacle that may stand in the way of this much to be desired revival of our old independence and should facilitate in every possible way the building, purchase and American registration of ships. But capital cannot accomplish this great task of a sudden. It must embark upon it by degrees, as the opportunities of trade develop. Something must be done at once; done to open routes and develop opportunities where they are as yet undeveloped; done to open the arteries of trade where the currents have not yet learned to run—especially between the two American continents, where they are, singularly enough, yet to be created and quickened; and it is evident that only the government can undertake such beginnings and assume the initial financial risks. When the risk has passed and private capital begins to find its way in sufficient abundance into these new channels, the government may withdraw. But it cannot omit to begin. It should take the first steps, and should take them at once. Our goods must not lie piled up at our ports and stored upon side-tracks in freight cars which are daily needed on the roads; must not be left without means of transport to any foreign quarter. We must not await the permission of foreign ship owners and foreign governments to send them where we will.

With a view to meeting these pressing necessities of our commerce and availing ourselves at the earliest possible moment of the present unparalleled opportunity of linking the two Americas together in bonds of mutual interest and service, an opportunity which may never return again if we miss it now, proposals will be made to the present congress for the purchase or construction of ships to be owned and directed by the government similar to those made to the last congress, but modified in some essential particulars. I recommend these proposals to you for your prompt acceptance with the more confidence because every month that has elapsed since the former proposals were made has made the necessity for such action more and more manifestly imperative. That need was then foreseen; it is now acutely felt and everywhere realized by those for whom trade is waiting but who can find no conveyance for their goods. I am not so much interested in the particulars of the program as I am in taking immediate advantage of the great opportunity which awaits us if we will but act in this emergency. In this matter, as in all others, a spirit of common counsel should prevail, and out of it should come an early solution of this pressing problem.

There is another matter which seems to me to be very intimately associated with the question of national safety and preparation for defense. That is our policy towards the Philippines and the people of Porto Rico. Our treatment of them and their attitude towards us are manifestly of the first consequence in the development of our duties in the world and in getting a free hand to perform these duties.

> We must be free from every unnecessary burden or embarrassment; and there is no better way to be clear of embarrassment than to fulfill our promises that promote the interests of those dependent on us to the utmost.

Bills for the alteration and reform of the government of the Philippines and for rendering fuller political justice to the people of Porto Rico were submitted to the Sixty-third congress. They will be submitted also to you. I need not particularize their details. You are most of you already familiar with them. But I do recommend them to your early adoption with the sincere conviction that there are few measures you could adopt which would more serviceably clear the way for the great policies by which we wish to make good, now and always, our right to lead in enterprises of peace and good will and economic and political freedom.

The plans for the armed forces of the nation which I have outlined, and for the general policy of adequate preparation for mobilization and defense, involve of course very large additional expenditures of money—expenditures which will considerably exceed the estimated revenues of the government. It is made my duty by law, whenever the estimates of expenditure exceed the estimates of revenue, to call the attention of the congress to the fact and suggest any means of meeting the deficiency that it may be wise or possible for me to suggest. I am ready to believe that it would be my duty to do so in any case; and I feel particularly bound to speak of the matter when it appears that the deficiency will arise directly out of the adoption by the congress of measures which I myself urge it to adopt. Allow me, therefore, to speak briefly of the present state of the treasury and of the fiscal problems which the next year will probably disclose.

On the 30th of June last there was an available balance in the general fund of the treasury of $104,170,105.78. The total estimated receipts for the year 1916, on the assumption that the emergency revenue measure passed by the last congress will not be extended beyond its present limit, the 31st day of December, 1915, and that the present duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar will be discontinued after the 1st of May, 1916, will be $670,365,500. The balance of June last and these estimated revenues come, therefore, to a grand total of $774,535,605.78. The total estimated disbursements for the present fiscal year, including twenty-five millions for the Panama canal, twelve millions for probable deficiency appropriations and $50,000 for miscellaneous debt redemptions, will be $753,891,000; and the balance in the general fund of the treasury will be reduced to $20,644,605.78. The emergency revenue act, if continued beyond its present true limitation, would produce, during the half year then remaining, about forty-one millions. The duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar, if continued, would produce during the two months of the fiscal year remaining after the 1st of May, about fifteen millions. These two sums, amounting together to fifty-six millions, if added to the revenues of the second half of the fiscal year, would yield the treasury at the end of the year an available balance of $76,644,605.78.

The additional revenues required to carry out the program of military and naval preparation of which I have spoken, would, as at present estimated, be for the fiscal year 1917, $93,800,000. Those figures, taken with the figures for the present fiscal year which I have already given, disclose our financial problem for the year 1917. Assuming that the taxes imposed by the emergency revenue act and the present duty on sugar are to be discontinued, and that the balance at the close of the present fiscal year will be only $20,644,605.78, that the disbursements for the Panama canal will again be about twenty-five millions, and that the additional expenditures for the army and navy are authorized by the congress, the deficit in the general fund of the treasury on the 30th of June, 1917, will be nearly $235,000,000. To this sum at least fifty millions should be added to represent a safe working balance for the treasury, and twelve millions to include the usual deficiency estimates in 1917; and these additions would make a total deficit of some $297,000,000. If the present taxes should be continued throughout this year and the next, however, there would be a balance in the treasury of some seventy-six and a half millions at the end of the present fiscal year, and a deficit at the end of the next year of only some fifty millions, or, reckoning in sixty-two millions for deficiency appropriations and a safe treasury balance at the end of the year, a total deficit of some $112,000,000. The obvious moral of the figures is that it is a plain counsel of prudence to continue all of the present taxes or their equivalents, and confine ourselves to the problem of providing $112,000,000 of new revenue rather than $297,000,000.

How shall we obtain the new revenue? We are frequently reminded that there are many millions of bonds which the treasury is authorized under existing law to sell to reimburse the sums paid out of current revenues for the construction of the Panama canal; and it is true that bonds to the amount of approximately $222,000,000 are now available for that purpose. Prior to 1913, $134,631,980 of these bonds had actually been sold to recoup the expenditures at the isthmus; and now constitute a considerable item of the public debt. But I, for one, do not believe that the people of this country approve of postponing the payment of their bills.

> Borrowing money is short-sighted finance. It can be justified only when permanent things are to be accomplished which many generations will certainly benefit by and which it seems hardly fair that a single generation should pay for. The objects we are now proposing to spend money for cannot be so classified, except in the sense that everything wisely done may be said to be done in the interest of posterity as well as in our own.

It seems to me a clear dictate of prudent statesmanship and frank finance that in what we are now, I hope, about to undertake, we should pay as we go. The people of the country are entitled to know just what burdens of taxation they are to carry, and to know from the outset, now. The new bills should be paid by internal taxation.

To what sources, then, shall we turn? This is so peculiarly a question which the gentlemen of the house of representatives are expected under the Constitution to propose an answer to that you will hardly expect me to do more than discuss it in very general terms. We should be following an almost universal example of modern governments if we were to draw the greater part or even the whole of the revenues we need from the income taxes. By somewhat lowering the

> "We have been put to the test in the case of Mexico, and we have stood the test. Whether we have benefited Mexico by the course we have pursued remains to be seen. Her fortunes are in her own hands. But we have at least proved that we will not take advantage of her in distress and undertake to impose upon her an order and government of our own choosing."

> "But because we demand unmolested development and the undisturbed government of our own lives upon our own principles of right and liberty, we resent, from whatever quarter it may come, the aggression we ourselves will not practice. We insist upon security in prosecuting our self-chosen lines of national development. We do more than that. We demand it also for others."

present limits of exemption and the figure at which the surtax shall begin to be imposed, and by increasing, step by step throughout the present graduation, the surtax itself, the income taxes as at present apportioned would yield sums sufficient to balance the books of the treasury at the end of the fiscal year 1917 without anywhere making the burden unreasonably or oppressively heavy. The precise reckonings are fully and accurately set out in the report of the secretary of the treasury which will be immediately laid before you.

And there are many additional sources of revenue which can justly be resorted to without hampering the industries of the country or putting any too great charge upon individual expenditure. A tax of 1 cent per gallon on gasoline and naptha would yield at the present estimated production, $10,000,000; a tax of 50 cents per horse power on automobiles and internal explosion engines, $15,000,000; a stamp tax on bank checks, probably $18,000,000; a tax of 25 cents per ton on pig iron, $10,000,000; a tax of 25 cents per ton on fabricated iron and steel, probably $10,000,000. In a country of great industries like this it ought to be easy to distribute the burdens of taxation without making them anywhere bear too heavily or too exclusively upon any one set of persons or undertakings. What is clear is, that the industry of this generation should pay the bills of this generation.

I have spoken to you today, gentlemen, upon a single theme, the thorough preparation of the nation to care for its own security and to make sure of entire freedom to play the impartial role in this hemisphere and in the world which we all believe to have been providentially assigned to it. I have had in mind no thought of any immediate or particular danger arising out of our relations with other nations. We are at peace with all the nations of the world, and there is reason to hope that no question in controversy between this and other governments will lead to any serious breach of amicable relations, grave as some differences of attitude and policy have been and may yet turn out to be.

> I am sorry to say that the gravest threats against our national peace and safety have been uttered within our borders. There are citizens of the United States, I blush to admit, born under other flags, but welcomed under our generous naturalization laws to the full freedom and opportunity of America, who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life; who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them, and to debase our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue.

Their number is not great as compared with the whole number of those sturdy hosts by which our nation has been enriched in recent generations out of virile foreign stocks; but it is great enough to have brought deep disgrace upon us and to have made it necessary that we should promptly make use of processes of law by which we may be purged of their corrupt distempers. America never witnessed anything like this before. It never dreamed it possible that men sworn into its own citizenship, men drawn out of great free stocks such as supplied some of the best and strongest elements of that little, but how heroic, nation that in a high day of old staked its very life to free itself from every entanglement that had darkened the fortunes of the older nations and set up a new standard here—that men of such origins and such free choices of allegiance would ever turn in malign reaction against the government and people who had welcomed and nurtured them and seek to make this proud country once more a hotbed of European passion. A little while ago such a thing would have seemed incredible. Because it was incredible we made no preparation for it. We would have been almost ashamed to prepare for it, as if we were suspicious of ourselves, our own comrades and neighbors! But the ugly and incredible thing has actually come about and we are without adequate Federal laws to deal with it. I urge you to enact such laws at the earliest possible moment and feel that in doing so I am urging you to do nothing less than save the honor and self-respect of the nation.

SCALP AND HAIR BADLY AFFECTED

Pimples Broke Out. Itched. Hair Nearly All Came Out and Was Dead and Stiff.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"After a long illness, during which I suffered a great deal with my head, my scalp would be so sore at times that I could scarcely endure the weight of my hair. It would itch until I would scratch it, and sometimes pimples would break out. My hair nearly all came out and was so dead and stiff that I could not arrange it.

"I used ——— salve as a massage, and shampooed with medicated soaps but could find nothing that would give more than temporary relief. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and I got some. I followed directions and was completely healed, and have not been bothered since." (Signed) Mrs. A. Lacy, Box 72, Parkin, Ark., Jan. 30, 1915.

> Such creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy must be crushed out. They are not many, but they are infinitely malignant, and the hand of our power should close over them at once.

They have formed plots to destroy property, they have entered into conspiracies against the neutrality of the government, they have sought to pry into every confidential transaction of the government in order to serve interests alien to our own. It is possible to deal with these things very effectually. I need not suggest the terms in which they may be dealt with.

I wish that it could be said that only a few men, misled by mistaken sentiments of allegiance to the governments under which they were born, had been guilty of disturbing the self-possession and misrepresenting the temper and principles of the country during these days of terrible war, when it would seem that every man who was truly an American would instinctively make it his duty and his pride to keep the scales of judgment even and prove himself a partisan of no nation but his own. But it cannot. There are some men among us, and many resident abroad who, though born and bred in the United States and calling themselves Americans, have so far forgotten themselves and their honor as citizens as to put their passionate sympathy with one or the other side of the great European conflict above their regard for the peace and dignity of the United States. They also preach and practice disloyalty. No laws, I suppose, can reach corruptions of the mind and heart; but I should not speak of others without also speaking of these and expressing the even deeper humiliation and scorn which every self-possessed and thoughtfully patriotic American must feel when he thinks of them and of the discredit they are daily bringing upon us.

While we speak of the preparation of the nation to make sure of her security and her effective power, we must not fall into the patent error of supposing that her real strength comes from armaments and mere safeguards of written law. It comes, of course, from her people, their energy, their success in their undertakings, their free opportunity to use the natural resources of our great homeland and of the lands outside our continental borders which look to us for protection, for encouragement, and for assistance in their development; from the organization and freedom and vitality of our economic life.

> The domestic questions which engaged the attention of the last congress are more vital to the nation in this its time of test than at any other time. We cannot adequately make ready for any trial of our strength unless we wisely and promptly direct the force of our laws into these all-important fields of domestic action.

A matter which it seems to me we should have very much at heart is the creation of the right instrumentalities by which to mobilize our economic resources in any time of national necessity. I take it for granted that I do not need your authority to call into systematic consultation with the directing officers of the army and navy men of recognized leadership and ability from among our citizens who are thoroughly familiar, for example, with the transportation facilities of the country and therefore competent to advise how they may be co-ordinated when the need arises, those who can suggest the best way in which to bring about prompt co-operation among the manufacturers of the country, should it be necessary, and those who could assist to bring the technical skill of the country to the aid of the government in the solution of particular problems of defense. I only hope that if I should find it feasible to constitute such an advisory body the congress would be willing to vote the small sum of money that would be needed to defray the expenses that would probably be necessary to give it the clerical and administrative machinery with which to do serviceable work.

What is more important is, that the industries and resources of the country should be available and ready for mobilization. It is the more imperatively necessary, therefore, that we should promptly devise means for doing what we have not yet done: that we should give intelligent Federal aid and stimulation to industrial and vocational education, as we have long done in the large field of our agricultural industry; that, at the same time that we safeguard and conserve the natural resources of the country, we should put them at the disposal of those who will use them promptly and intelligently, as was sought to be done in the admirable bills submitted to the last congress from its committees on the public lands, bills which I earnestly recommend in principle to your consideration; that we should put into early operation some provision for rural credits which will add to the extensive borrowing facilities already afforded the farmer by the Reserve Bank act adequate instrumentalities by which long credits may be obtained on land mortgages; and that we should study more carefully than they have hitherto been studied the right adaptation of our economic arrangements to changing conditions.

Many conditions about which we have repeatedly legislated are being altered from decade to decade, it is evident, under our very eyes, and are likely to change even more rapidly and more radically in the days immediately ahead of us, when peace has returned to the world and the nations of Europe once more take up their tasks of commerce and industry with the energy of those who must bestir themselves to build anew. Just what these changes will be no one can certainly foresee or confidently predict. There are no calculable, because no stable, elements in the problem. The most we can do is to make certain that we have the necessary instrumentalities of information constantly at our service so that we may be sure that we know exactly what we are dealing with when we come to act, if it should be necessary to act at all. We must first certainly know what it is that we are seeking to adapt ourselves to. I may ask the privilege of addressing you more at length on this important matter a little later in your session.

In the meantime may I make this suggestion? The transportation problem is an exceedingly serious and pressing one in this country. There has from time to time of late been reason to fear that our railroads would not much longer be able to cope with it successfully, as at present equipped and co-ordinated. I suggest that it would be wise to provide for a commission of inquiry to ascertain by a thorough canvass of the whole question whether our laws as at present framed and administered are as serviceable as they might be in the solution of the problem.

> It is obviously a problem that lies at the very foundation of our efficiency as a people. Such an inquiry ought to draw out every circumstance and opinion worth considering and we need to know all sides of the matter if we mean to do anything in the field of Federal legislation.

No one, I am sure, would wish to take any backward step. The regulation of the railways of the country by Federal commission has had admirable results and has fully justified the hopes and expectations of those by whom the policy of regulation was originally proposed. The question is not what should we undo. It is, whether there is anything else we can do that would supply us with effective means, in the very process of regulation, for bettering the conditions under which the railroads are operated and for making them more useful servants of the country as a whole. It seems to me that it might be a part of wisdom, therefore, before further legislation in this field is attempted, to look at the whole problem of coordination and efficiency in the full light of a fresh assessment of circumstance and opinion, as a guide to dealing with the several parts of it.

For what we are seeking now, what in my mind is the single thought of this message, is national efficiency and security. We serve a great nation. We should serve it in the spirit of its peculiar genius. It is the genius of common men for self-government, industry, justice, liberty and peace. We should see to it that it lacks no instrument, no facility or vigor of law, to make it sufficient to play its part with energy, safety and assured success. In this we are no partisans but heralds and prophets of a new age.

SANTA CLAUS HAS CAUSE FOR WORRY

Children's Wants Grow More Amazing Every Year, Good Saint Declares.

Santa Claus is worried.

Children are growing more original every year, and he says that soon he will have to hire half a dozen more assistants, so that he will have all his orders filled by the time Christmas eve comes.

Here are a few of the presents little boys and girls want this year:

A gallon and a half of "lite green paint;"
A submarine;
A baby;
Two fire chiefs;
A depot;
A round house; and
A present.

"The little girl who wants the green paint is all right," said Santa Claus to The Herald man yesterday, "although I don't think there is a bit in stock. I'll get some though.

"The submarine won't be so hard, and the depot, and the roundhouse, but what about the baby and the two fire chiefs?"

"Now here is a boy," he said, picking up another letter, "who is a lad after my own heart. He wants a b. b. gun and a drum and some candy and nuts. That's more like it."

Then Saint Nick sighed, but smiled broadly to offset the sigh, and turned to his work.

No wonder he is worried.

STUDENTS NOW SEEK CUSTOMERS

Want Outlet for the Products of Their Creamery.

Students at Central high school will canvass faculty members and neighbors to sell the butter and by-products of the students' creamery.

Directors of the creamery company, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, decided that this was the best way of disposing of their wares. The hope to build up a patronage, so that they will be sure of a demand covering their output.

Restaurants and ice cream parlors, possible buttermilk customers, also will be canvassed by the student salesman, the directors decided.

Three churnings of butter will be made each week. As soon as the fresh milk is received on Saturday and Monday the cream will be separated and "ripened" and churned on Tuesday. Milk received on Tuesday and Wednesday will be churned Thursday and milk received on Thursday and Friday will be churned Saturday.

The creamery will be in good running order by the end of the week, they expect.

A PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL FOR THE TREATMENT OF CONSTIPATION

PHYSICIANS have long recognized the value of the mineral oil treatment for constipation. The former difficulty in obtaining a mineral oil of sufficient purity has been fully solved with Nujol. We offer in Nujol a pure white mineral oil which is absolutely odorless and tasteless. It is not digested or absorbed by the system, acting merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick temporary relief from constipation. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way—by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

Write for booklet, "The Rational Treatment of Constipation," an informative treatise on constipation. If you cannot get Nujol from your druggist, we will send you a pint bottle prepaid to any point in the United States on receipt of 75c.—money order or stamps.

PETITION ASKS FOR REMOVAL OF POLE

Removal of the old wooden electric light pole at the corner of Twenty-fourth avenue east and Fourth street, where a new standard has just been placed, is asked by the property owners in that vicinity.

In a communication to the council, Dr. C. E. Wallace of 2121 East Fourth street, representing the property owners, declares that the pole is unsightly and that it is being maintained by the electric company to avoid laying underground wires in giving current to the standard. The wires from the wooden pole are strung over to the standard, he states.

The commissioners decided to take no official action, but to place the matter in the hands of Commissioner Merritt for settlement.

DRILL FOR PUPILS.

Denfeld Would Have New Armory Used By School Children.

Indorsing military drill for public school students, Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the city schools yesterday suggested using the Armory one day a week for classes in military training.

"Students easily could spend an hour each week in the new Armory and execute military drills," said Supt. Denfeld. "Most pupils have more time than they can spend to advantage. Before students can become enthusiastic over it, however, the school patrons must assert their desire for it.

"While in Boston I was deeply impressed with the manner in which the school children executed the military drills in connection with their school course. There was a marked respect for teachers in Boston schools as a result of these drills. They were orderly and the students developed a sportsmanlike fortitude.

"Duluth school officials are presented with the problem of handling pupils either democratically or autocratically. The pupils all must be handled one of these two ways, or not at all. There is no middle ground."

SAVED FROM DROWNING.

Farmer Skating Near Cumberland, Wis., Has Narrow Escape.

Cumberland, Wis., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Johnson, a young farmer, skated to town on Beaver Dam lake Sunday and when nearing the beaver dam, he broke through, but managed to hang onto the ice until his companion could throw him some brush, which held him up until a rope was procured from town to pull him out. He was in the water for over thirty minutes and was in a very critical condition, but his recovery is expected.

Andrew Ritan, a youth of 15 years, also broke through the ice on the same lake, but was rescued by his companions.

FOR BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, BRONCHIAL ASTHMA AND WHOOPING COUGH

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonsful for 25 Cents.

The first 300 persons calling at The Lyceum Pharmacy will be entitled to a regular 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant for half price (25c) by presenting the coupon below, properly signed. With a view to giving those who have not yet used this new excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it. In the treatment of Bronchial affections, including Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Severe Coughs, Colds and Hoarseness, to prove its merits, these druggists are willing to allow the public the profit which they would otherwise make and the proprietor is willing to lose money on the same, so as to give them an opportunity of trying it, at partially their expense, knowing it will be found the best medicine ever used by anyone.

Even though not in need of a Cough or Cold Medicine at the present time, it will pay to buy now, as some such medicine is sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at less than full price again. Besides making this reduction, these druggists guarantee this remedy just the same as Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, and will return the money in every single instance if it does not give perfect satisfaction and even more—if it is not found the best remedy ever used for any of the above complaints.

This excellent remedy is sufficiently concentrated so that 50 cents' worth, when mixed at home, with simply one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water (according to printed directions) makes a whole family supply (128 teaspoonsful) while bottles of the old, regular, ready-made kinds, of doubtful merit, and without a guarantee, usually average 20 to 32 teaspoonsful.

It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any narcotic or injurious drugs which do most cough remedies, and can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy whatever, on the guarantee of the above, well-known, reliable druggists who will refund your 25c if it is not found the best remedy ever used.

If a neighbor or friend could be induced to divide and pay for half the quantity, the cost would thus only be about 12c to each.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 2.
This coupon and 25c is good for one (only) 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant at the Lyceum Pharmacy, if your name and address is filled in.

ELK WILL BE BROUGHT HERE

Animals Will Arrive Here From Seattle at Christmas Time.

Local Lodge Members Finally Induce the Council to Act.

First steps toward the opening of a zoo, probably at Fairmont park, were taken by the commissioners at the regular council meeting yesterday afternoon, and two elk, the nucleus of the local garden, will arrive here about Christmas time. Resolutions accepting the offers of the game warden at Seattle to send two elk here free of charge, and the Pittsburgh Steel company to donate a wire fence for a five-acre inclosure without any cost to the city, were adopted unanimously, after a committee of twenty members of the Elks' lodge appeared at the meeting and made an appeal in behalf of the zoo.

"That's some Christmas present for Duluth," declared the Elks, amidst the applause and hand-clapping that followed the action of the commission.

At first it looked as if the proposition would be turned down by the council, because of the heavy expense involved in bringing the two elk to Duluth, the building of an inclosure and a shelter shed, feed for the animals, and caretakers during the year. During the discussion that was led by James Travers, chairman of the Elks' committee, Harvey J. Huber, local representative of the steel company, arose and offered the steel fence in behalf of his company. This means a saving of approximately $800. It was then pointed out that the express charges for bringing the elk from Seattle would be $234, while the posts and labor in building the fence will amount to $220.

In addition to accepting the offer of the game warden, through the Elks' lodge, and the wire fence from the steel company, the council heard first reading of an ordinance appropriating $500 to cover the express charges and the building of the inclosure and shelter shed. A telegram will be sent today by the local lodge, and it is expected the elk will be shipped some time next week. The animals will probably arrive about Christmas time.

The fence will be twelve feet high and of the best wire manufactured for such purposes, Mr. Huber announced. He has also offered to donate the service of an expert to supervise the building of the inclosure.

About a month ago the Elks presented the offer of the Seattle game warden, but the council took no action, claiming that the expense was too high. After negotiating, conferring and figuring since that time, the proposition was accepted yesterday afternoon.

FIREARMS ACT WILL BE PASSED

Council Agrees on Measure After Is Is Modified.

Duluth's firearms ordinance regulating the sale of guns and revolvers will be passed by the city council at its regular meeting next Monday.

At the meeting yesterday the commissioners agreed on the provisions of the measure, but decided to make a new draft before final action is taken. It was decided to drop out those sections referring to the carrying of guns and compelling persons over 18 years of age to obtain permits from the city. Boys would be barred from carrying guns or revolvers under the provisions of the original draft of the ordinance.

The ordinance, as it will come up next Monday, regulating the sale of the arms and compelling storekeepers to have records of each sale, follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or otherwise dispose of any gun, pistol or other firearms without first having obtained a license so to do.

"Any person licensed to sell or dispose of firearms shall keep a register in which he shall enter the names and addresses of all persons to whom such guns, pistols or other firearms were sold or disposed of, the kind of weapon sold and the manufacturer's name, the number of said weapon, if any, and the date of the sale; and such register shall be open to the inspection of any member of the police force of the city of Duluth upon request."

DULUTH AS MUSIC CENTER

City's Enterprise Warmly Praised By R. Buchanan Morton at Dinner Given in His Honor By Scots of City.

R. BUCHANAN MORTON.

Musical interests in Duluth were given unstinted praise last night by R. Buchanan Morton, late of Aberdeen, Scotland, in a short address given at a dinner in his honor at the Holland hotel by Scots of this city. Simon Clark introduced Alexander Guthrie as toastmaster, and Mr. Morton, who is organist and choir leader at Glen Avon Presbyterian church, was called upon for the principal talk of the evening. He said in part:

"One thing that I have been strikingly impressed with since coming here a year ago was the exceptionally general intelligent interest in music that exists in this city. It is really unusual, and particularly in a place located, as Duluth is, within a hundred and fifty miles of one of the greatest musical centers in America.

"It is never safe or fair to judge of the musical standing of a city by its reception of entertainments or musicians from outside. This is always an interesting thing to note and study, but it lacks significance. The only way to judge of the musical standing of any city or town is by the musical productions of the place itself. And on this basis Duluth is to be congratulated most emphatically.

"Of course it never is safe for a comparative newcomer to try to point out the reasons for any given local conditions, but I am sure I make no mistake in ascribing a great part of the musical intelligence and the musical feeling in Duluth to the keenness, enthusiasm and efficiency of the music teachers of the city. It is impossible not to admire the work of the pianoforte teachers of Duluth. They not only teach the mechanical processes of playing, but they push forward the love of music, and make those with whom they work able to appreciate and understand it from a sympathetic and intelligent standpoint; and that is something that is too rarely found among music teachers.

School Music.

"In the schools, too, there seems to be an unusually efficient course in music, and that the pupils are really interested is shown by the formation and maintenance of choruses and orchestras. In a school, an orchestra may be termed a luxury, but for thorough musical training a chorus is a decided necessity. In my contact with pupils whose musical training has been confined to what they received in the city schools, I have been surprised to find how excellently the boys and girls read music. It means nothing less than that they have had exceptional training in their school music.

"Then there is that splendid organization of women, devoting its energies to the development of the musical interests of the city—the Matinee Musicale. It fills me with enthusiasm to see the work these women are carrying on, and the spirit of self denial with which they are devoting themselves to the work in hand. It is a blessing for any city to have an organization not only willing to do what the Matinee Musicale is doing for Duluth, but capable of doing the work so admirably as this body is doing it. It speaks well for Duluth as a musical city that such an organization could be formed here, but it must also be said that the work of the Matinee Musicale is a material factor in bringing about the present high standard of musical matters in Duluth.

"The formation of a city concert orchestra was a distinct step in advance for Duluth's music. It is invaluable to have such a body in the city. I trust it will continue, and grow both in numbers and in influence.

City Chorus.

"But by all means the most significant movement in Duluth's musical development within the time that I have had the privilege of watching matters here was the formation this year of a chorus for the production of 'The Messiah.' It has been said by excellent authorities that musical development is incomplete and vain unless it gives opportunity for expression. That is the work this chorus is doing—it is furnishing an opportunity for expression by the people of the city themselves of the emotions of musical thought, and it is no exaggeration to say that such a chorus as this will do and is doing more to push forward musical life in Duluth than could be done by any other sort of agency.

"It is not by going and hearing artists that musical life in any city is developed, though the pleasure of hearing these artists is enhanced by musical training and education. But it is in the development of music for and by the masses that the best general development is attained, and that can only be accomplished through chorus work such as has been taken up by the Duluth chorus. I trust the present effort will be followed by more and more extended ones, and that Duluth, with its already remarkable attainments in musical matters, will advance even beyond the fondest hopes of those who have done and are doing so much for the city."

Several of those present made brief talks, the more formal speeches being by Stephen H. Jones, who hailed Mr. Morton as being exceptionally qualified to succeed to the place held in Duluth's musical affairs by the late Horace Reyner; Simon Clark, who indorsed Mr. Jones' estimate of Mr. Morton; Judge W. H. Cant, who responded to the toast "Our Adopted Country," and John Ross, who talked on "Our Mother Country and Her Many Loyal Daughters." Other talks were made by Dr. Frank Connor, Lewis Macleod, and Benjamin Stockman.

An informal musical program was interspersed among the speeches. It consisted of a medley of Scottish airs, on the piano, by Mr. Morton; songs by Dr. J. G. Annand and Robert Mowbray; a couplet of Scottish airs on the guitar by D. E. Giffin; several patriotic choruses in which everybody joined; some Scottish airs and reels on the violin by G. L. Tupper, and a reel in which Messrs. Mowbray, Clark, Malcolm Buchanan and Alex McRae took part. The evening was closed by singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

KEEPS KIDNEYS ACTIVE WITH A GLASS OF SALTS

Must flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

Noted authority tells what causes Backache and Bladder weakness.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

OFFICERS FOR BLUE LODGES

Three of Five Local Bodies Hold Their Annual Elections.

Other Masonic Bodies Will Hold Elections This Month.

Duluth Masonic blue lodges are holding their annual meetings this month. Three of the five local lodges met last evening and elected officers for the ensuing year.

Palestine lodge, No. 79, A. F. & A. M., the oldest and largest in Duluth, last evening at the Masonic temple elected C. G. Townsend worshipful master. Other officers chosen were: M. C. McLaren, senior warden; A. J. Frey, junior warden; J. P. Johnson, treasurer, and J. S. Matheson, secretary.

Trinity lodge, No. 282, A. F. & A. M., the youngest of the five local lodges, elected E. H. Pfeifer as worshipful master. The subordinate officers chosen were: Axel W. Erickson, senior warden; W. A. Pittenger, junior warden; John Moir, treasurer, and R. E. Wheeler, secretary. A. R. De Vohn was selected trustee to succeed himself for a term of five years. Trinity lodge now has 142 members. Carl E. Lonegren, its first worshipful master, has presided since the lodge was organized two years ago. The new officers will be installed Dec. 20. Trinity lodge meets in the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Lakeside lodge, No. 281, A. F. & A. M., at a meeting held last evening at the Lakeside Masonic hall, chose William A. Hicken worshipful master. The other officers elected were: Charles S. Palmer, senior warden; Thorwald Hanson, junior warden; George Nelson, secretary, and H. C. Bellinger, trustee.

The annual meeting and election of officers for Ionic lodge, No. 186, A. F. & A. M., will be held next Monday evening at the Masonic temple. C. C. Colton is the present master of Ionic lodge. Euclid lodge, No. 198, A. F. & A. M., will hold its annual election tomorrow evening at the West Duluth Masonic hall. J. H. Medland is the worshipful master.

Annual meetings will be held in other Masonic bodies this month as follows:

Dec. 7.—Euclid chapter, No. 156, Order of the Eastern Star, at the West Duluth Masonic hall.

Dec. 10.—Zenith chapter, No. 25, Order of the Eastern Star, at the Masonic temple.

Dec. 17.—Duluth council, No. 6, R. & S. M., at the Masonic temple.

BUILDERS SEND BIG DELEGATION

Twenty-five Going to Mill City; Zauft Again Heads Exchange.

Sixty members were present at the annual meeting of the Duluth Builders' exchange last evening.

Included in the business taken up was the completion of arrangements for attending the annual meeting of the State Association of Builders' Exchanges to be held at Minneapolis. The local exchange will be represented by twenty-five delegates, who go in a special car over the Northern Pacific this afternoon.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of E. J. Zauft as president; C. E. Evans was elected first vice president; John Grandy, second vice president; Louis Ramstad, treasurer; J. R. Quigley, sergeant-at-arms, and Alexander Anderson, Clarence Nixon and Ivor Erickson, directors.

HUNTER'S PARK ASKS PLAYGROUND

Offer of Property Also Included in Letter to Council.

Hunter's Park wants a public playground.

At the council meeting yesterday afternoon City Clerk Borgen read a communication from Norton Mattocks, mayor of the Glen-Hunt-Wood commission, urging the city to buy block 7, Glen Avon, Third division, to be used as public playgrounds for the children in that end of the city. The letter also incloses an offer from Simon Clark to sell the property for $5,000, the stipulation being made that the grounds must not be used on Sunday and that the offer is open only until Jan. 1.

In his communication Mr. Mattocks points out the need of a recreational center and declares that the residents in that end of the city recently adopted a resolution urging the council to purchase suitable property for a playground. Financial assistance will be given, should the city decide to buy the property, he states.

The letter was referred to Mayor Prince.

WILL OBSERVE BABY WEEK HERE

Prevention of Disease Rather Than Cure, Purpose of Movement.

March 4-11 has been proclaimed Baby Week throughout the United States by the children's bureau of the Federal department of labor.

It is desired that it be given over to popular expression of the new scientific attitude of prevention rather than cure as applied to the infant.

Duluth is expected to observe it. Miss Elizabeth Heikkila, Scottish Rite Consistory nurse, will today confer with T. W. Hugo, director of the infant welfare work as conducted by the Duluth Masons, with reference to observing the week here in an appropriate manner.

The Federal department has prepared special bulletins giving practical suggestions for cities which propose to observe Baby Week.

Fine Healthy Child Convincing Evidence

Simple Inexpensive Remedy Checks Early Tendency to Constipation.

About the first thing impressed on the young mother is the necessity for regularity in her baby, which brings up the question of the most desirable laxative for children's use.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, Philpot, Ky., says she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for the past year and that there is no medicine in the world like it. She writes, "My little son, William, Jr., just loved it because it is so pleasant to take, and everybody talks about his being such a fine healthy boy."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from any opiate or narcotic drug, and is the standard remedy for constipation in thousands of homes throughout the land. Drug stores everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle. Get a bottle of this excellent remedy, and have it in the house. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Crazy Man in Fargo Looks and Acts Like Movie Droll.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twirling a little bamboo cane and equipped with the regulation derby hat, big shoes and baggy trousers and walking with that loose-jointed semi-locomotor ataxia gait that has been the delight of the movie fans, a man claiming to be Charlie Chaplin was picked up on the streets here by deputy sheriffs and is now in the county jail.

He claims to be Charlie Chaplin and has held to the statement, although the officers have tried to induce him to believe otherwise.

He is demented but would make a good substitute for Chaplin although he is somewhat larger of stature. He has dark hair and wears a dark moustache, his hair being of the proper kink. His makeup is also perfect while he has every one of the Chaplin motions and actions down to perfection and would make a fair substitute for the noted movie droll.

The case is pathetic, as there is not the least clew as to who the man is.

IMPROVEMENT AT SAWMILL

Alger-Smith Lumber Company Spends $10,000 at Rice's Point Plant.

Operations Expected to Begin About Jan. 1; 300 Men Needed.

Improvements that will cost the company close to $10,000, and which have been under way for the last three months at the Rice's point Alger-Smith sawmill, will be completed before the last of next week. It is expected that the mill will open for operations shortly after Jan. 1.

The improvements are the most extensive that the company has made at the big plant in recent years. An entire new foundation has been put in, and the machinery given a complete overhauling. The piling, which has been the support of the mill, has been sawed off at the water's edge and new supports put under the mill.

An increasing market for lumber has resulted in creating a large amount of work in Northern Minnesota for the lumber companies. The Alger-Smith company has thirteen camps in full operation, giving employment to nearly 2,500 men in the woods. These camps will cut enough timber to guarantee the full operation of both of the company's sawmills in the western end of the city during the whole of next season.

It is expected that the hauling of logs to the Rice's point sawmill will begin before the last of this month. Whether or not the sawmill will operate both day and night after it begins operations, is not yet known, but it is intimated that there will be employment for close to 300 men at the plant.

The handling of the logs at the mill during the winter will be facilitated by a hot pond into which the logs will be dumped from the train. From this the logs will be taken as required for cutting into the mill.

WILL COMPETE FOR CHECKER TITLE

Traction Employes Will Stage Tournament to Decide Championship.

The checker championship of the employes of the Duluth Street Railway company is to be decided within the next month at the club rooms of the carhouse. Entries to a tournament to begin within a short time, are now being listed, and it is expected that within a few days drawings will be made.

There are said to be a number of "sharks" of the checker board not only among the carmen but the employes at the shops and office. As yet it has not been decided whether each division will play a separate tournament and the champions of each meet in finals, or to list all of the players in one tournament.

In preparation for the contest the employes are "brushing up," on the game during their spare time. Checker boards are said to be in greater demand than the pool tables in the club rooms.

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILL ENTERTAIN

Local Soloists and Singing Societies Will Appear on Program.

The Swedish-American National league, composed of committees, representing twelve Swedish societies of Duluth, which had charge of the midsummer festival last summer, will entertain at a benefit program at Sloan's hall, Sunday evening. The proceeds from the affair will be turned over to the family of one of the members who has been confined to his home on account of illness for the last six months.

A musical program on which will appear some of the male singing societies of the city as well as several well known local soloists, is being arranged. It is expected that the program will be completed within the next day or two.

LODGE PLANS ELECTION.

Fredhem Members Will Also Arrange for Christmas Festival.

Fredhem lodge, No. 43, Independent Order of Svithoid, will hold its annual election at the Sloan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Plans will be completed for the third annual Christmas festival to be held by the society on Sunday evening Dec. 26.

The festival will be held at the Sloan hall. It will be in the nature of a Christmas celebration at which a large tree will play an important part. The program will include a banquet, addresses and musical numbers. Gust Hjerpe, president of the organization, announced last evening that he expected one of the grand officers of the lodge to be present during the ceremony.

West End Briefs.

Beta council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, entertained at a card party at the Samaritan hall last evening. The council will hold its election of officers next Monday evening.

Nomination of officers for Sons of Sweden lodge, No. 170, Vasa Order, will be held this evening at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Mrs. John Germoreth and Mrs. S. H. Eckman will be hostesses at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street.

The Men's Welfare League of the Swedish Mission church will meet in the church this evening.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will meet in the church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The ladies aid society will hold a business meeting at 4 o'clock.

Applying This Paste Actually Removes Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Merely applying an inexpensive paste to a hairy surface, say beauty specialists, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered delatone; after about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

CHRISTMAS IN BIG WOODS

At Least One Lumber Company Will Serve Turkey Dinner.

Efforts to Promote New Spirit of Good Fellowship in Camps.

The Christmas spirit this year will penetrate places where it has seldom been evidenced.

A lumber company, and it's a real company and not a fictitious one, will serve a turkey dinner on Christmas day to all the woodsmen in its camps. To be specific the turk will be the piece de resistance on the table of every one of the seven camps of the J. S. Stearns Lumber company on Christmas day.

"There is gloom and grief enough in the big woods for the lumberjack if he is well taken care of," said a representative of that company today, "and the Stearns company is doing everything it can to create a new atmosphere in its camps, and to promote a spirit of good fellowship between the men and their employers as well as among the men themselves. It's often the best way to get good help and to keep the men satisfied.

"The company is planning on shipping several loads of turkeys of the best quality and have them roasted to a brown turn in the camp ovens. In addition there will be trimmings that will make the woods savory with delightful odors."

The company would like to set up Christmas trees in the camps—the pine forests offer such an abundance of material—but as many of the men are strangers in a strange land, it is doubtful if Santa Claus would find the trees, said the official. However, the company will do its best by setting a bountiful repast on Christmas day and promoting the spirit of good fellowship. In some other camps it is feared that pork and the ordinary "chuck" will be served and the men will work the day through.

Many laborers coming into Duluth now are not shipping to the woods as they want to be in the city over the holidays. Men are still coming from the Dakota harvest fields, said an employment agent today.

"In all my experience in employment work," said an agent today, "I never saw men returning to the city with so much money. It looks as if almost every laborer would have a Merry Christmas this year."

MARINE

STORM WARNINGS HAVE BEEN HOISTED

Stiff Gale From the Northwest Predicted By the Weather Man.

It may be that the break in the weather has come; and, again, maybe it has not. But storm warnings were put up at 9 o'clock this morning for a northwest gale, and as the weather bureau does not order up warnings except when wind of at least forty miles an hour is due, the gale is a thing to be avoided. Mr. Richardson, weather forecaster, says that the wind will increase from the southwest at first and will then swing into the northwest. Snow flurries outside may be expected also.

At this time of year, it is pointed out, a gale is alwayse likely to prove a serious one, although the indications are not for anything extraordinary; but it is likely that mariners will take heed of the warning and literally "look out for squalls."

SEASON CLOSED AT ASHLAND BY SPAULDING

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Jesse Spaulding with 2,000 tons of pig iron cleared from Ashland yesterday afternoon for Buffalo, N. Y. The Spaulding arrived here Sunday morning and experienced some difficulty plowing its way through the ice. Monday afternoon with the aid of a tug the steamer was able to get out into the lake. This is the last boat to leave this fall and really puts the damper on navigation here for this season.

The Spaulding was loaded in good time, which was absolutely necessary for its counts so much with vessels at this time of the year especially where the cold weather keeps freezing the ice just a little thicker.

PACKAGE FREIGHT LINE ENDS SEASON

The Mutual Transit company will send its last boat down the lakes tomorrow, carrying grain; but the Western Transit and the Anchor line will not be through for a few days, probably not until Dec. 12, the final marine insurance limit date. The Mutual, the first package freight line to finish, will end its season with the Dec. 8 insurance limit.

Two of the Western boats are on the way here to carry grain, and two more of them are on the way to Fort William for the same purpose. The Utica of the Anchor line arrived this morning.

New Ice Crusher on Trial Trip.

Manitowoc, Wis., Dec. 7.—The new steel ice-crushing steamship Nevada, began a trial trip to Chicago yesterday. The big freighter will be used to break a way for ore and grain boats caught in the ice at the Sault, St. Clair, Detroit and Maumee rivers. The Nevada cost $300,000, and is said to be the most powerful ice crusher on the lakes.

Wind and Weather on Lakes.

The following were wind and weather conditions on the Great Lakes at 7 o'clock this morning, as reported by the weather bureau:

If Troubled With Bad Cough Try Parmint Syrup and Mustard Foot Bath

Says These Old-Fashioned Remedies Will Stop Worst Cough.

We are told the old-time remedies are best and invariably contain less harmful yet better medicine than those that are commonly used today. This being so, undoubtedly this old-fashioned recipe will be welcomed by many as there seems to be a regular epidemic of coughs at the present time. Secure from your druggist one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength) take this home and add to it a quarter pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful 4 times a day. In addition take for three nights in succession a hot foot bath to which has been added two tablespoonfuls of mustard.

Parmint is soothing to the throat, has a slight tonic action and should stop even the worst cough when used in conjunction with the mustard foot bath. It is also pleasant to take, costs little and makes an ideal remedy for the home. This should be made up and kept in every household during the winter months. There is nothing better.—Advertisement.

EQUITY DELEGATES ARE GIVEN WELCOME

Governor Hammond and Mayor Powers Greet St. Paul Gathering.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—With large delegations of farmers from all the Central Northwest states present, the second annual convention of the Equity Co-operative Exchange grain growers began here today and will continue through Thursday. Several special trains, including two from Minot and one from Valley City, N. D., brought hundreds of delegates late yesterday and every incoming train today added to the attendance.

The morning session was given over to the welcoming of the visitors. Governor W. S. Hammond, for the state, and Mayor Winn Powers, for the city, extending cordial welcomes in brief addresses. On behalf of the Equity Exchange members, A. M. Baker of Fargo, N. D., editor of the organization's official organ, replied to the governor and Arthur Freir of Berlin, N. D., thanked Mayor Powers for the treatment accorded by the city.

The election of a permanent chairman and appointment of a resolutions committee was the principal business set for the afternoon session. Addresses also are to be made by President J. M. Anderson, founder of the Equity Co-operative Exchange; A. D. Stillman, Kalispell, Mont., whose topic is to be "Long and Short Time Farm Loans," and J. E. Kelley of Pierre, S. D. James Manahan, a former congressman of St. Paul, will be the principal speaker tonight.

IT ISN'T HOW BIG YOU ARE---IT'S "CAN YOU FIGHT?"

Big John, Tarnished With the Softness of Luxury, Was Rocked to Sleep By Grimy Little Pete, Tarred With the Grime of Poverty --Earl Caddock a Real Wrestler.

BY BRUCE.

WE'LL call the party of the first part John. He was college made and fraternity finished. He was large with shoulders that impressed. Early the silver spoon was placed in the toothless mouth of John. The only thing he found hard in life, was to amuse himself.

Some one convinced John he was a great fighter—the some one was himself. He practised before a full length mirror. He punched the bag and shadow boxed, often remarking to himself that he would send the ordinary mortal to the hospital, should he allow his angry passions to get the better of him.

John would inflate his chest and stand in admiring awe at the picture he saw in the full length mirror. Then John would tense his back muscles, and, looking over his right shoulder would ardently admire his own back.

In the private opinion of John, John was a bear, a he curly wolf that would devour the ordinary weak lamb, should the occasion arise.

There was the case of little Pete. He was born in a tenement. The parents of little Pete never beheld such a thing as a silver spoon, and as for placing one in the drooling mouth of little Pete, in the figurative sense, understand, the very idea was preposterous.

At the tender age of five little Pete enlisted in the huge human army that daily marches forth to conquer the opposition formed by starvation. He sold papers on the streets. On his first day out he came crying home, the victim of the corner newsboy trust.

Little Pete's licking received scant notice at home. There were other little ones by this time, and besides Pete's brothers had been treated in the same way in previous years.

When Pete came home without any pennies he was extremely liable to get a licking—and when he went forth to sell them and encroached on any boy's territory, he was quite sure to get a licking.

Before he reached the age of six years little Pete had learned one lesson about the complex and intangible institution called life: he had made up his mind that you had to lick to keep from getting licked.

Pete grew from a scrawny, skinny little human being into a scrawny, skinny larger human being. His shoulders were narrow, his face sallow, but Pete could lick any human within the boundary of six tough blocks, and he always hit first—one of the first principles of preparedness.

So along came the collegian John along a certain street one murky day, and pushed, quite accidentally, to be sure, little Pete off the sidewalk. In his stormy life Pete had learned to take offense quickly and easily.

Pete verbally assailed big John, referring to his pink complexion with adjectives that coined close to the curb, cast aspersions not to say direct accusations upon his ancestors, and referred to the fact that John was a big stiff and no good to nobody.

John threw out his massive chest and "here, my ladded" little Pete pompously. But the venom of Pete's tongue increased far more rapidly than John's dignity.

In the end they strolled back into the depths of the alley to settle the quickly-born feud in the way men have settled feuds since the day Cain swung one at Abel—by force of might. Big John thought of the mighty way he struck out at the reflection in the mirror; he planned his mode of attack on that method.

Little Pete, small, lean of flank, with the leanness of the proletarian, but he had learned in a score of wicked alley fights how to put the whole weight of that lean body behind each blow, and he had learned to hit twice while the novice was giving the general subject of hitting mere thought.

Fighting your reflection in the mirror is a highly amusing form of indoor sport, but you don't progress, nor do you learn to rip them in with everything on behind.

John turned, unconsciously threw out his chest and quite unconsciously struck an impressive fighting pose. Just then something struck John. He was blinded and then bang! something else hit him.

Large John was non-plussed in addition to being badly stung. This was anything like fighting your own reflection. Like a wise rat, little Pete circled his large opponent, hanging home wicked blows.

A right cross, swung with his body throwing every sinew into the blow, dropped big John. Then bang! It wasn't a fist, it was a foot, right on the jaw.

Later in the afternoon big John half crawled, half walked out of the alley. Home, he decided, was the best place. John sneaked in the back way and beat it to his home made gymnasium.

Through bloodshot and battered eyes he viewed the apparatus therein: he swept the room in melancholy stare.

Then John viewed himself in the full length of the mirror—the massive shoulders, the manly chest—and the black eyes and bruised and bloody countenance.

"Oh hell!" said John.

Stecher and Caddock.

THE other evening down in old Iowa Earl Caddock took two straight falls from the huge Marian Plestina of Chicago in a little over half an hour. Like the marvelous Joe Stecher, truly the athletic wonder of the age, this Caddock is one of the best wrestlers of the present day, and one of the youngsters who is bringing the game back.

Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke came up at the same time and made the middleweight ranks of pugilism fairly hum with their sensational activities. Joe Stecher is the most sensational wrestling figure of the past decade, and here is young Earl Caddock already rated as one of the best heavyweights of the day.

BULGARIAN WRESTLER IS COMING TO UNITED STATES

YUSSIFF MAHMOUT.

MAHMOUT IS COMING OVER

Famous Grappler Expected Here in Three Weeks; May Meet Stecher.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Two weeks, possibly three, and Yussiff Mahmout will be in our midst. This was the news Emil Klank brought today when he displayed a letter from a Paris bank showing that the Turk had received and receipted for a check of $700 sent to him several weeks ago by Klank. Mahmout received the money on Oct. 25. Along with the documents from the bank came a letter from the Turk in which he says he received the money and that he and his family will leave as soon as his passport is arranged. According to Mahmout, there will be no difficulty in securing the passport.

Acid Test for Stecher.

The coming of Mahmout, who was reported killed on several occasions, will be welcomed by the wrestling fans of this country, particularly since there doesn't appear to be a suitable opponent for the Nebraska wrestling phenom, Joe Stecher. If the Turk is half as good as he was when he wrestled here last—and both Klank and Jimmy Eason declare he is far better—his coming should prove the acid test for the farmer-wrestler.

Stecher has marched triumphantly through the field of top-notch wrestlers and without the slightest check on his work. He downed Cutler, Martinson, Americus, Hussane, Westegaard, Pat Connolly, Jim Esson, Jack Leon, Marion Plestina, Polly Grimm and Adolph Ernst.

Gotch Only Real Foe.

Champion Frank Gotch now is the only man who stands between him and the championship, and men who have studied the mat game thoroughly are of the firm belief that Gotch too will fall victim to his deadly scissors hold should they meet.

But Mahmout—that's the big question. The Turk was good—decidedly so. Like Stecher, his great hold was the scissors on the body. Mahmout's speed, science, cleverness and trickery may be too much for this farmer boy, and, again, all that the Turk has may be naught when Stecher clamps that 2,400 pounds of leg pressure—the scissors on the body—which Joe is said to possess on the body. No wrestler who has faced Stecher thus far has been able to get behind him and work for any length of time. Will Mahmout be able to accomplish what all others have failed to do?

NEW BOWLING RECORDS SET

Emeralds Shatter Grand League Team Marks By Great Rolling.

Last evening in the Grand Bowling league games the Emeralds broke the league record for a three-game count, rolling up 2,940 pins against the old record of 2,929 pins. Not satisfied with shattering the three-game mark, the Emeralds also put the one-game team record by the boards, piling up a mark of 1,028 to the former mark of 1,021.

The Emeralds took two out of three games from the Lackies and exhibited great form in all the games of the evening.

BOXING BOSSES HOLD MEETINGS

Commissions of Wisconsin and New York Take Important Action.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 7.—At a meeting of the state athletic commission yesterday licenses were granted to the Kenosha Athletic association, to the Milwaukee Athletic club and to the Hartford Athletic association, which held its first show Monday night. The commission also puts its approval on the application of the Marshfield A. C.

Eddie Harris and Battling Gresch were each suspended for sixty days; Gresch for quitting in a bout here recently with Mike Hirsch and Eddie Harris for hitting in the breakaways at the same show.

The commission announced that in the future clubs which allow youngsters under 18 to box will have their licenses canceled.

The boxers were not the only sufferers, as the commission revoked the license of the Vernon A. C. of Marinette. This club was charged with having filed an irregular statement on the amount of receipts taken in at a show held Sept. 10.

Holding Back Cash.

New York, Dec. 7.—The reorganized state athletic commission at its first regular meeting here yesterday took action to investigate the reports that various boxing clubs had deprived the state of many thousands of dollars through erroneous returns of receipts.

The suspension of Sandy Ferguson, a heavyweight boxer, recently set for life, was reduced to six months by the commission yesterday.

MASONIC TEAMS TO CLASH THIS MONTH.

The December schedule of the Masonic Indoor Baseball league is out. On Dec. 15 the Ionic lodge team will meet Trinity. On Dec. 17 Scottish Rite will take on the Chapter team, and on Dec. 29 the Shrine team will take on Trinity.

ABOLISHING BASEBALL, BIG COLLEGE QUESTION

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 7.—The University of Illinois senate last night voted no on the resolution to abolish college baseball. The veto sends the subject back to the conference for reconsideration.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7.—The University of Wisconsin faculty failed to pass on the question of abolishing baseball at the school yesterday. It is believed that the matter will come up next week.

Nicholson to Missouri U.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 7.—John P. Nicholson, former captain of the track team of the University of Missouri, yesterday signed a contract to be director of athletics at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. He will have charge of all athletics except football. Last year Nicholson was coach at Depauw university.

GIBBONS CALLED A HAS-BEEN BY DAN M'KETRICK

Manager of Young Ahearn Declares Mike Has Lost His Ring Ambition and Has Won a Lot of Bouts By Picking "Suckers"--Prediction Is Made That Ahearn Will Beat St. Paul Phantom.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—Even though he was scarcely able to hold his head up, owing to his weakened condition, Dan McKetrick, manager of Young Ahearn who will fight Mike Gibbons Friday night, was willing to air his views on the coming battle.

If McKetrick knows what he is talking about, and he makes every possible effort to make his auditors believe that he does, there's no chance for Mike Gibbons in his fight with Young Ahearn, whom he manages, when the two get together in the ring Friday night.

Here's the way McKetrick raved on: "Who has Mike Gibbons ever fought?" he asked at the start and, before his interviewer could get a chance to get into the swing of the conversation he continued, "All I have heard since I got here is Mike Gibbons. People here know so little about Mike that they would really make him a favorite over Jess Willard.

"In the first place," he went on, "who has Gibbons ever licked? In the second place, what do they know about him here? We, in the East know more of Gibbons than they do here in his home town, for the very good reason that he made his reputation there and made all his good fights there—also all his bad ones.

"You saw him fight Eddie McGoorty at Hudson, but did the fans realize and appreciate the fact that McGoorty was dead at the weight, a little percentage Mike always looks for?

"No," he answered to his own question, and then sped on with his jibbering. "As for Clabby, well, he's been 'in' for a year."

Here he was interrupted long enough for his interviewer to ask, "what about Bob Moha?"

"Why resurrect the dead?" he retorted, "still, that's part of Mike's business, as he showed when he went into the pugilistic graveyard for Packey McFarland and when he was beaten by McFarland, he raised the cry that 147 pounds killed him, but I know the weight did not affect him, for only two months before he fought Bartfield at 150 pounds and wasn't weak at that weight until the tenth round when he was on the floor."

Here the interviewer butted in to inform McKetrick that it was news in these parts that Mike had been floored by the soldier, but McKetrick insisted that it is true.

Picks Ahearn to Win.

"Despite Bartfield's bad showing with O'Dowd, I still maintain he beat Gibbons. I also beat Gibbons with Jack Denning, who was given the decision by all the papers. Neither of this pair is in a class with Ahearn, so my prediction is"—here, Daniel threw out his little chest and came out with this prognostication — "that Ahearn will stop the Peerless One, providing he will stand up and give the fans a fight instead of rubbing his nose and feinting, which spectacular work he always indulges in when he gets a tough proposition."

Then the little talkative one began to outline the method Ahearn is to use to beat Mike. "Mike Gibbons cannot block a left hand jab and I will venture to say that before the third round is over Mike will think the fans in the gallery are hurling boxing gloves at him."

"Mike is going back every day," he volunteered. "He has $100,000 and no ambition. When he had $30 and plenty of ambition he was a great fighter. Now he's a business man and prefers to box 'suckers.' He would not have met Ahearn whom he dodged for a year, if Promoter Dow hadn't told him he must meet Ahearn or he would not get a chance to show here."

SKATING CARNIVAL IS PLANNED BY CURLERS

Plans Considered for Holding Big Event in Curling Rink Along With Winter Style Show; Herald Event Will Be Drawn This Week.

Now that skating is all the rage over the length and breadth of the country, plans are being made for the holding of a big skating carnival in the Duluth Curling club rink, shortly after the opening of the season.

In connection with the skating carnival, which will be the biggest winter sport feature tried out here in some seasons, there promises to be a winter style show, where the habiliments of the hoary season will be displayed along with skates, skis, sleds and all the sporting impedimenta that travels in furry-mittened clasp along the path with winter.

Members of the games committee of the Duluth Curling club are working on the plans for the carnival. It is proposed to have all the skaters gayly garbed and make of the affair a real carnival, something on the order of those given in the various cities where ice palaces have been the features of winter gayety.

A number of Duluth store managers have already stated that they would gladly make a display of their goods at the style show.

Herald Draw Comes First.

It was announced yesterday that the draw for play in The Herald curling event will be made during the present week. The Herald trophy will be the first event contested in the official curling program of the season.

Neil Buckley of West Duluth is the person who donated the Pinzon Cigar trophy, which will be played for this season.

It was announced today that rinks were being registered so rapidly that skips of rinks who desire to be drawn in the early events of the season had better send in their names without delay.

While the present brand of fig-leaf weather will hardly permit of the making of curling or skating ice, nevertheless all preparations for the opening of the season are going merrily on. The failure to send in the names of rinks will not hold up the draw, but it may keep some rinks out of the opening event.

The approaching curling season bears the auguries of being about the most promising in years. The members of the games committee are toiling industriously and it is asked that every indivdual lend his assistance to make the season a banner one in the history of the curling club.

CENTRAL TEAM IN THE MAKING

Prospects for Strong Quint to Represent School Are Good.

Coach Blake's Schedule Includes Six Good Northwestern Games.

As soon as the interclass basket ball series at Central high school is over, work on the representative school quint will begin. The round robin tournament enabled Coach Blake, who is new at the local institution this year, to get a line on his material, while the interclass series is bringing out the most promising players.

Despite the fact that four of last year's regulars have been lost by graduation, prospects of a strong team are fairly encouraging. Capt. O'Brien, who has been laid up for some time with an old football injury, is expected to be able to get into practice next week. Shaw, last year's speedy sub forward, has practically recovered from a broken collar bone, which he sustained in football practice and he will be out for a regular forward berth. "Issy" Karon, regular forward last year, is playing great ball again this year and will be out for the big team again, although he may be shifted to guard. "Fuzzy" Farah, sub guard last year, is out again for his old position. Mandy Rosenberg, speedy captain of the sophomore aggregation and a star of last year's gym class team, is expected to make a strong bid for a place on the big team this year. In addition to these men there are a large number of other exceptionally good men who will undoubtedly make strong bids for regular berths.

A temporary schedule has been arranged by Coach Blake. Six strong Northwestern schools have already been dated up, although some of the dates are only tentative and may be changed later.

The schedule, as arranged by Coach Blake, is as follows:

Duluth vs. Nelson-Dewey at Superior, Jan. 7.
Duluth Central vs. Denfeld, Jan. 14.
Duluth Central vs. Virginia at Duluth, Jan. 21.
Duluth Central vs. Cathedral at Central, Feb. 4.
Duluth Central vs. Superior Central at Superior, Feb. 11.
Duluth Central vs. Hibbing at Hibbing, Feb. 18.
Duluth Central vs. Virginia, at Virginia, Feb. 25.
Duluth Central vs. Cathedral at Cathedral, March 3.
Duluth Central vs. Hibbing at Duluth, March 10.
Duluth Central vs. Superior Central at Duluth, March 17.

NEBRASKA MAY PLAY CORNELL

Cornhuskers After Two Football Games With Eastern Teams.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 7—Guy F. Reed, manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska, announced yesterday the possibility of football games next season with at least one and perhaps two Eastern universities.

Mr. Reed said negotiations were going on with Cornell in the hope of securing a two-year agreement, the plan being, if successful, to play the 1916 game at Cornell, the year following at Lincoln. Mr. Reed said the year just closing had been the most successful from an athletic standpoint in the history of the Nebraska institution.

HOCKEY TICKETS ARE PLACED ON SALE

Tickets for the amateur league hockey games will be placed on sale today at the Northern National, American Exchange National bank, the Northern and Kelley Hardware company stores. All those desiring to assist the league are requested to buy their tickets at an early date.

SENIORS TAKE FIRST GAME

Central Freshmen Roll Up Good Score, Though Unable to Win.

Sophomores Defeat Juniors in Fast Contest; Score 24 to 15.

The first games in the Central high school interclass basket ball tournament were played yesterday afternoon before a large crowd at the school gymnasium. The seniors defeated the freshmen by a score of 27 to 16, while the sophomores disposed of the juniors by the score of 24 to 15.

As was expected the seniors had little trouble in winning over the inexperienced freshman team. The fourth year quint, however, appeared to be way off form and were given a bad scare by the lowly "freshies" in the first half. The first year aggregation held the lead for some time in the first half, although they were soon outdistanced when their older opponents struck their stride. Not very well acquainted with the new rules, the players fouled frequently, but the playing as a whole was fast and interesting. The first half concluded with the seniors leading by a 16-to-8 score, the final count being 27 to 16. Gogins and Smith showed up especially well for the seniors while Randall did unusually good work for the fresh five.

Second Clash Fast.

The second affair betwen the sophomores and juniors was a hot contest, and although the crack second-year aggregation was generally expected to win rather easily they experienced considerable difficulty. The "sophs" encountered a stiff opposition although they were never in any real danger of losing the game. As in the first game fouling was frequent, but the playing was hard and snappy. The "sophs" were leading at the conclusion of the first half, 12 to 9. They scored another twelve points to the juniors six in the final period, sending the final count up to 24 to 15. The winnning sophomore quint played well together, all of the men doing especially good work. Capt. Rosenberg was the mainstay of the "sophs" while Fee did good work for the losing junior five.

It had been planned to play the deciding game of the round robin tournament, which has been in progress for the past week, just before the first interclass game. Because of the strain that would result on the players who were required to play in the class game immediately following, a coin was tossed and Karon's guess proved the luckiest.

Future Schedule.

Tomorrow the seniors will meet the sophomores and the juniors will clash with the freshmen. Wednesday the seniors and juniors will fight it out and the sophs and freshies will also meet. On Thursday the two highest teams will meet, and if there is still a tie following this the final game will be played off on Friday. The lineups and summaries of the games yesterday:

BROWN MUST SHOW GOODS

Chisholm Fighter Faces Real Test in Matty McCue.

BY BRUCE.

Ray Moore, the hardy bucko who made Jimmy Azine of this town take the count in the sixth round of their meeting before the Minneapolis Boxing club, may take on Abe Mantell of Winnipeg, as one of the preliminary bouts to the Pal Brown-Matty McCue clash of Dec. 17 at the Lyceum theater.

Officials of the Duluth Athletic club are today figuring on terms with the two bantams. Billy McGill of Racine, a corking good bantam, is another little scrapper who is under consideration.

John Dugan, a sporting man of Milwaukee, yesterday wrote a letter here to the effect that backers of Pal Brown had picked the wrong boy for Brown's comeback in the person of McCue.

"This kid was a sensation as a youngster," said Dugan, "and was counted upon as a strong contender for the lightweight title. Tom Jones thought so much of the boy that he signed him to a ten-year contract. When Wolgast was going good this kid used to stand toe to toe with the Dutchman and trade punches with him.

"McCue had Joe Mandot nearly out in the Racine bout. Then Jones hurried Matty into the ring against Rivers when the boy was not trained for a regular contest. Rivers beat the youngster, who then was but 19 years of age. The defeat at the hands of Rivers is the only black mark against McCue. The Racine boy will lick Pal Brown and lick a lot of others before next spring."

Stout Praises McCue.

"Silk Shirt" Harry Stout is another sporting luminary who shoulders a conversational musket and marches briskly to the front for the McCue youth.

"One of the toughest lightweights in the game," said Stout. "He is tough and can hit. He will come in close and give Brown all the rough stuff he wants. It should prove a great battle. Brown, in my opinion, will have to be the Brown of his very best days to

THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS BOOSTERS OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW.

JUDGE, I'VE SWITCHED FROM ORDINARY TOBACCO TO W-B--THE NEW CUT REAL TOBACCO CHEW. IT MEANS HALF THE SIZE CHEW, HALF THE NUMBER, HALF THE COST AND FULL TOBACCO SATISFACTION.
ME TOO, JUDGE. THE SALT BRINGS OUT THE RICH TOBACCO TASTE THAT SATISFIES.

MANY men seem surprised when they find out for themselves that W-B CUT Chewing—the Real Tobacco Chew, new cut, long shred—is really much better than ordinary tobacco; to find that a small chew satisfies; that they don't have to grind it; and that it lasts longer than the ordinary kind.

Get a pouch and give it a quality test.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste"

Made by WEYMAN-BRUTON COMPANY, 50 Union Square, New York City hold this tough and tearing youngster."

In the soggy interim, as they say, the issue is passed to one Pal Brown of Chisholm, Minn.

Brown has declared that Joe Mandot was an extremely fortunate youth to beat him. "My eyes beat me," is the plaint of Brown. " My eyes are right now, and I feel better than ever before in all my life," says Brown. That's fair enough. Now the fans who have shouted Brown, who have waved the Brown banner enthusiastically, not to say frantically upon numerous occasions, will have the long-awaited opportunity of determining whether the range battler is there with the 18-karat pugilistic goods.

It's up to Brown, all right, and the way he is tearing into the training grind leaves not a vestige of doubt but that the Chisholm ring veteran realizes full well that he has got to win or step out of the procession.

Also, in the meantime, little Matty McCue, knowing that a victory over Brown will put him up in the big league, has already started laboring in his own gymnasium down in Racine, determined to make Brown's downfall the stepping stone to his big league debut among the lightweights.

ILLINI MAY WITHDRAW

Abolishing Summer Baseball May Drive School From Conference.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 7.—Illinois faculty and student leaders yesterday denounced the action of the Western conference board in abolishing baseball, traditionally a favorite sport at Illinois. The Illini will go to the mat to retain baseball, and a break from the Big Nine is even a possibility should the various faculties indorse the decree.

The Illini hold that the universities as individuals may abolish baseball, but that it is going too far to legislate the sport out of existence.

"To abolish baseball will not solve the problem," said Director George Huff. "The conference board evidently fails to recognize the fact that all the trouble arises from football men playing ball for money in the summer. This caused the Pickering and Solon cases.

"Even if baseball is abolished, there will be players who engage in other branches of athletics and are then more likely than ever to go out in the summer and compete for cash, as they will have no opportunity to play ball in their universities.

"Minnesota has abolished conference baseball, and in many other Big Nine institutions baseball is a weak sport. It is poorly supported and its loss will not be a blow. At Illinois, however, it has been strong and well supported."

Among students it was pointed out that even if the individual schools of the conference support the board and a majority abolish baseball, Illinois can easily fill up a schedule with Eastern nines if necessary.

It is believed President James and the university faculty will make a strong protest against the radical step.

"SURE, I'LL COME UP LATER," SAYS MIKE.

Mike Gibbons has a great matchmaking system, or rather the Gibbons brothers have. Mike tells a matchmaker to use Tommy on his card, adding: "If Tommy draws a good house, why then you can count on me for your next bout."

Sometimes we wonder if Mike is getting a percentage of Tommy's end.

Mike has told local boxing officials that if they will use Tommy first then he will come up later.

WILLIAMS DRAWS; ERTLE IS WINNER

Two Fights in Bantam Division; St. Paul Boy's Performance Decisive.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 7. — Kid Williams of Baltimore, world's bantamweight champion, and Frankie Burns of Jersey City fought twenty rounds to a draw in their battle for the title here last night. The fight was fast and furious throughout. Referee Ed Smith decided honors were even. Each fighter weighed 118 pounds, ringside.

Both put up a game battle. Burns forced the first half of the bout and landed hard swings and swift jabs almost at will up to the ninth round, when he seemed to tire, and allowed Williams to become the aggressor. Burns had the advantage in reach and height, but in the fourteenth round the champion started a flying jab for Burns' head and landed frequently.

In the eighth Williams rushed Burns to the ropes, but the challenger drove him back with left and right swings to face, and body, and Williams dropped to his knees. Later in the same round Burns rushed the champion around the ring, landing at will to the face and chest.

From that round on to the finish, with the exception of the seventeenth round, Williams appeared to have the better of the fighting. The champion seemed stronger and fresher when the final gong sounded, and the referee declared it a draw.

Burns seemed to exercise better ring generalship and boxed cleverly. But Williams was strong on the infighting, landing frequent uppercuts and pounding Burns' ribs until his body was red. Williams won first blood in the thirteenth. The challenger seemed to have the better of the first six rounds, the eighth and seventeenth, the tenth, eleventh, sixteenth and nineteenth, were considered even and the champion was favorite for the rest. Williams was a 7-to 5 favorite in the betting.

Easy For Ertle.

Philadelphia, Dec. 7. — Johnny Ertle of St. Paul claimant of the bantamweight championship, made short work of Young Diggins in what was to have been a six-round boxing bout here last night. The contest lasted only forty-five seconds, half of which was spent on the mat by Diggins who was knocked down three times.

Ertle landed a right-hand blow on his opponent's jaw and floored him shortly after the signal from the referee had started the bout, and as quickly as the local boy arose, he was floored again. Ertle weighed in at 111½ and Diggins at 115 pounds.

RUNNING FAIRLY EVEN.

Not Much Difference in Team Records for Six-Day Grind.

New York, Dec. 7.—At midnight when the riders had completed twenty-four hours on the track, all of the seventeen teams in the six-day bicycle race were still in the running. Thirteen of them were bunched in the lead, having covered 535 miles, 9 laps, exactly two miles behind the record made by Fogler and Hill last year. Sullivan and Anderson were one lap behind the leaders, Suter and Madonna had covered 535 miles, 7 laps, while Kopsky and Wohlrab as well as Riddie, Russe and Vanderstuyft had covered 535 miles, 6 laps.

At 2 o'clock, the twenty-sixth hour, the thirteen teams were tied at 576 miles, 3 laps. Carman was leading the field. The record is 577 miles, 9 laps, made by Clark and Root in 1914.

SYRACUSE CLOSES WESTERN INVASION

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7.—The heavy Syracuse eleven easily defeated their lighter opponents, Occidental college, here yesterday in the final football game of the season for the two teams. The score was 35 to 0.

Only once during the entire game was the Syracuse goal in danger. Then the Syracuse line braced and held and punted the ball out of danger. A 90-yard run by Slater of Syracuse in the last quarter was the feature of the game.

Capt. McClung of the Occidental team suffered a severe fracture of the right leg near the ankle at the beginning of the third quarter when he was thrown by Slater.

Re-Elected Skating President.

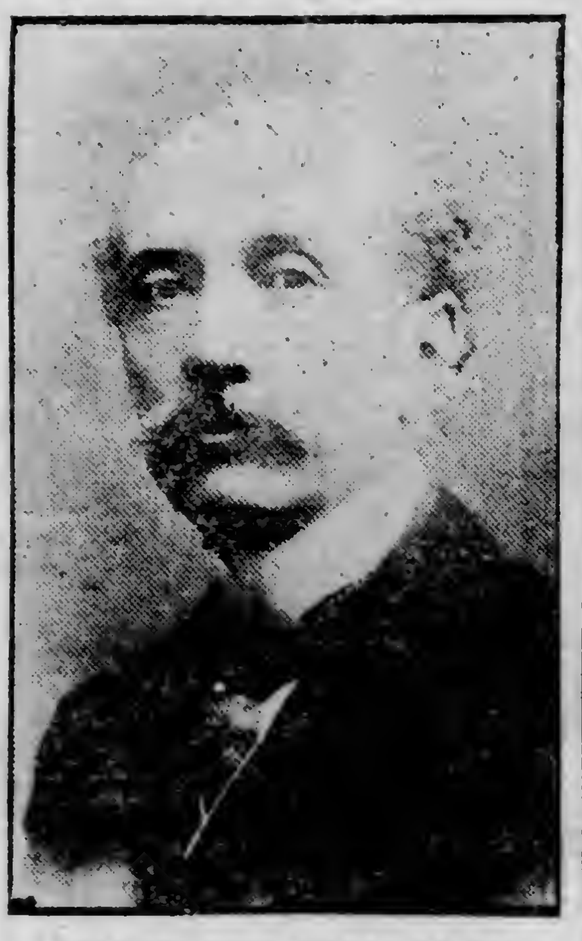
Chicago, Dec. 7.—Julian T. Fizgerald was re-elected president of the Western Skating association at its annual meeting here last night.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS AGAIN

Senor Dato and His Ministry Peeved By Action of Leaders of Opposition.

Madrid, via London, Dec. 7.—The cabinet of Eduardo Dato resigned yesterday owing to the leaders of the opposition serving notice of a proposed motion to give economic questions in parliament priority over certain military measures which were declared to be unnecessary.

Count Romanones, former premier, supported the motion, which Premier Dato declined to accept and left the chamber of deputies to present his resignation and that of the ministry to King Alfonso.



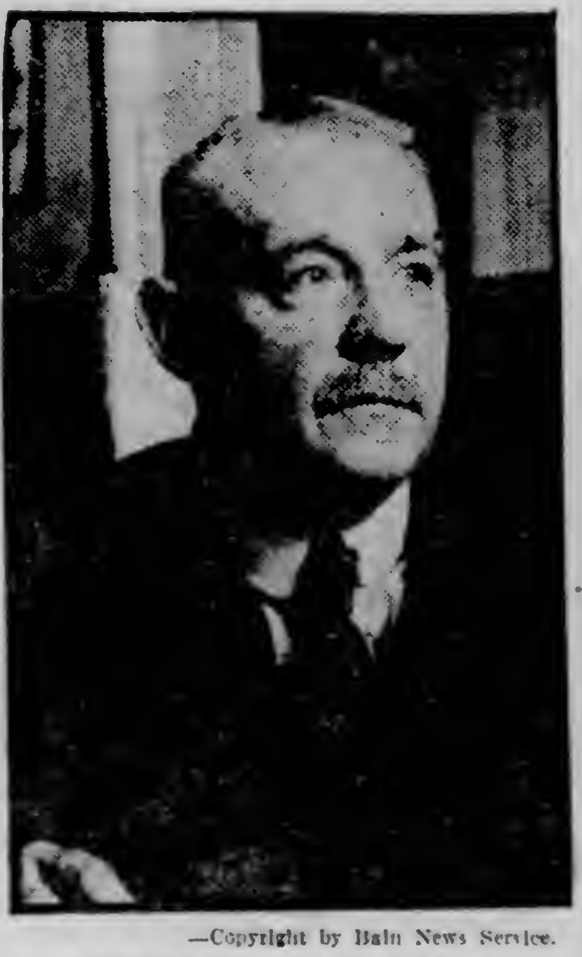
SENOR EDUARDO DATO.

Senor Dato's cabinet resigned June 22, last, owing to the failure of a loan of $150,000,000 of which only one-sixteenth was subscribed. Senor Dato considered the failure of the loan as equivalent to a vote of lack of confidence. At the request of King Alfonso, however, the cabinet remained in power. Senor Dato has been at its head since 1913.

M'CALL REMOVED BY N. Y. GOVERNOR

Whitman Sustains Part of Charges Brought Against Commissioner.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Edward E. McCall of New York, a former justice of the supreme court, and once successful candidate for mayor of New York, was last night removed from office as chairman of the downstate public service commission by Governor Whitman, who sustained in part the charges preferred against the commissioner by the Thompson investigating committee of the legislature. The governor's decision was that McCall, in violation of the public service commission law, owned stock of a corporation under the supervision of his commission. Other charges, alleging neglect of duty and inefficiency, were dismissed.



—Copyright by Bain News Service.

EDWARD E. McCALL.

The governor said he would designate Commissioner William Hayward of New York as the temporary chairman, and probably would appoint a commissioner to fill McCall's place. McCall had two more years to serve.

McCall was appointed Feb. 3, 1913, by Governor Sulzer. He had the indorsement of Charles F. Murphy, and it was said this was the last appointment made at Murphy's request before the break between Sulzer and the Tammany leader.

KILLS ANTLERED DOE.

Freak Reported By Hunter in Sawyer County, Wis.

Counderay, Wis., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chris Scholl, a farmer, residing near Round lake, Sawyer county, shot a large 250-pound deer which had a full set of antlers, but the animal proved to be a female deer. Such a case never was reported before.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

"Setting and Knitting"

FROM the title of this item you might imagine it is all about grandma and her habits, but such is not the case. It is about broken bones.

Everybody who has the misfortune to have a bone fractured knows, or thinks he knows, that two things are essential parts of the surgeon's treatment. First, the fracture must be "set," and then it must be held perfectly rigid until the ninth day, when by some mysterious force of Nature the two or more fragments suddenly seize hold of one another and commence to "knit," or grow together.

No newspaper account of an individual instance of fracture is considered complete without the conventional statement that "Dr. Blank was summoned and reduced the fracture."

As a matter of fact Dr. Blank usually requires anywhere from a few days to two weeks to "set" or reduce the fracture. For instance, in a case of fractured femur (thigh bone) or fractured hip, it is practically impossible to bring the broken ends in contact within a week or ten days, though every effort is put forth by the surgeon to do so. The only way in which such a fracture can be immediately reduced is by cutting down upon the broken bone and wiring or nailing the fragments together. This is a procedure that is being followed more and more frequently these days.

The reason a fractured femur resists "setting" so long is that the great muscles are in a state of continual contraction which cannot be forcibly overcome without the aid of an anesthetic. Steady, gradual pull on the leg, however, will finally coax the spasmodic muscles to release the fragments, and so, after a week or more, the broken ends are brought practically in contact.

Meanwhile the process of callous formation has gone forward from the very instant of the injury. First there is blood-clot; this slowly thickens, "organizes," as doctors say, becomes permeated by newly-formed blood vessels, which carry lime salts to the clot. So that, by the time the fracture is really "set," the callous is just beginning to develop soft cartilage, and then new bone.

There is no more "knitting" on the ninth or the tenth day than there is on the second or the thirtieth. And we might also say that the "setting" of a broken bone is usually a gradual process, too.

Splints are commonly supposed to hold broken bones in place. With comparatively few exceptions splints are employed only to support the soft tissues and keep the muscles at rest while the fragments are uniting. Some fractures are better treated without splints at all. The X-ray inspection of broken bones proves that this is true.

Questions and Answers.

Cook writes: I have a chronic varicose ulcer which has refused to heal for eight years. I have tried everything under the sun, but nothing does any good; in fact most salves irritate it. Now you say all varicose ulcers can be healed. How can I get mine healed?

Answer—By calling in a good, up-to-date doctor, one who has had hospital experience if possible, and placing yourself entirely under his control. "Salves" will never help you. Your case calls for surgical judgment, not guesswork. You probably require more or less general overhauling.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

MAKE OFFER FOR ARMORY

Shriners Will Pay City $50,000 for the Old Building.

City May Accept, Using the Money for City Hall Site.

Duluth Shriners have offered to buy the old armory and site from the city for $50,000.

At the council meeting yesterday afternoon John Jenswold, Jr., potentate of Aad temple; M. M. Gasser and H. L. Dresser, representing the Aad Temple Building association, appeared before the commissioners and filed their offer of $50,000, of which $12,000 will be in cash and the remainder payable in five years with interest at 5 per cent. They want immediate possession of the building, but will give the city permission to use the First street floor for storage purposes until May 1, without rent.

No action was taken by the commissioners yesterday, but it is believed that the proposition of the Shriners will be accepted. The money may be used in paying the county for the site of the new city hall now being held in trust for the city. This site will include the half block facing First street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues west, the proposed city hall to be erected in the center of the block.

Those in favor of selling the armory say that the city could purchase less valuable property on South First avenue east and erect a municipal garage, work shop and storehouse for about $10,000, making quite a saving to the city and giving the commission a structure suitable to the needs of the various city departments. It is also pointed out that the Shriners will remodel the old armory into an attractive lodge building.

Commissioner Farrell, works head, wants to use the old armory for a garage and storeroom, while Commissioner Merritt, head of the utilities division, declared that his department will pay $50,000 for the building at any time.

The commissioners object to the plan of the water and light department to buy or erect an expensive building, while they favor building a large municipal garage on a less expensive site that would accommodate all the departments.

Action by the commissioners will be taken within the next two weeks, as the Shriners are eager to obtain possession by the first of the year. They want to remodel the structure into a temple for the Shriners to be used by the patrol and band.

FINANCED BY VON RINTALEN

German Officer Furnished Money to Start Strikes in Munitions Plant.

Now Under Arrest By British and Confined in Tower of London.

New York, Dec. 7.—United States Attorney H. Snowden Marshall in a statement late yesterday afternoon declared he has information which convinces him that the organization known as Labor's National Peace council, was financed by Franz von Rintalen, now held in a British prison, through David Lamar, to stir up strikes in factories engaged in manufacturing munitions.

Mr. Marshall's statement followed the announcement that C. H. Kanode, printer of the council, and William F. Kramer of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, and an official of the council, had been subpoenaed to come to this city from Chicago to testify before the grand jury in an investigation of the organization.

A statement of the United States attorney follows:

"In view of the publicity given to the story concerning Labor's National Peace council, I think I will state that I have, and for some time have had information that convinces me that the society was financed by means supplied by Lieut. Franz von Rintalen through David Lamar. Part of the activities of the organization consisted in stirring up strikes at various plants which were engaged in munition manufacture. I do not, at present, wish to mention the location of any of the plants where these strikes were instigated.

Considerable Opposition.

"In each case where a strike was purchased, there was considerable opposition to the strikes among portions of the labor element which disapproved of strikes that were bought. The activities of this organization came to the notice of Mr. Gompers (Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor), who absolutely disapproved of the plans. I do not, at present, wish to mention names of officers of the organization who are shown to have been concerned in the transactions.

"Von Rintalen was in this country from April to Aug. 3. After he left the country and ceased supplying money, the activities of the Labor's National Peace council dwindled and came to an end. I would not have made this statement at this time except that in some way a number of the facts have been disclosed. I had determined it would be better to make the statement for the reason that so much of the truth already has been disclosed.

"This affair is now the subject of an investigation before the grand jury which has not yet concluded its examination of the evidence."

Franz von Rintalen, who is said to be a prominent official in the German secret service, was arrested at Falmouth by British authorities and sent to the Tower of London. He is known as a friend of Emperor William. He is charged with attempting to return to Germany upon a false American passport. Until now no effort has been made to extradite him.

Lamar was convicted in 1914 in Federal court of having impersonated a congressman.

LONGVILLE CREAMERY.

Prosperous Cass County Community Plans New Industry.

Longville, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—About forty farmers met here Saturday afternoon and formed a preliminary organization for the purpose of starting a creamery here. There are already about 400 cows in the settlement and every farmer present pledged support. M. N. Koll of Cass Lake, who was at Longville, stayed for the meeting and outlined a plan for the farmers to join their credit to assist those who needed help, and it is believed that the creamery will be ready for business by May 1. Longville is reached from Pine River by a 30-mile stage trip and is in one of the best farming sections of Cass county.

MOOSE LAKE BLAZE.

Moose Lake, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—An explosion of a lamp in the photographic studio of John Welch fired a one-story frame building here last night adjoining the Star-Gazette office and did about $300 damage to the studio. A. Freedman's harness shop in an adjoining building was also damaged slightly. The fire department prevented the flames spreading to the buildings.

Resinol Soap

a friend to tender skins

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Many toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and to it are added the Resinol medication. This gives it soothing, healing properties which clear the complexion, comfort tender skins and keep the hair rich and lustrous.

Sold by all druggists. For sample free, write to Dept. 11-P, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

CURLERS FEEL MORE HOPEFUL

Promise of Colder Weather Is Pleasing; Membership Campaign.

While Mr. Average Citizen is congratulating the weather man for bringing such balmy weather as Duluth has enjoyed during the last few weeks, there are others in West Duluth who have been sitting by with long-drawn faces bemoaning the high temperature. This morning the weather man promised to bring back the smiles of these latter by a return of colder weather.

Members of the Western Curling club had expected, long before this, to begin playing their scheduled games. The mild weather has prevented the start although up to the present, good foundations have been formed for the four sheets of ice at the clubhouse.

The campaign for membership which is being waged between the single men and married men will come to a close on Friday evening. It is expected that the campaign will result in the bringing of nearly fifty new members. An oyster supper to be served at the expense of the losing side is hinging on the result of the campaign.

CHICKEN THIEVES ARE AGAIN ACTIVE

Chicken thieves are again busy in the western end of the city. This morning Mrs. Gillon, 528 South Sixtieth avenue west, reported to the police that some one had broken open her chicken coop and stolen nine valuable spring chicks. The police are conducting an investigation.

Swan Salme, who at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night was picked up by Patrolman W. E. McKenna of New Duluth, carrying several chickens under his arm, was sentenced to fifty days at the city and county work farm yesterday afternoon by Judge Lanners of the West Duluth police court. Salme told the judge a story of meeting the chickens on the sidewalk and picking them up.

HEADACHE NO EXCUSE FOR SLAPPING MOTHER

A headache and general grouch as a plea by a prisoner for clemency and excuse for beating and choking his mother did not impress Judge H. W. Lanners very much yesterday afternoon. Prolif Androcka, who made the plea, was sentenced to thirty days at the work farm.

Androcka claimed to have come home suffering from a headache and felt grouchy. He admitted having kicked open the door, slammed about the furniture and gone to the kitchen, where he slapped his mother. The mother appeared in police court, but asked for clemency for her boy.

Bethany N.-D. M. E. Notes.

Work of installing a new heating plant at the Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Sixty-fifth avenue west and Polk street, began yesterday.

Rev. E. Nelson will conduct midweek service and class meeting at the church this evening.

The ladies' aid society will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ole Bakken, 21 North Sixty-fourth avenue west.

The children's choir will hold rehearsal at the church Thursday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

The Bethany orchestra will meet Friday evening at the home of Nels Simonson, 125 North Sixty-third avenue west.

The confirmation class will meet at the church on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Rev. Paul Haugan of Grand Forks, N. D., superintendent of the Red River Valley district for the Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, will speak at the church next Sunday evening.

Birthday Surprise.

Mrs. Adolph Anderson, 707 North Fifty-ninth avenue west, was pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon by a number of her friends in honor of her birthday. Mrs. Anderson was presented with a handsome piece of cut glass. The guests were: Mrs. Magnus Anderson, Mrs. Oscar Petersen, Mrs. G. Hedman, Mrs. J. Jorgensen, Mrs. O. Dahl, Mrs. A. Borgstrom, Mrs. Gust Erickson, Mrs. B. Myerald, Mrs. N. Sorenson, Mrs. A. M. Anderson, Mrs. B. Jacobson, Mrs. Alfred Anderson, Mrs. J. Berg, Mrs. A. Larson, Mrs. Frank Peterson, Mrs. E. Johnson, Mrs. L. Hanson, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Lindberg, Mrs. O. G. Michelson.

Vivian-Knudson.

The wedding of Miss Edith M. Vivian and Conrad Knudson took place Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson, 612 North Twenty-seventh avenue west. Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, read the service. They were attended by Miss Hulda Carlson and Lillian Mercer and William Vivian and Erick Opstad. A wedding supper followed. Mr. and Mrs. Knudson will make their home in the western end of the city.

Debate on Missions.

ST. LOUIS CLAIMS TO HAVE PRIORITY

Democratic Committee to Fix Time and Place for National Convention.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The Democratic national committee met here today to fix the time and place of the next Democratic national convention, elect a secretary, dispose of contests for membership from Kentucky and Oregon and transact such other business as might come before it, including the reception of advocates for and against woman suffrage.

Of the three cities in the field for the convention, St. Louis claimed priority. Its delegates claimed openly that the committee would decide in its favor on the second or third ballot, a claim that was not conceded, however, by the delegates from Dallas and Chicago.

Chairman McCombs, addressing the committee, said:

Must All Co-Operate.

"We must all co-operate enthusiastically for the full success of the party. This committee can have a wonderful influence in carrying forward the party's success. To my mind, there is no cloud on the Democratic horizon and it is the duty of this committee to see that no cloud shall gather. I shall work with unremitting and undiminished effort to continue the success we have had heretofore and I want your suggestions and your cooperation."

Thomas J. Pence, assistant to the chairman, was elected secretary pro tempore. Mr. Pence told the committee there was no truth in reports of discord between Mr. McCombs and himself; that he and the chairman had been and would continue to be in harmony.

After a short open meeting, the committee went into executive session to decide the contests from Kentucky and Oregon.

It was thought likely that the convention city would be selected late today.

Germans Are Preparing for Campaign Under Von Der Goltz.

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 7, via Paris—The Germans are preparing on a large scale for operations in Mesopotamia under Field Marshal Baron Kolmar von Der Goltz, who has just been appointed commander of the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia, according to private information received by the Journal De Geneve. Although the Germans speak ostensibly of Egypt, says the dispatch to the Journal, it is not impossible that they may make their principal efforts this winter from Bagdad towards the Persian gulf.

CITY TO BUY WORK TRAIN

Locomotive and Eight Dump Cars Needed for Making Fills.

Farrell Will Advertise for Bids for Needed Apparatus.

A steam locomotive and eight dump cars will be purchased by Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, to make fills underneath the wooden bridges that are to be removed this winter and next spring.

Although he has received a proposition from the local government engineers to sell the city a second-hand Porter locomotive and eight dump cars that were used near the Superior entry during the last year, Commissioner Farrell this morning instructed Secretary Culver to advertise for bids, so that he could obtain lower proposals, if possible. The charter requires this procedure to make the contract legal.

The first use of the dump cars will be made in filling underneath the bridge at Fifth avenue east and Tenth street, which is in very bad shape. As the cars will work on an incline, the locomotive will not be used, but cables attached, so that the loaded cars will pull up the empties to the sand and gravel pits. The next job will be at the Oneota bridge, near Forty-third avenue west, where use will be made of the locomotive and the dump cars. Tracks will also be built at both bridges.

Work on the Lincoln park bridge is progressing rapidly and Commissioner Farrell expects to have the fill completed up to both sides of the creek within a few weeks. Next year he plans to erect an ornamental concrete bridge over the creek, reducing the span from 200 to 50 feet.

During the coming winter the wooden bridges at West Duluth will all be removed, according to Commissioner Farrell. The council last October included $23,000 in the 1916 budget for the building and maintenance of bridges.

ON TRIAL FOR KILLING WIFE

Andrew Streem Faces Charge of Murder in Third Degree.

Andrew Streem, 47, Ingleside Park farmer who shot and killed his wife, Wilhelmina Streem, 46, on the morning of Sept. 28 at their farm on the Luzerne road, will be brought to trial this afternoon before Judge Ensign and a district court jury. He was indicted by the November grand jury on a charge of murder in the third degree.

Streem killed his wife with a shot gun when she attempted to drive some cattle out of their garden patch. He was intoxicated and had ordered her to leave the cows alone. She paid no attention to his threats and he fired upon her, with the remark at the time that he "would give her a scare." She died almost immediately.

HEAVY MUNICIPAL COURT CALENDAR

Judge Windom Alone on Civil and Criminal Work.

Jurors and court officers today started work in municipal court on one of the largest civil calendars to come before them this year.

Judge W. L. Windom took the bench early in the day and began work, but was forced to suspend later in the morning to take up a criminal jury case to have been tried before Judge F. H. Cutting this morning. Judge Cutting is out of the city for a few days.

The jury cases to be taken up at this term include: David Toplitzke vs. Max R. Mann; the Tenney company vs. the Northern Pacific Railway company; Andrew Carlson vs. City of Duluth; Archie McDougall vs. Charles M. Magnuson; W. A. Wagner vs. Frank A. Miller; Willis O. Derby vs. M. Radokovitch; Frank Shebat vs. Joe Kashak; Andrew Hedberg vs. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway; H. J. Mullin vs. Neil T. Fuller; Gust Krall vs. Wallace West; Carl J. Carlson vs. D. W. & P. Ry; Benjamin F. Schweiger vs. Andrew Olson; Julius Paul vs. Louis Cohen; John Rich & Bros., vs. Smith Bros.; Anton Garde vs. Frank Hagener; the Hartley company vs. Antonia Mervar, and T. J. Willner vs. Arthur Lessard.

Including the court cases, there are sixty-three controversies to be settled or disposed of before the holidays.

STEEL PRODUCERS REFUSING ORDERS

Congestion Increasing and Prices Touch and Pass High Records.

Congestion in the various branches of the iron and steel trade is becoming even more marked. New export business has been checked by the action of leading producers in refusing foreign orders even at several dollars per ton above domestic price. The railroad embargoes at New York and the stringency in the ocean freight situation have also been deterrent factors.

The average price of the leading steel products is now practically $40 per ton, compared with $35.45 about a month ago. The average price, according to the published prices of steel, is $39.92 per ton, but practically every company is taking orders above these quotations on account of the customers' difficulty in procuring desired shipments.

Only in one year since the United States Steel corporation was organized has the average price of the leading steel products been as high as it is now and that was in 1907 when the price made was $40.63 per ton. This figure would be surpassed were the unofficial prices used instead of those published.

All steel companies are making new high records in production and will continue to work at full capacity for many months. Export steel is so scarce that prices offered range as high as $5 per ton. Shrapnel steel has sold as high as $4.50 per 100 pounds recently compared with $1.50 per 100 pounds early this year.

Steel prices increased last week, as reported by the Iron Age, include advances of $1 per ton in bessemer and open hearth billets, open hearth sheet bars; $2 per ton increase in forging billets, black sheets, wire nails, fence wire, barbed wire and tin plate. Steel hoops are up $3 per ton to a new high price, and all classes of pig iron are up from 25 cents to 50 cents per ton. Galvanized sheets are quoted at $4.75 per 100 pounds, an advance of $10 per ton in the last week.

Authorities in the steel trade are growing even more optimistic over the present trade conditions and prospects, said W. H. Donner, president of the Cambria Steel company, in the course of an interview.

"I never saw such a steel market as is here today. Orders are abundant, prices are high and well sustained and prospects for the future are excellent. Almost every plant is so oversupplied as to make it very difficult to fill the requirements, as the buyers of steel would desire.

ARE NOT PROFITABLE.

J. H. Edwards Files Bankruptcy Petition in United States Court.

Apparently business and art do not go hand in hand in Duluth, for today one of Duluth's most noted art dealers filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the Federal court. James H. Edwards, described in the petition as painter and decorator, and a man who has been known for years as a leader in art here, states that his liabilities are $6,118.36 and his assets $4,178.96. Only $575 of the assets are exempt, the petition states.

Duluth Is Banking Center.

David Williams, vice president of the First National bank, considers that Duluth occupies an exceptionally strong position as a banking center.

In an interesting article on the subject of "Duluth as a Financial Center" in the current number of Cooper, Myers & Co.'s Bond Book, he ponited out that the banking capital of banks in this city runs nearly double that of Waterbury, Conn., institutions, which compares closely to this city in point of size. The four Duluth national banks employ a capital of $6,405,000, while the nine banks in Waterbury had $3,450,000 capital, according to their last statement of conditions. Deposits in Duluth banks aggregated $28,275,000, while the Waterbury banks had $24,150,000.

YOUNG AUSTRIAN SAYS HE IS MERELY STUDENT

New York, Dec. 7.—Anton F. Mente, the young Austrian in whose rooms a quantity of explosives and chloride gas were found yesterday by the police, asserted today that he was merely a student of chemistry and had had no criminal intent in his experiments.

Mente challenged the police to find anything irregular in his actions and denied that he had received money from any foreign government. As to a code found in his room he insisted that he had made it for his own use.

Southern Bankers to Organize.

New Orleans, Dec. 7.—Formation of a permanent organization of Southern bankers and adoption of a specific plan for the betterment of the South and her industrials, were up for today's sessions of the cotton states bankers' conference. The conference expected to adjourn late today.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

YOUNG FOLKS IN INSTITUTE

Boys and Girls of North Dakota Gather at Agricultural College.

Winners in Various Farm Contests Meet in School of Instruction.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—With 130 boys and girls present from twenty-one of the counties of the state, the largest annual boys' and girls' institute in history opened this morning at the State Agricultural college near here. The largest previous attendance was last year when 110 boys and girls were present.

The program was opened by addresses by President John H. Worst of the agricultural college and Director Thomas Cooper of the experiment station. This was followed by a demonstration of canning by George E. Farrell of the United States department of agriculture. During the four days that the institute will be in session there will be addresses and demonstrations by some of the most noted agricultural workers of the country.

All Are Prize Winners.

Every one of the boys and girls in attendance at the meeting have the distinction of winning a first prize in some department of farm work—either growing of potatoes, alfalfa, corn or some other product or in making butter, bread or sewing. The winning of these first prizes gives the boys and girls the privilege of attending this school of instruction at which many of the farm problems are taken up. The institute has its own organization and will elect new officers on one of the days of the meeting.

One of the features of the entertainment program will be on Thursday when the Fargo Commercial club will entertain the boys and girls at luncheon at the club rooms and then taken them for a tour of inspection of the manufacturing institutions of the city.

To Work in Duluth.

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 7.—Alvin Hunt left yesterday for Duluth where he will work as fireman for the Northern Pacific Railway company. Ferdinand Brensike has returned from Duluth and Superior after spending a short time visiting with friends.

BEMIDJI'S ARMORY PLANS ADVANCING

City Council Takes Preliminaries Towards Securing Site.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Proceedings to abandon the end of Fourth street of this city for the erection of a naval militia armory were begun by the city council last evening, and as soon as it is possible, a deed for this property will be given to the state in order that the armory may be erected next year. Application has been made to the armory board for $15,000 aid from the state, and $2,000 will be raised among the business men of the city, making the total cost of the armory $17,000. If the location at the end of Fourth street is secured, the armory will be located in one of the most beautiful places in the city. The city park will be located on both the north and south sides of the building, and the back of the armory will extend to the lake shore.

INTRODUCING LIQUOR, CHARGE AGAINST PAIR

Alleged to Have Taken Contraband Into Dry Indian Territory.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. C. Sherwood and Charles La Gesse of Cass Lake were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hiram A. Simons here yesterday on a charge of introducing liquor into Indian territory, and after pleading not guilty, demanded a hearing, the date of which was set for Dec. 11.

The arrest was made Saturday by United States Deputy Special Officer J. P. Brandt, and the complaint charges the men with introducing five gallons, one quart and one-half pint of whisky, one gallon of alcohol and four quarts of beer.

FORMER ASHLAND MAN CALLED IN PORTLAND

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 7.—C. H. Pratt, a resident of Ashland in the early days, who figured largely in the growth of the city died a few days ago in Portland, Or. During his residence here he was one of the leading public spirited citizens.

Dr. Ellis, James M. Davis and Charles H. Pratt composed the first school board of New Ashland, in 1872.

Pratt, on the line of the Omaha railway now known as Grand View, was named for Mr. Pratt, where he owned a small saw mill at one time. Mr. Pratt was secretary of the "Cook Railroad" and was enthusiastic and untiring in this work. S. G. Cook, who was head of this company died less than a month ago in California.

Mr. Pratt surveyed and staked out the lots in Mount Hope cemetery here.

HORTICULTURALISTS OF STATE MEETING

President Cashman Tells How Minnesota Advances in That Line.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—The forty-ninth annual convention of the Minnesota Horticultural society opened here today and will continue throughout Friday.

President Thomas E. Cashman of Owatonna, in his annual address, reviewed briefly the accomplishments of the organization, told of the progress made in the raising of vegetables and fruit in Minnesota since 1900 and predicted a period of greater progress during the coming fifteen years.

A long premium list attracted many entries to the exhibits of fruit, flowers and vegetables, which form a feature of the gathering.

Special demonstrations in grafting and pruning will be given daily by experts from the university farm, Ogden Morlan conducting the department in fruit and vegetable grafting and W. G. Brierly and P. L. Kum having charge of the demonstration in pruning.

To Demonstrate Canning.

George E. Ferrill, canning expert of the Federal department of agriculture, will give demonstrations of the cold pack method of canning.

Annual reports of officers and committees will be submitted Thursday, and George E. Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, will address the convention Friday.

The Minnesota Beekeepers' society and several other subsidiary organizations also are holding their annual meetings in conjunction with the Horticultural society.

PACKING PLANT IDEA IS LIKED

North Dakota Communities Striving to Secure New Industry.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The spirited contest between Minot, Devils Lake, Valley City, Grand Forks, Fargo and Wahpeton for the location of the proposed packing plant in this state marks a great change in North Dakota conditions. The first packing plant ever established in what is now North Dakota was the ill-starred and unsuccessful effort of the Marquis de Mores at Medora.

But conditions in North Dakota now are really favorable to a packing plant. There has been a marked change even within the past five years. Since that time the agitation for corn and alfalfa has resulted in the development of those crops and the natural sequence, the raising of hogs and the fattening and finishing of cattle for market.

Many Hogs Raised.

Hundreds of thousands of hogs are raised in the state now as against a few hundreds five years ago. Formerly the cattle were shipped from this state as they came from the grass. Today they are finished and fattened for market by the farmers to consume the by-products and convert them into commercial values.

For years there has been agitation for a packing plant. Thousands of farmers have favored the idea. The recent agitation by the members of the Society of Equity has helped and it now looks as if a plant is among the near-future possibilities. The packing plant seems rather to have superseded the terminal elevator proposition, which was urged by the Equity and which has caused such a wide difference of opinion in the state. Sentiment favoring a packing plant is practically unanimous as against the divided sentiment for a terminal grain house.

TRACTION COMPANY SUED.

Milwaukee Street Railway Alleged to Have Violated Commission's Order.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7.—The state of Wisconsin in an action commenced Monday in the circuit court of Dane county charging violations of the order of the railroad commission issued Dec. 25, 1913, fixing standards for street railway service in Milwaukee, has sued the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company for penalties aggregating $1,860,000 or $10,000 for each of 186 separate violations.

The company is given twenty days in which to answer.

It is charged in each instance of violation designating the time and place and the number of passengers carried, the number of seats furnished and the number required under the order, that the street railway company "failed, refused and neglected" to furnish the number of seats required, "all in violation of said order and contrary to law."

The violations charges cover six months in 1914 and January of this year.

The complaint is signed by Attorney General Walter C. Owen and Deputy Walter Drew.

DERANGED WIDOW THROWS AWAY INSURANCE MONEY.

Lead, S. D., Dec. 7.—While deranged, Mrs. Sophia Lang, a widow of this city, threw away certificates of deposit valued at more than $3,100. She was taken to Deadwood for a mental examination while the police recovered the money. She is the mother of five small children. Her husband was killed last spring and the money was insurance on his life.

FARMERS' CLUB OF WRENSHALL THRIVES

First Concern of Kind in the State Holds Its Annual Meeting.

Wrenshall, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Wrenshall Farmers' club members held their annual meeting Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. McCleran on Maplewood farm. The club was organized eight years ago with a membership of four families. Two of the original families are still members, the other two having moved away. There are now ten families in the club. The club meets the first Sunday in the month. The members generally gather at about 11 o'clock, dinner is served at 1, after which the program is given. This is said to be the first farmers' club organized in the state. The club was organized at the McCleran home, then a small cottage in a little clearing in the wilderness.

The change that has occurred in the past eight years in not only the McCleran farm, but in the whole surrounding country and in this village is nothing short of marvelous.

Maplewood Fine Place.

Maplewood has some of the finest farm buildings in the state. The residence would be a credit to the best resident part of a good-sized city.

Large, modern barns, beautiful, winding drives and blooded stock are but a small part of the attractions of Maplewood. The fine farm buildings in the Wrenshall district are a marvel to visitors from older parts of the state.

At the meeting Sunday Miss Bull of the university extension department lectured on "Home Efficiency." Mr. Ferguson, one of the charter members, gave a reading and Mr. Kirschman, instructor in agriculture at the Carlton high school, gave a talk on farmers' club. The Wrenshall club being the first organized is known all over the state. Two of the members, Mr. McCleran and Mr. Bugbee, are employed by the state as institute workers and organizers of farmers' clubs.

F. B. McCleran is president of the club and Winfield Holmes secretary.

SYRACUSE MAN IS KILLED NEAR FARGO

Singer in Show Company Falls From Train Crossing Bridge.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John B. Prescott of Syracuse, N. Y., a tenor singer in the Arthur Clamage Musical Comedy company, now appearing here, was killed by falling from a Northern Pacific passenger train as it was crossing the bridge across the Red river from Moorhead. The man had evidently gone to the vestibule of the train to get fresh air and in some way lost his balance as the train entered on the trestle. He was not missed until the train reached Fargo and a search was instituted. He fell about twenty feet and aside from a couple of bruises on the head and one on the chest there were no marks. The body was shipped to his home in Syracuse.

To Ward Off Winter Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alternating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. I advise you to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a harmless face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

BOON TO SETTLERS.

Making Red Lake River Navigable Will Be Welcome.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Dec. 7.—Local owners of rivercraft are encouraged over the prospects for the improvement of Red Lake river. Dredging and straightening of the river will not only be a boon to settlers who own lands along it and have suffered from high water, but will revive water traffic. It is predicted the number of large powerboats owned here will be doubled if the government makes the desired improvement.

BOY THREATENS MOTHER; BELIEVED TO BE CRAZY

Hayward, Wis., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adam Dorf, aged 10, living with his mother two miles from here, threatened her life with a gun, when she found him hiding in a dog house after being away from home all day Sunday. She took the gun from him and then in anger he fled into the woods. A posse found him perched in a tree and brought him struggling home. He is believed to be demented and will probably be mentally examined.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—Minot's building permits issued during the month of December totalled $39,300. The permits cover the construction of thirteen new residences.

Bismarck, N. D.—An apartment house is to be erected by F. W. Murphy, a well known Bismarck business man. The building will provide for eighteen modern apartments, and it is to be erected at a cost of $28,000.

Williston, N. D.—Williams county will pay $487,070.04 in taxes during the coming year, an increase of $71,590.37 over the taxes paid last year. For state purposes, the county will contribute just $6,000 more than it did last year, all of the balance of the increase being brought about largely through greater levies for school purposes.

Bismarck, N. D.—Mrs. J. E. Stevens of Lawton, N. D., president of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, was in the capital city Saturday co-operating with the local women who conducted the sale of the Red Cross seals here.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The Women's Relief corps elected these officers: President, Mrs. S. A. Hann; first vice president, Mrs. H. B. Mitchell; second vice president, Mrs. Jane Nimmo; conductress, Mrs. Emma West; guard, Mrs. D. G. Duell; assistant guard, Mrs. John Flumerfelt; chaplain, Mrs. Flora Hall; delegates, Mesdames Kale, Coggswell, Flumerfelt, Osburn, Menne; alternates, Mesdames Hall, McElderry, Olsen, Judd and Ziebell.

D.; two sisters, Mrs. Lena Balls of Woodbury and Ida Merrick, town of Afton, also four grand children.

You Will Have to Admit that Hot Steero Tastes Better

In many homes, hot, beefy, beneficial Steero is taking the place of coffee and tea.

Those people who say, "I like coffee simply because it's a hot drink"—if they mean what they say, will like hot Steero better, because it's more than a hot drink.

Neither coffee nor tea, no matter how well made, can ever have the rich, appetizing, "juices of the beef" taste of Steero. And the beef taste of Steero is skilfully blended with the flavors of various vegetables and a smack of spices.

No one will ever have cause to warn you against Steero. There is no Steero headache, you don't have trouble going to sleep, and you don't get "nerves" if you drink two cups of Steero at dinner.

Hot Steero is made in a minute by pouring boiling water into a cup that contains a Steero Cube.

You can buy Steero Cubes in boxes of 12, 50 or 100 Cubes from Druggists, Grocers and Delicatessen Dealers. Be sure you get Steero. There are imitations.

Will You Try Steero, Now?

CHICKEN SHOW ON AT TWO HARBORS

Lake County Poultry Association Making Annual Exhibits.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ninth annual chicken show, given by the Lake County Poultry association, opened here this morning at 10 o'clock in the first floor of the Glennhall building and is expected to be the most successful ever staged by the local association. The entries are more numerous and according to those in charge the specimens are much more attractive than they have been in former years. Chickens of all kinds have been arriving on every train, their owners having been lured to exhibit by the fine premiums which are offered as prizes for the best. Entries were received up till noon today.

George W. Hackett of North Freedom, Wis., is the official judge of the American Poultry association, and his services have been secured to do the scoring at the local show. The Hales explanatory score card system will be used.

Farmers' Day Friday.

Friday will be farmers' day and each farmer residing in Lake county will receive a complimentary ticket for himself and family for the afternoon and evening. This is a new feature and is expected to be very popular with the farmers.

Friday evening, N. E. Chapman, state poultry expert, whose ability along this line is well appreciated by Lake county poultry men, will speak on "Poultry," how to feed and care for fowls and ho wto derive the most profits.

With every admission ticket the management will give a gift ticket which will entitle the holder to several numbers in the drawing contests for chickens, eggs, etc., which will be given away each evening except Tuesday.

The doors will be opened at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 9 o'clock at night. The show will continue until Friday night.

The scoring will commence tomorrow and an endeavor will be made to have the most of it done so those attending the show in the evening will be able to see just what birds received the prize ribbons.

There are several very handsome silver cups to be competed for and according to officials the competition promises to be very keen.

CHRISTMAS TREE FACTORY RUNNING

Attachment Having Been Lifted, Cook Concern Is Busy.

Cook, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attachment placed by the state on the Christmas tree factory here having been released, as stated in The Herald, the factory is running full blast again. The crew is working sixteen hours shifts so all orders can be filled. A car of trees was shipped to Chicago Friday, only a small portion of what will be shipped.

Mr. McDonald of Duluth has been here visiting Mr. Schlecht, manager of the Christmas tree factory.

Mrs. Frank Carr has been teaching the Cook school for the past few days. Miss Hamilton left for Mountain Iron Monday being on the sick list.

F. W. Lowe, state boiler inspector, was here inspecting Herbert Ellsworth's boiler. Several had licenses renewed.

Frank Carr, Hans Johnson, Floyd Perkins and Alex Perkins, Ed Erickson went to Vermilion lake to bring in the moose which they killed.

FOR SMALLER CITIES.

Senator Griggs Believes Boxing Law Should Be Amended.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the boxing bill now in operation in the state should be amended so that councils of smaller municipalities in Minnesota could grant permits for boxing, is the belief of Senator O. H. Griggs, father of the bill. At present, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth are the only cities in the state allowed to have boxing clubs.

Senator Griggs believes boxing could be conducted with success in Virginia, Hibbing and other cities of similar size in the state.

DOCK WRECKER KILLED.

Thomas Thompson Is Fatally Injured at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Thompson, aged 38 years, an employe of Barnett & Record, who have the contract to tear down the old Iron Range ore dock No. 2, received injuries while at work yesterday afternoon which resulted in his death two hours later.

Thompson was working under the dock as timbers were being pulled down by huge derricks. One large piece, swinging around in its fall to the base of the dock, struck Thompson in the back, knocking him unconscious. He was hastened to the Burns-Christensen hospital, where it was found that his back was broken. He also had several fractured ribs and other internal injuries. He died within two hours after he reached the hospital.

He was a single man, born in Norway, where his only relatives, a mother, brother and sister reside. He had been in the employ of Barnett & Record since early last spring. Having no relatives elsewhere in this country, the remains will undoubtedly be interred in the Two Harbors cemetery.

A second accident occurred to an employe of Barnett & Record in the tearing down of dock No. 2 yesterday when William Young got his hand caught in a block, receiving a compound fracture of several fingers on his right hand. He is being cared for at the Burns-Christensen hospital.

CATARRH CAUSED BY A GERM

Must Be Destroyed Before Catarrh Itself Can Be Cured. Wonderful Results From Breathing Medicated Air.

Medicine that acts on the blood alone will never cure catarrh. And neither will the sprays, douches, lotions, creams and other temporary reliefs that so many catarrh victims make a habit of using. To cure catarrh so it won't come back you must first drive from your body the millions of germs that are flourishing in the inner recesses of your nose and throat and are causing the disease.

There is a preparation used to do this called Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me). Hyomei is a germ-killing vaporized air formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients. You breathe Hyomei through the mouth and nose by means of a little hard rubber inhaler which druggists furnish with it. This medicated germicidal air penetrates into every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of your nose and throat, kills the catarrh germs that lodge there, soothes, reduces and heals the swollen, inflamed membranes, stops the discharge and opens up the clogged nose and air passages in a truly wonderful way. It gives blessed relief in five minutes from catarrhal distress of every kind and if you make a practice of breathing Hyomei for a few minutes each day for just a few weeks not only will all the symptoms of catarrh vanish but the disease itself will be a thing of the past. No one need try or buy Hyomei on pure faith. Boyce Drug store and many other leading druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell it with the positive guarantee that it must cure catarrh or that the money paid for it will be refunded. Hyomei is very inexpensive and with this protecting guarantee behind your purchase there is absolutely no reason why any sufferer from Catarrh should not give it a fair trial. —Advertisement.

ALLEGES CHARACTER HAS BEEN DEFAMED

Woman Suing Man in Lake County Court for Damages.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entire time of the district court yesterday was devoted to the case of Abigail Liberty vs. M. T. Wollan, a civil action for damages and was being continued today.

The plaintiff is suing for alleged defamation of character. Mrs. Liberty was a housekeeper for Mr. Wollan, after she left his employ the defendant missed certain valuable articles from his house and suspecting his former housekeeper he had her arrested. No trace of the stolen goods were found. She then started the above for defamation of character.

DISTRICT COURT IS OPEN AT VIRGINIA

Grand Jury Charged By Judge Hughes and Calendar Arranged.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The December term of district court opened here today, Judge Hughes presiding, with other court officers and many outside attorneys present.

There were six men lacking when the grand jury was called to be charged this morning and the court directed the sheriff to bring in enough to fill the panel by an open venire and these responded this afternoon when the grand jurors were charged and retired. No cases of great importance are expected to be looked into.

The first civil case to be tried will come up before a petit jury tomorrow. It is Frank Klink vs. Ole Johnson.

Another case set for tomorrow is that of Attorney W. G. Bonham of Duluth vs. Dr. Edward Darrow of Aurora, former village president, to recover $300 for legal services.

Flowage Cases Settled.

Four actions growing out of the construction of the big dam across the Rainy river at International Falls were stricken from the calendar and it is understood they have been settled. The plaintiffs are owners of lands along Lake Kabedegonah, a part of Rainy river, who claim the back water from the dam damaged their property. The titles of the actions were John Richter vs. the M. & O. Power company; Albert Engman, William Tare and John Latta vs. the Rainy River Improvement company.

HIBBING IS AFTER N. M. D. A. MEETING

Delegates Going to Bemidji, Hoping to Capture Honor.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Headed by Secretary J. E. Lawler, the Commercial club committee appointed by President Stratton to attend the Northern Minnesota Development association meetings at Bemidji, will leave the Great Northern depot at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Hibbing will make a bid for the next convention.

Delegates from Hibbing are: R. W. Hitchcock, A. P. Sillman, D. D. McEachin, Rupert Swinnerton, C. M. Atkinson, H. P. Reed, W. J. West, T. F. Brady, Dr. H. R. Weirick, E. C. Kleffman, James Butchart, W. C. Barrett, Jacob Messner, Frank Ansley and B. O'Rourke.

DYNAMITE CASE IS NOT YET DISPOSED OF

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald)—Antonio Rocchio, arrested yesterday for having forty sticks of dynamite and thirty-five feet of fuse in a sack at the waiting room of the Mesaba electric railway station, is still in jail, not having had a hearing yesterday afternoon, as expected. The police are further probing the case. He claims to be a mine powder worker and denies he had any illegal intentions in carrying the explosive. He claims he was en route to Chisholm, where he planned to secure employment at the Knox mine at Aurora for three months.

A charge of carrying explosives has been placed against Rocchio and he will have a hearing before Judge James P. Carey.

Rocchio has been working at range mines two years, according to his story. He came to the United States three years ago from Italy. He worked in a coal mine in West Virginia and was also employed at mines in Pennsylvania. He has a wife and three children in Italy. He is about 35 years of age.

WATER PIPES BURST AND HOME IS DAMAGED

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Webster left the first of last week for the Deer River country, where Mr. Webster has a surveying job. Upon leaving, they neglected to turn off the water in their home, in the J. F. Metzger home, and in a few days it froze and the pipes burst, flooding the house. Water was running through the ceiling, out of the stove and over the floor everywhere.

INTERURBAN BUS SERVICE BETWEEN RANGE TOWNS

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Webb Latham has established an interurban bus service between Grand Rapids and Bovey, Coleraine, Marble and Calumet. Mr. Latham has six Fords which he has in the bus service, and he is making practically hourly trips in the day time between Grand Rapids and Coleraine and Bovey, and in his schedule to Marble and Calumet he is making half as many trips.

HIBBING MONEY IS SENT ABROAD

Much Coin Going Through Postoffice to Relief of War-Stricken.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hundreds of dollars of money earned in Hibbing and vicinity is finding its way into war-ridden Europe, assisting in the caring of the stricken families.

According to postoffice authorities, more money is being sent to Europe this year than ever before.

Three Countries Bar Coin.

The only countries that forbids the importation of American coin is Austria, Bulgaria and Greece.

The last country named only recently put the ban on. The Italians of the range and of Hibbing are among the heaviest senders of money to their countrymen. The sums range from $10 to $25 at the most and the majority of the money that is sent is in small denominations.

WATER EXTENSION TO BE CONSIDERED

Virginia Council and Water Board to Meet Together.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council, the water and light commission and representatives of the Williams Realty company will consider the matter of extending water connections to the Williams addition at the regular council meeting tonight.

Water is now being taken to the addition in wagons and the cost per resident of the addition is $2.08 per month. It will be necessary to lay a water main from South Virginia avenue to the addition.

More applications for the position of caretaker at the new septic tank are expected. The health committee is considering the applications.

INTEREST IN HOTEL.

Announcement of Hibbing Undertaking Arouses Interest.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The published announcement that a new hotel was contemplated here since the Hibbing hotel burned has aroused interest among hotel builders, judging by the amount of literature and inquiries Secretary Lawler of the Commercial club is receiving.

Inquiries came from three brick firms, two plaster concerns, seven building supply firms, one cornice company, eight other miscellaneous building company businesses.

The hotel question at present in Hibbing with the sudden changes that has come is not meeting with the enthusiasm that it should but there are hopes and Secretary Lawler says, while there is a little life there is a little chance at that, for Hibbing's proposed new hotel.

HIBBING DRAMA LEAGUE.

Organization Perfected to Work for Clean Plays.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing center of the Dramatic League of America was organized last night at the public library at an enthusiastic meeting attended by over 100 people.

A constitution and by-laws was adopted and officers elected as follows: Ray Bechtel, president; Mrs. B. S. Adams, first vice president; Mrs. William Lick, second vice president; Mrs. W. R. Spenseley, secretary, and Eugene Everett, treasurer; board of managers, Miss Beatrice Atkinson, Miss Myrtle Laval, Miss Muriel Swinnerton and Dr. Butchart.

The object of the new league is to promote clean entertainment, to criticize the plays that should be witnessed by the public and those that should not and in general to aid in the efficiency of the drama.

CREAMERY FOR AURORA.

Proposition Is Indorsed By Commercial Club.

Aurora, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Aurora Commercial club was reorganized last night with considerable enthusiasm. Dr. R. P. Pearsall was elected president; A. F. Tillmans, vice president; O. F. Halstrom, secretary, and Chas. T. Murphy, treasurer. The club took great interest in a creamery proposition and will work to secure one for Aurora.

Good roads, small factories and other matters were gone into and committees will be appointed to look after such matters. The club indorsed the idea of a municipal Christmas tree which has been under consideration by the village council.

EXAMINATION TO FILL POSTOFFICE AT WARBA

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States civil service commission announces that there will be an examination held here on Jan. 8 to fill a contemplated vacancy in the postoffice at Warba and other vacancies which may occur in that office. Mrs. E. Lind has been postmistress at Warba for several years. The office, which is a fourth-class one, last year paid $463. The same rules apply as for postmastership examinations. Information regarding the examination, rules, etc., may be secured from the postmaster at Warba or from Assistant Postmaster Radke at the Grand Rapids postoffice.

ROAD TO HEALTH IS THROUGH THE KIDNEYS

No person alive is stronger than his kidneys. The minute the kidneys become disarranged or clogged with waste the warning is flashed throughout the entire system. The greater part of all sickness today can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly.

Most any reliable druggist in this vicinity can probably tell you of many well-known people whom Solvax, the standard kidney remedy, has restored to health, often after they have tried many other methods of treatment with little or no benefit.

There are hundreds of people who were not the least bit surprised when they read awhile ago that Boyce Drug store is selling Solvax on a guarantee to refund the money in case it did not relieve. This remarkable kidney remedy is guaranteed to help the worst case of lazy, sluggish, or clogged-up kidneys, or the general headachy, kinkybacked, played-out condition that afflicts people suffering with kidney trouble. Solvax does not simply relieve. It aims to cure.

The best kind of advertising is the praise of a pleased customer, and there are hundreds today praising Solvax because it has done for them what it is advertised to do. Not very long ago they were afflicted with all manner of sickish, uncomfortable pains and each day seemed to bring with it a new ache in some other part of their body. Since using Solvax they are once more bright and chipper and able to enjoy life at its fullest with no more fear of suffering.

We doubt if any other kidney remedy has made such a large percentage of cures as Solvax. It is so large that its owners are perfectly safe in standing ready to refund the price to any customer whom it does not help. This is a good time to get well and you ought to take advantage of this offer. Get it from Boyce Drug store or any well stocked drug store. —Advertisement.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Forecaster.

COLDER

Starting out with cloudy conditions, similar to yesterday, and many, fearing a repetition of the snow and rain that fell last night, today fooled 'em. Early in the day the clouds broke and the sun popped forth. Later the sky cleared still more, and for the time at least, a beautiful day helps the mild atmosphere make perfect weather.

A year ago today was cloudy. The sun rose this morning at 7:40 and will set this evening at 4:19, giving eight hours and thirty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance centered over Northern Minnesota has caused snow throughout the Northwest and higher temperature over the Western lake region and the Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys. Rain fell over North Pacific states and the Southwest. Heavy rainfall occurred at Galveston, Tex. Somewhat colder weather prevails in Southern states, the plateau region and extreme Northwest. The winds on Lake Superior are light to fresh and from southerly directions, but conditions favor strong southwest to northwest winds tonight and Wednesday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

Wisconsin—Unsettled tonight, probably light rain in east portion, colder in northwest portion; Wednesday generally fair; slightly colder in south and extreme east portions.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight except in extreme east portion.

North Dakota and South Dakota—Fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday, except probably rain or snow west of the divide; no decided change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Snow flurries tonight, warmer in east portion; Wednesday partly cloudy.

Upper Michigan—Local showers tonight; Wednesday partly cloudy.

LOCAL FORECAST.

Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Partly cloudy weather tonight and Wednesday. Colder tonight with lowest temperature about 20 deg. at Duluth-Superior and 15 deg. inland and on the iron ranges. Strong southwest to northwest winds.

DULUTHIAN SUES MAN IN VIRGINIA

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels Anderson, local real estate man, is named as defendant in an action brought in district court by Mrs. Jennie Lantry of Duluth to recover $5,000 and 7 per cent interest on that amount from Jan. 30, 1910, on a promissory note alleged to have been issued by Mr. Anderson to the plaintiff's husband, who died some time ago.

CHISHOLM SCHOOLS PREPARING PROGRAMS

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Schools in this district will close for the holiday vacation on Tuesday, Dec. 23, and will reopen on the Wednesday following New Year's day, which will give the teachers an opportunity to pass New Year's day at their homes and return here in time for the reopening of school.

Teachers and scholars are busy with preparations for the Christmas programs and they promise to be better than ever before. Christmas trees will be decorated for the kindergarten children and those of the lower grades.

LICENSE MONEY RETURN IS TO BE CONSIDERED

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council will meet Wednesday afternoon when the question of returning the unexpired amounts due on liquor licenses will be discussed. The appointment of a park board is also a matter that is to come up.

The saloons closed last week are mostly in the near-beer and non-alcoholic business, many reporting satisfactory business. No raids have been made by the Indian agents since last Wednesday.

Virginia Rinks Popular.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local skating rinks are popular. The Roosevelt rink, opened Sunday, is being liberally patronized. Skating has also started on the Johnson rink. Rinks will be established at the South Side school, the North Side school and at Oliver park. A warming house is being erected at the South Side grounds, which are being flooded for the first time.

Virginia Skips Named.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—Caretaker Neill of the local curling rink has arrived from Fort Frances, the skips have been appointed and soon the great Scots' game will be in full swing. The skips are: A. C. Stevens, W. B. Shaver, E. D. McNeil, D. W. Stebbins, C. E. Moore, G. L. Simons, A. L. Hearn, Edward Boyle, C. B. Lenont, C. W. Miller, J. G. Wall, E. F. Johnson, A. E. Bickford, P. E. Coffey, J. H. Tretheway, Daniel Coffey, Al Staff, E. C. Strauss, Thomas Gill, A. F. Benson, Mark Norton, John Dickinson, Henry Sigel, M. A. Murphy, M. S. Kingston, W. D. Newcombe, F. A. Rolfe.

WEST VIRGINIA CLUB WILL HAVE BANQUET

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the West Virginia Commercial club will hold their first annual banquet at the West Virginia school Saturday night. The club has sixty members who have been asked to invite friends to attend the affair.

President L. H. Boerger and Secretary F. J. Pfieffer and other officials are making elaborate arrangements for the banquet. Several railroad men will be called on for toasts, while some vaudeville entertainment will be furnished.

VIRGINIA B'NAI B'RITH HAS CHOSEN OFFICERS

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—The local B'nai B'rith, a Jewish society, has elected the following officers: Samuel Lippman, president; Julius Shanedling, vice president; Nathan T. Keller, treasurer; Herman Baer, recording secretary; Morris K. Baer, financial secretary; Henry Shanedling, Samuel Dubow and Samuel Rosenholtz, trustees.

The local organization will hold its annual celebration next month, and efforts are being made to secure Rabbi Lianard of Minneapolis for the principal speaker on that occasion. The affair is in charge of the intellectual advancement committee of the order, consisting of Morris K. Baer, Gust Simon, Julius Shanedling and Reuben Latz.

Chisholm Municipal Rink.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The municipal skating rink opened Sunday at the ball park with a large attendance of young men and women. The rink has been placed in splendid condition by Caretaker Stukkel, who has been engaged by the council for the purpose.

Chisholm K. of P. Lunch.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The social and lunch given by the Knights of Pythias Monday evening proved a most enjoyable affair. The hall was well filled by members and friends and the lunch disposed of with relish.

Virginia Couple Wed.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward A. Malley, manager of the Grand theater, and Miss Isadore Dodge, who has been in the employe of Supt. R. W. Reynolds of the Mesaba Railway company as a stenographer, stole a march on their friends Monday and were married at the church of Our Lady of the Lourdes by Rev. Father W. J. Powers. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dodge, and the bridegroom by Byron Staver. Mr. and Mrs. Malley left for a wedding trip, which will include a visit at the Head of the Lakes and in the Twin Cities.

Potato Show Prizes.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 7.—A committee of the Commercial club, headed by Lawrence M. Barrett, has arranged a list of prizes for the first annual potato show, which will be held here Dec. 17 and 18 in conjunction with the fourth annual show of the Range Poultry association. The show will be conducted in the Fay opera house. The prize lists are being mailed to farmers' clubs north and south of the city.

Woodsman Leaves Hospital.

Ely, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrick Harnett, 64 years of age, a well-known woodsman here for the past twenty years, made his appearance on the city streets yesterday for the first time in several months. Last May "Paddy" was stricken with paralysis and has been confined to the Shipman hospital since then.

Recovers from Operation.

Ely, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Matt Porthan, a well-known resident of this city, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Shipman hospital, is rapidly recovering.

COMMUNITY WORK IN THE SUBURBS

Glen-Hunt-Wood Club Committee Has Some Ambitious Plans.

Plans for making Hunter's Park, Woodland, and Glen Avon the model for the entire city in community center work, will be disclosed to the residents of those suburbs Friday evening at the meeting of the Glen-Hunt-Wood club.

For several weeks a committee has been busily at work, and is now said to be about ready to disclose some ambitious plans which will include a playground, a skating rink, and possibly a gymnasium and auditorium for the future.

The meeting will be held in the Glen Avon church parlors, and supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. J. R. Batchelor, city recreational director, and Mayor Prince will be the chief speakers. Everybody in the community will be welcomed to the meeting, whether a member of the Glen-Hunt-Wood club or not.

WILL SHIP VIA HUDSON BAY

Road Will Be Completed in Two Years, Says Engineer.

Western Canadian wheat will be shipped out by the Hudson bay route by the fall of 1918, according to Capt. A. S. Thomas of Toronto, engineer of harbor construction at Port Nelson, the terminus of the railroad.

In the course of an interview in the Calgary News Letter he estimated the cost of transportation from Alberta to Fort William at 19 cents a bushel. Capt. Nelson figured that the cost of hauling grain to Port Nelson would be 6 cents less than that, with only the ocean freights to be faced in placing the grain down in England or on the Atlantic seaboard.

Finished in Two Years.

Railroad construction has been in progress for three years, and Capt. Thomas estimates that it will be finished in two years more.

Since vessels can leave Port Nelson as late as Oct. 31, it is estimated that the first three weeks of the threshing in Alberta can be brought to Nelson in time to get through the straits. Last year vessels that left on Oct. 21 arrived in Halifax nine days later. The closing of the straits after that date is problematical, but Capt. Thomas figures that a very large percentage of the wheat crop can be shipped via this route.

Although certain engineering difficulties have been encountered in constructing the harbor, according to the present plans shipments can be made without inconvenience, even in face of a 15-foot tide. The harbor work is estimated to cost approximately $10,000,000, and millions of dollars worth of machinery is already on the ground.

Capt. Thomas walked 200 miles of the railway which will link Nelson with Toronto. The steel is now within 220 miles of Nelson, and will be within 100 miles at this time next year. Grading has been completed to within fifty miles of Nelson. Two important steel bridges have to be built across the Nelson river, and one of these will be constructed this winter. There are also two minor bridges to be built, either this winter or next. By the winter of 1918 both railway and harbor construction work will be completed, and the port will be fulfilling its function as an outlet for the Western crop.

Rich in Minerals.

A great part of the future importance of Nelson will, Capt. Thomas stated, be due to the great quantities of gold, copper and coal which are to be found on the western shore of the Hudson bay still awaiting the prospector. This country is reported to be fabulously rich in minerals, and the Eskimos have used copper for all their utensils.

Tobacco Habit Easily Conquered

A New Yorker of wide experience has written a book telling how the tobacco or snuff habit may be easily and completely banished in three days with delightful benefit. The author, Edward J. Woods, 899 S, Station E, New York City, will mail his book free on request.

The health improves wonderfully after the nicotine poison is out of the system. Calmness, tranquil sleep, clear eyes, normal appetite, good digestion, manly vigor, strong memory and a general gain in efficiency are among the many benefits reported. Get rid of that nervous feeling; no more need of pipe, cigar, cigarette, snuff or chewing tobacco to pacify morbid desire. —Advertisement.

STOP DANDRUFF! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Girls! Draw a cloth through your hair and double its beauty.

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff vanishes and hairs stop coming out.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Advertisement.

DELEGATES TO BOYS' CONFERENCE RETURN

The Duluth delegates who attended the state boys' conference at Albert Lea returned last evening, every delegate enthusiastic over the good time he had, and with deep purposes to render more efficient work in their high school club, Sunday school and Y. M. C. A.

The delegates numbered 288. The conference opened Friday night with a banquet served at the Albert Lea high school, Dr. Price, president of Pillsbury, acting as toastmaster. After the dinner the high school orchestra gave several selections. Then followed the introduction of the delegations, each crowd giving its yell. Dr. Charles Medbury of Des Moines gave the talk of the evening on "The Cost of Leadership."

Saturday morning the business of the conference began. Don Rogers of Minneapolis was elected president and Robert Kerr of Duluth secretary of the convention. Chester Rosbourgh of the Denfeld High was appointed on the nominating committee. N. D. McLeod gave an address on the "Influence of Older Boys." This was followed by three ten-minute addresses including one on "How We Conduct Our Club" by Richard Duffy of Duluth.

A. N. Cotton of New York, secretary for high school clubs, conducted an open parliament for high school work. Dinner was served the delegates by the women of the church. Four group conferences were held in the afternoon, after which all the delegates paraded through the principal streets of the town, and then hiked five miles to Wedge's nursery where they were the guests of Mr. Wedge and the high school club of Albert Lea. Dinner was served around big camp fires and the delegates were brought back in automobiles. Sunday closed the conference, big meetings being held in all the churches. Sunday night short talks were made in the Presbyterian church by Charles Fraker, Charles Le Richeaux and Richard Duffy of Duluth. Duluth was represented by eleven delegates.

CZAR POSTPONES OPENING OF DUMA

Petrograd, via London, Dec. 7.—Emperor Nicholas has issued a rescript postponing indefinitely the opening of the duma and the council of the empire. This action is taken on the ground that the budget committees of those bodies have not yet completed the preparation of the budget.

COUNTY BOARD IN SESSION

Opens Printing Bids and Holds County Ditch Hearing.

New Roads Are Legalized and Assistant Revaluators Sanctioned.

County commissioners in session yesterday afternoon, as a committee of the county board, opened bids for the furnishing of printed blanks, books and court calendars for 1916. Several bidders presented figures. The lowest were:

For printed blanks and forms—
F. H. Lounsberry & Co.	$2,029.50
For blank books—
Wendtlandt Bros.	1,496.00
For court calendars—
R. K. Welch, Proctor, per folio page	.90
For range schedule—
Quickprint Co., Virginia	528.50
And for court calendars	.70

The contracts were awarded by the county commissioners at their December meeting today.

The county board is today conducting a hearing on the matter of establishing County Ditch No. 5, a drainage project in the Rice Lake district. The ditch, if established, will drain about 1,200 acres of land in the vicinity of the county work farm and will cost about $7,500.

When the matter came on for hearing this morning, representatives of the Great Northern Power company and of the town board of Herman township appeared to protest against the assessment for benefits as returned by the viewers, N. J. Miller, Olaf Peterson and Theodore Fichtner.

The power company owns forty acres of land which has been assessed for benefits. It contends that the land is held for flowage purposes as a part of its reservoir system and that consequently it will receive no benefit from the land for drainage purposes.

James Grady and other officials of the town of Herman objected to an assessment of $400 which had been made against the town. The board will probably pass upon the matter at its afternoon session.

The board today authorized the appointment made by Joseph C. Heim, supervisor of assessments for unorganized townships, of four assistants to aid him in the work of completing the revaluation of timber lands in the various unorganized tax districts of the country. Those appointed were: Michael Gogins, James Doble, Edward D. Evans and Samuel J. Files. The compensation was fixed at $6 a day.

The purchase of a city lot in Tower for a site for a county toolhouse was authorized this morning by the board. The lot is owned by the Oliver Iron Mining company and may be purchased for $125. Commissioner McMahon of the Fourth district was also authorized to expend $500 in erecting a suitable building on the property.

Several new roads were legalized by the county commissioners this morning. Among them were sixteen stretches of highway which will be built in connection with the construction of County Ditch No. 4 in the Meadowlands-Tolvola district. The board also authorized a change in the Johnson road in 62-18. The commissioners also received for consideration a petition for the improvement of the Buhl-Little Fork highway in 19-60.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF POLICE COURT

PREPAREDNESS WAS TOO COSTLY

Woodsman Spent All for Armament; Nothing Left to Protect.

Unlike William Jennings Bryan, peace-at-any-price advocate, Spiro Dajanovich, 45, Austrian, respectfully went on record in police court today as a preparedness-at-any-price devotee.

It was a stiff price, too, that Spiro paid for his preparedness. In fact he spent so much money on a vicious looking 44-caliber revolver that he was unable to pay a $12 fine for carrying concealed weapons.

And at that Judge W. L. Windom confiscated the weapon after sentencing Spiro to ten days at the work farm.

It was a cruel blow to the Austrian. He had read of innocent lumberjacks who had been lured to their downfall under the bright lights of the city, and robbed of their "roll," so he came to town loaded for bear.

He was prepared for anything, soon after he arrived.

Several drinks gave him courage enough to charge an English trench single handed, and the ugliest looking "cannon" police have seen in days was, he thought, enough to protect what money he had left after buying the drinks and the gun.

He didn't know just how much he had—but Jailer L. A. Root found 65 cents. Like the English army, Spiro had the arms, but no ammunition, for the gun wasn't loaded.

He was charged with drunkenness, rather than carrying concealed weapons, and explained his preparedness plans to the court.

GETS LOT OF EXPERIENCE.

Young Foreigner Loses "Roll" and New "Friend" Disappears.

Tony Rapich, a shaggy-haired young Austran who made a "fortune" amounting to $150 in the harvest fields last summer, has learned more about friends, and, incidentally, about police, jails and courts, lately than ever before in his life.

Several days ago he visited West Duluth and then New Duluth. Mike Manula, 32, posing as a friend, suggested that they walk to Gary from New Duluth, according to the story told police through an interpreter.

En route to Gary two other men waylaid them, and when Tony awoke Manula and the two assailants had disappeared with $144.

Manula and Mike Bosanac, 28, were arraigned late yesterday for a preliminary hearing in municipal court on a charge of first degree robbery. They were remanded to jail for a hearing Dec. 9, when they refused to waive examination.

The third alleged robber is not in custody.

SAVED IN NICK OF TIME.

Question of Judge Discloses That Prisoner Entered Wrong Plea.

"Why did you steal that suitcase?" asked Municipal Judge W. L. Windom of Charles Smith, 30, today, after the latter had pleaded guilty to petit larceny.

"I didn't, your honor," was the response.

"What?" said the court in surprise. "You entered a plea of guilty and now you tell me you didn't steal the articles. You shouldn't plead guilty unless you really took the things this complainant alleges you took."

Accordingly Smith's plea was changed to not guilty, and he will be given a hearing this afternoon.

Smith was arrested by Officer Danielson after Clem Burnett, 415 West Michigan street, had accused him of stealing a straw suit case filled with working clothes.

HIS "BLUFF" CALLED.

Clerk Pulls Sweater From Beneath Coat of Customer.

When a clerk in a department store at 2018 West Superior street saw a yellow piece of cloth protruding beneath Jerome Murphy's coat yesterday, he yanked it, and pulled out a sweater.

"I was bluffing," said Jerome, when booked at police headquarters for petit larceny.

George Szymczak, the clerk, gave a little pantomime in court to explain the incident, and Jerome changed his mind, saying:

"I'm guilty if I took it, but I'm not if I didn't."

Judge Cutting decided that he was guilty and fined him $40 and costs, in default of which he will tarry at the work farm for thirty days.

FASTIDIOUS BURGLAR.

Carefully Replaced Storm Window After Going Through House.

A fastidious burglar who removed a storm window, entered a house and then replaced it carefully, ransacked the residence of Mrs. Agnes Friederichsen, 217 South Seventeenth avenue east, last night, and took about $10 in change from a handbag.

A small gold watch, also in the bag, was not disturbed by the marauder, who is believed to have spent considerable time in going through the house while its occupants slept.

Mrs. Friederichsen told police the burglary was committed between 12 o'clock last night and 5 o'clock this morning. The purse had been left in a drawer in one of the downstairs living rooms.

Two other burglaries, the only ones reported to police recently, were committed on London road or Jefferson street within a few blocks of the Friederichsen home.

Election of Directors.
Duluth Y. M. C. A. members are electing association directors today. Polls opened at 9 o'clock this morning and will close at 8 tonight. The board consists of twenty members, half of whom must be elected every year. The term of a director is for two years. The following have been nominated: E. L. Bradley, Frank Crassweller, J. H. Hearding, W. G. Hegardt, F. E. House, C. F. How, S. F. Matter, W. A. McGonagle, W. L. Smithies and J. W. Walker.

Nujol, the Famous Mineral Oil, now on sale at Duluth drug stores. If your druggist cannot supply you, phone Northern Drug company for names of stores carrying it.

Students Elect "Best Bluffer."
Much interest centered around the election held at the Central high school yesterday at which the "best bluffer" was chosen. Nearly all of the 1,400 students voted and many of the students took the election quite seriously. The results of the election will not be announced until the Zenith is published. On Friday of this week the "most bashful" student will be chosen.

State Test for Chauffeurs.
Walter H. Healey, secretary of the state board of automobile examiners, will hold a chauffeurs' examination tomorrow. In case there are a large number of applicants the tests will be given on the third floor of police headquarters; otherwise they will be held in the Healey garage, East Michigan street. Those who pass the examinations will receive licenses for 1916.

Chess Tourney in Finals.
The chess tournament for the city championship, being played at the Y. M. C. A., will be in the finals after one more game. Honigman defeated Hostetter and will meet the winner of the Cullum-Rich game for the championship. The final game will probably be played tomorrow.

Officers Are Chosen
North Star lodge, No. 60, Loyal Mystic Legion, last evening at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, elected the following officers for 1916: Isaiah Ridge, W. C.; Oscar M. Holmes, W. V. C.; Roscoe E. Day, W. P.; F. A. Cullen, treasurer; C. J. Refuss, secretary; Mrs. Mertie Cullen, Mrs. Mary E. Connor and R. C. Kruschke, trustees.

New Company Incorporated.
Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the register of deeds today by the Andresen-Ryan Coffee company, organized to engage in business with headquarters in Duluth. The capital stock is $50,000 and the incorporators are: Henry F. Salyards, Gustav A. Andresen and William J. Ryan.

Gets $254 Damages.
A jury in the district court today handed down a verdict awarding Susan M. House, a Duluth school teacher, $254 for personal injuries sustained from an operation on one of her toes by Dr. Anna Lower, then a Duluth chiropodist. Miss House sued for $1,350, charging that blood poison set in as a result of malpractice.

Auto Stolen and Recovered.
A Ford automobile owned by Ray S. Huey, one of the Duluth officials of the Universal Portland Cement company, was stolen from 2116 East Third street last night while the driver was visiting friends. It was reported to police by Mr. Huey, who lives at 1328 Jefferson street, and was recovered shortly afterwards, undamaged.

Demands Telephone Service.
John J. Mullin, a local plumber, today applied in district court for a writ of mandamus to compel the Duluth Telephone company to allow him telephone service at his residence, 146 West Winona street, and his place of business at 315½ East Superior street. He declares that the telephones were taken out last August following a disagreement over his account, but that he paid his bill and offered payment in advance for future service but was refused.

Cabinet Sulphur Vapor Baths,
formerly given by Mrs. A. Ecker, can be had at 120 Twelfth avenue east. Melrose 5163; Grand 1574-Y.

Ladies' Night Dec. 17.
It was decided today to have the first of the winter's series of "ladies' nights" at the Commercial club on Friday, Dec. 17. The details of the affair will be announced by the committee in a few days. The committee in charge consists of Mesdames E. L. Tuohy, A. J. Frey, E. Jacobi and E. L. Cheney.

PERSONALS

J. L. Robinson of Minneapolis, a well known insurance man of that city, is at the Holland today.

S. J. Russell, a railroad man of Thief River Falls, is at the Holland.

A. M. Arnold, sales manager of a New York corset manufacturing company, is at the Holland.

R. B. Thornton, an automobile manufacturer of Indianapolis, is among the day's guests at the Holland.

L. W. Hoffman of Green Bay, Wis., a well known traveling man of that city, is at the Spalding for the day.

E. F. Morgan of Minneapolis, an automobile agent of that city, is at the Spalding.

Nels P. Flodin of Marquette is registered at the Spalding.

A. J. Leahty, a well known contractor of Minneapolis, is among the Spalding's guests for the day.

Pastor Stemple White of the English Seventh Day Adventist church left this morning for Cloquet, where he will speak this evening on "The Second Coming of Christ."

"SAFETY FIRST."

"Safety First" has been painted on all the Park Point street cars. This is done as part of the company's campaign to avoid accidents to passengers, according to Floid M. Fuller, general manager of the Park Point Traction company. The signs are painted on both ends of the four cars on the Point.

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE DEC. 17

Duluth Pupils Will Have Week to Prepare for Christmas.

Duluth's 13,000 and odd school children are preparing for their Yuletide vacations, and for the programs to be given in the various buildings Dec. 16 and 17.

Schools will close Friday, Dec. 17, and reopen on Monday, Jan. 3.

"Elaborate programs will be given in several of the buildings," said W. H. Schilling, assistant superintendent of city schools, today. "I understand that principals and teachers are already working with pupils in preparation for the pre-holiday festivities."

Following the usual custom, schools which observed Thanksgiving day elaborately will have shorter and simpler programs before Christmas, while those which did not hold programs before Thanksgiving will make more of the Christmas season.

One of the most elaborate programs will be given at the Jefferson school. Miss Belle F. Calverley, principal, is in charge of the preparation work.

POPE HOPES FOR PEACE

Benedict Delivers Allocution to Cardinals Assembled at Secret Consistory.

Tells of Efforts He Has Made to Bring Warring Nations Together.

Rome, Dec. 7.—The secret consistory at which new cardinals are to be named and other important business transacted, began yesterday. Notwithstanding the world war, it was preceded and attended with the same pomp as customary under Pope Leo. The only difference was the absence of some of the foreign cardinals, especially those from the United States.

In his allocution the pope said to the cardinals:

"Without doubt, you are aware of the difficulties which, up to the present, have impeded us from convoking the sacred college. If finally I have been granted the privilege today to see you again in goodly numbers, it is not because those difficulties have become less, but because we feared by longer delay the procedure of the Roman curia might seriously suffer, since, during this year and the one just passed, not a few are the vacancies which death has caused in the sacred college.

"If at all times the loss of enlightened councilors and trusted assistants causes sorrow to the Roman pontiff, it is much more so now, having assumed the government of the church.

War Grows in Fury.

"In this grave and historic moment before the assembly, notwithstanding the ruin accumulating during the last twelve months; notwithstanding that the desire for peace grows daily in many hearts and that numberless families in their sorrow long for it; notwithstanding that we have tried every means that might hasten peace or allay discord, nevertheless, the fatal war still grows in fury by land and sea, and threatens unforunate Armenia with extreme ruin.

"The letter which on the anniversary of the beginning of the war we addressed to the belligerent peoples and their rulers, though it received a reverent hearing, it by no means produced the beneficient effects that were expected.

"As vicar of Him who is the Peaceful King and Prince of Peace, we cannot be but moved by misfortunes of so many of our children; we cannot but continually raise our hands in supplication to the God of mercies, entreating him with our whole heart that he may deign in his power to put an end to this sanguinary conflict.

"While we seek with all our resources to alleviate the doleful consequences, we feel obliged by our apostolic office to inculcate anew the only means which can quickly put an end to the tremendous conflagration.

Prepare for Peace.

"Prepare for that peace which the whole of humanity ardently wish for, that is a peace that is just and lasting—not advantageous to one alone of the belligerent parties.

"The way which can surely lead to this happy result is that which has already been tried and found satisfactory in similar circumstances and of which we made mention in our last letter. That is, an exchange of ideas, be it direct or indirect, based on good will and calm deliberation and set forth with clearness, duly recognizing the aspirations of all, eliminating the unjust and impossible, and taking into account with equal measure what is just and possible.

"Naturally, as in all human controversies, which must be settled through the efforts of the contending parties, themselves, it is absolutely necessary that concessions be made upon some point by both parties; that some of the hoped-for advantages must be renounced and that each must make with good grace some concession, even at the cost of some sacrifice, so as not to assume before God and man the enormous responsibility for the continuation of this shedding of blood, of which history records no counterpart and which if prolonged further, might mean for Europe the beginning of decadence from the degree of prosperous civilization to which the Christian religion has raised her from nothing."

PLAT MATTER IS LEFT TO DIRECTORS

Real Estate Exchange Feels Commercial Club's Resolution Unnecessary.

The Duluth Real Estate exchange held a meeting this afternoon at the Commercial club and discussed, besides routine business, the proposed resolution of the Commercial club regarding plats and the power of the city commissioners to demand certain things in connection with them. The resolution was submitted to the Commercial club a few months ago, but was referred to the committee on street improvement. That committee was ready to report at the public affairs committee last night, but the matter was again deferred owing to the fact that the exchange was to discuss it today.

At the meeting this afternoon it was decided to leave the plat matter in the hands of the board of directors with power to act in case the public affairs committee meets again before the exchange does. It was the consensus of opinion, however, that at the present time the city commissioners and the plat commission have all of the powers asked in the resolution, and that the measure proposed is needless.

The matter of a new building code came up and Whitney Wall said that Mayor Prince has promised to appoint a committee to frame such a code representative of every commercial body and union that will be interested.

TO ASK ENFORCEMENT OF INDIAN TREATY

Wisconsin State Grange Expected to Take Action in Matter.

Marinette, Wis., Dec. 7.—The enforcement of the treaty with Wisconsin Indians which prohibits a saloon within twenty-five miles of a reservation, it is expected will be asked in a resolution to be presented to the Wisconsin state grange convention which opened today. The Wisconsin counties affected are Oneida, Washburn, Sawyer, Bayfield, Shawano as well as several adjoining counties which come within the twenty-five mile limit.

Another proposed resolution will ask the legislature to enact a law which will make it impossible for a saloonkeeper to sit on a county board of supervisors. Rural education along industrial lines and less technical book learning in common schools also are favored.

THREE GIRLS DROWN NEAR PARK RAPIDS

Lose Lives in Boot Lake While Skating; Boy Escapes.

Park Rapids, Minn., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While skating on Boot lake, eighteen miles northwest of here, last evening, Miss Gale Hughes and two other girls by the name of Knight, sisters, were drowned.

A brother of Miss Hughes, who was also of the party, broke through the ice with them but managed to save himself.

The bodies have not been recovered.

FORMER BANKERS UNDER ARREST

Casselton, N. D., Men Are Charged With Covering Alleged Embezzlement.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 7.—R. C. Kittle and William Kittle, brothers and former president and cashier, respectively, of the First National bank of Casselton, N. D., were arrested by United States Marshal Doyle today, charged with conspiracy in making false entries to cover an alleged embezzlement of $100,000 from the funds of the bank, the doors of which were closed yesterday.

The Kittles waived preliminary examination and these cases will go direct to the next grand jury. Both men were released on bond. They insist that the closing of the bank was due to slow paper and that every dollar will be paid and the bank be reopened. The Kittles have been prominent for years in the affairs of the Casselton bank, which is one of the oldest and best known in Eastern North Dakota.

Sold Interests.

On Nov. 27 a meeting of stockholders was held at which it was announced that R. C. Kittle had sold his interests in the bank to other stockholders. An election was held at which M. G. Straus was elected president to succeed Kittle and Oscar F. Gray was chosen to fill the position vacated by Kittle's brother. New officials then discovered, it was reported to Bank Examiner Anhier that R. C. Kittle had used the stock of the bank as collateral for personal loans.

The directors of the bank are working on a reorganization plan and already are said to have received sufficient support to assure reopening of the institution.

CANADIAN BOAT IN BAD POSITION

Ashore and Exposed to Northwest Winds; Gale Predicted.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Canadian steamer Walton, bound up light for Port Arthur, was driven ashore in a snow storm this morning on Keweenaw Point, opposite Copper Harbor. The Eagle Harbor coast guard has reached the boat, which will be in no danger unless a northwest gale comes up.

The forecast is for a northwest gale this afternoon or this evening.

SUPERIOR

LAST ORE BOAT BEING LOADED

The Great Northern ore docks at Allouez will close their season tomorrow. The steamer Joseph Woods was being loaded with ore at the docks today and will carry away the final load of the season.

Preparations for a heavy season next summer are already under way, according to officials. All of the equipment at the Head of the Lakes has been ordered to be given a thorough overhauling and extensive repairs are to be made at the docks. The old wooden cars have been ordered taken to the company's shops for repairs.

Burglar Is Routed.

A burglar attempted to enter the home of Dr. John Clark, 1516 John avenue, last night, but was routed by Mrs. Clark and the maid. The burglar attempted to enter by a kitchen window, despite the fact that several rooms downstairs were well lighted. The women got a fair description of the intruder and gave it to the police.

Hip Broken in Fight.

G. J. Sherman, a boarder at the Superior Mission, was taken to St. Mary's hospital last night suffering from a dislocated hip. He is said to have received the injury as a result of a fight with Henry Handy, a colored porter at the Mission. Handy was arrested. He is alleged to have used a chair in inflicting the injury.

TRAFFIC RECORDS OF 1912 ARE BROKEN

Traffic being handled by railroads operating in the Northwest is said to be exceeding in volume the figures set in the record crop season of 1912.

From statistics compiled by the Great Northern railroad's traffic department, car loadings for November were shown to be 65 per cent heavier than last year. Where in November 1914, the average daily loadings of grain were 376 cars, this year the average was 770 cars. From July 1 to Nov. 20, 86,274,000 bushels of grain were loaded on the company's system as compared with 60,672,000 bushels during the same period last year. The company's elevator system at Superior was reported to have handled 27,500,000 bushels of grain this season up to Nov. 20 and it is expected to take care of 45,000,000 bushels by the time the navigation season closes.

In November loadings of ore over the Great Northern from the Mesabe range were triple the 1914 figures. An improvement in lumber business is reported to be on. Forest products loadings for November were double those of the same month last year.

The closing of the Panama canal has brought the road considerable business, and export freight consigned to Seattle for transportation to Vladivostok is moving over the Great Northern in substantial volume, and there are indications that this freight movement will continue. Another interesting traffic development for the Great Northern is in the shipment of canned fruits north from California over the Great Northern-Northern Pacific Steamship line, destined for Eastern rail points.

Much of the silk from Japan has been carried overland from Seattle east by the Great Northern, and in November one of the largest shipments of this kind, 13 carloads, was hauled by the road, and another of 14 or 15 cars is expected shortly. A silk train of that size means from $15,000 to $18,000 in revenue for the haul from Seattle east.

WHOLE COUNTRY PROSPEROUS.

Good Conditions Reported From Reserve Bank Districts.

Increasing prosperity throughout the United States is reported in an announcement made by the Federal reserve board. From the figures revealed in the last bank statements of conditions as on Nov. 10, it is considered that progress is being made in all twelve banking districts of the country.

Domestic demand for iron and steel products is attaining proportions which promise soon to place it on a parity with the foreign trade being booked, according to reports being received by Federal reserve agents.

Throughout the Northern states factories are running at capacity, building has been resumed on a large scale, general wholesaling and merchandising are active, and prosperity due to large crops is here.

The lumber industry, which for the last three years has been greatly depressed, is picking up, says the board, and a great demand for West coast lumber is expected at the conclusion of the European war. Coal, oil, lead, zinc and allied industries show phenomenal activity, and railroad traffic is heavy, according to the statements.

Money rates continue low, and it is stated the farmers have moved their crops this year with an unusually small amount of financial assistance from the banks.

From the San Francisco district comes the report that there is a serious scarcity of ships in the Pacific trade, and that the coast crops are being shipped by rail overland to Eastern ports in consequence.

AUSTRIANS DESTROY FRENCH SUBMARINE

Paris, Dec. 7. 5:20 p. m.—"According to a German radiogram, the French submarine Fresnil was destroyed on Dec. 5 by an Austrian warship," says a communication issued today at the marine ministry. "Two officers and twenty-six men were captured."

Revision of Treaties Advocated.

New York, Dec. 7.—Revision of treaties between the United States and the European belligerents after the war, the establishment in America of a credit system for foreign buyers, and the popularization of foreign investments throughout this country, were suggested today by speakers at the International Trade conference. The conference is held under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Civil War Veteran Dead.

New Orleans, Dec. 7.—Richard Lambert, 87, a thirty-third degree Mason, veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, and widely known in Masonic circles, died at his home here today. He was a native of Ireland.

WHEAT TAKES SHARP BREAK

Market Slumps in Late Trading on Bearish Supply Report.

Flaxseed Eases Moderately on Light Trading; Crushers Hold Back.

Duluth Board of Trade, Dec. 7.—The market was weak around the close on a bearish supply report by expert. The market was thought to have been overbought.

December wheat closed 2¼c off, May 2⅝@2¾c off and July 2⅝c off. December durum closed ¾c off and May 1⅛c off.

Oats closed ½c off at 39½c for on the track; rye, 1c up at 91c, and barley unchanged at from 59@68c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, December oats closed ¾c off at 41¼c asked, and May ⅝c off at 42⅝c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.10¾, and calls at $1.16¾.

After initial declines extending to 1⅜c around the opening the wheat market steadied up today on the appearance of good support at the lower levels. It was noted that all the December wheat and durum offered in the Duluth pit were promptly picked up by operators in close touch with the export trade, leading to the supposition that foreign business is figuring to a great extent in market operations these days. The opinion is gaining ground that there will be no more than enough spring wheat to cover the requirements of millers and exporters as they are developing. It is said by experts to be considered doubtful if more than 60 per cent of the winter wheat crop is of milling grade. Some mills are said to have lost heavily on winter wheat flour put up early in the season, due to its poor keeping qualities. On that account Eastern mills are in the market more heavily for Northwest wheat, and opinions of traders are generally bullish regarding prices.

A disposition to hold their wheat is noted more generally among farmers in the spring wheat states, and they are said to be only letting it out as the prices from day to day tempt them. Wheat inspections at Duluth today were just 359 cars against 271 last year. At Minneapolis they had 512 cars, compared with 435 cars a year ago. Receipts at Winnipeg are continuing in record-breaking proportions. Receipts up there today amounted to 1,571 cars against only 190 last year.

Stocks of all grades in Duluth elevators are down to around 5,400,000 bu, a proportion of which is booked for winter storage, so that the tonnage to go out during the remaining few days of the navigation season is comparatively light.

December wheat opened ⅞c off at $1.13, sold off ⅝c more, and then rallied to $1.13, where it stood at the noon-hour. May opened ⅜c off at $1.16, sold down 1c more and then firmed up ¼c.

December durum opened unchanged at $1.09, weakened ¾c, and later bulged to $1.10. May opened ¼c off at $1.12, sold off ½c more, and then bulged ¼c.

Flax Breaks Slightly.

After showing fair strength at the start on the execution of orders that had accumulated over night, the flaxseed market turned dull and weak, quotations going off fractionally.

Support was prompted at the start by the small stocks being carried and the knowledge that another cargo had been booked to be loaded out for the East, some buying to cover it developed.

December flax opened ¼c up at $2.04½ and closed 1¼c off at $2.03 bid. May opened ¼c up at $2.09½ and closed ¼c off at $2.09.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed ½c off at $1.83 bid and May ⅞c off at $1.89¼.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed ½c off at $1.28¾ and London 1¾c up at $2.36⅞.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Strong American cables yesterday and large absorption here with prospects of difficulty in securing later purchases caused a strong undertone. Spot market was strong, 1d to 2d higher with an urgent demand for Manitobas and winters, with offers light. Cargo markets were strong, winters at 7½d to 9d dearer; Manitobas, shilling higher; Plates, 6d higher, and Indians strong. Plate and Australian offers were liberal, but Argentine freights further advanced sharply."

Russell's News, New York, said: "It was quiet in export grain circles early. One house claimed that wheat bids from their English connections were 6c out of line, but other reports suggested that the early cables were not so disappointing.

"Foreigners were credited with trading on both sides of the future markets in a small way.

"A local authority in close touch with foreign conditions says that reports of German buying of wheat for the purpose of shipment after the war closes are hardly logical, and, in his opinion, if there is German buying the motive is speculative, based on the prospects of the war continuing."

Charles E. Lewis & Co., had the following from Buffalo:

"Port of Buffalo blocked by a large volume of grain. In spite of the large transfer capacity of the elevators there on account of Pennsylvania railroad accepting care of a much larger quantity of grain than to go to seaboard, nearly 3,000,000 bu Pennsylvania grain is laying in fifteen vessels in the harbor to unload, preventing these vessels from making another trip this season with grain. Pennsylvania railroad elevators are full and other Buffalo elevators have all Pennsylvania grain they will unload and plug themselves with. Several elevators have had Pennsylvania "care of" grain in store for weeks without cars. Other trunk lines are well up on car supply, but orders to ship from forwarders scarce. There is 12,000,000 bu to unload afloat, besides a large winter storage fleet.

Final estimate on millable wheat crop of United States by the Armour Grain company is 948,000,000 bu. Millable winter wheat crop is estimated at 600,000,000 bu and spring at 348,000,000 bu.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Lack of Support Causes Prices of Wheat to Swing Downward.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Lack of support caused the wheat market today to take a downward swing. The comparative smallness of export buying had a disconcerting effect on the bulls, and so too did a substantial increase of the stock at Minneapolis. On the other hand, quotations at Liverpool continued strong. The opening here, which was ¼c to ⅞c lower, with December at $1.18¼ to $1.19 and May at $1.18 to $1.19½, was followed by a slight further decline, and then a good rally that failed, however, to last.

Subsequently the market developed fresh strength and rose to a new high price record for this season. The Michigan state crop report had a bullish influence and so also had the world's available supply statement. Bearish crop estimates later by a leading firm and the requisitioning of vessels by the Italian government acted nevertheless as more than an offset. The close was unsettled, 2@2⅛ to 2½c net lower, with December at $1.16¾ and May at $1.17¾@1.17⅞.

Corn eased off with wheat. On the downturn, though, the market ran into resting orders to buy. After opening ⅛@¼c to ¾c lower, the market suffered an additional sag, but later tended to react.

Offerings passed into strong hands. Sellers gradually disappeared and prices scored a swift advance. The late weakness in wheat, however, led to renewed weakness. The close was nervous, ¼@⅜c off to ⅜@½c up compared with yesterday's finish.

In the oats crowd, a general rush to buy was checked by the weakness of corn. As a result, prices averaged a little under yesterday's finish.

Provisions advanced quite sharply on account of commission house buying. Offerings were scarce, especially of pork. Brokers said the buying was mainly on sentiment. The large receipts of hogs appeared to be ignored.

ALL RECORDS ARE SMASHED

November Set New Marks for Grain Handling in Duluth.

Records went by the boards by the wholesale in the handling of grain at Duluth elevators during November, and according to present indications a remarkably favorable showing will be made during the present month. Arrivals of all gains aggregated 35,209,654 bushels as against 24,052,595 bushels last year.

Receipts of wheat for the month ran up to 26,555,675 bushels, a gain of 10,679,472 bushels over the corresponding period last year, and comparing with 20,778,641 bushels, the previous high November record, set in 1912.

Barley marketings came to 4,183,039 bushels, an increase og 879,175 bushels over last year. Flaxseed handlings bulked up to 2,767,734 bushels, an increase of 527,358 bushels over last year. The oats movement has been backward this fall, receipts of 739,772 bushels showing a decrease of 627,630 bushels over those of a year ago. Rye receipts were 301,316 bushels lighter than last year at 963,934 bushels.

Shipments were also active during the month, amounting to 32,119,792 bushels as compared with 25,797,774 bushels for the same month last year. Actual shipments were, however, over 4,000,000 bushels above the official figures, as that tonnage had been loaded out on boats at the end of the month but not reported out of stocks.

The figures in detail, as prepared by Charles F. Macdonald, secretary of the board, are as follows:

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Liberal receipts and a large left-over supply tended today to weaken the hog market. Cattle buyers appeared to have had their wants filled yesterday. Demand was poor, too, for sheep and lambs.

Hogs—Receipts, 45,000; dull, 5c under yesterday's average; bulk, $6.00@6.50; light, $5.50@6.45; mixed, $5.85@6.70; heavy, $6.15@6.75; rough, $6.15@6.30; pigs, $4.00@5.35.

Cattle—Receipts, 6,000; weak; native beef steers, $5.60@10.50; Western steers, $6.10@8.10; cows and heifers, $2.60@8.10; calves, $6.50@10.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 13,000; firm; wethers, $5.90@6.50; lambs, $6.90@9.25.

Oil Boosted Again.

New York, Dec. 7.—The Standard Oil company of New York today advanced the price of refined petroleum for export 25 points, making cases 10.50 cents per gallon, tanks 4.75 cents and standard white in barrels 8.40 cents.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—Hogs—Receipts, 16,200; 15c lower; range, $5.30@6.15; bulk, $5.85@5.90. Cattle—Receipts, 3,800; killers steady; steers, $3.75@9.00; cows and heifers, $4.25@6.00; calves steady, $3.75@9.25; stockers and feeders steady to slow, $4.00@6.25. Sheep—Receipts, 1,000; steady; lambs, $3.00@8.25; wethers, $4.75@5.75; ewes, $2.50@5.25.

Insurance Company Loses Refund.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7.—The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company with home office in Milwaukee, today lost its big tax refund case in the supreme court. This was an action to recover from the state nearly $1,000,000 which the company claimed it was overcharged in taxes. The supreme court assumed jurisdiction but dismissed the complaint on its merits. The opinion was written by Justice Winslow.

MOST GAINS WIPED OUT

Stocks Advance Early But Decline Under Professional Selling.

Main Features of President's Message Approved By the Brokers.

New York, Dec. 7.—The buying movement which lifted prices in yesterday's late trading was resumed in more moderate degree at today's opening, although rails were less prominent. New York Central was offered in 1,000 share lots at 104¾, an advance of ¼ and its best price of the year, and Canadian Pacific also rose.

In the special class gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Industrial Alcohol, Baldwin Locomotive, Willys-Overland, Pressed Steel Car and Mexican Petroleum preferred. Anglo-French notes for future delivery made the new low quotation of 96¾.

Dealings in the first hour were on the same moderate scale as yesterday with some quickening of movement and greater breadth later. Specialties held their early prominence, Distillers' Securities ranking second to United States Steel in activity. Steel rose ⅝ to 87½ with advances of varying degrees in kindred issues. Sloss-Sheffield Steel on its rise of 2⅛ to 66¾ was at its best quotation in five years. Rails were again disposed to sag on light offerings, but responded to fresh buying. Studebaker and other motor shares were higher. Bonds were irregular.

Wall Street devoted much of its attention after midday to an earnest perusal of the president's message. The course of prices, then at their best, suggested approval of the main features of that document.

Professional selling which followed the general rise of prices on publication of the president's message provoked some unsettlement in the later operations.

Realizing in heavy volume occurred in the final hour, effacing most early gains in standard shares. The closing was irregular.

Winter Wheat in Good Condition.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Winter wheat was in good condition as a result of weather conditions during November which the weather bureau, in its monthly review today, says rarely have been so favorable for all agricultural interests for an entire month. Over the great corn-growing states plowing for next season's crop was possible throughout nearly the entire month and good progress was reported. Livestock was reported in good condition to enter winter in all districts except the Far Southwest, where drought has prevailed for some time and in portions of the Northwest, where winter feed is short.
